SYDNEY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, 1913.

24 PAGES. PRICE 1d.

SUMMARY.

Lord Chelmsford delivered a speech at a dinner at the United Empire Club.

He advocated a scheme whereby legislators, at the public expense, might visit various parts of the Empire.

The International Women's Congress has been formally opened in Paris. There were 60 delegates.

Among the recipients is Dr. MacCormick, M.R.C.S., of Sydney, who has been created a Knight Bachelor.

The Kaisar-i-Hind medal has been conferred on Commissioner Booth-Tucker, of the Salvation Army.

General Sir John French, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, has been gazetted a Field-Marshal.

There have been heavy sales on the London Stock Exchange, owing to rumours of financial troubles.

The outstanding feature of the depression is a heavy slump in Canadian-Pacific stocks, which dropped 19 dollars in five days.

The foreign bourses are disturbed. The stringency of money in Berlin is very severe.

It is generally believed that the danger of a conflict between Bulgaria and Servia has now been removed.

Servia is willing to demobilise if Bulgaria will also do so.

Sir Henry C. Bennett, Metropolitan Police Magistrate of London, died suddenly at a meeting at the Mansion House.

Sir Henry Kimber, Unionist member for Wandsworth, has resigned his seat owing to ill-health.

The Premier of Victoria has arranged to place a loan of £3,000,000, at 4 per cent., with a minimum of 98.

Mrs. Drummond has been successfully operated upon for an internal complaint.

Many farms have been destroyed by a waterspout in Elegonde, Spain. Several people were drowned.

Anti-Semites in the Kalisz district set fire to a house occupied by Jews, and eight of the inmates were incinerated.

Further returns to hand show that the Liberals are certain of a majority of one, and possibly of three.

The chief interest centres in the contest for Ballarat, where Mr. M'Kay, the Liberal candidate, is leading.

The result of the Senate elections is still in doubt, but the New South Wales Liberal candidates are leading by large majorities.

Much excitement prevails at Wollongong over the counting of the absentee votes, as the Illawarra seat is in doubt.

It now seems certain that there will be no change in the party representation of Tasmania.

The returns yet to come to hand for Darwin are not likely to affect the present result.

Mr. Fisher is expected to reach Melbourne by the express to-morrow. Other Ministers will arrive in the course of a few days.

The State Governor's levee held at Parliament House yesterday in honour of King's Birthday was very largely attended.

The Governor-General and the State Governor held a joint levee at Government House, Melbourne.

Mr. Holman arrived at Adelaide by the French mail steamer Nera yesterday.

He will continue his journey to Sydney by the express leaving Adelaide to-day.

Mr. Justice M'Intyre, Senior Puisne Judge of the Tasmanian Supreme Court, intends to resign.

The demand of the shop assistants at Broken Hill for increased wages is not likely to be granted without trouble.

It was stated that the line would open up rich agricultural country.

The Department of Public Works has two important water supply schemes for the Hunter district under consideration.

The "drink bill" of New Zealand for 1912 reached £4,081,162, an increase of £221,791 over the previous year.

The Manly ferry employees will march in a body to the Industrial Court to-morrow to answer the summonses issued against them.

The ferry service may be partially dislocated for the day, but the men are resolved to appear personally.

The company will make an effort to run several boats to-morrow and the day following should the cases not be finished.

A draft agreement has been drawn up regulating the rates of pay and hours, etc., of the Manly ferry employees.

The hours of labour are 96 per fortnight, and not more than 54 in one week.

It is expected that the cases will come on for hearing in the Industrial Court on the 18th inst.

The board and the parties conferred in camera, and adjourned without arriving at a decision.

The players turned out for practice on the Cricket Ground in the afternoon, and showed promising form.

A conference was held in Newcastle yesterday to arrange the rates for shooting and filling coal at the Shortland colliery.

An agreement was come to, and the rates proposed by the proprietors are to be submitted to the federation executive.

The Minister for Works intends to introduce a new system of estimating costs for the construction of public buildings.

The prospects in the Temora and surrounding districts are reported to be excellent.

The crops are coming on steadily, sheep are looking well, and a first-class lambing is assured.

Two fishermen of Watson's Bay had an exciting experience with a hump-back whale off the Heads yesterday.

H.M.S. New Zealand has arrived at The Bluff. Thousands of visitors are awaiting an opportunity to go on board the vessel.

The Minister for Works will probably ask for authority to let a contract to Griffiths, Australia, Ltd., for constructing £3,000,000-worth of railways.

The tone of the mining market yesterday was weak, and values were easier.

The tea market was extremely strong, and heavy sales were made. Ceylons realised 9d to 11½d.

In the railway markets wheaten and oaten chaff sold well, prices being unaltered. Lucerne hay brought up to 8s 6d.

In [illegible] there was rather more inquiry from the country for the season's output, and 4s 7½d was paid for small lots.

Business in wheat was again practically at a standstill. London was cabled as dull.

AN EXCELLENT WINTER LINE.

The cold weather, long delayed, is now setting in, and there is every evidence of severe conditions and low temperatures prevailing during the winter months.

The precaution of providing good warm underwear will not be further delayed by men who are careful of their health.

The garments we feature to-day are made of shrunken wool of natural shade, with cotton introduced for the purpose of strengthening.

The texture is soft, warm, and porous. It will not shrink.

SHIRTS, 34 TO 44, 5/6.
PANTS, 32 TO 42, 5/6.

NOTE.—The Management desires to invite its Matinee Patrons holding Orchestral Stall Tickets to have Afternoon Tea on the Stage with the Company at the conclusion of each Afternoon Performance.

THE LITTLE THEATRE
(With the BIG Attractions).

UNVEILING CEREMONY.

The Directors of the Little Theatres, Ltd., have pleasure in announcing that on FRIDAY EVENING NEXT, during the production of "FANNY'S FIRST PLAY," there will be unveiled in the Auditorium of the Little Theatre by the Hon. Campbell Carmichael, Minister for Public Instruction, two exceptionally fine bas-reliefs, being life-size replicas of Shakespeare and Goethe.

The medallions, which represent the Immortal Bard and the Creator of Faust at an age when both were at the zenith of their powers, are completed in fairly high relief, in order to serve for decorative as well as artistic purposes. The Management is convinced that the plaques reflect some of the most artistic work from the studios of Miss Dora Ohlfsen, the famous Australian Sculptress, and that of Shakespeare will be an additional monument in Sydney to mark the Tercentenary of the great dramatist and poet.

ITS EDUCATIONAL VALUE

Is of paramount importance. Rome has been rebuilt, her past pomps and splendours revived, her people called back to life. As well as being an immense drama, dealing with the fates of a faith and of a nation, this film is also a gigantic historical reconstruction, a re-enactment very largely on the original ground of events which took place over a thousand years ago.

"SUNDAY SUN," June 1, 1913:—

"The great influence for good contained in the message of the film has received no better exemplification than in the 8000 feet version of Sienkiewicz's 'Quo Vadis?' at present packing the Lyceum to overflowing."

WHY PAY A BIG PRICE?
FOR YOUR PIANO

when you can purchase a really high-class instrument from us at a most moderate price. We are the direct representatives of several of the best European factories, and this, coupled with the fact that we do not spend thousands of pounds annually in huge advertisements, rent, and expensive travellers, enables us to save at least £20 on every piano, which our customers get the benefit of. We can absolutely PROVE to you that our Kohler Upright Grand for £50 actually costs more to import than many pianos sold by other houses for £80 and more.

C. KOHLER PIANOS (Stuttgart).
CAHN PIANOS (London).
A. BECKMANN PIANOS (Berlin).
HARTMANN (Dresden), RHEINFELD (Berlin), etc.
50 Different Models. Ten Years' Guarantee.
PRICES, FROM £35 TO £84.

An inspection of these instruments will speedily convince you of their lovely rich tonal quality, beauty of case work, and wonderful value.

THE GEYER PIANO.

In these days of heavy ornamentation, so common even to the best Pianos, it is pleasing to note the quiet elegance and grace which so distinguish the Geyer.

Then there is the Geyer tone, that delightful singing quality—sweet and mellow and lasting.

GOODALL BOILER.

A boiler should be sound. It should be scientifically built to get the most out of the fuel. It should be chosen for its suitability to your needs.

These essentials are fully met in the Goodall Boilers—Colonial or Vertical types. Every one we sell is fully tested, and guaranteed free from defects.

And the price? Well, that is just as low as the best material and workmanship will permit, and we're always ready to meet you on terms.

The boiler expert would like to discuss this matter with you. Make a note of it now, and get into touch with us.

You could reduce

NOTES.

There were 15 starters for the Two Thousand Guineas Stakes, decided at Newmarket on April 30, all of whom, save two, also held Derby engagements. The starters were:—Mr. W. Raphael's b c Louvois, by Isinglass—St. Louvaine, 9st (J. Reiff), 1; Mr. C. B. Ismay's b c Craganour, by Desmond—Veneration II., 9st (W. Saxby), 2; Mr. H. P. Whitney's ch c Meeting House, by Voter—Noonday, 9st (F. O'Neill), 3; Lord Rosebery's b c Sanquhar, by Santry—Valve, 9st (D. Maher), 4; Roseworthy (by William the Third), Fairy King, Shogun, Radiant, Bachelor's Wedding, Mouthpiece, Ramsgate, Halos, Nassau, Day Comet, and Kingsborough. Those without Derby engagements were Fairy King and Ramsgate. Mr. E. Hulton was represented by Fairy King and Shogun, who were piloted by F. Wootton and W. Huxley, respectively, and their owner declared to win with the former. Craganour was sent out favourite at 3 to 1, but he was run very closely in the quotations by Fairy King, against whom 100 to 30 was the best to be had, while Sanquhar was marketable at 5 to 1, Roseworthy at 8 to 1, the other prices ranging from 100 to 8 to 50 to 1, Louvois and Shogun figuring at 25 to 1 each. Soon after the rise of the barrier, Craganour assumed the lead from Fairy King and Sanquhar, but as they came down the dip Louvois worked his way into third place and gradually closing on the leaders in the run home, just got up in time to win by a head from Craganour, with Meeting House a couple of lengths away. The finish was, unquestionably, the finest that had been witnessed in a Two Thousand since Neil Gow and Lemberg fought out their memorable battle three years before. In that case the leading pair came down the straight locked together, but in this instance Craganour finished right under the judge's box, while Louvois came home in the centre of the course, consequently no one could possibly be sure of the winner until Judge Robinson hoisted Louvois' number. Neither of Mr. Hulton's representatives, Fairy King and Shogun, had anything to say in the settlement of the question, though they finished fifth and sixth respectively; but the surprise of the race was the position attained by the American-bred Meeting House, who figured among the 50 to 1 division. The mile was cut out in 1m 38 4-5s.

At the age of 23 years, the stallion Wolf's Crag, by Barcaldine from Lucy Ashton, by Lammermoor from Alsatia, by Orest, died at Mr. R. L. V. Sherwood's stud, Newmarket, England, in April last. Wolf's Crag won three races as a two-year-old, and was one of the few three-year-olds to prove successful in the Lincolnshire Handicap, but failed to stand training thereafter. At the stud he sired numerous winners, among whom were Wolf's Hope, Mazeppa, Blacksmith, Little Wolf, Naniband, Fast Castle, Wolfshall, Dumbarton Castle, Catty Crag, Gower, Believer, Tor, Princess Ikbal, Almscliff, Linacre, Cinderello, Qu'appelle, Wroxo, Karakoul, Sir Wolfus, Promontory, and Dalnacrag. In all, he sired the winners of 270 races on the flat, worth £70,927, while Karakoul won the Grand Hurdle Race at Auteuil (France) in 1906. Wolf's Crag is represented in this State by Linacre, who is located at the Widden Stud. Linacre was a good performer in England, his victories including the Champion Breeders' Foal Plate at Derby, the Atlantic Stakes, and the Duke of Cambridge Handicap. Linacre was brought to Australia by Mr. James Brennan, who raced him for some time, but his best performance was to run second to Daisy Chain in a mile race at Moorefield.

After a lapse of three years, during which the bloodstock resources of the United States were badly depleted by expatriation, three racing tracks—Belmont, Jamaica, and Saratoga—in New York State have been re-opened. The meeting at Belmont Park opened on the 30th ultimo, and will be continued until July 5, racing three days each week; the Jamaica session will be of 12 days, and after its close the venue shifts to Saratoga, where racing will be held during the month of August. The three courses provide in all 55 days' racing. In order to be able to guarantee racing for the next two years with fair-sized purses and stakes a subscription, known as the Owners' Fund, has been raised, the subscribers including such well-known sportsmen as Messrs. August Belmont, H. P. Whitney, H. P. Oxnard, Joseph E. Widener, C. Kohler, G. D. Widener, and F. Johnson.

The stallion, The White Knight, by Desmond (son of St. Simon) from Pella, by Buckshot from Pamela, by King John, who, during his racing career won £14,097 in stakes alone, and included in his successes the Coronation Cup at Epsom (twice), the Gold Cup at Ascot (twice), and the Goodwood Cup, has been purchased for Russia at a cost, it is understood, of £40,000. The White Knight was bred in Ireland by Colonel Kirkwood. After his retirement from the turf he did stud service at Adare, co. Limerick, his fee being £149, and his first and only winner last season was The White Nun, who captured a race worth £253 at the Gatwick June Meeting.

Paterson, who won the Hume Handicap at the Autumn Meeting of the Albury Licensed Victuallers' Race Club last week, was bred at the Dunlnald Stud by Mr. Sydney Reynolds, and is by imported Prudent King from Patrie, by Splendor from Tauri, by The Drummer (imp.) from Thomar, by Kelpie, and cost 220 gns. as a yearling. Paterson led all the way, and cut out the mile in 1m 43 3-5s.

The Adelaide Racing Club has secured a further extension of the lease of Cheltenham Park for 15 years. Some time ago it was reported that the club would be compelled to find a new course, and as the improvements effected there during its occupancy by the club cost a considerable sum of money it seemed as though the institution would receive a serious setback. That, fortunately, has been obviated, and the club, which has become very prosperous under the management of Mr. T. W. Tuxford (secretary), will continue its progressive career without interruption.

The Sydney lad, E. Huxley, who is attached to R. Wootton's stable in England, met with an accident on the opening day of the Newmarket April meeting. He had the mount on Mr. Wm. Clark's Lindsay Gordon in the Visitors' Handicap, and for which he started favourite, but soon after the start Lindsay Gordon struck into the heels of another horse, and fell, throwing his rider heavily. Huxley was brought back in the ambulance, and happily he escaped with nothing worse than a severe shaking. An inquiry was held into the mishap, but the stewards decided that no blame could be attached to the other jockeys who rode in the race.

The four-year-old gelding, Bard of Avon, half-brother (by imported Rouge Croix, son of Bend Or) to Comedy King, did something towards upholding the family reputation by winning a couple of races at Bendigo last week, after securing a race at Epsom on the previous Saturday. In the Winter Handicap on the second day of the Bendigo reunion, Bard of Avon put up a performance that was highly creditable, for half a mile from home he met with interference, which knocked him back last, and at that stage 10 to 1 was freely offered against him; but he made up his leeway in time, and had the opposition silenced at the half-distance, and scored easily at the end. The son of Rouge Croix was sold a few months ago for 50gns.

His Majesty's livery was carried successfully in the Hastings Plate, a race for three-year-olds, at the Newmarket April meeting, by Anmer, a son of Florizel II. and Guinea Hen, a ten to one chance. Anmer was piloted by E. Wheatley, who sent him to the front about half a mile from home, and landed him an easy winner, the mile and a quarter having occupied 2m 14s. The victory was a very popular one, but King George was not present to witness the ovation accorded to the Royal colours when the colt returned to scale.

The racehorse Te Whare, who for some time past has been displaying form in the northern district, was bred in the Moree district by Mr. Eckford, and is by The Brush, a Tucka Tucka-bred horse, by Gozo (imp.), while him dam is by Marvel from Brightlight, by Cheviot, and was at one time the property of Mr. R. Wootton.

The Australian Cup winner, The Parisian, who has been enjoying a lengthy holiday at Bacchus Marsh, has rejoined C. Wheeler's active service brigade at Caulfield.

The hurdle racer Light Blue, a half-brother to that good cross-country horse Antarctic, met with a fatal accident last week while schooling over hurdles at Ellerslie (N.Z.). He was accompanied in the school by Manurewa, who jumped into the hurdle, and sent it flying, while Light Blue, taking off at the same moment, became entangled in the battens, came down heavily, broke his off foreleg, and had to be destroyed. Light Blue had been doing good work, which promised a payable career, and the mishap meant a serious loss to his owner.

The Tarcutta-bred Warwidgerie, who ran third to Uxbridge in the Australian Hurdle Race at Caulfield last August, and who in the meantime has been racing in the Wagga district, has returned to Flemington to undergo his preparation for the jumping campaign of the winter. Warwidgerie was accompanied by Lord Walla, a son of Corinth and Moonrise, by Sunrise from Nada, dam of Abington, who won the V.A.T.C. Oakleigh Plate, 1905.

The Soult horse, Maniapoto, who captured the A.J.C. Metropolitan, 1905, at Randwick, had three winning representatives at the Egmont (N.Z.) meeting—Kaniki and Ineuru (two races each) and Royal Patron.

POLO.

COUNTRY CARNIVALS.

The Muswellbrook Cup Carnival, one of the most important, and what proved last season to be one of the most successful, polo fixtures in the State, was this year a great disappointment to the northern club. In the first place the poor response to the club's invitations for entries in connection with the Lady Denman Cup—a trophy that may be competed for by any club in the Commonwealth—somewhat damped the enthusiasm of the local officials; and then came the destructive floods, which necessitated a postponement. This was followed up by more heavy rain after the first day's play, and there was nothing else for the club to do but abandon the tournament altogether.

Only two teams nominated outside the local A and B combinations. They were Scone and Dindemah. The weather was bitterly cold when play commenced, but the attendance showed that local interest is unabated. Dindemah and Muswellbrook B were the first in the field, and included in the local side was Mr. E. E. White, a 15 years old son of the well-known player, Mr. E. R. White. The lad was making his first public appearance on a polo ground, and when he overcame a certain amount of nervousness he acquitted himself well.

The other members of the team were Mr. F. M. Bell, Mr. J. Keys, and Mr. E. R. White; and Dindemah was represented by the brothers Mr. P., Mr. Bert, and Mr. Les. Willsallen, and Mr. C. J. Withycombe. The Muswellbrook men put up a very good game, and the colts deserve credit for sticking to their work against the well-seasoned opposition. Dindemah won with the scores: 8—8 to 4—6.

Muswellbrook A and Scone followed. The former played Mr. H. H. White, Mr. B. White, Mr. D. M. Bell, and Mr. H. A. B. Pearse; and Scone relied on Mr. Arthur and Mr. Jack Davies, Mr. B. Doyle, and Mr. W. Crosby. The visitors had no chance at all, and were completely outplayed, the final scores being:—Muswellbrook, 14—18; Scone, 1—2. The visitors' only goal was hit by Mr. Doyle, and our report of the game showed that the Muswellbrook team played with excellent combination.

Friday was then looked forward to to provide a good game between Dindemah and Muswellbrook A, but Thursday's rain dispelled all hope in that direction. Mr. Ken Richards, of the Sydney Club, who was one of the umpires at the tournament, in conversation with the writer, said that both Dindemah and Muswellbrook men are splendidly mounted, and that the northern players are keenly anticipating their engagements in the Dudley Cup carnival.

GLEN INNES AND HARDEN.

Glen Innes Club carnival will open on the 10th instant, for which the following teams have entered:—Inverell, Oblo (Walcha), Moree, Goondiwindi A and B, and Glen Innes. It was thought probable that Dindemah might also join in the festivities. Given fine weather the fixture should be very successful.

Another south-western tournament will soon attract polo men. On this occasion they will be entertained by the progressive Harden Club. The opening day is fixed for Wednesday, June 11. Sydney Club will send away a team, the first of the season, to try out the country players at Harden, and the combination will include Mr. C. J. Withycombe, Mr. K. G. Richards, Mr. A. W. Turnbull, and probably Mr. "Dick" Garvan. The latter may get his chance, owing to Mr. J. L. Merivale's compulsory retirement from the team.

ENGLAND v AMERICA.

It will be generally regretted that Mr. W. S. Buckmaster, the famous English player, who was to captain the England team against America, was unable to accompany the side. Mr. Buckmaster was injured while practising at Eaton Hall; but it was not thought his play would be interfered with. His place will be filled by Captain Vivian Lockett, who has a splendid Indian polo reputation, but the team's chances of regaining the cup are considerably weakened.

The decision of the American authorities to admit English forage for the polo pony stud taken over by the England team has given great satisfaction to polo enthusiasts in the old country.

Wet weather has interfered with the practice for the great international contest, and latest news to hand states that the American team would not be chosen until fine weather form could be shown by the players.

GENERAL NOTES.

Polo is an exclusive game for many reasons, and that exclusiveness renders it absolutely necessary that in order to maintain interest in the game players and club officials should do everything possible to engender the strongest reciprocity in assisting at one another's tournaments. Clubs in Australia are comparatively few, and their centres are wide-spread, but means of transit in these days is quite adequate and convenient. Exchanges of visits should be encouraged as a "duty towards one's neighbour," as well as for the individual enjoyment derived from the games.

The Muswellbrook Club appears to have good reason to regard the paucity of entries for the Lady Denman Cup as unsportsmanlike. Now that the tournament has been postponed, it is hoped that further entries may be received, and amongst them one from the metropolitan club. A fine reciprocal spirit has been shown by the Goondiwindi (Q.) and Glen Innes clubs. The latter sent a team to the Queensland carnival last month, and the border club will now return the compliment by equipping two teams for the Glen Innes fixture. This is as it should be.

It is understood that the Cooma and Harden clubs were desirous of nominating a combined south-western district team to compete for the Dudley Cup. The proposal, of course, could not be entertained, for the very good reason that the trophy was presented by Lady Dudley for club competitions, which cannot include representative district teams.

The Dubbo club, after lapsing into idleness for nearly two years, has resumed practice. Dr. Tuille, who is a great polo enthusiast, has taken up the secretaryship, and as there is good material in the ranks, the club should later on in the season put up some good games.

A bleak westerly wind blew down the ground at Kensington racecourse on Saturday, and the Sydney clubmen enjoyed a full-time game. It was just the day for a gallop, and the players put plenty of dash into their work. The ground has not yet recovered from the heavy rainfalls, but Mr. Colin Stephen, in the second and seventh periods, made good runs; and, considering the roughness of the turf, his command of the ball was excellent. The fifth period was very fast, the ball travelling up and down the field at a great pace, and Mr. Ben Richards was seen at his best.

It might again be suggested that teams' practice should be availed of. For instance, the combination for the Harden carnival should play through the game, and the A team, who will need to be in their very best form to conquer Muswellbrook and Narromine, and perhaps Harden, should also go through full time together.

GOLF

N.S.W. AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

The heavy rain which fell during the last week, following on that of the week before, made the various links very wet for Saturday's play. Casual water was everywhere, and on all of the courses play of any kind was carried on under most uncomfortable conditions. Even at Killara, which has the reputation of being one of the dryest courses round Sydney, casual water was to be found almost everywhere, while the new greens suffered severely by the play of about 50 golfers.

Parts of Rose Bay and Kensington were under water, and similar conditions obtained at Manly, Dobroyde, and other courses.

The contest between W. S. Laidley and G. B. Owen, at Rose Bay, in the final for the cup presented by Lord Chelmsford, resulted in something in the nature of a record being established. The final was match play over 36 holes, and Laidley conceded his opponent three strokes in each round. At the 36th hole the players were all square, and it was decided to play again over 36 holes. Again the match was all square at the finish of the two rounds, and a further 36 holes was decided upon, and at the third attempt Owen scored a very meritorious win by 4 up and 3 to play at the 105th hole. On the first two occasions Owen's putting was not, by any means, good, but, on the occasion of his win he did much better in this respect, while in other departments he showed the same form as, a few years ago, won him the championship of the Killara club.

Concord played a stroke competition, in which the long markers showed prominently, T. P. Sampson winning with a card of 98—27=71. He started badly with two eights, but rapidly picked up lost ground, and had a very good four at the ninth. He reached the turn in 50, and was home in 48. He has not been playing long, but is very keen, and is the makings of a good player. J. W. Fairfax, a son of the hard-hitting Wyc. Fairfax, followed in his father's footsteps by driving a long ball, and finished in second place with 98—21=77. Of the others, D. L. Aitken, with 92—11=81, was the only player with a handicap under 20 to return a reasonably good card.

At Dobroyde, W. C. Sturrock (scr.) put up the best performance, by finishing all square with bogey, and incidentally, though, of course, it cannot stand as a record, returned a card two strokes better than his own record for the course. We have several times expressed it as our opinion that the Dobroyde record would be considerably reduced before the season closes, and Sturrock's card, on a course all opposed to good scoring, confirms the opinion. He drove a very long ball, and played the long game to perfection. His card read:—

Out: 5, 4, 3, 4, 5, 4, 4, 3, 5=37
In: 4, 4, 5, 4, 3, 5, 5, 5, 5=40

K. I. Harrison (5) showed good form, and ran into second place with a fair card of 1 down.

The silver putter at Killara was won in the A grade by J. A. Thompson, who recorded his first win since his election as captain of the club. He was out in 44, which included a bad 8 at the eighth, and home in 46, with another 8 at the twelfth, a long hole at which 8 is not, at present, an unusual figure. H. C. Till and W. C. Penfold, with cards of 83 net, tied for second place, while in the B grade L. F. G. Oswald, one of the oldest members of the club, scored a very popular success, with an excellent card of 93—19=74, and incidentally secured the coveted buttons for the best net card of the day. Using his irons, as usual, from the tees, he was out in 45, with an 8 at the second, and home in 48 with another 8 at the twelfth. T. A. Perry, a new member, started well by holing the first in 2, and was round in 90—13=77, showing form which will need to be closely regarded by the handicappers. He has a nice style, and will doubtless do better.

E. Scott Scott, who has been showing exceptional form lately, had a comfortable win at Saturday, with a round of 88—8=80, which, considering the sodden nature of the course, was a very good performance. He finished 5 strokes ahead of H. G. V. Adler and L. A. Dimant, who tied with net cards of 85 for second place, and with F. F. S. Spence and S. F. Bonamy tied for the best gross score with 88. Bonamy, who plays in the B grade, tied for the trophy in that section with Dr. Thomas with a very good card of 77 net.

A. W. Macansh won the monthly stroke competition at Hunter's Hill with a fair card of 96—21=75, being closely followed home by C. H. Pearson, with 84—8=76. A triangular tie occurred at Drummoyne, W. T. Smith (10), R. G. H. Epps (12), and A. Herron (21) all finishing with cards of 80 net, the returns not being, however, particularly good. Somewhat better were those achieved at Cammeray, where F. S. Hall (21) and H. T. Vaughan (22) tied with cards of 66 net, while a long marker also won at Bonnie Doon, where T. B. Kirkland, with 104—28=76, finished two strokes ahead of F. W. Barker and J. W. Dunlop, who tied for second place. Parramatta played mixed foursomes, L. J. Berckelman and Miss Dale winning with 106—7=99.

NEW SOUTH WALES AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Thirty-three or 34 entries have been received for the N.S.W. amateur championship, the qualifying round for which will be played at Rose Bay on Saturday next. The first eight players will qualify for the match-play stages, which will be played during the ensuing week, the final being played on Saturday week. Among the entrants all golfers will be pleased to see the name of R. B. Godbolt, the Concord champion, who, in past years, has not been able to compete. He is a sterling player, and his success would be very popular. There is a notable absence of entrants from other States, but they are probably reserving themselves for the open championship in August.

Among other players with a fair chance of success are E. L. Apperly, the present champion, W. C. Sturrock, of Dobroyde, W. S. Laidley, J. S. Marks, and E. P. Simpson, of Royal Sydney, G. T. Balcombe, N. F. Christoe, and H. N. Giblin, of the Australian Club; and H. W. McLelland, of Bonnie Doon. Two new names are those of T. E. Howard and W. Yeaman, who made their golfing debut at the opening of the Moore Park links, and of whom nothing is at present known. On present indications, it looks as though Apperly should retain the title if he is in good form. It is reported he had a 77 at Rose Bay a few days ago, which is a very fair score.

THE MUNICIPAL LINKS.

Any doubt the aldermen of the City Council may have had as to the wisdom of establishing the golf course at Moore Park should be dispelled by the experience of the first week after the opening. All through the week there were players on the links, while on Saturday there must have been at least 70 golfers, mostly of the artisan class, enjoying a game. The council is rather backward in advertising the conditions on which play on the course is allowed, and this is a matter which should receive prompt attention, as should also the question of providing proper dressing rooms, with lockers and a shower. The popularity of the course is well-nigh assured, and expenditure in the direction indicated would be money well spent. A prominent Sydney golfer who was at Moore Park on Saturday stated that he saw some particularly fine golf played by men at present quite unknown as golfers.

BRITISH AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

The cable informs us that Harold H. Hilton has again won the British amateur championship, this being his fourth success in the event, his other wins having been in 1900, 1901, and 1911. Hilton has had a wonderful golfing career, second in merit probably only to that of John Ball. He won the open championship in 1892 and 1897, and was second in 1911, and secured the American amateur championship in 1911. He was runner-up in the amateur championship in 1891, 1892, and 1896, and semi-finalist in 1910. The Irish open championship has fallen to him four times, and with the exception of 1908 he has represented England in the annual international match with Scotland, every year since 1902. He was born in 1869, and is therefore 44 years of age, and won his first open championship at the age of 23.

It was unfortunate that Hon. M. Scott should have been disqualified for late arrival, when his prospects seemed particularly bright, but rules must be carried out. Harris, who was beaten by Hilton in the final of this year's event, is probably Robert Harris, the well-known Scotch player, who has often represented Scotland against England. In 1907 he was beaten in the semi-final round of the amateur championship, this being his previous best performance in the event.

FIXTURES.

SATURDAY, JUNE 7.
New South Wales amateur championship, qualifying round.

BOWLING.

THE RAWSON CUP.

WON BY CITY CLUB.

Very few were hopeful of bowls being played on Saturday last. Up to past midday on Friday the prospects were extremely gloomy; but in the afternoon the wind veered to the west, and the clouds dispersed. Saturday morning was gloriously bright, and the Warringah green, the battleground between the City and St. George clubs for the final of the Rawson Cup, rapidly dried, and no fault could be found with it. The wind was certainly troublesome, and players and spectators alike found the wintry conditions discomfiting. A rather late start caused expressions of fear that darkness would fall before the 21 ends were played; the game, however, finished in good time.

An analysis of the scoring shows that City scored on 44 ends and St. George on 40. Two St. George skippers, Crump and Cooper, each scored on 11 ends, Thorpe scored on 11, and Butler scored on 13 out of the 21. The half-hour scores were:—City, 20, 38, 64, 92; St. George, 20, 36, 50, 70. Thus in the preliminary round both sides were level. The City went to the front; in the penultimate they moved further ahead, and in the final sprint outplayed their opponents. On No. 1 rink T. Anderson met Cooper, and the St. George skipper played a splendid game. The scoring was in some respects remarkable. Anderson scoring five separate 3's, and Cooper a like number. Only five singles were recorded, two to City and three to St. George. City notched a 4 on the 18th end, and St. George a 5 on the 5th. St. George on the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd ends scored 6; on the 9th, 10th, and 11th another 6, and 3 on the 13th, 3 on the 14th end, and had then a lead of 23-11. Anderson and his men, who had made a run of 3, 1, 3 on the 6th, 7th, and 8th ends, came again with a rush, and from the 15th to 19th ends inclusive chalked 2, 2, 3, 4, 3, and led by 25-23. St. George were not to be denied, and, scoring 1 and 3, finished 2 up in this rink. Anderson played a good game, though he took risks against the advice of his men, and by perfect draw shots notched some additional counters. J. W. E. Baillie led for City, and played like the veteran he is. It is interesting to recall that on April 29, 1880, Baillie played for this State in the first match against Victoria, on the Kentville Green, and the rink he was in was as follows:—John Young, W. Rose, J. W. E. Baillie, A. Payton.

Myles was not in his best form; but he and Kenwood had an interesting duel. Smith, on the day, was better than Louden. On No. 2 Butler was opposed to Taylor, whose record in this season's Rawson contests, printed below, proves how difficult it is to beat him. Butler was well supported from the start, by his leader and second, and after the first few ends Widderstrom was equal to anything asked of him. Butler also gave a fine exposition, and his shots were frequently applauded. Taylor was not in his best form; but his leader and third played some good bowls. City led 12-5 at the 10th end, and thereafter St. George could only notch five singles to City's 10, the final score reading 22-10 in City's favour. Thorpe had Hyndman against him, and the City men played very consistently. Hyndman played some fine shots but was not well supported. St. George scored well at the start, leading 8-2 on the 8th end, but City came with 2, [illegible], 4, 2, 5, 2, and after a modest single to St. George another 5, and led by 25-10.

On the three remaining ends City added 1 to 6 by St. George; and the completed score read 26-16 against Hyndman. Harry Thorpe's record in this season's Rawson games shows that he was unbeaten; and if memory may be trusted he has not during the last three years in this event returned a losing card. Harris and Crump had an interesting duel on No. 4; Harris led 8-0 on the 3rd end, but Crump stuck to him, and on the 14th end was only 2 down. Again, on the 20th, the difference was the same, and on the final end Crump got 1, and the card read 19-17 in favour of City. Considering Harris won four matches out of five in the Rawson, his surplus points prove the strenuousness of the struggles he has engaged in.

The following is City Club's record in this year's Rawson Cup:—Matches played 5, won 5. They defeated Manly 94-77, Petersham 108-48, Chatswood 77-76, Mosman 78-64, and St. George 92 to 70. St. George had a bye in the first round, and their record is:—Played 4, won 3, lost 1. They defeated Redfern 131 to 63, Waverley 92 to 65, Parramatta, 89 to 58, and were then beaten by the City Club.

The skippers on both sides were unchanged throughout, and their records read:—

CITY.

Skippers.	Matches.	Won.	Lost.	Points. For.	Points. Agst.	Points. Surplus.
Thorpe	5	5	0	135	71	64
T. Anderson	5	3	2	114	76	38
Butler	[illegible]	[illegible]	2	102	63	39
Harris	[illegible]	4	1	98	95	3
Totals				449	305	144

ST. GEORGE.

Skippers.	Matches.	Won.	Lost.	Points. For.	Points. Agst.	Points. Surplus.
Cooper	4	4	0	112	67	45
Taylor	4	3	1	97	62	35
Crump	4	[illegible]	[illegible]	95	78	17
Hyndman	4	2	2	88	73	15
Totals				392	280	112

At the close of the match, Mr. J. P. Lister, president of the St. George Club, congratulated the winners, and Mr. C. Barsby, president of the City Club, replied. The victory will be celebrated in some fitting manner by the City men.

HISTORY OF THE RAWSON CUP.

The cup won by the City Club is strictly speaking Rawson Cup No. 2, the late Governor having presented a cup in 1902 to be won three times by any club. Petersham won the first year, with St. George runners up. Petersham won again next year, beating City in the final. Petersham won the third year, and secured the trophy. Sir Harry at once presented a second cup, which the City Club has now won. Ashfield Club is inscribed twice on the trophy, Petersham once, Chatswood once, Waverley once, and City, of course, three times.

NOTES.

Morris Casey, president of the Northern Bowling Association, Auckland, intends to visit Sydney with three other bowlers during July, and has been informed that he will be very welcome.

The Queensland Bowling Association has forwarded a cordial invitation to New South Wales to send a representative team north in October. The Wide Bay bowlers and friends during their recent visit to Sydney were very earnest in their requests for a team to return their visit this year. They have now visited Sydney twice, and it is to be hoped that the association will be able to accept the Queensland invitations. Newcastle Club will journey to Queensland in August.

The John Young Shield is the only association event in this year's programme yet to be played, and it has been put down for Saturday, the 14th instant. Should an uneven number of clubs enter from any district a qualifying round will be played before that date. The shield is at present held by the Maitland Club.

Mr. Bell's team to visit the west is now complete. Vice-presidents Clayton and Wall will join the party, the other members of which are Messrs. Arnott, Nimmo, Hingst, Donald, Davis, Whitehouse, Gordon, Pinnington, Rigg, Hopson, Bull, Searl, Thomson, Fullwood, Manning, Macdonald, and Shadforth. Vice-president Coates intended to make the trip but withdrew his name owing to indisposition. The party will leave by train at 8.55 p.m. on Friday, and call at Bathurst, where a game will be played on Saturday afternoon. The team will then proceed to Orange, where on Saturday night a smoke concert will be held. On Monday morning the team will go on to Dubbo, where they will meet a combined western team of five rinks. The party will return to Sydney by the 6.30 p.m. train the same day.

MOTORING.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF AUSTRALIA.

The attention of motorists is again drawn to the speed limit of four miles an hour which is in force at the top of the hill leading from Mosman to the Spit punt. Several motorists have complained that the warning notices are so placed as not to be readily seen when approaching the turning.

The club outing for children will take place on Saturday, when the children of the Randwick Asylum will be conveyed for a short suburban motor run. Those members who intend taking part, and have not already notified the secretary to that effect, are requested by the committee to do so at once. Some 50 cars will be required, as there are over 200 children at the institution.

The Rockdale Municipal Council have recently been making experiments with a view to improving the Rocky Point-road. Through the township of Rockdale the road has been made with 2½in metal mixed with tar, upon which fine metal, also mixed with tar, has been laid. The surface was then painted with a final coating of tar. Although the result is not as good as could be wished, it has, nevertheless, been found that this form of construction stands the heavy and constant traffic well. While the road "gives" under exceedingly heavy traffic it does not "crack" to any great extent, and, morover, remains particularly free from dust. Upon other portions of the road, extending for some distance on each side of the township, "tarco" has been used most effectively as a means of alleviating the dust nuisance.

MOTOR YACHT CLUB OF N.S.W.

The final entries and handicaps for the ocean race to Pittwater on Saturday will not be made known until to-morrow. The competitors will camp on the Hawkesbury over the holiday, and in all probability a scratch race will be held on the run home. Following are the eligible boats:—Mr. Neil Harvey's Dusgo, Mr. P. Pearson's Kelvin, Mr. Stewart Black's Koala, Mr. F. Saunders's Ruri, Mr. Alvin Taylor's Roogenah, Mr. W. B. Small's Marjory, and Mr. J. W. Maund's Balama.

The race for the speed pennant and championship of Sydney Harbour will be held over the Rose Bay-Manly course on Saturday, June 14. Entries have been received from N.S.W., a 28ft single-step hydroplane, owned by Messrs. W. Charles Moseley and A. G. James; Peerless, a three-step Elco hydroplane, leased by Mr. Reg Holmes; and Meteor II., owned by Mr. C. H. Relph.

Meteor II. is better known, perhaps, as Kangaroo, the single-step hydroplane formerly owned by Mr. Anthony Hordern, and winner of the Australasian speed championship on three successive occasions. Mr. Relph is racing her in the place of Meteor, which, on account of a new engine installation, would not be completed in time for the race. Meteor II., late Kangaroo, late Brazier Despujols, is powered with a 90 h.p. four-cylinder Brazier engine, and her hull measures 26ft.

N.S.W. is a 28ft boat, and is powered with a 150 h.p. six-cylinder two-cycle engine, designed and built by Messrs. H. D. Black and Co., of Lavender Bay. She has been an unfortunate boat, having been sunk at her moorings on a couple of occasions, due to stress of weather.

Peerless is a sister ship to Rainbow, and is equipped with a 60 h.p. six-cylinder engine, driving the propeller shaft through a chain reducing gear placed forward of the installation, a system which is carried out in N.S.W. and also Meteor.

AUSTRALIAN NOTIONS.

One of the Dungog motorists, who recently contributed an article under the above heading to the "Motor Cycle," has written in reply to a correspondent's criticism of the article which appeared in the "Herald" on May 21.

"Apparently the statement that punctures are scarce," he says, "is received with a certain amount of incredulity. I use a puncture-proof inner band, so why should it not be possible to go a considerable time without punctures?" In regard to clearance, he says: "I still stick to the statement made to the 'Motor Cycle.' At present I am riding a machine with a clearance of less than 4 inches, and our roads are not of the best, yet I've never touched ground with my crank-case." Dealing with three-speed gears, he points out that he has seen unsatisfactory devices which "apparently nobody in Australia could rectify." Moreover, in his opinion, the ordinary three-speed gear adds about 15 pounds weight and complicates a back wheel which is already difficult enough to take off. He wishes it to be understood that his conclusions are based on actual experience. "If the dealer is anxious for all these improvements, why doesn't he put them on the locally-assembled or manufactured motor cycle?" he asks. "My machine is a locally-built one, and has low clearance, no place to carry spare belt or tubes, and has a fixed gear. I was asked if I required a change speed gear, but the extra price was prohibitive. I consider that a machine that will not take one up the average hill on an ordinary touring gear, say, of 4½ or 5 to one, should be scrapped."

The criticism of the correspondent in question was based largely on the result of a two-thousand miles' tour, embracing the whole of the Northern Rivers' district, on a 3½-h.p. fixed gear machine, with a clearance of 4 inches. Difficulty was experienced in this latter respect through the crank-case striking the ground when travelling over rough bush country; when getting on and off punts, or descending or ascending bad culverts, such as are frequently met with on the main roads of the State and in approaching badly-timbered bridges. It is not so much the severity of the grades which necessitate 2 or 3 speed gears on motor cycles, but the badly-graded "hair-pin" corners which are met with, and in facilitating "starting up" after a stoppage on a long climb, or even in traffic.

MOTOR CYCLING.

MOTOR CYCLE CLUB OF N.S.W.

It is expected that a dozen members will journey to Newcastle to take part in the Great Northern Club's annual reliability trial, to be held under the auspices of the A.C.A. on June 9 over a course of 115 miles.

A lengthy tour of the southern district has been arranged for the holidays. A start will be made from the junction of George and Harris streets on Saturday at 2.30, and either Picton or Mittagong will be made the headquarters for the night. In all probability the members will be joined by a party from the Goulburn Motor Cycle Club.

The club membership is steadily increasing, and the following new members have been declared elected by the committee: Messrs. A. J. Macarthur, L. O. Haither, W. A. Williams, E. Wolk, F. Delandro, B. Richardson, J. Durst, H. F. Parr, E. L. Betts, H. B. Bagnall, S. Gosney.

Tickets are now available for the second annual club ball, which will be held on July 30. Entries for the open competition for the Zenith Cup, which is valued at £10 10s, will not be accepted by the hon. secretary, Mr. J. A. Fair, until July.

The committee have decided to promote a large gymkhana to take the place of motor cycle sports usually held in connection with the recently abandoned R.A.S. Motor Show. Record breaking will be the chief attraction, and important racing rules are to be introduced.

At the end of the month a touring contest will be held, particulars of which will shortly be announced by the club captain, Mr. F. A. Rose.

THE KOOKABURRA CLUB.

The club run to Galston having been cancelled owing to the bad weather, a number of members on Sunday journeyed to Springwood. The mountain roads were found to be in good order. Mr. Du Boise found no difficulty in surmounting the grades with a 13st passenger in his side car.

A contingent spent the day at the club camp, Bilgola beach, clearing the boundary line for the surveyor to complete his work. The camp is pleasantly situated and, no doubt, will be the venue of many outings during the winter months.

With the intention of making a circular tour, by joining the northern road a few miles beyond Hornsby, a number of members, on Saturday journeyed to Bobbin Head. When climbing the Berowra Creek hill, however, the road was found to be blocked by a large boulder, evidently the result of the recent rains, and the tourists were compelled to return via Pymble.

Arrangements are now complete for the three day holiday tour down the South Coast. About 20 members are expected to form the party, which will leave the Customs House, at 2 p.m. on Saturday, June 7. The itinerary includes Wollongong, Kangaroo Valley, and Bowral. The tour will be concluded at North Sydney on Monday evening.

SYDNEY CLUB.

The next reliability trial for the N.S.U. trophy will be held to Wiseman's Ferry on Saturday, June 14. Competitors will leave the clubrooms at 1.45 p.m., but in order that numbers and running cards may be allotted, an early attendance is desirable. The contest will be run under non-stop regulations, and controls will be established at Windsor, the Pitt Town turning, a point some distance farther along the road, and at Wiseman's Ferry. Competitors must arrive at the controls "on time," and cutting out time, or turning back for that purpose, between these points, will penalise the rider.

Leaving the clubrooms at 2 p.m. on Saturday a number of members will start on a holiday tour, making Yetholme the headquarters for the first day's run. Bathurst will be visited, as well as many other points of interest en route. Members wishing to take part should notify the hon. secretary, Mr. Henson, not later than to-morrow afternoon, in order that the necessary accommodation may be arranged.

At the last meeting the following new members were declared elected by the committee:—Messrs. E. Overden, V. Sampson, C. H. Keane, R. L. Hodgson, J. E. Mellor, J. E. Bolger, F. R. Adams, O. Cherry, J. Snape, C. Dubaugh, E. L. Betts (re-elected), and A. C. Haldane.

CYCLING.

N.S.W. CYCLISTS' UNION.

Owing to the recent rains it has been extremely difficult for the majority of amateur riders to do any long-distance training for the Redfern Club's continental road-race, to be held under the auspices of the Union, from Goulburn to Ashfield on June 23. Competitors, however, have still about three weeks in which to get in form, and with fair weather this should be sufficient.

The competition for the Dunlop interstate premiership will open on July 5, and already several clubs have got their teams together. The Liverpool and Petersham clubs have formed particularly strong combinations, and can be relied upon to give a good account of themselves when pitted against some of the older clubs. Eastern Suburbs, Western Suburbs, Redfern, and Marrickville are also making militant preparations. Entries for this competition close on June 21.

Arrangements have been made to issue special tickets to competitors in the Picton-Ashfield race (to be held on Monday) at the Sports Club on Thursday and Friday. No concession tickets will be available at the railway station. Competitors who have not already taken out their race numbers for this season will be able to procure them from the number steward at the Commercial Hotel, Picton, prior to the start of the race on Monday.

LEAGUE OF N.S.W. WHEELMEN.

The first open event of the season will be a 12-mile road race, promoted by the Australian Club, under the auspices of the League, which is to be held over the Enfield-Bankstown course on Saturday, June 14. Entries for this event, which must be accompanied by the fee of 2/6, close on Saturday. The first prize is a Lyon bicycle, and the fastest time winner will receive a cash prize of 30s.

The North Sydney District League Club are presenting a Cup to the most successful club member this season. Mr. E. Clements, a club patron, has forwarded £25 towards the promotion of a competition, the arrangements of which are in the hands of the committee.

A meeting will be held at Leeton on June 9.

HOCKEY.

THE UMPIRE DIFFICULTY.

Owing to the sodden state of the grounds on Saturday there was no play in connection with the competition games. The selectors, however, met in the afternoon and chose the teams for June 9, and the players names appeared in our Monday's sporting columns.

Efforts are being made again this year to form a referees' association; but the matter is not going forward so well as could be wished. Good umpires are extremely difficult to obtain, and the opinion has been freely expressed that more than one match has been lost and won through the weakness of the umpires. Very few people watch hockey, but many play it, and it is seldom that a man who has played the game can be persuaded to take the whistle—he thinks it is such a waste of time. Probably it is more difficult to find a satisfactory umpire for the game of hockey than for any other game. The game is so fast that unless an umpire can make up his mind instantaneously and give a proper decision he is worthless.

Many people have been questioned before being asked to umpire, and they have shown an intimate knowledge of the rules, and could answer at once regarding any point raised; but on the field they have been hopelessly astray. By the time that they make up their minds that a breach of the rules has been committed, the ball is at the other end of the ground, and the opportunity is lost, as they do not like to blow the whistle then. The result is that they scarcely blow the whistle at all, except for a glaring case of "sticks" or some equally palpable infringement. Such incidents as "carrying," "knocking-on," "obstructing," and "turning-on-the-ball" are absolutely ignored.

Another point worth mentioning is the wonderful way umpires decide as to whether it is a corner or whether the ball has gone behind. It amounts to the question of "who touched it last?" A man shoots at goal almost instantaneously with the attempt of a defender to intercept the shot; the result is that the ball is deflected and glances off—well, whose was the stick? In nine out of ten cases the umpire orders a "bully" on the 25-yard line; but a little thought must show that unless the defender touched the ball last the probability was that the ball would have gone straight instead of going behind obliquely, so properly a "corner" should have been given. Again, "off-side" is much abused by umpires and players too. Some umpires have a habit of standing in the middle of the ground. They would be in a far better position to judge "off-side" if they kept as near their outside line as possible; as in that way they have all the players in front of them. Many times a forward waits expectantly, just on-side of his own half, for a relieving hit or cross-pass from his own side, and the moment the ball is hit (well ahead of him as it should be) he sprints after it. The umpire is standing with his back to the forward in mid-field, and does not see where the forward was standing when the ball was last hit: the result is that the latter is given "off-side," because, by the time he reaches the ball, there is probably only one man between him and the goal, which, of course, is all wrong.

The question has been asked, "when should an umpire blow his whistle, and when should he not?" It has always been recognised as correct, and is now a rule, that an umpire should not blow his whistle if by doing so he robs the non-offending side of an advantage. For instance, a player shoots a goal, and the goalkeeper, in endeavouring to save the shot, gives "sticks." Well, in that instance it would be obviously unfair to the attacking side if the referee blew his whistle for "sticks." Again, a forward has only a back to pass to be pretty certain of scoring, and the back misses the ball and gives "sticks." That, too, should be ignored by the referee, but if the back hits the ball in giving "sticks" and robs the forward of the ball, then the back should be penalised.

Although the custom of the game is to have two umpires, a referee (or umpire) and two linesmen would be better. In this case linesmen should be energetic enough to keep level with the ball. In a case of dispute as to whether the ball is on or over the back line, the opinion of the linesmen would be of immense assistance to the referee, if the linesmen were in proper position to judge; but that is just the difficulty, as they seldom run back with the ball. They might also, by doing this, be able to say if the ball has passed wholly over the line in goal or not. So far as umpires are concerned we want as near perfection as possible.

LAWN TENNIS.

DAVIS CUP ON FRIDAY.

THE TEST MATCH TEMPERAMENT.

The thoughts of Australasians will be turned towards New York on Friday, when the opening contest of the Davis Cup competition of 1913 will be commenced between teams representing Australasia and the United States of America. We know that the American selectors have nominated M'Loughlin, Williams, Hackett, and Little, and that our nominees are Doust, Rice, and A. B. Jones, but the ultimate constitution of the sides need not be announced in New York until to-morrow, and may be altered, as when Dixon took Beamish's place in Melbourne at the last moment. With this element of uncertainty it is hard to weigh the chances of the respective teams, and it would be by no means easy if the actual contestants were known, as the members of the two nations have not met in competition, so that there are no performances to afford a line by direct opposition.

Although Australasia has met the United States on six occasions, M'Loughlin and Little are the only players of the seven nominated who have previously taken part in any of these encounters. It seems strange to have an Australasian team without Brookes or Wilding, and one from the United States in which Larned or Beals Wright is not included. The inexperience of many of the contestants in Davis Cup matches provides a factor which may have a very material bearing on the result of the impending contest. Cricketers know the importance of the test match temperament; it has been exemplified on many occasions. So it is in Davis Cup or test match tennis. Will Doust, Rice, and Jones, or whichever two are chosen for the singles, stand the strain as well as America's similarly untested Williams? On the answer to that question may well hang the result of the tie against America. Doust has had so much experience in England and on the Continent that he ought to be able to play his natural game under all conditions; yet he has so frequently failed at the critical moment in important engagements that it seems clear he is not devoid of "nerves." Rice and Jones, judged by their showing against the British players here, appear more likely to have the test match temperament. There was no sign of indecision, no traces of stage fright in either of them on any of the occasions when they met the men from the British Isles. Of Williams it is impossible to predict. He is much younger than any of our representatives—not yet 25. His selection is mainly due to one season's performances in American tournaments, although he has other wins of merit to his credit gained on the Continent. It will be an ordeal for one so young, but Williams must have faced some large attendances last year, and seems to be made of the right stuff. M'Loughlin we fear most, but even he lapses occasionally, as when he let Wallace Johnston establish a great lead in the final of the United States championship last year, but the manner in which he extricated himself from that dangerous position proves him a fighter, and does not justify any expectation that his game will suffer by reason of the greatness of the occasion.

The indisposition of A. B. Jones is as regrettable as unfortunate, for it must have hindered his preparation for the contest even if he has now completely recovered. Had he been able to play with Doust in the practice matches in which the latter was partnered by Rice, it would have been of great value in developing team work for what is generally regarded as the best double combination possible, viz., Doust and Jones. It can only be hoped that Jones may be thoroughly recovered by Friday, and, playing in the form he showed in Sydney last year, add to the reputation of Australasian tennis. Even if Jones should not be available, we yet ought to win the doubles, and we may gain one of the singles contest against Williams. It seems too much to hope to defeat M'Loughlin, yet he may go down, just as Brookes did to Parke. On paper, Doust appears quite as likely to defeat him as the Irishman to vanquish the Victorian. English and French papers agree that Doust has improved wonderfully in singles. His defeats of Gobert and Laurentz this year should be encouraging to him, and apparently they are of a similar type to M'Loughlin. To hazard a guess, it is that the match will be won by 3 rubbers to 2 whichever side is successful, with the probabilities in favour of the United States.

The other matches in the first round, viz., France v Germany, and South Africa v Canada, must be completed by June 21. France and Germany were negotiating as to where to play when the last mail news was received, Germany having proposed a town near the frontier. South Africa and Canada will in all probability meet in England. The former will select their team from Gauntlett, Le Sueur, and Leach. In some South African quarters it was thought that no team ought to be sent, seeing that Kitson, Winslow, and Dodd were not available, but the three chosen should go close to reaching the final round. Gauntlett was regarded as the best player in South Africa by A. D. Prebble, who was there with Doust's team last year, an opinion supported by Doust himself, and also by R. S. Barnes. He played in two of the test matches against Wallis Myers' team a year earlier, beating R. B. Powell, who will be one of his Canadian adversaries, 6-2, 7-5, and F. G. Lowe, 6-3, 4-6, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3. He lost to F. G. Lowe, 6-3, and to Dixon, 7-9, 0-6. Le Sueur beat Powell twice, 7-5, 8-6, and 6-4, 6-3, Lowe 6-0, 6-1, and lost to Beamish, 1-6, 0-6. On this form Gauntlett and Le Sueur should be able to hold Powell, even allowing for the difference of playing on grass. Leach is not so experienced, but is credited with having made very rapid progress, and to be quite as good as Le Sueur. Barnes considers that the grass courts in England will suit Le Sueur's style admirably. In addition to Powell, the South Africans will meet Bernard P. Schwengers (pronounced "Swangers"), who comes from the Pacific North-west, where he has long been the foremost player, and holds the Canadian championship, successfully defended against Tyler in the challenge round. It is somewhat strange that Tyler should have defeated Schwengers in the final of the Mainland championship, which gave him the right to challenge Schwengers for the Canadian championship. Schwengers is a powerful man, fully 6ft in height, and weighing nearly 16st, but he is all bone and muscle. Look at the map and note the distance which separates Victoria, British Columbia, from Durban, South Africa, from which places Schwengers and the South Africans respectively leave to meet in London, add the mileage between Sydney and New York travelled by the Australians, and you will get some idea of what the Davis Cup is doing for lawn tennis throughout the world.

Several of the prominent lawn tennis clubs in America are importing professional coaches. Amongst those engaged this year is C. Haggett, who has been playing against our men in America. He is at the West Side Club. Steers, another Englishman, is at the Crescent Athletic Club, and Lamprecht, a German, is employed by the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club. It is said that this influx of professionals is due to the great impression made on Americans by the perfect form in which R. N. Williams makes his strokes, which is attributed to the coaching he received in Europe. Haggett is described as a typical Englishman, short and sturdily built, but wonderfully quick on his feet. He is said to have had charge of the Royal courts in Sweden for seven years, during which time he instructed the King of Sweden, who is a player of more than ordinary ability. Haggett goes deeply into the theory of the game, and is, moreover, a linguist, as he speaks three languages in addition to English.

FOOTBALL.

THE RUGBY UNION GAME.

THE MAORI TEAM.

NEWTOWN AND SOUTH SYDNEY'S SPLENDID FORM.

Interest in Rugby Union circles for the next week will be centred in the coming of the Maoris and their match against New South Wales on Monday next at the University Oval. Mr. Parata has gone about his self-appointed task of selecting the native New Zealanders on a complete and thorough system. The North and South Islands were searched for talent, and, consequently, the team which will arrive on Friday will be representative of Dominion football, as almost every member has played for his province. Half of the team have also had the distinction of appearing as one of the best 15 players in either the North or South Island.

In order to bring about that combination so necessary to the best Rugby, Mr. Parata gathered his team together in Rotorua a week before sailing, and the benefit of this scheme is sure to be felt in the early matches of their tour. Two matches were also played before leaving New Zealand, Rotorua and Thames Union being both defeated by big scores. Thus it will be seen that the New South Wales side, the names of which we published yesterday, has a very difficult task in front of it. L. J. Dwyer's appointment as captain is a popular one, and he and his men will meet twice this week for the purposes of working up combination.

As providing an object lesson in sound tactics and fine combined work there have been very few better games than that played by Newtown on Saturday. Although a bigger set of men, University were at the mercy of the quicker-moving Blue forwards. Taking scrums instead of line-outs, and keeping the ball on the ground and bunching in the forwards, the winners went through time after time, Roberts, Ryan, Hill, and Watson being prominent. The backs of 'Varsity could not make any headway, owing to Gilroy and Tasker's almost wing-forward play. The tackling was brilliant on many occasions, Tasker and Parry bringing off some low dives which often stopped the University wing three-quarters when in dangerous positions. Newtown's dribbling tactics were really the cause of 'Varsity's defeat. In addition, the forwards combined splendidly. At the commencement Massie, Heath, Cooney, and Harpur were too good in the line-outs, but afterwards Newtown had just as much of the game in this respect as their opponents. The opposing five-eighths, Tasker and Jeckyll, played finely.

The premiers, with a side that had to be patched up on account of injuries, gave signs of retrieving their reputation at the expense of Eastern Suburbs at Rushcutter Bay. The tri-colours were also short of some of their regulars, and played men out of their places. Glebe had Massey Westropp in the forwards, and the Easterners played Duffy at half. With the exception of a dash here and there by the winners the game was very even throughout. At the finish, however, the backs and forwards of the leaders showed better form, and carried all before them. For Glebe Wogan repeated his splendid play of the past few weeks, and by clever running often placed his side in scoring position. Wood showed form almost equal to his best, and should be at his top in a week or two. O'Donnell played a very fine game in the forwards, but the best forward on the ground was Cody, closely followed by Wallach and Fahey. Belden and Adamson were the best backs, the latter's cleverness in attack standing out. Eastern Suburbs will, however, have to play better than they did if they are to maintain their unbeaten record against University, Newtown, and South Sydney.

South Sydney has definitely established itself as a claimant for the premiership by defeating University, Glebe, and North Sydney, the lastnamed match taking place on Saturday at Metters Sports Ground. The winners are a well-conditioned, alert, and quick-moving team, who are always on the ball. North Sydney were completely disorganised and worn down at the finish of the game, and but for over-eagerness South Sydney would have scored more tries. In the first half too much attention was given by both sides to individual effort, but North Sydney only persevered in this after the interval. Gregory, Mayo, and O'Neill all did some splendid things, but lacked support. On the other hand, the winners backed up well, and in some of the try-getting movements the ball flew from one player to another, and sometimes back again until eight or nine had handled it. The backs also combined with the forwards very well. Fusdale was the star back, with Cruise, Barry, and Nicholson also excellent. Maguire, Morris, and Coll were especially good in the forwards.

Manly thoroughly deserved their win against St. George in a match in which the forwards of both sides had play to themselves during the greater part of the game. On occasions, however, some fine dashes were made by Carr and M'Ilmurray for their respective sides. Cooney's line-kicking also helped materially towards victory. The backs of the Villagers were not happy as an attacking force, chances being missed by "hanging on" or misjudged passes where scores might have resulted. The forwards, however, were matched against an excellent eight, and performed with credit. Their strong rushing tactics, with the evergreen Buckley in the lead, well supported by Archer, Farnell, and Wright, were better directed than in any of their previous efforts this year. In the backs Cooney was the best three-quarter on the ground, and the certainty in all his movements was a feature. St. George's best were Fleming, Sadler, and Crouch, the lastnamed particularly showing some fine rugged work. Gates and Billingham were also always on the ball.

At St. Luke's Oval Western Suburbs secured their first competition win of the season at Balmain's expense, thus reversing the result of the practice games. The winners have reinforced their team during the past few weeks, and on Saturday included D. Reid and R. Barker in the forwards, whilst H. J. Leddy went from forward to three-quarter, and M'Cauley and O'Keefe came in as wings. The new men acquitted themselves well. The club should promote some of the juniors who have been such a factor in bringing the second grade team from a very poor side to one able to press the leading team, Newtown, very close. It would be better policy to build up a young team than to revert to old players. However, the display on Saturday was more in keeping with what is expected from a club of the standing of Western Suburbs. The ground was sloppy, and adopting the better tactics the Suburbs carried out some splendid dribbling. White and A. Prentice also were very safe, and filled their part in excellent fashion by saving their forwards on all occasions. The day should have suited Balmain, but did not, and the Westerners gained a well-earned victory.

THE RUGBY LEAGUE GAME.

THE GAMES REVIEWED.

The boom in Northern Unionism continues at Sydney, for the South Sydney-Glebe fixture at the Sydney Cricket Ground attracted the record gate of nearly 30,000 people, representing £480. The other first-grade games also attracted large attendances, as 7000 people attended Wentworth Park, and North Sydney Oval and Erskineville Oval received their quota of public patronage. This success is remarkable, and augurs well for even bigger financial returns when the issue of the championship becomes restricted to the leading clubs.

South Sydney, smarting under their defeat in their previous engagement with Newtown, took revenge on Glebe at the Sydney Cricket Ground. The game reminded one very forcibly of that stirring engagement between these clubs in June of last year. In that match, when Glebe snatched victory in the last ten minutes of the game, it was the determination and superior strength of the Red forwards that wore down their opponents. On Saturday, however, the Glebe forwards were outplayed. It was a strange sight to see the burly Glebe six being beaten for possession. From start to finish, and in the second half especially, the regularity with which the smaller pack heeled the ball to their expectant backs was most marked. In the loose also, the Southern six did grandly, and although considerably knocked about, manfully kept their star in the ascendant till the tension was relieved by the sounding of the "no-side" whistle.

Had Glebe maintained the form they showed in the first half, they might have had more substantial recompense for their toil. South Sydney, however, asserted themselves, and by diligent following up and great tackling, wore down their opponents, and eventually transformed a minority of one point into a majority of six. It was only in the concluding stages that the South Sydney forwards fell away, and then Glebe notched their second score, which brought the scores nine points to six in South Sydney's favour.

The forwards of the victors performed a Herculean task in setting the pace throughout, and the consistency of their scrum work was quite a feature of the day. Both packs played remarkably hard football, and in view of the high strain at which the game was waged, it was not surprising that in the closing stages the men became rather too warm. Two of the Glebe players received their "marching orders" from Referee McMahon. It was a great pity that unpleasant incidents marred a game that otherwise was a splendid exposition of high-class, strenuous Rugby.

The finest try of the match was that obtained by Cann. He intercepted a pass about midfield and got up speed with wonderful alacrity. Just for a moment it seemed as if he would be hemmed in, but the opposition were unable to tackle the elusive Southerner as he cleverly tricked those who challenged him and scored in the corner. It was a remarkably fine individual effort, and revealed the characteristics of this truly great footballer.

The South Sydney backs to a man played well. Butler and McCabe (the latter especially playing a fine game), engineered some beautiful movements, and in defence the whole of the backs were sound. At times their powers in this direction were tested to the utmost, but they never wavered. Charge after charge was met unflinchingly, and attacking moves were often initiated when Glebe were storming their line.

The Glebe pack hardly rose to the occasion, and it is very evident that they are still suffering from the loss of "hooker" Brighton. The Glebe backs could hardly be judged on the day's play as they were greatly handicapped in consequence of the inability of the front line to gain possession.

Balmain again only flattered their supporters on Saturday against Eastern Suburbs. The first quarter of an hour's play certainly pointed to a strenuous game, and strenuous it remained till the finish. As a scoring force Balmain were hopelessly at sea. Eastern Suburbs' victory was full of merit—much more so than the margin of points indicates.

Johnson, Balmain's half-back, handled the ball from five scrummages out of every six, yet the three-quarters broke down badly. The inside centres were slaves to the old, methodical system of working from flank to flank. Over and over again they slavishly passed the ball when a straight run through or cross-kick to their forwards would have been more advantageous. A. Wheatley invariably tried to serve his wing, knowing that the defence was well-nigh impregnable. The idea of opening out the game by a sudden transfer per medium of an infield punt or a neat pass in the same direction never once dawned on Balmain's third line.

H. H. Messenger gives promise of doing some good things for his club in the future. While he did not exhibit his old dash, he played a clever game, and on at least a couple of occasions made good openings for his men. He, however, showed poor judgment in resorting to so much marking. It was hard for the onlooker to understand his tactics in this direction, as his side was in a scoring vein, and were showing themselves decidedly the better team in attack. Kinghorn at full-back was sound, though a trifle slow in his clearances, and the wind seemed to puzzle him in the opening stages of the game, as several of his kicks found touch on the full. W. Messenger displayed opportunism and pace when he toed the ball away from a fumble by a Balmain three-quarter, and gathering sharply, set sail along touch to eventually out-distance Fraser and score in a handy position. This lad shows promise of developing into a very fine attacking three-quarter.

The half-backs, though somewhat neglected by the forwards, performed well, particularly Halloway in defence. Pearce, the chosen "rep." hooker, was decisively beaten by Baulkwell for possession. O'Mally and Watkins were Trojans for work in the open, and tackled in rare fashion, the latter particularly shining in this direction.

Newtown's success at Erskineville Oval on Saturday leads one to think that this greatly improved side will have a big say in events later on in the season. To defeat Western Suburbs by such a majority of points as 27 to 2 was no mean performance, especially as the Westerners have been showing such splendid form of late. At the commencement of the season Newtown were confronted with the difficulty of finding suitable connecting links who would be equal to restoring the combination caused through the withdrawal of the Farnsworths. That they are well on the road towards harmonising their backs into something like their old shape was well evidenced by the machine-like precision which marked the second half of their display on Saturday.

The youthful Turner displayed remarkably fine form, and his work behind the pack was clever. Haddock, who gave one of his usual displays as hooker, continuously heeled, and the halves made the best of their opportunities and served their third line in rare style. It took the Blues some appreciable time to get into their stride, as the trend of play in the first half was evenly balanced, but on restarting they completely outclassed the opposition. The passing was always marked with keen perception. Russell, Green, and Farnsworth proved to be in great form, and their brilliant exchanges, which were participated in at times by the M'Cue brothers and Murray, led to 22 points being scored in the second half.

Annandale continue experimenting, and on Saturday for their match with North Sydney introduced J. Leonard into the half-back division. It was a most successful move, for Leonard played finely, scoring Annandale's only try and opening the game up cleverly. The side gave an improved display, and the provision of some additional speed behind the pack may have the long-desired result. Play throughout was keen, and there was plenty of excitement for the 5000 spectators present. There was no indication in the first half that the home team would come with such a burst of combination as they showed in the second half. In the period mentioned Annandale more than held their own, and certainly deserved to be two points in the lead at the interval. However, on reopening the Shoremen's backs and forwards played in great heart, and continuously stormed the Annandale line. The most prominent men on the field were S. Deane and Devereux, who were a constant source of trouble to the Annandale defenders. North Sydney were handicapped by the loss of Thomas, who had to retire early owing to an injured leg, though Miller was an efficient substitute, considering that the ex-countryman had already played a strenuous game with the second graders. Taplin, who took Broomham's place on the wing, gave a sparkling display, showing splendid resolution and speed when in possession.

There were no failures in Annandale's defence, and they held out gallantly under severe pressure. Ray Norman and Challis got through a tremendous amount of work. It was a hard-fought game to the finish, and was won by the cleverer side.

The New Zealanders will open their campaign at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Saturday, and a stirring game, with a record crowd, is looked forward to. So far the League has only played one representative game on that historic green. It was New South Wales v New Zealand in June, 1911, when over 46,000 spectators paid £2570 for admission. Given a fine day on Saturday it can be reasonably expected that these figures will be eclipsed. The New Zealanders will be formally welcomed by League officials at the Arcadia Hotel to-night, and to-morrow and Friday they will indulge in practice.

The N.S.W. team, which was announced in these columns on Monday, has already gone into special training, and yesterday afternoon was out on the Sports Ground practising movements with a view to working up combination. They will train again to-morrow afternoon.

THE AUSTRALIAN GAME.

LEAGUE CLUBS SHOW GOOD FORM.

The expected happened on Saturday last, and Sydney and Paddington, who may be said to have jumped right into their best form contemporary with the opening of the season, still retain their unbeaten record, which will, however, be forfeited by one or the other unless, as is extremely improbable, a draw results from their meeting on Saturday next.

Sydney's victory over East Sydney at Hampden Oval was decisive enough on scoring points, but it was less so on actual play. The Red Legs show an inclination to unduly vigorous play. In at least two of their engagements this season several of the side have been guilty of the practice of throwing a player after he has just kicked or got rid of the ball. This is a strong point on which field umpires should caution and, if repeated, report offending players. The law allows enough latitude for the legitimate use of physical strength without resorting to extremes. Sydney may be said to have won all the way up to the termination of the third quarter. In the final term East Sydney, by fast and brilliant play, put on 26 points to 7, thus reducing the previous lead of Sydney considerably. The effort, however, came too late, and Sydney won a patchy game, in which brilliance and mediocrity alternated, by 79 points to 45. The field umpires had a busy time keeping players in check during the final quarter, and it was generally understood after the match that the names of a number of players would be included in his report. It is not good to build teams up wholly on physical lines as such conduces, in many instances, to rugged and rough work that mars the better side of football.

The battle at North Sydney Oval No. 2 between the local team and Balmain, though not an ideal contest, could not well have been surpassed for exciting and fluctuating periods of play. In each of the first three-quarters of the game North Sydney finished with a small scoring lead. In the final term Balmain caught and passed them, and with a 3-points' lead victory seemed within their grasp. But a goal by McLean reversed the position, and North Sydney, holding their advantage, eventually won a keenly-contested game by 37 points to 34. Once again the skilful play of Ralph Robertson brought victory to North Sydney. There can be no disputing the science of the Australian code when a single player in a field with 35 fellow players can so dominate the position as to practically make his side play more effectively than a better all-round side which may be opposing them. Filgate, Spencer, McLean, Shannon, Lear, and Beatson were worthy aids to their skipper; while W. Hughes, Ratcliffe, Stewart, O'Brien, McCance, Groves, and Hall played ably for Balmain.

For the first time this season Newtown tasted the sweets of victory when they defeated South Sydney at the Australian Football Ground by the narrow margin of one point. The ground was in a very bad condition, being sodden and, in parts, under water, circumstances which militated against either side showing its paces. The game, played in good spirit, was fast and clever, and as good an exposition as could reasonably have been looked for under the prevailing conditions. Before the ball had become thoroughly wet and heavy Newtown showed out the better, and by the end of the first quarter held a lead of eight points. South Sydney, principally by good ruck and centre play, had reduced their deficit by half-time, and in the third quarter gained the lead. Newtown played grittily, however, and were rewarded with a goal which put them ahead, and retaining their advantage till the bell rang, came out winners in a good game. Both sides showed excellent defence, Murphy and Sands (South Sydney), and B. Ellis, Munro, and Charles (Newtown) doing fine work. Stephenson, Curphy, Maine, Rowe, E. Hughes, and Marriott, were the best of the remaining Southerners, who showed a tendency to leave their places and crowd the ball. Meadows (who made his first appearance for Newtown), Swindells, Horton, Davis, Quested, Blackburn, Brooks, A. Provan, and Laver played in good form for Newtown, who are rapidly getting together a strong side.

The second grade competition, were it not for the semi-final games which is a condition of the competition, would have, even thus early, lost general interest, as the form, physique, and stamina of the Northern Districts' and Paddington teams partake more of a senior than a junior character. Unless a surprise be sprung in the semi-final games by Sydney or Newtown, no team at present looks like extending them.

The protest lodged by East Sydney against South Sydney being declared the winner of the game played between those clubs on May 24 was withdrawn by East Sydney within a day after it was lodged on the 26th ult. Apparently the decision arrived at to enter a protest was a hasty one, seeing that the withdrawal followed quickly.

Though the team due to leave Sydney to-day, to represent New South Wales against Queensland at Brisbane on Saturday by no means represents the real strength of the State, the general impression is that it is quite strong enough to prove victorious. Be that as it may, the public who take interest in the game are entitled to know that only 22 names of players available for the trip were submitted for selection. Sydney Club sends four players in Muggivan, Mack, Clark, and McDonald; South Sydney five in Morahan, Maine, Curphy, Moore, and Duigan; East Sydney five in D. M'Conville, Williams, Stewart, Blockley, and Mitchell; Newtown four in Swindells, Munro, Hortin, and A. Provan, and North Sydney one in Filgate.

Mr. W. A. Lone, who acted as hon. secretary to the Y.M.C.A. Club (previous to the inauguration of the district scheme this season) from 1908 to 1912, has thrown in his lot with the newly-formed Balmain Club.

THE ASSOCIATION GAME.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP.

The opening round of the State championship last Saturday were typical Gardiner Cup games, inasmuch as keen play, friendly rivalry, and close scores were associated with all the ties except one, that at Campsie.

The game at Campsie was very onesided, as Canterbury always looked like winning, and their 6-0 victory, following on their meritorious draw with Sydney, and the sound defeat administered to Glebe, should stir their ambitions and develop aspirations for higher game. Edge merited the many congratulations he received for putting four goals to his credit; but mention must be made of the fact that the whole forward line was effective, with Billett most conspicuous. The wisdom of developing a team by constant association rather than by weekly alterations in its personnel is strikingly exemplified by the late successes of the Canterbury combination.

Granville Rechabites made up for lack of playing ability in pluck and energy, and though beaten they have discovered talent that will surely command success when the junior apprenticeship is completed.

Though a good game was anticipated at Broadmeadow, it was thought that West Sydney exponents would be returned winners even with a small margin. The miners' teams this season more nearly approach the "class" teams of the days of McCrorie, Curran, and Jackson, and Merewether is nowise deficient in that respect. Doyle must be a great factor, and as the balance represent the cream of the Newcastle junior football of 1912, other records on the Gardiner roll should be attained. Warrior netted two fine goals for the visitors. The team that made the journey had been altered from that which conquered Burns Club the previous week, and if the omission of Fleming was deliberate, a serious error was committed, as that player is beyond doubt showing greater promise in each match. The margin of defeat was small, and the prevailing local conditions very likely were responsible for West Sydney's failure to qualify for the second round.

Two games were contested at Epping, and produced some very fine football, every inch of the ground being well contested. A high wind was a distinct advantage to the side winning the toss, but Weston only profited by one goal, as the deciding one was scored after ends were changed. Portland showed out in the early stages, but faded away, and Adams's method of clearing his goal, allied to a certain amount of nervousness, rather helped the opposing forwards. The second game was most exciting, Balmain winning with the only goal scored, though West Wallsend strenuously appealed for a fine shot by Acres, which went through the net. Perhaps the reserves were fortunate in winning the toss, as for the major part of the game the Northerners kept them in defence. The sterling play of Williams, Knudsen, Campbell, and R. Sneddon stood out conspicuously, particularly that of the latter, and Chapman was very reliable in goal.

A pleasing feature of this game is that at least 80 per cent. of the contestants have evolved from the schools' competitions, and by the skill they displayed gave undeniable proof that with such a feeder to draw on, a right policy is being pursued in organising schools and junior leagues.

Next Saturday the competition will be continued at Epping, and the games on the holiday—June 9—should bring the first round to a conclusion. A team of "triers" in Northern Suburbs is opposed to the South Coast representative—Helensburgh—on Saturday; and Newtown v Minmi, and Goulburn v Lithgow are set down for the holiday. By a strange coincidence, South Coast players A. and C. Jones will be opposed to their former local competitors, as members of the Northern Suburbs team, which, if turned out in full strength should make the game as interesting as the North's good bout with Sydney in last year's tournament.

Helensburgh is making its first appearance since 1910, when H.M.S. Powerful put its name on the trophy after a fine final at Epping. Since its formation in 1890 the club has made six appearances (1892, 1893, 1894, 1908, 1909, 1910) in the competition, and has also produced many capable exponents of the code in Shipton, Hall, Harris, Rae, Oldfield, Richards, and Pallier, amongst others. The semi-finals have been twice reached: In 1894, when Minmi prevailed; and in 1910, when after conquering Rozelle, the naval team proved too good. A splendid side has been organised this season, and a cup final to Helensburgh would be timely, as such a result would undoubtedly give a much needed fillip to South Coast soccer.

The Lithgow Thistle Club is western district's hope, and on local performances their chance is more than a slender one. Like Weston, they have already mastered Portland, and hope to be in the best fettle for their journey to the metropolis to engage Goulburn. The last-named is a valuable recruit, and if it displays a tithe of the former prowess of its neighbour—Joadja—its chances will also have to be considered.

A competitor of more than ordinary merit is Minmi, whose fame and skill are closely identified with the beginnings and progress of the game in this State. They first appeared in the metropolis in 1886, when Caledonians engaged them, and they kept their place in the elimination tournament to the final, then succumbing to Granville. Up to 1892 they were regular competitors, and in that season a fine combination in Burrell, Jackson, M'Crorie, M'Cartney, Stewart, Harden, Clark, Cummick, Mitchell, Campbell, and Haddow won the cup; but in the following year Pyrmont Rangers were avenged at the Sydney Cricket Ground. The present representatives have a splendid northern reputation, and provided they play up thereto Newtown will have a difficult problem to solve.

Each team in the first League last Saturday won its match by two goals; and the outstanding features were Granville's set-back to Newtown, the promise displayed by Northern Suburbs, and the complete reversal of form exhibited by Glebe at Birchgrove. Charlton was in good scoring form at Easton Park, with Rose a good performer, and Smith, Allan, Watkins, Blake, M'Anish, and Jennings gave worthy displays at Clyde.

Glebe held Sydney well, and the evenness of the play will be more apparent when it is stated that one of the winners' goal was the result of a penalty kick. Herron was very much to the fore, and his characteristic driving was responsible for the only goal scored in actual play.

BILLIARDS.

THE RED LIMITATION.

After all the trouble which the professional advisory committee took to draw up a memorial of suggestions to the Council of the Billiards' Control Club for limiting certain strokes at billiards, the council would not accept the suggestions, which were "that all scores carry the same ruling as at present applied to nursery cannons, viz.:—That the player making 25 consecutive hazards (winning or losing) must hit a cushion before scoring." Those were the whole of the suggestions. They meant that after a run of 25 reds into the middle or top pockets a cannon would have to be made off a cushion before going on with the hazards again. The same system would apply to close cannons as at present in vogue. The "new" suggestion, however, was that the red winner should again be brought into play. It practically meant that he resuscitation of the spot play, which was driven out of the game 20 years ago—for the provision, instead of striking a cushion after every 25 hazards, would be no great impediment if the striker got the white in a handy position, such as for the "postman's knock"—so that he might master the limitation difficulty without imperilling position.

Probably this was the lion in the path which caused the council to turn down the whole of the suggestions made by the players. As a result, the rules remain unaltered, and George Gray may go on his own "red way" next season without the taunt being made that he was playing under a different code of rules from those governing his brother professionals.

The system of the inter-institute championship adopted by the suburban Schools of Art and Literary Institutes might be adopted by other clubs, such as bowling and social clubs. The interchange of visits, outside the pleasure of the games indulged in, bring about social intercourse and good fellowship that might not otherwise be availed of.

The various Australian universities who were represented in last week's championship games might add billiards to the list of events. In England competition for the "University cue" at Oxford and Cambridge is only second in importance to the meeting of the champions of those schools of culture for the major title. Sydney University has made a start with two tables in the new Union Room for the use of students. The tables and furnishings are in keeping with the architecture of the new building.

A. D. ELLIS (Melbourne).
Winner of the 100yds, and second in the 220yds Inter-'Varsity sports. He is the holder of the 100 and 220yds amateur championships of Victoria.

It was the intention of the Scottish billiard champion, T. Aiken, to play two games against F. Lindrum before returning to Scotland in September, but it is now announced that he has had to cancel the engagements owing to having to return home earlier than he expected. This is an unfortunate happening for Lindrum, for not only will he lose the financial gain from such a bout, but also the opportunity of getting even with the Scot for the two defeats which the latter administered during Lindrum's English tour. The present will be Lindrum's most disastrous season since he entered the ranks of billiard entertainers.

Meanwhile Lindrum's fourteen-year-old brother has startled the billiard world by conceding a fourth of the game in 6000 to Miss Ruby Roberts, and defeating that accomplished young lady rather easily. Unlike his elder brother, this lad plays with his left hand, a style which he inherited from his father, who, when champion of South Australia, was a very fine player. Some critics assert that "left-handers" are ungainly, and never reach the highest plane of merit; also that it is "unnatural." However, as young Lindrum grows (he is rather diminutive at present) he may revert to the right hand, as his brother did at the same age.

Billiards is an hereditary gift with the Lindrum family. The present champion's grandfather was the best player of his time in Adelaide, and his son, the father of the Australasian champion and Walter, even as a boy, was the best player in South Australia. Later on he played Harry Gray, senior, father of the red marvel, for the native-born championship of Australia. Lindrum, senior, performed in Sydney on several occasions years ago against Charles Memmott, and also in the big tournament at Protestant Hall, Castlereagh-street, won by F. Weiss, in which Messrs. H. Evans (the then champion), C. Memmott, E. James, H. Power, R. Birkett, and A. Albers (South Australia) also competed. Though it is getting on for 20 years since the tournament took place, all the competitors excepting Evans and Albers are still alive—four of them residing in Sydney at the present time, and Memmott and Lindrum in Melbourne. It has been suggested that a similar tournament be arranged between eight of the best players now resident in Australia, but whether the suggestion will mature is doubtful.

When Messrs. Heiron and Smith started their first N.S.W. markers' tournament 17 years ago it was a small affair, but, like the hardy annual it is, each year saw it growing larger and larger. Although the prize-money is under £100, players from distant parts of the State trip Sydneywards to cross cues with their brother-markers, and a fair proportion of finals have gone to the country players. On Monday night a start will be made with the fixture, two heats being played nightly.

FIXTURES.

May 4, 5, 6.—George Gray and T. Aiken, at Brisbane.
May 9.—Heiron and Smith's N.S.W. Markers' Tournament starts at 266 Castlereagh-street, at 7.30.
May 10.—Inter-Institute Championships at various institutes.

SWIMMING.

HODGSON AND M'GILLIVRAY.

The Sydney Swimming Club intends holding its annual dance this evening at Hart's Burlington Cafe, and a large attendance of members and representatives of other clubs is expected.

By latest American files the news comes of efforts being made to bring together Geo. Hodgson, the Olympic distance champion, and P. McGillivray, the best sprinter in the Eastern United States this season. The indoor season in America is just closing and the championships of Canada were to have been decided on April 19 last. McGillivray had a special invitation to the meet, and the Illinois Athletic Club had sanctioned his entry, but Wm. Backrack, the Chicago man's coach and trainer, advised McGillivray against competing in view of the heavy season just completed. Hodgson has come on such a lot in sprinting that it is considered he is now equal to any white swimmer in the world over the shorter distances as well as over the half and mile, and the Canadians were anxious to test him against McGillivray, who recently did the 100 yards in 55 2-5s.

Princeton University has adopted an all-round swimming championship, comprising the following events:—100 and 220 yards, free-style swims; 50 yards back-stroke, plunge for distance, fancy diving, and life-saving. It seems a splendid idea to cultivate the allround performer more than the specialist.

ATHLETICS.

INTER-VARSITY CHAMPIONSHIPS.

AMERICAN ATHLETES.

Weather conditions were against outstanding performances at the University Oval on Wednesday last, when representatives of the Melbourne, Adelaide, Brisbane, and Sydney Universities competed in the annual championships. These gatherings have been held each year since 1897, and by scoring the greatest number of points on Wednesday the Melbourne students recorded their 13th victory. Melbourne secured 5 wins and 4½ seconds, and, as points were allotted two for firsts and one for seconds, this made the total 14½, and placed that city in the leading position; while Sydney registered 4 firsts and 3½ seconds, making the home team three points behind in second place. Adelaide only annexed one event, and gained two seconds; while Brisbane's two representatives—C. Foggan and T. Francis—did not score a point. The score was the closest since 1906, but upon that occasion only wins were counted, and the programme comprised seven events as against ten in last week's list. The first meeting in 1897 was held in Sydney and five championships were decided, but in the following year, the 880 yards and running broad jump were added; and the seven-event programme was adhered to until this year, when the 220 yards, shot-put, and hammer-throw were added, and this brought the number to ten. The events which are now contested are very suitable for such a meeting, and the inclusion of field games is a move in the right direction, yet, as the combined Universities have agreed to the enlarged programme there is no reason why it should not be further strengthened, and eventually brought more in unison with the Australasian championships. The three miles running and walking events might be omitted, but there is room for the addition of the one mile walk, 440 yards hurdles, and pole vault.

L. H. KELLY (Melbourne).
Winner of the 220yds, 440yds, and high-jump, and second in the shot-put at the Inter-'Varsity sports last week. He holds the Australasian amateur high-jump record at 6ft 1 3-16in.

There were no State records created on Wednesday, although in the running broad jump a new inter-'Varsity record was made, and the existing figures were equalled in the running high jump. Certainly the athletes did not have an opportunity of distinguishing themselves owing to the state of the ground, and the continuous rainfall placed the men at a disadvantage. The finest performance recorded at the meeting was by Australasian champion L. H. Kelly of Melbourne. His first effort was in the running high jump, and this is the particular branch in which he has always displayed brilliancy. The bad take-off was slightly improved by placing sawdust on the turf, and Kelly's jump of 5ft 9½in under the conditions was a creditable performance. He has not altered his style to any great extent since he made his Victorian record of 6ft, and later at the Australasian championships in New Zealand cleared 6ft 1 3-16in. Kelly runs straight to the bar at a steady pace, and lands on the other side facing the jumping standard. Those who witness his efforts for the first time are perplexed at his easy methods, and wonder how he can accomplish the height which he reaches without apparent exertion. The Victorian was not called upon to attempt anything better than that which gave him first place, but had he done so new figures for inter-'Varsity competition would have been established, as E. W. B. Woods, of Melbourne, and W. J. F. Rofe, the Sydney representative, after clearing 5ft 8½in, failed at an inch higher, and divided second honours, while Kelly's one jump at the latter height made him the winner. The next item in which the Melbourne champion appeared was the 220 yards. He won his heat in 24s, and in the final defeated his fellow student, A. D. Ellis, by two yards in 23 3-5s. In the 16lb shot put Kelly reached second place, at 32ft 1in. His final effort was in the 440 yards. Kelly is the present Victorian champion over this distance, and he displayed a keen knowledge of how a quarter-mile should be run. Allowing Pattinson to take the lead, he made his run after the first furlong had been completed, and won by six yards in 53s. This was 1½s slower than his time for the Victorian championship.

MR. N. J. McDONALD.
An ardent worker in the interests of Rowing.

No other competitor secured a dual victory, although A. D. Ellis, of Melbourne, I. B. Pender, of Adelaide, and the Sydney representative, R. J. A. Massie, gained a first and second place. The Victorian is the present holder of the 100 yards championship of his State, in which he was credited with running 10s dead, and also has the 220 yards title to his credit. Ellis, in Wednesday's 100 yards, won from Pender in 11s, but was unexpectedly beaten by Kelly for first honours in the 220 yards. Pender, who last year defeated J. L. Davis in the 120 yards hurdles, when he accomplished a new Victorian record of 15 7-10s, secured an easy victory in the hurdles. He showed himself to be in a class far in advance of the other University representatives in negotiating the timber, and has a perfect style. The South Australian student won from R. Thomson, of Melbourne, in 16 3-5s. He was also placed second in the 100 yards, and third in the running broad jump. Massie was successful in the shot put, his best effort being 33ft 9in, although he should be capable of doing much better. In the hammer throw the big Sydney representative failed by a foot to reach E. M. L. Morgan, of Melbourne, whose best was 84ft 1in. The figures in both events are weak against what are established in open competition here, and cannot be compared with the University performances in other parts of the world. But as it was the first occasion that such items figured upon the programme, too much could not be expected, and with more experience and coaching the competitors should improve.

E. A. Southee again shone out as a specialist in the running broad jump section. The Australasian champion is a consistent performer, and has perfected himself in the run to the take-off board. His leap of 22ft 6in was the best yet recorded in an inter-'Varsity competition, and was exceptionally good for an effort made upon a sodden track. Southee will leave for England in August, and he is certain to achieve distinction upon the athletic field there.

H. B. Taylor and S. H. Henderson were two other Sydney representatives who brought first honours to the home team. They had been successful in the trials held a week earlier, and each scored easy victories on Wednesday. Taylor, in the half-mile, won by 5 yards in 2m 6 1-5s, and Henderson annexed the mile by 20 yards in 4m 49 4-5s.

The council of the New Zealand Association has suggested that the American athletes who are to tour Australasia should arrive in Wellington on December 3, and has forwarded to the affiliated centres the following draft programme for consideration:—Invercargill December 13, Christchurch December 16, Dunedin December 20, Wellington December 26 and 27, Masterton January 1, Wanganui January 3, Palmerston North January 7, Auckland January 10, Rotorua January 14, Hamilton January 17. It is proposed that the team should leave for Australia on January 19. As the Australasian championships will be held in Melbourne about February, the suggested arrangements should be acceptable to the associations on this side, as the visit will fit in with the biennial fixture. Now that it has been definitely settled that the Americans will visit New Zealand, it remains for the State associations to move in the direction of drawing up programmes for the visitors. The Victorian Association should be the earliest to announce their intention, as that body will control the Australasian championships, and it is not yet known if the wish is that the Americans should journey to the southern capital before visiting the other States, or that they should make Melbourne the terminating point of the tour. The members of the N.S.W. Amateur Athletic Association will have the matter before them for consideration at the next meeting of the council.

FIXTURES.

Saturday, 7th: Manly U.F.S. Sports, at Manly.
Saturday, 14th: Novice cross country championship, at Rose Bay.

LACROSSE.

SOME CLOSE CONTESTS.

As a result of Saturday's matches, Sydney and Eastern Suburbs remain at the top of the competition list, though their runs of success have been curtailed. Birchgrove, by beating Petersham last week, and by drawing with Eastern Suburbs, have proved that they have an excellent chance in the competition; but it remains to be seen whether, being equipped only with a knowledge of stickwork combination, and good condition, can make headway in the competition without the tricks and the experience of their opponents.

At the Domain, the Sydney-Petersham game attracted quite a large number of old players and supporters. These teams have always provided entertaining lacrosse, and Saturday's match was no exception; in fact, it was the most exciting game between the clubs for the past five seasons. The game was very fast, and the stickwork good; and it was pleasing to notice that, notwithstanding the keenness with which it was fought out, not one single instance of rough or illegal play was recorded. Half way through the game Sydney established a lead of 5 goals to 2, and to many the result seemed a foregone conclusion, but Petersham, playing with their characteristic stubbornness, gradually overtook their opponents; the goal that made the match a tie being thrown about five minutes to time. The concluding few minutes of play saw both teams making heroic efforts to make a winning goal. Such clean and interesting games would, without doubt, do much to bring lacrosse into popular favour.

On the sodden turf, Mosman, whose form is variable, went to pieces against the local team. It is remarkable that, at times, when opposed to the best teams in the competition, the Mosman men show to advantage, yet when playing against weaker teams they display poor lacrosse. Burwood need much more practice before they can hope for success in the competition.

E. A. SOUTHEE (Sydney).
Winner of the broad-jump at the Inter-'Varsity sports, clearing 22ft 6in, which is a record for these meetings. Southee is a Rhodes scholar, and will leave for England in August next. Southee has cleared 23ft in the broad-jump.

Birchgrove were expected to extend Eastern Suburbs, but a drawn game was hardly anticipated. For a moment in the final quarter Eastern Sububs were at a disadvantage, as their opponents, in the pink of condition, surged around their goal, but they appeared undecided in their movements, and Eastern Suburbs rallied and scored.

Manly showed better form in their engagement against University, which may be attributed to attention to training. In the first quarter they managed to obtain a lead of 3 goals, but after that play was even, although the students in the final quarter made a good showing.

The games are controlled by efficient referees, and as a result the players and spectators have derived pleasure from the games, as the rough and illegal play noticeable last season has been eliminated.

BOXING.

The fixture arranged for the Stadium to-night is that between the English middleweight, "Battling" Taylor, and Larry Foran. The latter has had many recent victories, among them being one over "Soldier" Jack Thompson, at Newtown. Roy Kenny defeated him some time ago, but on that occasion Foran was out of condition. Taylor has excellent English performances. The contest will commence at 8.30.

Jim Armstrong, the clever and plucky lightweight, will share with Billy Cox the ten-round contest at the Stadium matinee to-morrow. In addition to five three-round matches there will be sparring displays by Sid Stagg, Frank Picato, and others.

Saturday night's engagement between Sid Stagg (Eng.) and Frank Picato (U.S.A.), is sure to be a great popular attraction at the Stadium. They will meet as welters as Picato will strip at about 10st 2lb, and the Englishman has guaranteed to make 10st 4lb (ringside). Stagg made a great impression in his match with Pat Bradley by his skill and power, though the tireless Bradley was too strong for him in the end. In Picato he will have to meet another sturdy boxer. The latter has not boxed in Sydney for some time, chiefly because he was anticipating the opening match in Melbourne with Hughie Mehegan.

Mr. R. L. Baker has received a favourable answer to his offer for a Melbourne property, and if present prospects are fulfilled he will begin to build within a few weeks. Meantime the builder of the Sydney Stadium has been engaged for similar work in Brisbane.

The date for the first appearance of the returned lightweight champion, Hughie Mehegan, has been fixed for July 12 at the Sydney Stadium; and Mr. Baker states that either Frank Picato (U.S.A.) or Herb McCoy (Vic.) will be his opponent.

The hands of English middleweight ex-champion Jim Sullivan are sound again, and this week he will be in full preparation to meet the American welter, Pat Bradley, on the first Saturday in July. It was this match that had to be postponed when Sullivan's hand went wrong.

The belief that Petty-Officer Curran would have to stay out of the ring for weeks or months seems, fortunately, to have not been justified. The big fellow, who is suffering most from blisters left on his side by a lavish application of iodine for a suspected pleurisy, is confident that he could be fit to enter the ring three weeks from now.

The invalid featherweight, Boyo Driscoll (Eng.), who went into hospital with rheumatism, says that his legs are now "all right," and that his arms are improving. He wants to meet Joe Russell as soon as he is well again.

FIXTURES.

Stadium Fixtures.—To-night, 8.30: Larry Foran (N.S.W.) v Battling Taylor (Eng.).
To-morrow, 3 p.m.: Matinee, Jim Armstrong v Billy Cox (10 rounds), etc.
Saturday, June 14: Herb. M'Coy (Vic.) v Joe Russell (Q.).

ROWING.

ARE ENGLISH METHODS WRONG?

"A revolution in rowing" is the startling title of an article in the May number of the "Strand Magazine," and there are some novel propositions by the author, Mr. T. H. Brigg, a mechanical engineer. The foundation idea of the article is that the methods of rowing which obtain to-day are not based upon mechanical science, but are simply an evolution of the rule of thumb, improved by what experience teaches. Mr. Brigg claims to have demonstrated to eminent coaches in England, America, and Germany that every member of a racing crew has been placed in boats under conditions which make it absolutely impossible for any man to rely at the most crucial part of the stroke upon the muscular impelling capacity of both his legs. "Quite unconsciously, he is making use of one leg only."

That is an assertion that compels attention and examination, and we ("Sporting Life") refer our readers to the case presented by Mr. Brigg, who has made a long and exhaustive inquiry into the matter, and who cites facts, and gives illustrations in support of his theory that cannot be brushed aside as if they were airy nothings. We are all anxious to obtain the fullest possible advantage from every ounce of muscular energy expended in a boat, and now we are asked to accept the view that the English methods are wrong, and that we have been taught and coached to favour a style which inevitably involves a tremendous waste of energy, for the way on the boat is not commensurate with the impelling force supposed to be applied, but actually applied only in part. These are propositions that rowing men would do well to think over. Because a certain method of style has for a long or short time produced satisfactory results—satisfactory in a comparative sense—it does not follow that it cannot be improved upon, but, on the other hand, it must not be hastily assumed that the demonstrations of mechanical science are necessarily preferable to the knowledge gained in the hard school of experience.

It will be remembered that when the safety bicycle was introduced it was proved beyond the possibility of doubt that the use of a chain meant loss of energy, and that the rider of a machine impelled by direct power would always be able, other things being equal, to defeat the rider of a bicycle driven by transmitted power. From the point of view of mechanics, we were assured it was so, and must be so, but it was proved on the track and on the road that theory and practice were in diametrical opposition, and the rider of the safety bicycle, using a gear that corresponded to an ordinary bicycle, was an easy first. It may be so in rowing. Mr. Brigg attacks other cherished traditions, and with regard to the points he deals with he advances the view that the opinions and the practice of rowing men are not based on scientific knowledge, and are, in consequence, erroneous. We do not commit ourselves, and we do not anticipate rowing men will commit themselves, to a decided opinion until more information is to hand, and we shall await with interest and impatience the text-book which Mr. Brigg is now compiling.

MR. N. J. McDONALD.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS' RECORD.

Sydney Harbour and its environs claim the attention of all who see them for their natural beauty and surrounding charms, and is is generally admitted that there not many places to equal them. But there are few who dwell to think of the many benefits and advantages they have for the State and for the rising generation, who seek to use the harbour as a rendezvous for sport. Ever since the foundation of the Colony the harbour has attracted the devotees of aquatic sports. Perhaps rowing, like other sports, may be judged by the class of men it attracts—and if that is so, one has only to look at the honoured list of names of those who have passed through its ranks—Want, Fairfax, Oliver, Cope, Teece, Lord, Deloitte, Clark, Simpson, Barton, Fitzhardinge, and Abbot. These men have not only succeeded in having their names added to the roll of fame in the sport of amateur rowing, which they adopted as a means of exercise and pastime, but they have, no doubt, found that in their training they had to exercise their highest physical and mental qualities, which has assisted them in rising to positions of prominence in this State.

There are many, too, who, although not physically blessed with all the attributes that are necessary to make them famous and excel in so strenuous a sport as rowing, have gained invaluable assistance which has not only made them better citizens but better fitted to carry out their daily avocation.

A fine example of the product of a harbour rowing club is Mr. N. J. McDonald, who has completed a quarter of a centry of work in the interests of amateur sport. He is a familiar figure in aquatics in this State, but is more widely known throughout the Commonwealth as a rowing enthusiast. Not only has he figured as an active amateur rower, both with the oar and sculls, but he takes a keen interest in professional sculling, to which he has lent his influence from time to time, and which has done much to keep that branch of the sport clean. Since boyhood he has devoted his leisure hours to advancing the interests of amateur sport, but it is as an ex-member of the "Old Mercs," which he joined in 1886, that he is best known. It was there he received his early training in rowing and sculling, in which he eventually distinguished himself, as the undermentioned list of victories show. His club record is an enviable one. His kindly disposition and tact won him success as a member and officer of the Mercantiles, the destiny of which he had the pleasure of guiding for some years, as captain.

The present season completes the twenty-fifth year without a break as a member of the N.S.W. Rowing Association, of which Mr. M'Donald is still a member, and where his long experience and knowledge of the sport is invaluable. In the conduct of rowing business he is always fair minded and generous, never sacrificing a principle for popularity or support, preferring to be an active worker rather than a figurehead. For many years he has been elected to fulfil the responsible positions of hon. umpire, starter, judge, and handicapper, occasionally acting as chairman of committee.

After a quarter of a century of work for the sport, it is gratifying to know that Mr. McDonald was one of the few men on the association who were instrumental in sending the first Australian crew to Henley, and acted as one of three who selected the crew. It has been said by the manager of the Olympic rowing team that, had Mr. McDonald's advice been followed as he followed it, there is no doubt that the crew would have returned with two wins instead of one. Mr. McDonald's list of races are too numerous to mention, but his wins are as follow:—

1886: Maiden Fours, Trial Eights.
1887: Maiden Fours, Maiden Double Sculls, Trial Eights, Scratch Double Sculls.
1891: Champion Fours, Senior Fours, Trial Fours, Champion Eights, Senior Eights, and Trial Fours.
1892: Scratch Double Sculls, Senior Eights, Senior Fours, Champion Eights.
1894: Single Sculls, Scratch Fours.
Mr. McDonald also represented the State in the inter-state crews of 1889, 1890, and 1895.

NOTES.

The twenty-sixth annual eight-oar race of the Australian universities is a fixture for Saturday next, and will be rowed on the Yarra. Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide will compete, the crews being drawn from undergraduates. As far back as 1870 a four-oared race was rowed between crews representing Sydney and Melbourne, when the latter won, and they scored a second win in the following year. In 1888 there was a general desire to mark the centennial year, and one item in a long list of aquatic contests was the Australian universities eight-oar race on the Yarra. This was the first event of the kind rowed in the Southern Hemisphere. Melbourne won from Sydney and Adelaide. Next year Adelaide won from Melbourne on the Port River, Sydney being unable to send a crew. The third race was rowed on the Parramatta, and in this order the races have been continued ever since.

COURSING.

On Monday Mr. G. Keighery transferred to Mr. Bullens, of Nhill, Victoria, the puppy M.K., by Victoria Bitter ex Something Irish.

The Creswick Champion Stakes was won by Miss Request, by Mutchaka, who beat the Senator dog Pugalia. The latter led three lengths to the base, but Miss Request's subsequent clever work landed her a winner.

The 64 nominations for the Waterloo Cup, which starts next Tuesday, have been fully subscribed. The entrants are Miss Brayton, Mesdames Gannon and Brosnahan, Messrs. Oscar Asche (3), W. A. Phillips (3), H. V. Foy (3), D. D'Arcy (3), R. Hyde, J. E. Morrow, G. Atkins, J. Adams, S. S. Bennett, J. McLean, T. O'Dwyer, R. Cummings, A. B. Cowell, Keighery and Bateman, A. J. Usher (each 2), P. Campling, O. Phillis, E. Davidson, P. A. Lamb, A. Dayton, E. Blakey, L. A. Lamb, G. Honeysett, A. Pearce, J. N. Holmes, R. Yates, T. Clarendon, J. Kerslake, J. Murray, T. Cox, E. S. Marks, R. Briggs, J. Hemmings, T. Parkin, A. L. Nase, T. White, W. Donovan, A. Ross, A. P. Gribben, J. S. Perry, A. Burke, L. D. Phillips, W. Moses.

BASEBALL.

LANE COVE STILL LEADING.

The games on Saturday were not up to the standard of those of the previous matches, that between Lane Cove and Burwood being the only single figure one. At Petersham Park the play was of a very ragged quality, particularly that of Paddington. By defeating Waverley easily at Waverley Oval, Leichhardt have proved that, notwithstanding their one defeat at the hands of Lane Cove, they are to be reckoned with as the probable winners of the competition. Their strong batting and the possession of a good battery and infield will carry them far if they will only abstain from "climbing." Lane Cove are still unbeaten, and have put up some fine games. The experience of their leader, Captain Simmonds, is a great factor in the success of the side. There is an amount of enthusiasm on the part of the Lane Cove first and second nines which augurs well for the advancement of the game in their territory. It would be a good thing if those in authority could see their way to improve the playing area at Longueville.

Mosman-North Sydney is an improving side. The battery, H. P. Woolcott and W. Phyphers, are combining well; the former is more accurate than formerly. The side expect to have that good outfielder and batter, L. A. Minnett, back again in the course of a couple of weeks. His inclusion against Lane Cove on June 14 will help the team considerably.

DISTRICT DIVISION.

Although Petersham defeated Paddington at Petersham, it cannot be said that this was on account of very good play on the part of the local team, but rather the errors, chiefly infield, of the "Red, white, and blues." The American contingent did not perform up to expectations. Machado and Ames were late, having lost their way. The former did not pitch, and Ames was disappointing in his throwing to his countryman Watt at second base. The latter did not seem at home in his position, and he also failed to produce his reputed skill as a big hitter. Nevertheless, he has a good pair of hands, and should prove an acquisition to the side when he strikes his true form. The infield play of Paddington was very loose. W. S. M'Cloy at third base had a day off; his baserunning also was below par, one error in attempting to steal home from third being particularly noticeable. Stafford, at short-stop, was fielding out of position—too deep—and in consequence missed opportunities of outing runners at first. C. White was the best of the outfields, and he and Hall were the best batters for the side. Petersham's work was considerably better than that of their opponents, and the final scores, 12—5, give a fair indication of the difference in the teams' form on the day's play.

The premiers—Leichhardt—easily defeated Waverley at Waverley. The latter did not look like winners at any stage of the game, their performance being mediocre and not up to their usual form. F. F. McElhone, however, may be picked out as the best performer for the side, his work being up to standard. He was ably assisted by Vaughan at first base. The battery work of P. Stacey (pitcher) and A. Golby (catcher) was not of the best. The batters were as much at sea as were those of Petersham on the previous Saturday, the pitching of Harold Franks being again equal to the best he has yet shown. The infield work was good, the outfield having little to do. J. Franks (catcher) is showing good form with the bat; he hit a home run on Saturday. L. Turner also batted well. This was the latter's first appearance this season, and his inclusion will considerably strengthen this already strong side, as he is a safe field, and one of the best base-runners in the game.

The Lane Cove-Burwood match at Rydalmere proved the most even and lowest scoring of the round—[illegible]. The [illegible] were handicapped by the absence of their pitcher, F. A. Antill, and Lane Cove are still leading with a full percentage to their credit. J. Ritchie pitched for Burwood, but was easily hit. He only struck out two. The Lane Cove batters were all in form, especially C. W. Simmonds. Edmondson and Bernard were very safe in the outfield. P. Johnston pitched ably, but Flight, at third, missed two grubbers that let two men home. V. Peterson was first-class behind the mask, likewise C. W. Simmonds, who stopped some awkward ones while a runner was on third. As a whole, Burwood were weak strikers, Peterson and Thomas being the best.

A DIVISION.

Y.M.C.A. v University II., at Centennial Park, proved an even game, the final scores being 12-11 in favour of the former. 'Varsity scored all their runs in their first four innings, the game being 11-8 in their favour at the end of the eighth. Y.M.C.A. made a good recovery in their ninth innings, scoring 4 runs, and at the call of time had three on bases, with only one man out. Kirkland took two brilliant catches at left field, and Armstrong one at right field.

At Petersham Park St. George defeated Petersham. The latter did not score until their fourth innings, when they tallied 3, the game being then 4-3 in favour of St. George. The home side only managed to add another 2 runs while St. George scored a dozen, the final scores being 17-5. Petersham are lacking in combination, and their pitchers were easily hit by the strong batters of St. George; in fact, they were outclassed.

Petersham Junr. "A" were fortunate in playing a tie with Summer Hill at Hammond Park. In the eighth innings 7 runs were needed to save the game, and these were scored after a fine rally, three three-baggers and a two-bagger forwarding the seven across home plate. The Juniors' outfield work was slow and uncertain, but they showed out well towards the end of the game. Summer Hill were at bat 45 times for 20 base hits, 13 runs, stole 12 bases, made five two-base hits and three three-base hits, no bases on balls.

The Juniors were at bat 31 times, made 13 base hits, 13 runs, four three-base hits, and one two-base, stole 11 bases, and had seven bases on balls.

ANGLING.

THE SEA SERPENT.

CLOSE SEASON FOR TROUT.

Among the many inhabitants of the deep that have from time to time figured in the imagination of excited travellers by sea, and later in the newspapers, as "sea serpents," there have been a number, the descriptions of which baffled the most learned ichthyologists, and no suggestion that has so far been put forward seems to be quite satisfactory in respect to the example recently observed from the decks of the Dimboola. There is a fish known to exist in Australian waters which seems to offer a solution, however, namely, the oar-fish (Regalecus glesne), better known as "The King of the Herrings." This somewhat remarkable fish, which reaches a length of 20ft or over, is described by Professor David Starr Jordan in his "Fish Tales," and also by our fisheries expert, Mr. David G. Stead in his "Fishes of Australia" (page 217). The oar-fish belongs to the ribbon fishes, family Trachypteridae. They have a high dorsal fin, composed of numerous rays, which runs from the back of the head almost to the end of the tail. At the crown of the head there is a detached portion of this fin which is elevated into tall filaments, curving forward and upward, after the style of the crest of an irate cockatoo. The oar-fish has no anal fin, nor does he possess any scales. Mr. Stead says that the oar-fish is so named because of the oar-like ventral fins. The name "King of the Herrings" was derived from the idea that it accompanied shoals of herrings. Dead or dying ribbon fishes, lying or swimming at the surface of the ocean, have no doubt in some cases been responsible for the tales of sea-serpents.

A well-known angler, resident on the Tumut River, who was recently on a visit to Sydney, is convinced that the existing close season, May to October inclusive, does not meet the requirements of the fish in the Tumut River and its tributaries. He has closely watched the habits of the trout in local waters, and considers that the month of April should be included in the period during which trout may not be caught, as by the beginning of that month the majority of the fish caught are in a very advanced stage, and in those waters appear to spawn earlier that in the higher altitudes. The town of Tumut is only 900 feet above sea level. Hence the temperature of the water is doubtless higher than that of the Snowy River, for instance, and, as is well known, temperature has a powerful influence on the habits and movements of fishes.

A similar recommendation to the foregoing has been made by residents of the Upper Queanbeyan River, where, on account of barefaced poaching and slaughter of trout in the shallows during the spawning season, there are long stretches of the stream which are not worth fishing at all. Last March a Sydney angler, who spent a holiday there, caught several fish that seemed to be within a month or six weeks of depositing their eggs, and one from which the spawn actually flowed as it struggled on the bank. Hence it seems advisable to amend the fisheries law, so far as certain of our streams are concerned. Whether it would be wise to commence the season on October 1 instead of November is a debatable question. Should October prove a warm month, the trout may be seen rising in the streams referred to above, and are said to be in good condition, but on this latter point we cannot speak from experience. The fact is well known that trout-fishing in New South Wales is not what it was five years ago, and if the addition of another month to the existing close season would be a step in the direction of improving it, the majority of sportsmen would welcome the amendment.

AN IMPORTANT UNION.

"I want to impress on you the importance of [illegible] that has always appealed strongly to me—the coming closer together of the home and the school," said Mr. Inspector Fraser at Kensington last week. "There is a tendency nowadays to expect too much altogether from the school, for the school is but one factor in the development of the child; another factor of tremendous importance is the home."

Mr. Fraser voiced no new idea in these words, but he expressed a truth that cannot be repeated too often. Education departments, inspectors, and teachers may all give of their best, but without the co-operation of the parents there must be something lacking in the development of the child. Unless there be harmony between the home and the school, the child is torn between two counteracting forces, and is often discouraged and perplexed to a harmful extent.

And harmony between parents and teachers does not imply formal discussions, Mr. Fraser tells us (though free and friendly intercourse is desirable); it only means that both accept and act upon the same general conceptions of life, duty, usefulness, and happiness. School and home must be allies, not antagonists, friends not foes. Those who have no children of their own should be interested in the offspring of others, for we are all bound together by community ties. Women are very strongly bound by the ties of childhood. Whatever may be her work or walk in life, the voice of a little child never fails to waken response in her heart. And women—mothers, sisters, aunts—can do more than they realise to help in the great work of education. By sympathy and an intelligent interest in the work of the school and the scholars, women can inspire a child to a love of learning and to pride in his school, which is the first element of patriotism. But the interest must be intelligent, not of that sentimental quality which so often leads to foolish interference and grumbling. The mother who is truly concerned with her child's development will take the trouble to keep in touch with the school work and play, and will aid and support the teacher wherever it is possible. No wise parent, for instance, will ever make disparaging remarks about a teacher before the pupils. If there be any cause for complaint, it should be made to the proper persons. But authority and discipline must be upheld, and it is unfair to all the teachers when the scholars are allowed or encouraged to criticise one.

Many mothers know practically nothing of what their children do and learn at school; they seem to think that their own responsibility ends at the school gate. Yet how many of those same mothers would hand over to strangers the task of choosing their children's clothes? Surely the clothing for the mind is at least as important as that for the body.

Mr. Fraser urged upon his listeners the national duty in this matter. "If we believe," he said, "that Australia should have a great and glorious destiny, that she should take a high part in all that makes for the betterment of mankind, we must be prepared to do our fair, square share towards the shaping of that noble destiny by aiding education however, wherever, whenever we can, by setting and maintaining the highest possible standards of punctuality and regularity and interest in school attendance, and by standing solidly behind our schools."

EARLY MORNING SCHOOL.

The German child is well looked after—too well, perhaps, for his present comfort and ultimate well being. He begins his school day at 7 o'clock in the morning, and leaves off at noon, or shortly after. Many Australians in Berlin, who are not teachers or students of child nature, want to know why we in Australia, with our hot climate, do not do likewise. It would be so nice, they say, to get the school work over early, and let both teachers and children have the afternoon for rest and recreation. This seems all right on the face of it, but after visiting many of the fine institutions in Germany whose sole purpose for existing is the providing of after school occupations for these very children, I was not so sure. I fear the German child is not free to run about in the afternoon and play games in the open air and enjoy himself generally. It is true the authorities do not compel him to attend these after-school institutions, open for his benefit by well-meaning philanthropists; but parents who want to be rid of the trouble and responsibility of him, and who fear the mischief he might get into during the long afternoon, do insist upon his attending. I visited many of these institutions and saw the children at their "after school occupations," or being "helped with their lessons," and it did not seem to me that there was much difference between this and actual school work. There was the finest possible tone between teachers and children, and the utmost freedom in every way, but it was work all the same. These children had been in school all the morning. They were now working intently preparing for the next day: they looked happy enough, and very much interested, and yet I came away with an uneasy feeling that all was not quite right from the child's point of view. One night at dinner I happened to express some of my uneasiness to my neighbour, the correspondent of an important American paper. She listened to me, but did not help me out in the least, and I had almost begun to think that in speaking thus I had done something that is "verboten" in Germany—(there are so many thing "verboten" there that you never know whether it isn't verboten even to think)—when my friend, as if suddenly awaking from thought, asked me to go to her room and she would show me something. The something she showed me was an appalling list of child suicides, cut from German newspapers, and extending over some years. In nearly every case the cause of suicide was inability to pass an examination. The latest victim of a week or two ago was a boy of [illegible], the only son of a widow, who [illegible] himself because he failed to pass an examination which would have gained for him some sort of clerkship. I do not mean to infer that after school occupations lead to these tragedies, but even one such tragedy is sufficient to set any lover of children thinking.

FASHION AS SHE IS.

Among the many pretty gowns, designed to slip on, when dusk sets in, and when a becoming frock, in a firelit room, makes its wearer look at her best, is the soft velour velvet or velveteen.

The velvets of to-day are among the most appropriate and attractive materials; in fact, the plain chiffon velvet, which drapes itself so beautifully, and demands very little decoration to complete its charm, has not been outrivalled by all the new materials that are in evidence.

A charming example was fashioned of the softest velour velvet, decorated with corded pipings of its own material. The bodice was crossed from the shoulder on the right to the waist on the left, in a bias line. The sleeves were of the Magyar variety, and began low down on the shoulder. They were edged with the corded pipings of velvet, and were long, reaching well over the hand.

A delightful idea was carried out in this gown by a turned-back collar of pure white soft fur. The same bordered the small V-shaped opening at the throat. The touch of fur was also repeated on the sleeves, and with equally good effect.

Other soft velvets or velveteens are seen in many becoming shades, such as the brilliant "pigeon's blood" red, soft greys, Saxe blue, and midnight blue. They are all more or less likeable for indoor wear.

* * * * *

Among the velvets, one may see the tailor-made, sometimes in double harness with another material. An up-to-date idea was carried out in navy velvet and whipcord. The velvet skirt was supplemented with narrow side panels of the whipcord; at the waist the panels were connected with little straps of whipcord. The velvet coat was also ornamented with panels of whipcord; they were on either side to match the skirt. The coat was slightly pouched, and gathered at the waist into a narrow belt of patent leather. The revers, collar, and cuffs were of the whipcord.

Striped woollen ratine, in black and mandarin blue, or shot purple and black, may be utilised for one of these suits.

Zibeline cloth is another ideal winter material for tailor suits. An example was in the favourite colour, cinnamon brown. The coat fastened down the left side, with velvet buttons, the velvet buttonholes being of the latest shape, that is, square.

The velvet collar, I noticed, had a tracing of oxidised silver threads, giving it a very rich appearance. The back of the coat was seamless, and merged into a belt. Small velvet buttons helped to ornament the skirt.

* * * * *

A navy serge is generally one of the main items among the winter suits, for every well-dressed woman possesses one. For cold, wintry days nothing looks cosier or more becoming than a navy rough serge, the coat buttoning well up to the throat, and fastening down the front with black braid buttons in a serried row.

A note of colour may be introduced on the cuffs and collar, such as huntsman's green, or rose du Barri cloth, either being effective.

* * * * *

Blouses represent quite a special cult just now, and we see mousseline de soie, soft satin, charmeuse, lace, and fine net playing a great part in their making.

Some have trimmings of fur, giving a soft and becoming look. A charming example was carried out in mousseline de soie of the same shade as the costume. The sleeves and neck were outlined with fur.

A dark blue dress looked exceedingly well with a blouse carried out in soft satin of the same colour. An uncommon touch of colour enhanced the costume in a scarf arrangement in cerise crepe-de-Chine, tied round the waist, with the ends falling in front. Orange or violet would look equally well for a waist-scarf. Nearly all these blouses have long, tight sleeves, some of the necks have the high collar decorating them, the upstanding Robespierre style being favoured in many cases. Others have the neck scooped out and finished with a dainty turnover collar.

The basque effect is also one of the features of the blouse of to-day. A quaintness is shown in the buttonholes. In some cases these buttonholes are in different colours, such as black, red, then blue, the black being repeated, and so on. The idea is certainly uncommon, and a distinct touch of colour is given to the blouse by such an introduction.

A white Cluny lace blouse, veiled with a soft black tulle, with a couple of inches uncovered down the front, where the tulle was attached, with small scarlet velvet flat bows, was seen worn with a black costume. The effect was most dressy. Soft satin will be seen a great deal. A delightful example was seen in a thin Roman satin in a bishop's purple. An insertion of white corded silk down the centre was decorated with a serried row of tiny steel buttons. The collar was of the same thick white silk; the kimono sleeves were also trimmed at the hem with this silk.

* * * * *

To wear with an elegant velour velvet suit, a blouse of a very dressy and smart appearance must be chosen, which in a way forms the crux of the costume. A fascinating example for such a costume was carried out in soft creamy lace appliqued, with a spray of tiniest rosebuds worked out in narrow satin ribbon, in pale shades of nattier blue and pink, with a little gold thread for the stalks; the palest almond green forms the leaves. A soft, thin, pin-spotted tulle, with tiny tucks, in threes and fours, veiled this dainty blouse. A serried row of the tiniest black satin buttons decorated the front. A delightful touch was given by a little turn-over collar of soft shadow lace in a creamy tint, edged with a thicker make.

As a rule, veiling is not used to a very great extent, the satin blouse taking the place of the veiled blouse. Some of the satin blouses are exceedingly plain in make, furnished with dainty cuffs and collars.

I must not forget to mention that line is still one of the principal things to be considered in our dresses. The draping effect is still in vogue, but used with a great deal of forethought. The waist-line is rather high, and in many cases the material is eased slightly into it, giving a somewhat full look, to the upper part of the skirt, the narrowing effect being seen towards the hem.

* * * * *

I notice among all the becoming and smart hats the smaller ones play the greater part in the world of millinery. Some of them are very quaint. One sees flat crowns, draped or otherwise, and there are crowns high and square, or round in shape.

A quaint toque or small hat was of ermine, with a seal band notched over one eye. Another uncommon idea was carried out in a close-fitting chapeau of white fur, bordered with skunk, while the fox-tail played the part of an aigrette, standing upright at the back of the hat.

Velour hats are also seen to a great extent. A fascinating example was of black velvet, the shape showing the hair well at the side. It was relieved with a couple of lines of ermine edging two wide pleats of velvet, starting at the side of the hat. This arrangement of white at the sides only of the black hat is considered very up to date. Other hats are in skunk with a velvet band tied in the centre of the fur, finishing in one of those smartly-made flat bows. There really is no limit to the fancy hats and toques nowadays. They are all more or less becoming to most women if put on with care.

Hatpins help to decorate a hat when in harmony with the colour and quality of the fur. Some are seen in chiselled gold, others in pearl, or pearl-shaped amethyst.

MAISIE.

A CHALLENGE.

"The union! What is it? An association of hearts and minds, an idea, an ideal, a spirit that only occasionally materialises in bodily presence when past and present students meet on common ground," said Mrs. Francis Anderson, speaking at the annual dinner of the University Women's Union last week. "Have you ever thought of the immense good that could be done, that will some day be done by the union, the united action of women?"

Then the speaker went on to talk of woman's power and opportunity in forming habits, developing character, and setting the standards which guide society; and deplored the fact that with all her opportunity woman had done so little through the ages to right the big wrongs of society. She quoted Ruskin's sweeping words that "woman abdicates her majesty to play at precedence with her next-door neighbour," and expressed her belief that collective woman has grown more thoughtful since Ruskin's day, but that action is often hampered for want of a leader. Then she threw a challenge to her listeners.

"This is the especial value of your union," she said. "You are women set apart by your own deliberate choice. You have chosen to devote some of the best years of your life to the development of your intelligence; you have decided to attain a mental level as high as your ability and opportunity allow; and woman—collective woman—is justified in looking to unions such as yours for leaders. You who have the deeper insight, the broader view, the wider outlook—you educated, thoughtful women, must seek and find in your own ranks leaders who will help you to regenerate the world. That is the woman's work, and whenever she begins it, men will rally round her as they rallied round our own Elizabeth, and follow her banner as they followed Joan of Arc to victory.

"One purpose of this union is to cultivate the social virtues. Far be it from me on a night like this to remind you too harshly of the battlefield and of causes to be won. You have a delightful duty to fulfil in drawing together, by the cord of kinship (a cord of blue and gold), all the women who have stood, and will stand, in the long future within the hallowed walls of this University. It is for you to make them feel as sisters in an ever-increasing family—sisters who by their very labours are entitled to your sympathy, and, if need be, to your help. But I ask you to remember that above the sounds of revelry we hear the din of the world-wide strife; women and little children in mute appeal asking for your help. You are the union, the fine pearl of the land, and to you your fellow-women look for leadership. If you have the delights of learning you must accept also its responsibilities; if you take the privileges you may not shirk the duties; if you wear the pearly crown you must be willing to carry its weight."

CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUNDS.

The first annual report of the Playgrounds' Association of New South Wales, presented at the annual meeting last week, related that during the year the hon. secretary wrote to the twenty-six suburban municipalities, to call their attention to the needs of the children of their district.

"The replies varied considerably, and many showed a total want of appreciation of the playground position by asserting that the neighbouring park supplied all that was necessary. One was willing to have a playground if the association would find the money; only one made any real effort, the Glebe, where the Mayor is in strong sympathy with the movement.

"The larger portion of the work of this association will evidently be, for some time, the business of converting the general public to the belief that a playground without a director is never a very desirable addition to any neighbourhood, and that it is possible for it to become a bear garden for the development of bullies," went on the report. "Our first efforts should be devoted to the obtaining of small areas for little children, now in many parts of the crowded suburbs, as well as in the city, obliged to play in the streets."

The efforts of the association are at present concentrated upon obtaining a playground for Woolloomooloo, one of the most crowded city areas. It is hoped to get a part of the Lower Domain set apart for the use of "the small and helpless members of the general public, to whom the Domain belongs, though they have as yet no votes."

There is no more public-spirited movement than that of the Playgrounds' Association, and it is devoutly to be hoped that the untiring efforts of the committee to arouse public interest in the matter will result in properly equipped and organised playgrounds for little children in all the crowded areas, where at present the only playground is the street.

ACROSS THE MOUNTAINS IN 1841.

The celebration of the centenary of the first crossing of the Blue Mountains last week set us turning back the leaves of Time for glimpses of the past. But deeply as some of us are interested in the history of the early days it is difficult for us to change the scene, and really picture our land as it was then. Last week hundreds of people went from Sydney to Mount York and back again in one day, travelling by special train or motor car. Such a journey would have seemed beyond all the wildest dreams of adventure even 50 years ago. To-day most of us growl and grumble if our train is half an hour late in a trip across the Mountains to Bathurst; how would we like to be plunged back into the "good old days," and take a week or more over the journey? We have before us an interesting record of old time travelling. It is a letter, written in 1841, by an Englishwoman, newly arrived in New South Wales, Mrs. J. C. Stanger, whose name was for many years well-known and respected in the Bathurst district. The letter is written to her mother in the old land, and carries us back to the days of the pioneers.

"The most speedy mode of travelling over the Mountains is by the mail cart, which leaves Sydney for Bathurst on certain days; but this is too expensive to be generally adopted, as the lowest fare is 90s each person. All, therefore, who cannot afford this, and have no conveyance of their own, are under the necessity of travelling by some of the drags, numbers of which are constantly on the road to and from Sydney. After many anxieties respecting this journey it was settled that our best plan would be to dispose of many unnecessary articles, and purchase in their stead the most useful and saleable in the part we were bound for. These were packed with all our other goods on bullock drays, and with a person who had purchased land at King's Plains and wished to see it we agreed that he should take us in his own dray, with two horses, and our bedding and provisions for the journey. We had hoped by this arrangement to have had sufficient room, to have travelled the distance in a week, and to have escaped the very undesirable company of the bullock drivers, who are almost sure to be convicts of the very lowest grade.

"After this agreement was made our driver, wishing to make the journey as advantageous to himself as possible, loaded the dray with various commodities of a bulky and weighty character, paying no regard to our comfort or to that of the horses.

"And now, fancy me, with my five dear babies, seated on the top of this miserable load! But although we were resolved on starting, the poor horses had evidently determined otherwise, both positively refusing to act as leader. After much whipping, scolding, and rearing up the horse in the shafts fell down, with the load pressing heavily on some part of it, making it very restive, and with no little difficulty we again dismounted. The horses would not stir an inch, for the load was far too heavy. Our goods were gone on several days in advance of us, and there we stood, with just enough money to defray our expenses, the driver coolly telling us that he was very sorry, but his horses would not take the load, and he would not go without it. About midday, however, we bade farewell to Sydney, the driver having procured another dray and horses, dividing the goods between them. Owing to the roads being heavy after a fortnight's rain we made but eight miles that day, and as there was no food or water for our horses we drove into an inn yard. Now, you must not expect it was one of those comfortable places so common in dear old England, where after the fatigues of this troublous day we might have been accommodated at a reasonable rate; but finding that £4 at the lowest would have been the demand our drays were drawn carefully under a shed, and for the first time in our lives, with sorrowful hearts, we began to prepare our beds on the top, contrary to the usual mode, which is under the drays. I dare say you can believe we slept but little. Poor Mary and Sarah both fell from the top, the latter's fall somewhat modified by coming in contact with the dog. There would have been no danger of their falling out at all, but Eliza, not finding as much room as she had been used to, had slipped into the manger, where she slept peacefully for an hour or two till the man rose to feed his cattle, and mistaking her cap for the corn sack handled it rather too unceremoniously."

Starting at daybreak the next day the little party reached Parramatta by noon, and at night found themselves fully 18 miles from Sydney! They spent the night in the open air, and the next evening reached Emu Plains. They attempted the rise of Lapstone Hill, but the horses were tired, and backed over the road into a tree, from which they were rescued by an iron-gang in charge of a few soldiers. . . "In a short time we reached the huts, and were persuaded by the men to encamp for the night at this station. The soldiers were very kind, and gave the children a good tea in their quarters, while we lighted a large fire and prepared their beds in a tent which my dear husband had made for the journey. Here, not quite unmindful of the company surrounding us, it was decided that the pistols should be loaded, and Joseph and the man act alternately as sentinels during the night."

However, nothing exciting happened in the night, and they set out next morning somewhat refreshed.

"Now, again, the roads were heavy, and the drivers were constantly mortified by the horses standing still, and then, again, lying down. Through this day poor Eliza walked with dear baby, and I brought up the rear, and blocked the wheels at every stoppage, sometimes left half a mile behind, and then having to run as fast as possible to perform this new duty.' Next day, having reached Springwood, they parted with their guide, who left them to wait some other conveyance.

"Towards evening that day we were joined by five bullock teams, and as one had behind his dray a new and empty one we agreed with him to take us to Bathurst. And it was with cheerful hearts that about 11 the next morning we found ourselves on the road comfortably seated in our new conveyance, and forming as the procession moved along a formidable array—for to every dray there were about three men to swear at, beat, and take care of the bullocks. Each team consisted of nine, and almost as many dogs. Now, we had no more anxiety, for our cattle were slow but sure, and if any difficulty occurred it was only to hook on some ten or eight others and soon all was set right."

Anyone who has ever seen a bullock team can imagine the tediousness of such a journey, and yet to these travellers the bullock drays semed to be quite a God-send, and the rest of the road was travelled by this means. After a number of days, more or less eventful, on the bad roads the wayfarers at last reached Bathurst, having been about a month on their journey.

And nowadays we can travel by motor to Bathurst and back in a single day!

AUSTRALIANS ABROAD.

LONDON, May 2.

The Archbishop of Sydney has arrived, and last Sunday night preached at Westminster Abbey.

Mrs. J. C. Williamson has been in London with her daughters, who this week have returned to Paris.

Mrs. Popplewell last week gave an "at home," which was very largely attended. Her Sydney protegee, Miss Winifred Purnell, delighted the guests with some beautiful pianoforte playing.

Mme. Melba, after a triumphant re-entry into Parisian musical life, returned to London yesterday in readiness for her Albert Hall concert and Covent Garden opera.

Mrs. W. G. Conley and her daughter have arrived in London after some weeks' stay in Paris.

MELBOURNE NOTES.

A church in Collingwood (Melbourne) has the unique distinction of being conducted exclusively for children. It is said that in all Australia there is but one children's church. Mr. F. W. Fry, a grandson of Elizabeth Fry, the great philanthropist, is the superintendent. Formerly, he had charge of the church for seven years, and his second term has extended over the past three years. The building is capable of seating 200 children, and the attendance each Sunday morning is 150, as an average, but rather less in the evenings. Troops of children, whose ages range from 5 to 17 years, may be seen gathering every Sunday morning to enjoy the service, which is bright and attractive throughout.

A gentleman, who has from time to time given generous contributions towards the development of technical education, recently called upon Mr. Tate, Director of Education, and offered to present to one of the State schools a fully-equipped open-air gymnasium. It was while on a recent trip through the United States of America that this gentleman was impressed with the provision being made there in many centres for children's playgrounds, and with the ingenious devices used as play apparatus. He was much impressed with the gymnastic appliances made of metal pipes and steel ropes, that could be left out in any weather without liability to damage.

The recently-formed Library Association of Victoria is making its presence felt. A good membership list has been obtained, including representatives from several country districts, and also the majority of metropolitan libraries. Arrangements are now in hand for the annual general meeting.

On the occasion of the nineteenth annual meeting of the Victorian Institute of Braille Writers, Lord Denman will unveil the memorial tablet erected to the late hon. secretary, Miss May Harrison.

An opportunity is afforded by the External Affairs Department for a certificated nurse to gain experience in the Northern Territory. A salary of £90 per annum, together with maintenance and a first-class steamer fare to Darwin, is held out as an inducement. Several nurses here have expressed a desire for fresh woods and pastures new. The Bush Nursing scheme, having proved successful, has caused them to widen their views in regard to country work. Their sphere of usefulness is becoming extended every day.

VERONICA.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

"Oh, dear," said Miss H—— as she folded her napkin after tea on Friday evening; "here have I been teaching all day, and now I must go to a meeting to see some students who have returned from Melbourne give a demonstration in physical training. I wonder why there are not some pleasant evenings given to teachers after a hard day's work?"

She jabbed a pin into a hat as she put it on her head, and gathering up her gloves, and purse set out for the hall.

"Seat for you, madam? Here you are, not much room left now."

"Where are the students? You don't mean to say those six girls with the cloaks on are they?"

"Really, they look young to undertake an affair like this."

"What's that? Oh, yes, I daresay it is strenuous work. However, I'm not going to take notes unless it's worth while."

"Oh, dear, aren't you tired? I wonder how we'll benefit by this?"

"There's the Under-Secretary."

"Yes. Didn't you know that he is keenly interested, and if it had not been for him the girls wouldn't have gone to Melbourne?"

"They are going to begin now."

"Aren't their costumes nice?"

"You look brighter already, Miss H——."

"Yes, I'm enjoying this evening; there is something in it that does one good."

"What? They're going to play games that are suited for infant schools; that's what we want, we haven't enough of them."

"Goodness! they are asking the inspectors to join in."

"There's Mr. W——, he's just been appointed to a new district; and Mr. B——, who is to take the place of Mr. P——, when he goes into the office!"

"What's the game called?"

"Nine pins! I must make a note of that."

"Ah, well," said Miss H—— to her mother, when she arrived home at about 10 p.m., looking considerably brighter, it's often the way, when you don't look forward to a thing it turns out well.

"The demonstration was worth going to, and the students worked unflinchingly for an hour and a half. They knew how to intersperse the evening with light and heavy work. Moreover, we learnt something. I have one complaint, however, and that is, there was not time to see enough. I do hope Mr. Board will let them come round to our schools and advise us about the children; or, else allow them to form classes for us."

AN ENTHUSIAST.

AN AUSTRALIAN IN NEW BRITAIN.

A Sydney girl who has gone to stay at Rabaul, in New Britain, the capital of German New Guinea, writes of her arrival in this little known corner of the earth.

"After leaving Sydney," she writes, "we ran into the tail of a dreadful monsoon that had been raging for 14 days, and I can tell you our 900 tons yacht did some rolling. But once we reached the islands the weather was calm, and we steamed along the halcyon seas, with the land on either side, so close at times that you could almost throw a stone ashore. Then indeed I began to realise the joys of yachting. Day after day (we did not travel at night) we steamed along with a blue sky overhead, and a calm sea beneath, and these lovely bright green islands all the way. The Shortland Islands were the first group we reached; they are really part of the Solomons; lovely isles, covered with cocoanut palms and other vivid green, and with little strips of yellow sand at the sea's edge. By and by we arrived at Quieta, in Bougainville, which is German territory, a fascinating little settlement on the side of the hill. The sight of it, with its red roofs clustering amongst the trees, carried me back to Sydney; but I learned that the roofs were not tiles, but iron painted red, a great concession to appearance, for the red paint spoils the water for some time. After coasting along Bougainville—which is the largest island of the group—for some time longer, we drew near to a native village, and the boat's siren was blown to herald our approach. It was answered by peals of laughter, for most of our crew are natives of this village, and their friends were delighted at our arrival. They came tearing down to the shore, and soon canoes were shooting out from every side, and followed us till we dropped anchor. Our "boys" had prepared for this meeting by decking themselves in their best, and they looked quite fine in their clean "lava lava" (skirts), cotton singlets, and bracelets of coloured straw on their upper arms. Their stay-at-home friends were a great contrast, an unkempt lot, with dingy lava lava, long hair, often dyed, and untidy necklets and bunches of grass hanging down their backs. In a couple of canoes there were women, or "Marys," as they call them. They were shy about approaching us, but as far as I could see wore very little beyond a headdress made of leaves. They seemed a happy, simple lot, living in their native villages, doing nothing, and finding plenty of food in the native fruits, cocoanuts, and fish. They are taxed by the Government five marks, something less than five shillings, a year, and if they have no money they have to work so many days on the roads. Some of them go as servants to the towns, where they get their rations, food, and tobacco, and draw one mark a month for pocket money. Then, they draw all their wages, go back to their village, and have enough money to pay their tax for quite a long time.

A rather dramatic little incident occurred at this village. A man brought his wife on board and asked the captain to take her on to Rabaul. The woman did not want to go and leave her piccaninny, and after inquiry we discovered that the man had another wife and wanted to get rid of this one by sending her back to her friends, but he did not want to part with their child. However, the captain refused to take the mother without her child, and the man went back to the village for the baby. While he was away, the wife, who was only about 17 and quite pretty, showed us the marks where the other "Mary" had scratched her. In about half an hour the husband returned, carrying the quaintest little black child about 2 years old, and he said that rather than part with the baby he had decided to go, too. So father, mother, and child went with us.

The next day we arrived at Rabaul, a beautiful spot, with a fine harbour. Behind the town rise three mountains, known as the Mother and the North and South Sisters. They are extinct volcanoes, and are covered with the most gorgeous vegetation. There is also a small volcano, not quite extinct, and in the harbour two small islands, the results of earthquakes. The town is only about ten years old. It is a charming little place, with its bright green leafy setting and a double row of mango trees up the two streets. The houses are mostly of white wood with very wide white-railed verandahs, and they are built on high piles on account of the earthquakes.

I write of earthquakes and volcanoes, but there is nothing alarming about them, and life goes very quietly here. We rise at 6 o'clock, when the day is lovely; indeed, so far it has not been unpleasantly hot at all, for a soft breeze comes up nearly every day at about 10 o'clock. Perhaps if we had much to do we should feel the heat; but we have plenty of "boys" and a Chinese cook, and there is practically nothing for us to do except our own sewing. We live mostly on the wide verandah, on one part of which there is a mosquito tent; but so far we haven't been troubled by these pests. On my bed, which is a great big four-poster, there are nets, which tuck in all round, like a tent, and I am very glad of them, too, for there are all kinds of strange insects that buzz about at night, and it is consoling to know I am safely tucked in from them. The sandflies are very bad, too, and yet in the evening about 5 o'clock, when everybody goes for walks, the women wear low-necked dresses and short sleeves, and don't seem to mind them.

They are a simple people, these natives; but white people couldn't live here without them. They keep us plentifully supplied with fruit, bananas, pineapples, and a wild fruit called papalja, somewhat like a rockmelon. For payment they receive sticks of tobacco, and as they all smoke, even down to the children, no payment could be more acceptable to them.

PUCK'S GIRDLE.

I'll put a girdle round about the earth in forty minutes.—"Midsummer Night's Dream."

Sydney is quite busy these days welcoming famous musicians, but there is no one to whom a warmer greeting will be given than to Mr. Barron Morley, the Sydney pianist, who will make his appearance in this city on Saturday night after an absence of eleven years. To-morrow afternoon an "at home" will be held at the Australia Hotel by the Sydney College of Music, when music-lovers will have the opportunity of renewing the acquaintance of Mr. Barron Morley, and of showing their appreciation of the musical honours he has won for his native city. For Mr. Morley has a recognised position in the European world of music that is rather unique among Australian pianists.

The sixth annual exhibition of the Society of Arts and Crafts will be opened to-morrow afternoon in the Royal Art Society's Rooms, the ceremony being performed by Sir James Fairfax, at 3 o'clock. Since its inauguration this society has grown not only in its numbers, but in the quality of its work, and we look forward to seeing many interesting exhibits in the different crafts. The exhibition will be of special interest, for the different members will be actually working at their various arts and crafts during the week the show is open, and visitors will have the opportunity of seeing a little into the mysteries of wood-carving, china-painting, pottery-making, and the other crafts.

Mdlle. Eva Gauthier, whose departure for the East was twice delayed on account of the alteration in the sailing date of the boat, has now decided to wait for the next steamer for Java, and has accepted an engagement to sing at the Sydney Symphony concert on June 14. She will sing excerpts from Charpentier's "Louise," music which is especially suited to her, and in which she has already made a good impression on Sydney audiences.

Mr. David Bispham holds a brief for English as a singing language; indeed, the language could have no more eloquent advocate. If all singers possessed Mr. Bispham's beautiful enunciation, then indeed might we be content to hear more English sung. The tongue of Milton and Shakespeare ought to be good enough for the ordinary concert-goers, but unfortunately that tongue is so often garbled by singers that all its music vanishes. Then, too, Mr. Bispham chose singable words for his songs. Very often pleasing melodies are marred by such foolish words that we are quite glad not to understand them. But when we hear beautiful poems, beautifully sung, we admit that English is quite a good singing language.

A number of girls have come to the help of the Bush Book Club with a right goodwill, and the dance which was organised by them a short time ago has resulted in a profit of £61 2s 6d for the club's funds. Twenty-one of these girls have formed themselves into a permanent "helping" group, and have called themselves the "David Club," in honour of Mrs. David, who is president and one of the mainstays of the Bush Book Club.

Lovers of literature are loking forward with keen interest to Mr. Grimwood's performance of one of the York Mystery Plays, The Trial Before Herod," which is to be given next Friday afternoon; and the fact that Professor MacCallum will give a short address on the subject will add greatly to the value of the entertainment. The Mystery Play was one of the earliest forms of drama in England. They were dramas derived from incidents in the Bible; those drawn from the lines of the saints were usulaly called Miracle plays, and were more common in France than in England. The York plays, in which we are especially interested at the moment, were finally prohibited by the Archbishop of York in 1579. The one survival of the old Mystery play is that given at Oberammergau, in Bavaria, every ten years.

The first meeting of the Girls' Realm Guild "speech" class was well attended last Thursday evening, in spite of the wet weather. Quite a number of well-known women, whose duty often demands a public speech, have joined the class, for the necessity of being able to express your ideas clearly and simply at a meeting is becoming generally recognised by women. The few women who regularly speak before audiences have all made a study of the art, in which they differ from the average man, who seems to think no preparation necessary; but many valuable ideas are lost because women are too timid, or too self-conscious, to express them. It is expected that this class will be of the greatest help to women who are forced to take any part in public gatherings or committee meetings.

A remarkable exhibition held in London recently, was the Healtheries and Utilities Exhibition, which was promoted by the Duchess of Bedford, the Countess of Lindsay, the Countess of Plymouth, and other well-known women. The exhibition dealt with such subjects as humane rabbit-traps, hats without feathers, "furs," which are not fur, the docking of horses' tails, and the humane slaughter of animals for food. One of the most interesting sections was that dealing with plumage for hats and furs for clothing, beautiful substitutes for both being displayed. Stress was laid on the fact that by wearing flowers instead of feathers in their hats women not only spare the lives of millions of useful birds, but encourage a remunerative occupation amongst English women and girls.

TRAINING HUSBANDS.

"They do everything very thoroughly in Germany, even to the training of husbands," writes M. Simpson. "They believe, too, in catching them young. . In many of the very fine 'after school' institutions, boys as well as girls are instructed in cooking, mending, laundry work, and other useful domestic arts. In one of these houses I asked the head why she taught these things to the boys, and she replied that it was in order to make them better husbands. Boys so trained will, according to this lady, understand just what their wives have to do, and how long it takes to do it, and will, in consequence of this knowledge, be more sympathetic and helpful. This sounds good reasoning, but I wonder is it. The boys in these German institutions did not look happy. I think I shall always remember the misery in their faces. The girls working side by side with them were busy and happy and deft in their work. The boys were, almost without exception, miserable. One pale-faced little chap of 12 had left the clear, cinnamon-coloured imprint of the too-hot iron on the pair of pants he was ironing, and his big brown eyes looked puzzled and frightened and disgusted with the whole thing. If only I could have put a football into the hands of that youngster and sent him and his companions forth whooping and shouting—well, I should have come away from that institution a happy, even though a somewhat degenerate, woman.

It used to be thought that the German housewife was the most submissive on earth. That day is done. The present-day German woman is waking up with a vengeance, and one of the things she has set herself to do is the right training of the schoolboys of this generation for their future vocation as husbands and fathers.

GOOD FOR THE HAIR.
The hair will be healthy and lustrous if you are good to it—that is, if you brush it regularly and wash it properly. But be very careful how you wash it. Inferior shampoos, household soaps, or washing soda spoil the hair. Instead, wash it with Icilma Shampoo Sachets, the famous wet shampoo. They need no rinsing, and are really good for the hair. These fragrantly perfumed shampoos, used once every two or three weeks for adults and twice a week for children, cleanse, beautify, and preserve the hair, help it to grow, and prevent falling. Till needed they make splendid perfume sachets.

LAW REPORT.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

WINDOW-DRESSING DISPUTE.

WILSON v SAMUELS.

Mr. D. S. Edwards and Mr. Jordan, instructed by Messrs. Henderson and Hickson, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. F. W. Wickham, instructed by Mr. D. Levy, for the defendant.

The plaintiff was William Wilson, carrying on business as Frank Fanning; and the defendant Woolfe Samuels. Plaintiff, a city tailor, set out in his statement of claim that the defendant had opened a tailoring shop in the same street, three doors distant, and had copied the plaintiff's method of window-dressing, and had adopted and painted on the shop the trade name of "Frank Flemming." Plaintiff asked that the defendant be restrained from carrying on his business as to induce members of the public to believe that it was the business of the plaintiff.

In his statement of defence, the defendant denied that he had copied the plaintiff's method of window-dressing, and said that he could not admit that he was likely to induce by the means alleged members of the public to believe that his business was the plaintiff's.

Further evidence was heard, and the case stands part heard.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

MOTION FOR AN INJUNCTION.

Dowse and others v Marks and another.

Mr. Langer Owen, K.C., and Mr. R. H. L. Innes, instructed by Messrs. Lambton and Milford, appeared for the plaintiffs, George Willoughby Dowse (commonly known as George Willoughby), and others, in support of an application for an injunction to restrain Joseph Marks (otherwise known as George Marlow) and George Marlow, Ltd., from interfering with the management of the company. Mr. Adrian Knox, K.C., and Mr. Maughan, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, appeared for defendant Marks and the company named in support of a demurrer to the plaintiffs' statement of claim on the grounds (1) that the statement of claim discloses no equity to any relief in this Court; (2) that plaintiffs have no locus standi to bring the suit; (3) that the Court has no jurisdiction to grant any of the relief claimed; (4) that all the acts complained of in the statement of claim are matters relating to the internal management of the defendant company, and, inasmuch as it is not alleged that any of such acts is ultra vires the powers of the defendant company, or is fraudulent, the only party entitled to bring the suit is the defendant Marks, or the company.

This suit is still unfinished.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

MOTION FOR WINDING-UP.

Re R. H. Barber and Co., Ltd.

Mr. Maughan and Mr. Bonney, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, appeared for Simon Israel and Co., of Hamburg, Germany, in support of a petition for the winding-up of R. H. Barber and Co., under the supervision of the Court; and Mr. Bonney, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, for Messrs. Zeiter and Winklemann, in favour of the petition. Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Mr. William Arnott, appeared for the respondent company, and for William Hirsch (the liquidator under the voluntary winding up), to oppose the application.

This case is still part heard.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

A BUILDING CLAIM.

Waterhouse v Alexander.

Alfred Waterhouse, of 35 Alfred-street, Milson's Point, North Sydney, builder, sued John William Alexander, of Macquarie-place, Sydney, to recover £281 16s. This was claimed as balance of an account for work done under a contract, defendant setting up that the plaintiff had broken the contract and he had consequently to get the work done by somebody else, and he claimed under cross-action what he paid for thus completing the work. He alleged payment as to a certain part of the amount claimed, and, moreover, no architect's certificate for the work done had been obtained as arranged.

At the conclusion of the evidence his Honor suggested that the parties should confer with a view to settling all claims between them, and the case was adjourned until Thursday.

Mr. Mack, instructed by Mr. D. O'Carroll, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. W. A. Walker, instructed by Mr. R. H. Levien, for the defendant.

COURT OF REVIEW.

(Before Judge Murray.)

POSITION OF COMPANY SHARES.

Mr. Lamb, K.C., and Mr. Bethune, instructed by Messrs. M'Namara and Smith, appeared on behalf of the appellant, R. C. Lethbridge, public officer for the Perpetual Trustee Company, as trustees for Colin Smith; and Dr. Brissenden, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, for the Commissioner of Taxation.

In this case the appellant had been assessed on shares in certain Sydney companies, including Bank of New South Wales shares. The grounds of the appeal were that the income was not taxable because it was received under a will; and, secondly, that even if it were taxable, it came from companies that traded in and out of New South Wales; and it was contended that dividends received from companies which earned part of their income outside the State should be apportioned in the same ratio as the income earned in the State bore to the whole income of the company.

His Honor dismissed the appeal as to the first point, and reserved judgment as to the second point raised.

QUARTER SESSIONS,

(Before Judge Rogers and juries.)

Mr. C. A. White, Crown Prosecutor.

STEALING FROM THE PERSON.

May Fry, 29, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a gold watch and chain, valued at £60, from the person of Edward Collaery, on May 9. The prisoner was remanded for sentence.

TWO WOMEN CHARGED.

Mabel M'Donald, 32, and May Thompson, 26, were charged with breaking and entering the dwelling-house of Alfred Ernest Morton, at Crystal-street, Petersham, on May 2, and stealing therein three bottles of lager beer.

Thompson pleaded not guilty.

The Crown relied only upon the second count of simple larceny. The case rested upon the evidence of a neighbour, who saw the two women take a parcel away from the house, and caused them to be intercepted by the police.

Thompson stated that M'Donald told her she was going to get her clothes from Morton's house, where she had worked as a servant. She was misled, because she saw M'Donald ring the bell.

The jury convicted on the charge of larceny.

M'Donald was sentenced to nine months' light labour in the State Reformatory for Women at Long Bay. Thompson was sentenced to six months in the same institution.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Percy Charles Sutton, a young man, was charged with breaking and entering the dwelling-house of John Augustus Corbett, at Penshurst, on April 25, and stealing therein a lady's writing companion and £10 in cash.

Accused was defended by Mr. Monahan, instructed by Messrs. H. T. Morgan and Morgan.

The Crown case rested upon the evidence of two neighbours, who identified the accused as the man who was seen in the vicinity of the house during the temporary absence of the Corbett family. One witness also stated that she followed accused into the bush, and found the writing desk, with its contents strewn about close to where accused had been seen sitting.

The defence was a denial of the charge. Several witnesses stated that accused had been attending to a horse and cart he was driving, when he became stuck up in the locality owing to the heavy rains.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty. His Honor said he thought it was the safest verdict the jury could arrive at.

Sutton was then discharged.

SENTENCES.

Clarence Wilson, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the dwelling-house of David Hill, at Newport, Manly, and stealing therein, was sentenced to six months' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol. His Honor said it was a paltry theft. At the request of the lad's mother, he would like the prisoner to be under medical observation as to the state of his mind while in gaol.

William Francis Merrivan, who had pleaded guilty to charges of maliciously breaking two plate-glass windows, valued at £15 and £45 respectively, was sentenced to twelve months' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol.

Arthur Jones, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing in a dwelling, was sentenced to 18 months in Bathurst Gaol on the first charge, and to nine months' hard labour on the charge of larceny, the sentences to be concurrent. There was a long list of previous convictions against the prisoner.

A BOGUS JOCKEY.

FALSE PRETENCES AT REDFERN.

At the Redfern Court yesterday, before Mr. Barnett, S.M., Edward Fitzgerald, aged 22, was brought up on a charge of having obtained £3 by false pretences. It was alleged that the accused pretended to James Stanley Binns that he was a jockey who had ridden a horse named Lord Playful in two races, when he had pulled him to avoid winning, and that he was to ride the horse again at Victoria Park on May 28, when it was sure to win, thereby obtaining £3, ostensibly for the purpose of backing the horse.

James Stanley Binns, a dentist, carrying on business in Redfern-street, Redfern, stated that the accused had called at his rooms about getting some teeth, and, in the course of conversation had induced the witness to give him a cheque for £3 to back Lord Playful with. The horse did not win.

The accused said he was a chemist, and when he called on Mr. Binns, the latter asked him to back the horse for him, and gave him £3. He made the bet with a man named Hogan in the presence of a witness.

The accused said that he could not call Hogan or the other man, and the magistrate convicted him, a sentence of six months' hard labour being imposed.

Fitzgerald was further charged with falsely pretending to Alfred A. Counsell that he was a jockey who had to ride at the Rosebery races on May 21, and thereby obtaining £1.

He was remanded to Newtown on this charge.

SLY GROG-SELLING.

Another case of sly grog-selling was heard at the Redfern Court, before Mr. Barnett, S.M., yesterday, Thomas James Parker, aged 30, being charged with selling beer without a license on May 25.

Mr. Bathgate prosecuted for the Crown, and Mr. J. J. Carroll defended the accused, who pleaded not guilty.

Constable Cochrane stated that a woman had received instructions from Sub-Inspector Davis on Sunday, the 25th, and had gone into No. 46 Vine-street, Redfern, later in the day with a bag, which she brought out, containing two bottles of beer and a flask of whisky. On going round to the rear of the premises the witness saw a dozen or more men leaving by the back gate, some of them being under the influence of liquor. Sub-Inspector Davis subsequently arrived with other officers. Two men were lying drunk on the floor, and the police found two five-gallon kegs of beer, and a bag containing 17 bottles of beer. In the kitchen there was a number of empty bottles and glasses and a corkscrew.

No evidence was offered for the defence, and the accused was convicted and fined £50 or three months' hard labour.

Accidents

AT HOME & AT WORK.

Accidents will happen even in the best-regulated families. Healthy youngsters seem to be always "in the wars." Housework abounds with mishaps for busy wives and harassed mothers; and the bread-winner often returns from work with a more or less serious injury. Just what every home needs is Zam-Buk. A pot and a bandage on a handy shelf where they are handy for instant use, save untold pain, time, and money.

When the little one runs in from his play with a wry face, and smarting, dirt-filled scrape on his knee, simply wash the part and smear with Zam-Buk. When father cuts or scrapes his hand, the handy pot of Zam-Buk again meets the emergency, and the housewife or mother continually finds it a real friend for the burns she receives while cooking, the scalds of a washing day, or the knocks, etc., of dusting. Children like Zam-Buk because it is cooling, soothing, and pleasant. Their elders value it still more highly because it is also antiseptic and a powerful germicide, preventing poisoning, festering, and disease; because it is a natural skin repairer, growing new tissue in Nature's way; and because it is good for the tenderest skin. Daily mishaps make Zam-Buk a daily need—therefore, keep Zam-Buk handy.

EVERY HOME NEEDS ZAM-BUK.

NEARLY SCALDED TO DEATH.

Mr. G. Green, of 57 Thomas-street, Camperdown, Sydney, says:—"My little son John upset a kettle of boiling water over himself, and was nearly scalded to death. The flesh presented a red, raw appearance. We all expected he would succumb to the fearful injuries, and it is a miracle that he is alive to-day. For nine months he was in terrible agony. The sores from the scald would not heal.

"After being attended to at the hospital, the doctor recommended a home treatment of Zam-Buk. We purchased a supply and continued with Zam-Buk until the wounds were completely healed and not a trace of scar remained of the fearful injury."

SEVERE BURNS AND POISONED WOUND.

"My husband, who is a jeweller," says Mrs. G. Armson, of High-st., North Botany, Sydney, "was one day working at the melting pot when the hot metal splashed over his forehead and arm, causing a very severe burn. The wound presented a raw and inflamed appearance, and caused much pain. I dressed the injuries with Zam-Buk, and in a little while completely cured the burn.

"A gathering of a poisonous nature broke out on the big toe of my little girl's right foot. The many things we tried did not do any good. We then commenced with Zam-Buk, which speedily drew out all bad matter and banished all trace of the injury."

SURGEON WANTED TO AMPUTATE FINGER.

Mrs. J. Boyle, of 12 Gipps-st., Balmain, Sydney, says:—"While cleaning some fish, the knife slipped and cut the little finger of my left hand to the bone. My finger became inflamed, and the pain I suffered was dreadful. I went to the hospital and the surgeon wished me to have my finger taken off, as there was a tendency for the poison to spread up the arm.

"At last the inflamed condition extended to my head and neck, and I was just going to give in and follow the doctor's advice and have my finger amputated, when a friend recommended Zam-Buk. I applied this balm, and after about three weeks the terrible injury was healed."

DIRT IN WOUND CAUSED INFLAMMATION.

Mr. J. Vaughan, of 14 Sorrie-St., Balmain, Sydney, says:—"I sustained a severe knock on the back of my left hand. Some dirt got into the wound, causing my hand to swell and inflammation to set in. The pain was terrible. Being recommended to try Zam-Buk, I obtained a supply, and after bathing the wound, applied this balm twice daily. In this way blood-poison was averted, the inflammation was allayed, and the pain arrested. After continuing with Zam-Buk, the swelling was reduced and all traces of the injury disappeared. Now my hand is well once again."

Zam-Buk is invaluable for Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Scratches, Abrasions, Boils, Eczema, Pimples, Running Sores, Scalp Diseases, Poisoned Wounds, Festering Sores, Bad Legs, Ulcers, Abscesses, Ringworm, Psoriasis, Diseased Ankles, Teething Sores, Barber's Rash, Swellings, Stiffness, Scabs, Itch, Bed Sores, Face Sores, Sore Lips, and all injured and diseased conditions of the skin. Zam-Buk is obtainable from all Chemists and Stores at 1/6 per pot, and 3/6 family size (containing nearly four times the 1/6 pot), or post free from THE ZAM-BUK COMPANY, 39 Pitt-street, Sydney.

The girl in the pink frock took a jug of milk, and a little basket covered with white muslin, and departed, with a good-night to Mrs. Harding and a demure dip to Bretherton.

"For a reward you shall have a glass of milk warm from the cow," Mrs. Harding said, the last roll coming out of the sleeve. She began to untie the holland apron. He was watching her with a dazed look. "What a woman!" he said to himself. Somehow his passion had risen. A sudden rush of self-pity came over him. What a woman! What a breast to pillow a man's head. She was a woman of soft and flowing outlines. What arms to go about a man's neck! This was his mate. What did he want with an immature child, however dear, however charming.

He took the glass of milk from her hand and drank it, and put the glass down again. He watched her while she rinsed it in the stream and dried it on a white cloth, and restored it to its place.

She gave a little pat to her hair. He liked the touch, it was so feminine. "Now I am ready," she said.

She had been dazzling him. As they turned to go it came to him with an intolerable rush of grief and pain, the thing he had to tell her. How would she take it? He felt that his eyes, his voice must have been telling her for some time past that he was keeping his passion within bounds. No more than that. Would she suffer? He did not want her to suffer, and yet his whole heart cried out against the indifference her not suffering would betoken.

He walked along beside her, his head bent, his hands clasped behind his back. The dog followed them quietly. His eyes ached. There was a blur on the golden evening, and the golden green forest aisles. He did not know how he was going to begin to tell her.

Here in the solitude was the time and the place. He tried to brace himself; moistened his dry lips, glanced at the grave and sweet nobility of her profile, and no words would come.

She helped him at last.

"There is something the matter," she said. "What is it? Sit down here and tell me. Is it anything I can help?"

Looking up he recognised dimly the same glade where they had sat and talked last February. She had chosen the very same tree-trunk to sit upon. It was marked with a number in white, 264. He remembered idly that day, having noticed the number.

She made a place for him on the log, looking up at him with something of a maternal anxiety in her large, soft gaze.

"Come and tell me," she said again.

He uttered a little cry. Something of the hard tensity of his suffering seemed to relax. He flung himself upon his knees before her, forgetting everything but that he loved her, and that her way with him was kind and pitiful. He laid his head in her lap. He felt her hands pass over his hair, tenderly caressing. There was balm in the touch, healing, but not for his wound. He must tell her it was an outrage to let her betray herself like this. She was not one to caress a man so unless she loved him.

After the first moment of abandonment he lifted his head. He struggled to his feet. He stood with a hanging head before her.

"My dear," he said, "I have done you a great wrong, for I am pledged to marry another woman. I am the most unhappy man alive, for I want only you. Listen, and I will tell you how it happened."

He had not meditated telling her the story, but it came pouring from his lips. After all there was nothing else to be done. It was due to her to tell why he loved her and must yet marry someone else.

After the first words she had covered her face with her hands. He noticed, wondering at himself for noticing, that she wore no rings, nothing except her wedding ring, and that thin, of fine pale gold. It had belonged to Edward Harding's mother. He seemed to realise for the first time that she never wore jewels.

As the story went on she took her hands from before her eyes, and looked up at him, and her gaze was kind. The tale stumbled along to its close. He wanted to lay all his justification before her, and he talked hurriedly, his face turned away after that first glance at hers.

"I wish you had brought her to me," she said, when a pause came. "Now I'm afraid it is too late. Poor Ralph! But you will be happy some day. I think I'll be going homeward."

"You'd rather I didn't walk with you?" he said humbly.

"Why," she answered, turning her full beneficent gaze upon him. "You can walk with me to the gate if you will. Don't think of it, Cousin Ralph, that you've done me a wrong. I couldn't say anything but that you are doing the right thing."

He walked with her to the gate that led out of the wood into the park, and there he said good-bye to her. When she had gone, not looking back, he stood in the shadow of the wood staring after her. The dog, after lingering uneasily by him for a while, had gone with her. She went with a down-bent head. He had hurt her. It wrung his heart to think that she too must suffer, and yet, something in him that would not be kept in check was exultant too.

It was good-bye. If he had not forced her to that self-betrayal he might have stayed, come and gone perhaps at Littlecombe and kept the mask on, bearing the suffering of seeing her because of the joy. Now it was his last glimpse of her as she was, as he was. When they would meet again, some time in the remote future, perhaps, their old selves would be as dead as this day.

He watched her, the dog shambling after her, cross the park under the trees which sent their long shadows across the sward. Now the shadow swallowed her up; again she merged into the light. She walked swiftly and strongly, a creature of whom Nature had had the framing, who had known no artificial bonds, till at last she turned the corner of a spinney and was lost to sight.

When he had seen the last of her he turned back to the place where they had sat together. A man in love, a woman in love, will do strange things. He went to the place where she had sat and lay down with his face in the grass where her feet had rested, her skirt had trailed. He kissed the ground, seeming to get from it some faint fragrance of her presence.

The shadows grew longer and longer in the wood. The sun set in splendour beyond the trees. The wood, which had been all golden when they entered it, became dim. The birds were singing their sweetest before going asleep. An hour, two hours, three hours, four hours passed over his head. Perhaps he slept. He had tossed miserably awake all last night. When he came awake at last the wood was suffused with the pale light of the moon, and the nightingales were singing.

There was a strange bruised sweetness somewhere close to him. He knew it for woodruff. There was a little plant of it just where he had lain. Ever afterwards he would associate woodruff with Lizzie Harding and his hours of suffering.

He got to his feet, a little ashamed of himself, after the manner of the civilised man after his abandonment. He remembered that he had left his bag at the station to be sent on. He hoped they had not sent it, or the servants would be alarmed. He took out his watch and tried to see what o'clock it was by the light of the moon; but he could not make out the hands on the dial face. When he lit a match to see it the church clock, half-a-mile away, began to strike. He counted the strokes, flinging the match away—ten o'clock. It was not so late after all. No one would wonder at his arrival at that hour. Unless his bag had been sent over they would conclude that he had come down by a late train.

He gave himself a shake, wondering if he presented a disordered aspect. He felt intolerably tired, aching with fatigue. He hoped he would sleep to-night—that the nightingales would not be too clamorous. If he could only have a good night's sleep he thought he could begin to face things to-morrow. He was not so sleepy that vague thoughts did not flash into his mind. He imagined himself telling Dixon that he was going to get rid of Giltraps. It was too small; all very well for a bachelor establishment, but—he was going to be married.

He imagined how Dixon would look. Not surprised. To be sure, people had talked about his intimacy at the Hall, putting the obvious construction upon it. It was not likely that the servants had not considered the matter. He imagined himself hurrying on, explaining that he was about to be married to Miss Avis Bourne stopping the misunderstanding in Dixon's mind as quickly as might be.

Mechanically he put his hand into his breast pocket for his cigar case, took it out, felt for a cigar with his fingers, and lit a match. As it spurted up and he held it to the end of the cigar the light was on his face. He inhaled a couple of whiffs of the cigar; it might as well have been cabbage leaf as Havana. He went on, with the fiery spot that was the end of the cigar making a red spot in the darkness.

Suddenly there was a report, close at hand. Something struck him. There was a smell of powder; and then a sharp, burning pain in his thigh. He had been shot. He clapped his hand to the place. The blood was oozing. He felt it thick and clammy on his hand. He went a few steps blindly. Then stumbled, and fell forward.

MOTOR FATALITY.

DEATH OF A GIRL.

An eight-year-old girl, Millie Alma Williams, died in the Balmain Hospital on May 29. The Acting City Coroner (Mr. J. W. Fletcher) yesterday inquired into the circumstances of death.

Mr. Dale appeared in the case on behalf of Dr. Mervyn Archdall, who stated in evidence that at about 12.45 p.m. on April 21 he was driving home in his motor car from the hospital. Near the Unity Hall Hotel, in Darling-street, he noticed a girl (deceased) running across the road at right angles. He sounded his horn, whereupon deceased appeared to hesitate and then step across the front of the car. The front wheel on the off-side struck her, and she was run over. He was told the wheel had passed over her head. When the car had been brought to a standstill the child lay about two yards behind. He had been of the opinion that the child's death was due to meningitis arising from infection through the wound.

Dr. Neville Griffiths, of the Balmain Hospital, said that the girl was admitted suffering from a lacerated wound on the scalp, two small incisions on the face, and one through the left ear. These injuries, however, were not considered the cause of death, complications having developed subsequently. Meningitis was the cause of death, which until to-day (Tuesday) he had thought to be the result of septic infection from the wounds. But that morning he had received a verbal report from the Board of Health to the effect that no septic organisms had been found in some fluid submitted for analysis. In view of that report, he was now of the opinion that death was due to natural causes.

The Coroner adjourned the inquest till June 5, pending the receipt of a full and authentic report from the micro-biologist at the Board of Health.

THE REV. JOHN HOSKING, D.D., CONGREGATIONAL MINISTER, ST. JAMES' MISSION CHURCH, FITZROY, WRITES.

He sends this splendid unsolicited testimonial to the value of Clements Tonic for the general good it may do.

The following splendid tribute to this great nerve and brain tonic was received from the Rev. John Hosking, so well-known as the officiating minister of the Congregational Church, Fitzroy, Melbourne. Only great benefit derived and the conviction that the public would also obtain benefit, prompted the rev. gentleman to write. He is so well known as an earnest Church worker, and respected by reason of his good work amongst his people, that any reference beyond that already received from the Australian press is unnecessary. This letter will be endorsed by thousands who have, after being benefited, written in a similar manner:—

"CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.

"I would like to express my thanks for the fortunate chance I got on board the Orient steamer en route to England some time ago that I was recommended a bottle of Clements Tonic.

"I was completely run down, and suffered from nervous prostration, being troubled with insomnia and severe headaches.

"After taking one bottle I slept soundly, and soon got stronger. I had tried various medicines and spent much money with doctors, but all to no purpose.

"One bottle put me right, and was worth its weight in gold. I recommend this medicine very strongly. You may use this as you think fit.

"(Signed) JOHN HOSKING."
(Congregational Minister, St. James' Church, Fitzroy.)

You can be always sure that where the health has failed through the vital machinery of the body being out of gear the irregular stomach, the inactive liver, the inoperative kidneys, or the irritated super-sensitive nerves can soon be put right with CLEMENTS TONIC. If Parliament closed up its doors,
And members went off to the wars,
It really wouldn't make us weep,
Or for one hour disturb our sleep.
But if we suddenly were deprived
Of Woods' Great Peppermint Cure,
'Twould be a world-wide calamity,
Of this I'm perfectly sure.—Advt.

SHOPBREAKING CHARGES.

CAUGHT UNDER THE COUCH.

Percy Pearce, aged 22, John Crowley, aged 19, and Richard Jones, aged 2[illegible], appeared before Mr. Love, S.M., at the Central Police Court yesterday, charged with breaking and entering the warehouse of Edward Hebden Brodribb, at 772 George-street, Sydney, on May 27, with intent to steal.

Detective Edward William O'Reilly stated that he was with Constable Duncan in Pitt-street about half-past 8 on the evening of the 27th, when he saw the three accused cross towards Barlow-street, and recognising Pearce and Crowley, he followed them. The three young men loitered round the corner of George and Barlow streets, and Pearce then went into the doorway of Brodribb's. After he emerged the accused waited about for ten minutes, and during that time the witness and other police officers secreted themselves so as to have the warehouse under observation. Crowley next went across to the Great Southern Hotel, and returned ten minutes later with a small parcel, which he subsequently gave to Jones. Jones went to the doorway, and after further manoeuvres he and Pearce disappeared inside. Crowley then went over, and did something to the door, and as he came away the witness arrested him. A key was found on him, and with this several police officers effected an entry, unlocking a padlock, which had been placed on the door. Pearce was discovered on the first floor, hiding under a stack of chairs, covered with a cloth, and Jones was under a couch in the same room. When charged, the accused denied any knowledge of a saw, chisel, and other tools, that were found on the premises. A detonator cap, a glove, and a key were among the articles found on Pearce when he was searched. Jones had nearly £2 in his possession, and Crowley had a watch and chain.

Detective Arthur Leary said that on going over to the doorway after Crowley's arrest, he found that the two other men had been locked in. When the police got inside with the key found on Crowley, the witness found a saw and a flash lamp on the safe in the office, and beside the safe were a cold chisel, a piece of iron, a broken lock, and a knife. The top hinge of the safe was partly sawn through.

Detective Lynch stated that when he searched Brodribb's furniture warehouse early on the morning after the arrest, he found a revolver and a chisel under the couch, where Jones had been concealed. The weapon was not loaded. Another revolver, which was loaded, was lying near where Pearce had been caught.

Edward H. Brodribb, an auctioneer, stated that on the morning of the 28th, he found that the safe had been damaged, and on the table someone had written in chalk, "The King of Thieves," the last word being spelt "Theaves." The broken lock found was the one that had been on the back door of the premises, but he had never seen the lock which was fastening the door when the police got in.

The three accused were then charged with having broken into the warehouse of Peter Mattieson, Pitt-street, on May 25, and stolen a cold chisel, value 2s.

Mr. Abigail applied for a remand, stating that the charge had only been made that morning. A remand was granted till Thursday.

Jones was further charged with having broken into the jeweller's shop of Ernest Ostern and Co., George-street, Sydney, and stolen 27 gold bangles, 45 gold brooches, 5 gold medals, 33 gold [illegible] pieces, 1 gold match box, 45 gold rings, 7 [illegible] fob chains, 24 gold sleeve links, 7 gold pendants, and 7 gold watches, of the total value of £[illegible]. He was also remanded till Thursday.

Crowley was then charged with having, on May 19, broken into the counting-house of City Tattersall's Club, with intent to steal, and the hearing of this was also adjourned till Thursday.

The accused were allowed bail on the first charge, the amount being fixed at £200. In the case against Jones a surety of £100 was demanded. Bail was required in respect to the other charges.

VALUABLE ADVICE FOR OBTAINING A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION.

BY COURTESY OF A LADY READER.

While recently glancing through a ladies' paper one of our readers noticed a simple formula said to quickly banish all skin irritations and greatly beautify the complexion. Having given considerable study to chemistry, she was immediately interested by the peculiar combination of ingredients. Her skin was rough and sore from exposure to the sun and wind, so she determined to have the lotion made up at once. She applied night and morning with a soft cloth, and in less than a week all disagreeable traces of sunburn, rash, and blemishes had entirely vanished, her complexion was soft and smooth; in fact, her appearance was so greatly improved that her own mother was astonished, and asked the cause of the sudden transformation. This led to another trial of the same lotion, and, despite the mother's age, her skin became clear and velvety. But what was even more amazing, the lines and wrinkles which had formed round her eyes and on her forehead began to smooth out and gradually disappear. Both mother and daughter were overjoyed at this unlooked-for result, and wondered if there was not some way of giving the benefit of their experience to other women. They finally decided to write to one or two of the principal papers about it. Upon receiving their communication, we gladly consented to publish for those interested this valuable formula which they had found. It calls for 2oz. of rosewater, one dram tincture of benzoin, and 2oz. Flowers of Oxzoin, the mixture to be well shaken before using. We were informed that it is quite inexpensive, and can be made up by any good chemist, or easily prepared at home. A prominent member of the Faculty of Medicine of Paris, who specialises in the care of the skin, examined this formula for us, and states that the lotion made therefrom is perfectly harmless, and, besides being excellent for the complexion, is also unexcelled for quickly eradicating blotches, pimples, blackheads, etc., which are so disfiguring to the skin.

CREME TOKALON, absolutely the best non-greasy vanishing cream; beautifies the skin and removes wrinkles. At all chemists.—Advt.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

IMPROVEMENT OF BEEF CATTLE.

With the prospect ahead of the frozen meat trade in the shape of expanding markets, it would seem that more attention is being paid to the improving of our beef cattle. For many years the quality of Australian beef has certainly not improved. The opinion of good judges, indeed, appears to be that it has deteriorated, because most breeders refuse to give high prices for their bulls. This is a regrettable position, which must very seriously affect the meat export trade. In any case, the trade has been of such value to Australia as to render the maintenance of its level a matter of first moment. The position is the more serious when there is every reason to look for a large expanse in the trade. In that case we have to be able to meet our competitors, and stand on an equal footing, when it comes to opening new markets. Yet our breeders have badly failed to emulate the example of the Argentina cattle breeders in taking steps to maintain quality. The latter made it their business to learn what the British consumer required, and then bred up to that standard. In doing so they spared no expense, and the importation of high quality stud stock into Argentina has been notable. What in our eyes are enormous prices have been given for bulls. The average valuation of 6518 pedigree bulls shipped from the United Kingdom to Argentina, from 1900 to 1909, inclusive, was £190 each. The Argentina buyers have for many years been among the best supporters of the English studs, and it cannot be disputed that their determination to secure the best animals, practically regardless of cost, has brought about a great improvement in the quality of the beef exported from Argentina. In 21 years, ending 1910, Argentina imported from all countries for breeding purposes 18,709 cattle, and it is considered that these cost about £70 per head, an outlay of £1,309,630. These are prodigious figures, and are of interest to us as showing the class of competition we have to meet. To quote from "A History of the Frozen Meat Trade":—"That the expenditure of these large sums by the enterprising Argentine estancieros has been remunerative no one can doubt who is acquainted with the good qual't" of the beef and mutton now imported into Great Britain from the Republic. In the export beef trade the ideal to work up to is the marketing of chilled beef, an article highly superior to frozen beef from a selling point of view. That the managers of the Argentine frigorificos are able to purchase cattle good enough for chilling, may be placed to the credit of the policy under which the estancieros and other importers have since 1880 spent a sum approaching two and a half millions sterling in improving the cattle stock of the country."

It must also be remembered that other countries, such as Brazil and Uruguay, are said to be following the example of Argentina and using imported bulls of high quality to breed up from the local stock. Are we keeping in line? Capable judges do not appear to think so, and the beef cattle section at the Royal show, if it can be taken as a criterion, certainly does not create the opinion that our cattle men are maintaining the standard of a couple of decades past, whereas it should be improving. If this is the case Australia will not obtain its legitimate share of the beef trade in the future. There are many factors in the building up and holding of an export trade, but there must certainly be a sufficient supply of good quality stock as a basis. Without the best railway facilities, finest meatworks, and shipping arrangements it cannot hope to do much. One of the most important requirements in any trade is that suppliers should study what their customers want. This is just what our cattle-breeders do not appear to have done, and the right type of stock are not being produced. In the opinion of practical men who study the trade, the demand in Britain is for young cattle, not too fat, but which have quality. This also appears to be the case in America, where "baby beef" is a feature of the business. The day of the heavy old bullock is past, for the younger stuff is more profitable. But the main feature is improvement in quality. The need for this is imperative. It is forcing itself on pastoralists who have visited the old country and investigated this matter, just as Professor Stewart was impressed with the fact, when he visited England a couple of years ago, that the competition of the London meat trade the improvement of our herds must receive the serious attention of breeders. Improvement in mutton production is also wanted, but there appears to be more attention given to this business than with cattle. Summed up, if we wish to compete against our rivals we cannot afford to let them leave us behind in essentials. The meat export trade has been of such value to landowners that we dare not neglect the factors that will ensure its permanence whatever they be, and improvement of stock is the main factor.

It would be well for stockowners to occasionally recall the conditions that prevailed before refrigeration came to their assistance. Stockraising in this country was then a very precarious business, and the surplus had to be boiled down for tallow. Owners could not hope for a profitable market for their surplus stock when they wanted to dispose of them, which led to overstocking and disastrous results with a dry spell. Happily the meat export trade has largely altered all that. But we cannot afford to rest satisfied with what has been done by any means, and stockowners with large areas will make a great mistake if they do not improve their cattle. The increase of settlement has no doubt had a tendency to interfere with the standard of our herds, but there is still in Australia an enormous area suitable for cattleraising, especially in the northern State, and it is necessary that such cattle should be of good quality. It is important also that our farmers should take a different standpoint towards stockraising that is at present the tendency. Here, as is usually the case with young countries, there is a practice to reduce stockcarrying as land increases in value. It is considered that sheep and cattle cannot be raised on high-priced land, and this is the case, undoubtedly, unless more intensive methods are adopted. Whether we have reached the stage when such would be profitable is a question that is not easily answered, but those going in for mixed farming should find it profitable to run some well-bred cattle in place of low-grade, mixed sorts that are usually found on small holdings. All through we want better bred cattle. In some parts of the State it is calamitous to see the quality of animals being fattened on first-class country. There certainly seems something wrong when all sorts and colours of steers are gathered up around the country, stock raised by small farmers and reared on poor hill country, and put to fatten for the market, and probably the export trade, on the best of land. Cattle fattening may not pay under such conditions, but it is not a fair index of what would be done with well-bred cattle reared without stint and put on the market earlier. The whole condition of the cattle industry cannot be considered satisfactory as it stands at the present time.

THE DARLING COUNTRY.

RABBITS AND FOXES.

Two South Australian pastoralists—Messrs. G. Jeffrey and A. E. Hamilton—have just returned to Adelaide from an interesting motor tour of the Darling River country as Wilcannia. From Wilcannia the party went up the Paroo River to Momba station. All the intervening country was in good heart, and they were informed that further on toward Tonga it was better still. A feature which markedly impressed itself upon their minds was the "patchiness" apparent. Repeatedly they saw paddocks well covered with grass alongside others carrying scarcely any, and the same comment applied to whole stations. In the region of White Cliffs, where the showers had been more patchy than along the river, there were stations anxiously awaiting rain. Practically throughout the Darling country traversed the lambing prospects were reported to be excellent, and it was confidently expected that the number of lambs tailed would be well up to the average of good seasons. Questioned regarding vermin troubles, they stated that they had seen fewer rabbits on this trip than on any previous occasion. Foxes may have assisted to diminish their numbers, but the principal factor in keping them down has been the activity of the leaseholders in the use of poison carts. There was, they stated, a diversity of opinion as to whether foxes were friends or foes of the sheepbreeders. Some held that they were friends on the ground that they not only killed the larger rabbits but also took the young ones from the burrows. Others contended that they would some day become a dangerous enemy, and, consequently, they were prepared to spend a considerable amount in keeping them in check.

THE MIDDLE NORTH COAST.

THE TIMBER INDUSTRY.

II.

(BY J. W. H.)

Amidst the various occupations which for longer or shorter seasons have engrossed the attention of the denizens of the district under notice, amidst maize cultivation or sugarcane-growing, arrowroot-grating, paspalum seed picking, or cow-milking, there is one line which has directly or indirectly interested practically every settler. The indigenous timber is a problem which exercises the minds of many from various standpoints. The settler looks upon the dense growth of "hanging bush," the beauty of which so impresses the visitor from the distant city, as so much encumbrance of his land, which he must "fall" and clear off that paspalum grass or maize may take its place. The vast forests of giant eucalypts speak to him but one word—"logs." The erection of a sawmill within 10 or 12 miles of his place is only one degree less welcome than the appearance of a fully-equipped butter factory. Now he can get money for those logs, and if patient he will even be able to find a market for the second-class and "pipey" ones, for they must all go before "the company" will move its mill again. It seems strange to find, after hearing so much of the scarcity of hardwood, that landholders situated within two or three miles of a sawmill must be content to receive the bare Crown royalty for the hardwood trees upon their holdings. One shilling per hundred superficial feet for ironbark and tallowwood, and 6d per hundred for all other kinds is the ruling price on and off timber reserves; and now that these reserves are being cut out mills are getting nearer to the alienated lands, and are buying their timber in the log at the same rate. The three sections of the North Coast railway line under notice, run through hardwood country. The section from South Grafton to Glenreagh will tap large areas of virgin forest, hitherto outside the zone of profitable haulage, through absence of roads along the eastern bank of the Orara River, from The Bluff southwards, and the timber shipments from South Grafton, after the opening of the ninth section, in the not distant future, should be exceedingly large for a few years. The shipments at present are principally from Coff's Harbour, the mills reaching out some 18 or 20 miles towards Glenreagh, and the opening of the line will make profitable the working of untouched areas north and west of Glenreagh, either by the establishment of mills in that neighbourhood, or the carriage of logs by train to mills already working at South Grafton. Later on, when the eighth section, Glenreagh to Coff's Harbour, not yet commenced, is completed, further areas which cannot now be touched by Coff's Harbour mills, or those adjacent, may be brought into profitable working, while the progress made with the earthworks between Coff's Harbour and Raleigh on the seventh section, has already led one firm to abandon its intention of constructing a tramway from the jetty to its blackbutt forest concessions, lying to the south-west, and make connection with the railway line some miles out.

The problem of the timber supplies of the future sits lightly upon these men of the present, and many of them, rather than accept the royalty offered, are ringbarking all timber over 20in when preparing for a "fall," instead of leaving the milling logs intact. One wonders, as he observes the labour bestowed in preparation for grazing upon second-class country, which is all that is left adjacent to the railway line, whether some other policy might not be pursued in dealing with the question of killing trees that men may live. There are many creeks through the timber reserves, where groups of farms might be surveyed, and where the quality of the soil would render small holdings sufficient. These might be made available for settlement forthwith, and the large intervening stretches of forest, where the young trees would solve the problem of reafforestation, as the older trees were being cut out, might be preserved. And through the areas open for settlement there are large portions which have been passed by for years, as worthless from a farmer's point of view, being "only fit for growing timber." Withdraw and reserve these sections, and the balance might be adjusted evenly.

Hardwoods were not the only timber which Nature provided with lavish hand along the coastline traversed by those sections of the railway with which we are dealing. Some of the creeks south of Coff's Harbour were well provided with beech and a fair quantity of cedar, while one of them, with, perhaps, the longest watershed, still retains the name of Pine Creek. Along the valley of the Orara cedar logs have been drawn for over forty years, and a few trees were standing in positions not easy of access when Upper Orara settlement began, a quarter of a century since, while from the upper tributaries occasional cedar logs still come, when the settler has time to go out for them. The "dozing" of cedar logs felled and branded by some licensee, and lying in hundreds of thousands of feet, on the off-chance of getting them out some day, did not obtain to such an extent here as on the head waters of rivers further south, perhaps because the coveted timber did not grow in such large quantities in this district, and, again, because the "fresh," when it came, had too long a course to run before it could reach navigable water, and the logs might be lost en route. The cedar, therefore, had to be drawn from the stump to the Bellinger River, some thirty miles or more, and the first settlers were directed to the sites of their future homes by the cedar-drawers, and found their track marked out for them by the log tracks. Down the eastern side of the Red Hill a cutting had been made by this traffic, and by the rains, from 6ft to 8ft deep in places.

There are a few beech logs still to be obtained on the Orara and its branches, but the settler can no longer floor and line his house with the beautiful silver-white boards, and even the hook-pine is now a luxury to him.

On the Don Dorrigo tableland, where the dwellers are so interested in this railway extension, and where they await their own connection with Glenreagh, the hardwood timber question lies in abeyance. Within easy distance of that branch line untold miles of hardwood forest stand, which with the construction of the railway must be shipped for Australian use either at South Grafton or at Coff's Harbour. The timber at present used and illused is all of the "soft" varieties. The best farming lands are innocent of hardwoods. Cedar is almost unprocurable. An attempt at a cedar plantation, instituted about 30 years ago, when cedar-getting was the one industry of Don Dorrigo, has been long since abandoned. The local mills cut beech and pine only, except when a special order may be given for rosewood or some other little-known variety, needed for some special purpose. So, on the short river valleys of the Middle North Coast and the adjacent tablelands, the problem of the settler is how to replace the timber store by grass and crops, and how his difficulty can be met with at the least loss to the rest of the community, can only be settled when we can effectively deal with the question of transit. How this matter of transit affects the dwellers on the Dorrigo must be stated in a concluding article. To the whole of the settlers of the district under review the question is a vital one; and from the standpoint of the users of the timber so lavishly provided there, it is a question affecting likewise the welfare and convenience of thousands of their fellow-citizens from the metropolis to Bourke.

WITHDRAWAL OF IMPROVEMENT LEASES.

ASSESSING THE COMPENSATION.

HAY.—The hay land board (Messrs. R. McLean, chairman, J. Johnston, and J. Newton) is inquiring, by direction of the Minister for Lands, as to the amount of compensation payable to several lessees in respect to the improvements upon the areas withdrawn from improvement leases. The total area withdrawn from improvement leases for settlement is 307,540 acres, of which 182,000 acres are on Nap Nap Holding, and the balance distributed amongst a number of lessees. The leases were originally granted in 1902, for from twenty to twenty-eight years, with the condition that after the expiration of ten years the Minister should have the right to withdraw the areas without compensation other than payment for the lessee's interest in the improvements.

The first case dealt with was that of Charles Gidon Stewart, in respect to an I.L. on Wooloendool of 4400 acres. The only improvement was a tank, which the Crown officer valued at £169 13s 1d, and the lessee and his witnesses at £212 1s 8d. The board accepted the latter value, and assessed the compensation payable as £106 0s 10d, being ten-twentieths of the value.

In the case of Alex. T. Creswick in respect to the withdrawal of 15,720 acres on Ulonga, the improvements consisted of a number of lines of fencing and water improvements, which the lessee valued at £620 8s 4d, and the Crown at £467 1s 4d. The board assessed the value at £532 8s 10d, and determined the compensation payable at £332 9s 11d.

"BUYERS SOMETIMES MISLED."

The Minister for Lands (Mr. Trefle) stated yesterday that he wished to draw the special attention of land buyers to the fact that in most improvement leases there is a clause giving the Minister for Lands the right to withdraw such leases at certain dates prior to the ordinary termination of the lease.

"In some cases, Mr. Trefle continued, "innocent purchasers have been seriously imposed upon by sellers who do not make this fact known when disposing of these leases, and I would strongly advise intending buyers of improvement leases to see for themselves, or get their representatives to inspect, the actual conditions attached to each lease, and gazetted by the Minister for Lands when such lease was granted. In all cases where improvement lease country is suitable for closer settlement I am exercising the right of withdrawal where such clauses have been inserted, so that intending buyers must be prepared, if they purchase improvement leases over which the Minister has the right of withdrawal, to submit to such withdrawal just as if they were the original applicants for the leases."

PASTURES BOARDS.

FORBES.—Messrs. F. A. Edols, Burrawong, R. E. Rawlins, Riversleigh, J. D. Low, West Plains, and H. Gibson, Droubalgie, have been re-elected directors of the Forbes Pastures' Protection Board.

GLOUCESTER.—The ballot for four members of the Port Stephens Pastures Protection Board resulted in the return of Messrs. R. Eaton, J. N. Lawrie, F. Longworth, and James Stitt.

WAGGA.—At a meeting of the Wagga Pastures Protection Board, it was unanimously decided to oppose the proposal submitted by the Dubbo board, that the Minister be asked to permanently lease all stock routes and reserves throughout the State under strict improvement conditions. A communication was received from the Department of Agriculture, stating that legal opinions given by the Crown Solicitor to P.P. boards on request must be regarded as confidential, and must not be divulged to the press. Mr. Cox said that the board's meetings were open to the public and the press, and he did not see how such legal opinions could be kept private. Mr. Fletcher said the Crown Solicitor gave his opinions as a matter of grace, and he probably wished to prevent the opposing lawyer getting advantage of the decisions. On the motion of Mr. Cox, it was decided to inform the department that the board's meetings being open to the public, it was impossible to treat the Crown Solicitor's opinions as confidential.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

The Department of Agriculture notifies that arrangements have been made for Mr. H. C. Coggins, assistant inspector of agriculture, to give a demonstration on "Clearing with Explosives" on Friday, June 6, under the auspices of the Katoomba branch of the Agricultural Bureau.

MEETINGS OF FARMERS.

MUDGEE.—The Mudgee Farmers and Settlers' Association has decided to ask the Railway Commissioners to construct a footbridge at Mudgee railway station. On the motion of Mr. G. Stewart it was also decided to ask the Government that some local man be appointed to the Upper House to assist the member for the district in looking after the requirements of the district.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

NYNGAN.—During the visit to Nyngan of Mr. Bronson, chief inspector of the Lands Department, a deputation, headed by Mr. R. Temple, president of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, waited on him, and urged him to represent to the departmental heads the utter absurdity of making land available in small areas in this district. Mr. Bronson asked the deputation to put their complaint in writing, and he promised to personally bring it under the notice of the Surveyor-General.

PROPOSED RAILWAY.

ROSLYN TO TARALGA.

At a meeting of the Public Works Committee yesterday, Mr. W. Hutchinson, Chief Engineer, Railway and Tramway Construction Branch, gave evidence on the proposed railway from Roslyn to Taralga.

The witness stated that the proposed railway commenced by a junction with the branch line, Goulburn to Crookwell, at 161 miles from Sydney, and a short distance north-easterly from Roslyn station. It proceeded north-easterly for about 11 miles along the main dividing range, and finally ended near the south-eastern corner of the Taralga township, at 177 miles from Sydney. The length of the suggested route would be 15 miles 66 chains; estimated cost, exclusive of land and compensation, £81,338, and the ruling grade 1 in 60. The area which would be served by the proposed line consisted of rich agricultural land. At the present time the traffic was carted 28 miles to Goulburn, over an excellent road, and, while the proposition appeared to be one deserving of consideration at some future period, there did not seem to be any necessity for its immediate construction.

With regard to the request of the committee to be furnished with an estimate appertaining to the cost of constructing a railway from Mirool to Gunbar the same witness said that as no survey had as yet been made, only an approximate estimate could be given. The length of the line would be 39 miles, and the cost £136,500.

MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Reading in issue of date your paragraph on Medical Examinations makes me venture to put before you my own experiences. Probably you may think same of sufficient interest to make public, and I give in as concise form as possible details. In December, 1909, acting on medical advice, I sold out my share of a business in England I had founded, and took a first-class passage to Sydney, arriving here end of January, 1910, where, after usual "medical inspection" was allowed to land without demur. I resided and held various positions in New South Wales and Victoria for three years, when I took a single second-class passage to San Francisco on a steamer sailing from here in February last. On arrival there I was placed in quarantine, and after 10 days deported by same boat. Reason given not having satisfied officials as to my means of support, and the doctor's report I was below normal physique, and suffered from hemorrhoids. Well, on arrival back March 31, I was specially selected for doctor's examination, and result was when the boat berthed I was not allowed ashore, suspected tuberculosis. After being detained a close prisoner on board for three days, I was taken to Board of Health, who consigned me without any further examination to Rookwood Asylum. Here I was placed in the Chest Ward, isolated from the main blocks, but crammed full of patients (there were 60 in all), some of them in last stages of consumption; in fact, two or three deaths whilst I was there. I stood five weeks of this, and in the meantime several tests were made, none of which until the last showed any positive signs. I then took my discharge, as I thought had run quite enough risk, and it was time something definite was known. I took a room in the city, but was told I could not be allowed to remain there until my cure was decided. My actual board was borne by the shipping company, who also were under a bond of £200, and they sent me up here to the Mountains, I presume, to await the date of their bond expiring. Since coming up here I was, for my own satisfaction, examined by Dr. M'Intyre Sinclair, who told me not to worry, as he was certain I had nothing, as far as my condition showed, to cause me to. However, the experience I underwent in that place at Rookwood, and the uncertainty of my fate, have caused me a loss of a lot of sleep. I had a chance here last week to get into a position, but could not accept it, being so placed. I am not able to get any definite idea as to whether I shall be allowed to remain or not (I am told a German or other foreigner acquires naturalisation after two years' residence). If the examination of outward bound passengers is to be enforced, I look like being consigned back to the care of the ship, and kept a prisoner there, travelling back and forward for ever, as I fail to see how any other company will now care to risk me as a passenger. I don't know about examinations being inadequate or farcical, but they should be effective. I might add my health and appearance the first time I arrived here were much worse than when I was stopped.

I am, etc., BLANK.

POULTRY.

Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry-keeping, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "Ancona," "Herald" Office.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Perplexed, Leichhardt.—Your Silver Wyandotte pullets, if of a good laying strain, should have laid much earlier and right on, notwithstanding adverse climatic conditions. The Leghorns are probably inbred, and lack stamina. The fact of the second year hens having laid well indicates that the conditions under which they are kept are all right. Give animal food (bullocks' livers, if procurable, are best, but any kind of lean meat will do. Boil well, and mix in soft food. Roosting houses should be airy and warm, and kept clean.

R.J.C., Sydney.—It is quite possible for two persons to make good wages by poultry farming on two acres of land. I am afraid you would require more than £200 to start the concern, and make it a success. The best way would be for one of you to start the farm, while the other follows some other occupation and helps to provide the necessary capital, and assist in his spare time. Location is quite immaterial. Dry, sandy soil is best for poultry raising.

Interest, Newcastle.—Consult the commercial poultry column in last Saturday's "Herald" for address inquired for.

T.H., Kureen, North Queensland.—The symptoms point to a chicken disease called gapes, caused by small round worms, which infest the windpipe, choking the chicken and causing death. Want of cleanliness is said to be the cause; or it may be hereditary. Dipping a feather in turpentine or kerosene, and passing it down the windpipe, turning it round a few times, will sometimes effect a cure. Kill, and burn is the best in the long run.

Wyandottes.—Silvers or white, for choice, would suit you best. "Ancona" never recommends breeders. Consult the advertising columns of the "Herald." You should be able to procure what would suit you in your own district.

Inquirer, Mascot.—Green oats, barley, and grass must be chaffed for fowls. Rape, unless very young and tender, is not a good feed. The best of all is the thousand headed kale, and is best fed in the whole leaf. The best time to give green food is after the birds have had their grain in the evening; but any time will do. Keep to the kale until white clover is available. August-hatched Leghorn pullets very often moult the following winter. Pullets will not be affected by running next to the hens in moult. Try hatching right up till November, and you will have the experience for future guidance.

The annual poultry conference will be held at the Hawkesbury College on Saturday, June 21. The principal, Mr. H. W. Potts, invites all bona-fide poultry-breeders to be present. Those desiring to attend are requested to send in their names and addresses to the Under-Secretary of Agriculture, Sydney, and those travelling 25 miles or over will receive a railway concession fare form, entitling them to one-third reduction.

The N.S.W. Poultry, Pigeon, and Canary Club's annual show will be opened at the Royal Agricultural Society's Grounds to-morrow morning. About 900 entries have been received. The poultry are not equal to last year's numbers, but in pigeons there is an advance on the previous year's figures. The largest entry is in the Orpington class. Leghorns, Australian game, and Minorcas are all well represented. With the exception of the show of the Railway and Tramway Employees' Club, the above is the last to be held in the metropolitan district this season.

Years ago the Newcastle district could boast of one of the best feathered displays held outside Sydney, but for some reason Newcastle has gone back during the last few years. Lately a club has been formed, to be known as the Newcastle District Poultry, Pigeon, Canary, and Cage Bird Society, and the following officers have been elected:—Patron, Mr. S. Hewson; president, Mr. H. J. Cannington; vice-presidents, Messrs. E. Barlow, C. A. Clarke, W. English, T. W. Dobson, A. S. King, H. Adams; treasurer, Mr. J. E. Sharpe; secretary, Mr. W. Brown; assistant secretary, Mr. G. T. Rowlands. A sub-committee was appointed to draw up rules and regulations.

The schedule is to hand for the annual show of the Railways and Tramways Employees' Poultry, Pigeon, and Canary Club, to be held in the poultry building, new City Markets, Quay-street, on June 27 and 28. Poultry classes number 159, pigeons 36, and canaries 11. Entries close on June 20. The judges are:—Mr. Oscar Wilson, Orpingtons, ducks, game, utility classes, and pigeons; Mr. W. C. Forster, all other varieties; and Mr. Hampson, canaries.

At a meeting of the Illawarra Poultry Club held last Saturday night the hon. secretary, Mr. W. C. Warner, submitted a draft report on the late show. All the prize money, including £10 in specials, was paid, in addition to the ordinary prizes. The club has a balance of over £10 in hand.

Now that the hatching season is in full swing the sex of egg problem is sure to again be considered, and much valuable time wasted that the poultry-breeder could put to more profitable use. Beginners will listen with feverish delight, thinking it is some new scientific discovery that will revolutionise the industry; whereas it is only some exploded theory of our grandmothers' time.

On Friday evening last the fellow-officers of Mr. Bradshaw, poultry expert of the Agricultural Department, met in the Minister's room to wish him bon-voyage prior to his six months' trip abroad. Mr. Valder, Acting Under-Secretary, presented him with a travelling bag, the gift of Mr. Bradshaw's brother officers.

SPECIALISING IN GRILLERS.

With a climate so suitable as ours no branch of utility poultry farming is so profitable as the production of "grillers," known in England as "spring chickens." May, June, and July is the time of scanty supplies and remunerative prices. Last year the writer netted at auction from 4/7 to 6/ per pair. The average weight (alive) was about 1½lb; and the birds were ready for market at the age of six to eight weeks old. They were kept in the brooders until ready for market. The object in feeding "grillers" is to get the minimum of bone and offal, with the maximum amount of flesh. The system of feeding was as follows:—Oatmeal and maizemeal (rather coarse), equal parts; a little bone meal, and fine sea shell grit added. Milk or liver soup sufficient to make it just moist, and good, sound wheat at all times. After the first week, add pollard and a little meat if available. Discontinue mixing the shellgrit in the food after the first week, but take care that the birds have a plentiful supply at all times. Succulent green food—lettuce for choice—should be always available. Hard, clean, wheaten straw, just enough to cover the bottom of brooder, should be used. Clean out every day, and remember that chickens require plenty of warmth. If the chickens are cold they will huddle together, but when the temperature is right they will spread out, and just touch each other. When the breeding stock is healthy and vigorous, and properly cared for, the progeny will grow and be ready in time for market. Any hereditary weakness in the breeding stock will soon manifest itself in the young chickens. Time and again the incubator, or brooder, is wrongly blamed for the high mortality rate. For those with limited space this branch of poultry farming should be cultivated. A very large number can be reared in a very small space.

BOOTH MEMORIAL HOME.

Commissioner Hay is expected to arrive by the Melbourne express this morning in connection with the Salvation Army Congress gatherings, not the least significant function of which will be the opening of the men's memorial home in Sussex-street on Tuesday afternoon, 10th inst.

The fact that such an institution is needed is demonstrated by the demand for accommodation. It is a veritable hive of men. The full quantity of beds have not been made available, but on Monday night over 400 men slept under this huge roof. The full number of beds to be declared open on Sunday at the opening ceremony is 650. The outlay, including renovations, is £19,000, of which over £5000 has been subscribed.

A FEW MONTHS HENCE!

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—What sort of a reception may the M'Gowen-Holman-Carmichael combination expect when it faces the electors a few months hence? On to-day's figures it is obvious that the real heart of this dear old country has expressed itself once more. The intelligence and solid sense of the community, in spite of fanatical and political trades-unionists, urged on by socialists, has reasserted itself, and already business circles are taking heart of grace. There is an unmistakable feeling of joy everywhere, even amongst the better class of workers, who realise that the Fisher-O'Malley brand of politics is ruinous to them as well as others. I should not care to be in Master Holman's political shoes, because nothing is more certain than that he will be evicted presently with even less gentleness than he evicted our Governor-General; and none of us has forgotten this politician's attitude during the Boer War.

I am, etc., H. A. SMITH.

HEAD BECAME BALD IN PATCHES.

Orchard-street, Armadale, Vic.—"About two years ago I was employed as a boundary rider in the north of Queensland. My head and scalp became quite dry, and my hair began to fall out in large quantities. For a time I paid no attention to it; I did not think it was serious, and my head became bald in patches.

"I was almost giving up in despair, when I noticed an advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies, and made up my mind to give Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment a trial. I used the Cuticura Ointment, and washed my head with Cuticura Soap night and morning. After I had continued this for a few days, the itching seemed to stop, and after about three months I had my full growth of hair again." (Signed) John Williams, July 10, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. M., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

RARE EASTERN RUGS
AT ANTHONY HORDERNS'.

A COLLECTION of EASTERN RUGS, including a number of RARE ANTIQUES, unique examples of the ART of weaving as practised in the ORIENT a hundred years or more ago, is on view at ANTHONY HORDERNS' FINE ART GALLERY. Visitors are invited to inspect the display. No one will be importuned to purchase.

NEVER has SYDNEY SEEN so MAGNIFICENT a COLLECTION of PERSIAN, TURKISH, and AFGHANISTAN Rugs; they were secured before the outbreak of the Turkish and Balkan hostilities by a CARPET EXPERT, world-renowned for his KNOWLEDGE of CARPETS and RUGS, and comprise only the FINEST SPECIMENS, picked with a CRITICAL DISCRIMINATION that REJECTED all but the BEST ILLUSTRATIONS of an ART born in lands steeped with the sun and saturated with the colour of the Orient.

The SECTION of the FINE ART GALLERY devoted to this MARVELLOUS DISPLAY has an ATMOSPHERE of the EAST, presenting as it does some of the RICHEST TREASURES of the TEXTILE ART of the ORIENT, worked in COLOUR combinations so DARING that they unhesitatingly carry the HALL-MARK of TRUE GENIUS. The QUALITY of the RUGS, both the ANTIQUES and the MODERN, is UNQUESTIONED.

It is a SHOW for ART-LOVERS, and a show for those who RECOGNISE MERIT in whatever form it may be. There are RARE DESIGNS prized by collectors who read TRADITIONS of the RACE in the CABALISTIC symbols and RELIGIOUS emblems that are woven in BEAUTIFULLY BLENDED colours. In the GENUINE OLD RUGS—rare antiques many of them are—the palpably once glaring Reds, Browns, Greens, and Blues, now RICH and WARM in TONE, have been SOFTENED and MELLOWED by the hand of TIME; THESE ALONE will MORE than REPAY inspection. Indeed, only PERSONAL EXAMINATION can FURNISH an ADEQUATE idea of their BEAUTY.

Visitors to the FINE ART GALLERY will discover that DISTINCT TYPES are to be seen in the PERSIAN and TURKISH Rugs; there is a WONDERFUL dissimilarity, for the reason that each family or tribe of weavers follows in the main, DESIGNS that have become a HERITAGE from GENERATION to GENERATION. And one MARVELS at the ART of a PEOPLE who COMBINE the varying shades of a FEW COLOURS into BEAUTIFUL PICTURES that SYMBOLISE the common FORMS of LIFE about them; all are represented.

Naturally, the QUESTION of COST has to be CONSIDERED, and it is HERE that our UNIQUE SYSTEM of paying CASH on the NAIL scored a GREAT TRIUMPH; it enabled us to SECURE this WONDERFUL COLLECTION of Rugs at a price FAR BELOW MARKET VALUE. In accordance with our UNBROKEN RULE, we AT ONCE pass on to our patrons the FULL BENEFIT of this ADVANTAGEOUS PURCHASE. Make a point of INSPECTING THE DISPLAY.

AN AUSTRALIAN WEEKLY

A New Novel: "The Dragon," ...BY... RUBY DOYLE.

"The Dragon" is a notable first novel, and will delight all readers. Miss Doyle has a fine literary style, and a keen sense of a dramatic situation. Her descriptive passages, wherein she deals with the Bush, disclose an appreciation of colour, and a Nature-sympathy that will stir the feelings of Australians.

There are powerful incidents that crash heavily, and in effective contrast there are delightful happenings in which children come and go.

A subtle suggestion of mystery pervades the book. It is free from the forced humour or the wild sensationalism of many novels of the period, and is a wholesome piece of work.

"The Dragon" begins publication in to-day's "Mail." It will be continued weekly, and will be well illustrated.

WUNDERLICH ART METAL CEILINGS.

When an admirer stands in contemplation of a WUNDERLICH ART METAL CEILING, he may naturally feel that such beauty and value cost much money. Let no man be deterred from investigating through any such fear. WUNDERLICH CEILINGS are comparatively cheap. They have first-instance cheapness—they cost very little at the outset. They have permanent cheapness—they need neither upkeep nor repair.

By their hygienic virtues they harbour neither dust, vermin, nor germs; by their economy and permanence—they neither crack nor discolour—by the sheer artistry of their design and execution, Wunderlich Ceilings are supreme. They have imitators, but no rivals.

Painted to suit any scheme of colouring, Wunderlich Art Metal can be adapted to any style of architecture or furniture. Wunderlich Art Metal is made only at Wunderlich Factories, and is equally suitable for town and country residences. We have ceilings for all classes of homes, offices, and public buildings. Freight is lower than for any other ceiling materials on the market.

FILL IN THE ATTACHED COUPON, and a copy of our Illustrated Art Catalogue, showing photographic reproductions of WUNDERLICH Manufactures, and full instructions for fixing, will be sent post free.

TEAM ARRIVES IN SYDNEY.

LEAGUE PROSPECTS IN NEW ZEALAND.

In spite of a turbulent sea, which one player said was as rough as some of New Zealand's football grounds, the team of League footballers from the Dominion arrived in Sydney yesterday by the steamer Ulimaroa, looking remarkably fit and well.

Their tour of eight matches in New South Wales and Queensland will be opened on Saturday at the Cricket Ground by a match against New South Wales. They also visit Maitland, Bathurst or Orange, and Brisbane, returning to New Zealand on June 28.

Twenty-one players arrived, and M. Hogan, of Wanganui, is due by the Maheno on Friday next. The manager of the team is Dr. Thacker, of Canterbury, a genial sporting spirit of the Dominion. He is regarded as the man who "discovered" Arnst, the sculler. Mr. S. Brue is joint manager of the side.

Yesterday afternoon the players turned out for practice on the Cricket Ground, and had as a field-mate, Daily Messenger, the great three-quarter. They looked sprightly and smart in their famous black jerseys, and when seen from a distance appeared to be rather on the small side. That was due, however, to the colour of their costumes. The average weight of the side is nearly 12½ stone. The players are very optimistic, and anticipate a successful tour in New South Wales and Queensland.

Aboard the boat they had as passengers the members of the Blue Bird company, who gave a concert in their honour. By wireless messages the team received results of New Zealand matches played last Saturday; also the result of the principal races. The players are:—G. Bradley, W. Kelly, R. Probstel, W. Miller (Wellington), W. J. Mitchell (Canterbury), C. Manning, H. Duval (Hawkes Bay), K. Ifwerson, A. Asher, A. Carlow, A. Jackson (Auckland). forwards: J. Rebe (Rotorua), C. Byrne, L. Campbell (Wellington), A. B. Shadbolt, C. Auld (Canterbury), H. Hayward (Thames), captain; C. Mitchell, C. King, S. Walters, J. Clarke (Auckland).

Following are the fixtures of the New Zealanders for Saturday and Monday next:—

Saturday.
New Zealand v New South Wales, at 3.15 p.m.

Early Match.

Monday (King's Birthday).
New Zealand v New South Wales, at 3.15.

Early Matches.
Three will be played for the President's Cup, commencing at 11.30 a.m., the fixtures being: South Sydney v St. George, Western Districts v Western Suburbs, and Newtown v North Sydney.

They play Maitland at Maitland on Wednesday next; on the Saturday following they will meet Queensland at Brisbane; and the return match is to be played on the Monday. On June 21 New South Wales will be again opposed at the Agricultural Ground, and at the same ground two days later. On June 25 they play at Bathurst or Orange. They leave for Wellington (N.Z.) on June 28.

Rukutai Savoury (who is under suspension), Pearce, and Webb had to drop out of the side at the last moment, and their places were filled by L. Campbell (Wellington), M. Hogan (Wanganui), A. B. Shadbolt (Canterbury), and A. Jackson (Auckland).

The players are staying at Grand View Hotel, Paddington. The majority of the players found difficulty in "finding their land legs" when they commenced practice yesterday, but in the course of an hour and a half they showed most promising form. The side is composed mostly of young players, who possess more than average speed, sufficient weight, and any amount of enthusiasm. Nine of the twenty-two men have visited New South Wales previously.

Speaking of the team's prospects, the manager, Dr. Thacker, told a "Herald" reporter that the best possible side had been chosen.

"We shall turn out a thirteen on Saturday that a Sydney crowd will be pleased with," he added. They play fast, attractive football, worthy of the best traditions of the League code. One man, if I may mention him as an example, is Probstel, of Wellington. He does a hundred yards in even time, and gives no end of trouble to the soundest of defences. He is only 20 years of age, and is therefore a player of great promise. Byrne will renew his acquaintance with New South Wales crowds. He went home and played with Huddersfield during the season they carried off the Northern Union championship. In the trial game at Wellington he was in great form, and we expect a great deal of him on Saturday. He is now farming at Puponga. Then we have Ifwerson, a great five-eighth; Mitchell, of Canterbury, who represented New Zealand when he played as a Union man; Manning, of Hawke's Bay, who has represented the North Island, and you know Kelly and Bradley. The latter will probably play full-back. He is as safe as the Bank of England.

Talking of the prospects of the League game in New Zealand, Dr. Thacker said it was making great strides all over the Dominion. Auckland was at present the strongest centre, but the great handicap was the lack of suitable grounds.

"A great many of our city councillors are supporters of the Union game," he went on, "and they oppose our application for the best grounds tooth and nail. We do not want preferential treatment, but justice. In spite of this opposition we are receiving Union men into our ranks every week, and the Union has gone so far as to inform those players who have left them and joined us that they will be welcomed back to the fold whenever they care to go. They won't go, however," added the doctor with a smile.

Considering that the game was only in its infancy in the Dominion he was hopeful that it would soon become as firmly established as it was in New South Wales.

"The visit of the New South Wales side to New Zealand in July next will attract thousands," he added, "and after they have seen a great display by the best exponents it will be plain sailing with us."

CITY COUNCIL.

PUNTING REFUSE TO SEA.

A long discussion took place at the meeting of the City Council last night on a recommendation by the health committee with regard to punting market refuse to sea.

The quotation by the contractor (Mr. Buckle) was considered excessive, but the Lord Mayor asked the council to agree to a temporary arrangement till some other means were adopted, and this was agreed to.

It was decided, on the motion of Alderman W. P. Fitzgerald, that the committee consider the advisability of applying for authority to borrow £12,000 for the purpose of acquiring three punts for this purpose.

CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUNDS.

A motion by Alderman Griffin that the health committee consider the matter of establishing a children's playground in Moore Park was adopted.

OXFORD-STREET.

A motion by Alderman Walker that the tenancy of occupiers of premises in the Oxford-street resumed area be extended to August 1 was carried by 14 votes to 7.

MISCELLANEOUS.

In reply to Alderman Lindsay Thompson, the Lord Mayor stated that £9632 19s 9d had been paid for insurance of the City Council's property for the last five years. The claims made by the council from loss by fire during that period totalled £6292.

It was decided that the opinion of counsel be obtained as to the power of the council to make the increases granted to workmen under the wages board award retrospective.

CLAN MACEWEN AGROUND.

FLOATS OFF UNAIDED.

The Sydney Marine Underwriters' Association received a cablegram yesterday stating that the steamer Clan Macewen had been ashore at Port Tewfik (Suez Canal), but got off without assistance.

The Clan Macewen left Port Pirie on April 8 for the United Kingdom, via ports.

FROM THE EAST.

IMPRESSIONS OF A MERCHANT.

THE PACE OF DEVELOPMENT.

What strikes a visitor to the East in his journeys from Southern China to the Dutch East Indies is the pace at which development is proceeding. That impression, more than anything else, can be gathered from the experiences related by Mr. C. E. Waters, of Sydney, of his recent tour in those regions. In the Philippines Mr. Waters had an interview with Mr. N. W. Gilbert, the Acting Governor-General, who stated that it was his intention to visit Australia. The Americans, he found, are spending large sums and working very hard and earnestly to develop the Philippines, and to educate the people. South China borders closely on a state of anarchy. "Piracy is very frequent," he said. "It would seem as though the great bulk of the people believe that now the Emperor has been deposed that there is no form of government. While I was on the West River a crew of 31 pirates was captured. As decapitation had been abolished, the men were condemned to be shot. But the execution was terribly bungled, many of the men not being killed outright at the first shots. Many of the British newspapers in China made a great outcry over the matter." Still, in spite of troublous times, Canton was found to be busier than ever before in its history. The present Government was making very real attempts to modernise the city. "It was regarded as a peculiarly fortunate accident by those authorities," Mr. Waters pointed out, "that a large portion of the Western end of the city was burned down during last November. Thus this section will be remodelled, wide streets will be constructed, and due regard paid to sanitation and general cleanliness." To the reformers such an accident as a large fire would be most opportune in the Canton of extremely narrow streets and enormous population.

In his journeyings in Tongking and the great French Indo-China Empire Mr. Waters was surprised to find rubber growing and prospering exceedingly in 20 deg. north latitude. The opinion generally held is that rubber will not grow further north or south than 10 degrees. It was in the Malay Peninsula that he found endless miles of rubber plantations. There the jungle is quickly giving place to the plantation. Tin-mining in the peninsula is also rapidly extending, and in that industry Australians are easily to the fore. To him it was a surprise to find so many Australians holding such important positions in this great territory. In the splendidly managed F.M.S. Railways there are Australians very close to the top on the managing staff. The chief assistant traffic manager is a Melbourne man. All the ports of the peninsula are growing rapidly, and everywhere is the familiar story that the trade has outgrown the capacity of the port to deal with it.

Sumatra is an island of immense possibilities, almost entirely undeveloped. It is known to be as rich as, if not richer than, Java, and now that the war with the Achinese, after lasting 40 years, is practically over, the people of the Straits believe that Sumatra will soon be developed, and another magnificent country added to the Dutch East Indies. "Here it may be mentioned," Mr. Waters declared, "that development has sometimes unexpected effects, as witness Singapore, where they set to work to spend huge sums of money constructing huge docks—you have seen the account of the great lawsuit over those very docks—but they found that the improvements were so expensive that they had to increase the shipping charges. They did so to such an extent that many of the big steamship lines said they could not afford to pay the rates, and went across to Sabang, in Sumatra, where the Dutch have erected all modern appliances for handling great quantities of coal. Hence this port bids fair to become a most important coaling station." In Java, where everybody appeared prosperous, every acre appeared to be cultivated, yet it was related that there was a lot of land which could not yet be developed because of the want of labour. This was in face of the fact that the Javanese native population numbers 35,000,000 people on an island 666 miles long, and varying from 40 to 125 miles in breadth. Borneo has also immense possibilities before it, on account of its richness. Development in the British sphere has been hindered because of an unlucky run of bad management, and Dutch Borneo, though it bids fair to become a profitable field for exploitation, yet remains undeveloped because of the shortage of labour. Yes, it is true," Mr. Waters continued, "The teeming East has difficulties on account of lack of labour. Even in India, whose soil has been dug over for centuries, they are talking of development which will need more labour."

Unfortunately Australians are not favourably regarded in the East. Something of this is due to our legislation, something to charges of bad faith in the way of trade, but most, perhaps, to the large number of undesirable "sports," who, attracted by the horse-racing in the various centres, "have made that racing the most shameful and shameless sport in the world." The way in which the New South Wales Government dealt with the Government House and the Governor-General was looked upon as a scandal, as a deliberate insult to the representative of the King in Australia. "It is considered that, at the very least," Mr. Waters said, "that the Government should have waited till the Governor-General finished his term of office before the Government House was taken back again. The people in the East are intensely loyal. They know that their very existence depends upon the might of the Empire, and any insult to the Empire or the King's representative is keenly resented. It is a fact that I was asked, 'When are you going to claim that you are totally independent of the Empire?'" As to the charges of mercantile bad faith, Mr. J. B. Suttor, the Government representative, has investigated some matters, and will forward the complaints to the Government here.

MESSRS. HOSKINS AND THE MINISTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The extraordinary and utterly misleading remarks of Mr. Griffith at Wollongong on Friday night, wherein he stated, amongst other things, that he had difficulty in getting cast-iron pipes, and that we had put up the price £1 per ton, compel us to reply, though we are heartily tired of exposing the sophistries, not to give them a harsher name, by which this gentleman has been doing his best to lower us in the estimation of the public, and who, by his action as Minister, has done his best to ruin us commercially.

He says we refused to sell him our works. We did nothing of the sort. He offered to buy the new portion of our works at Rhodes, and we replied that they were an indispensable part of our pipe-making plant. He says we offered to make him pipes at £8 per ton; we never did. Our lowest price under contract before Mr. Griffith took office was on an average of £8 10s per ton, and we continued to supply at that figure far beyond the quantity tendered for to the Water and Sewerage Board until the highly increased rate of wages compelled us to stop. We then asked for an increase of 10 per cent. on our prices. This Mr. Griffith declined to accept and called for fresh tenders, whereon going into exact figures we found the wages had increased by an average of at least 25 per cent., hence the rate of our present tender. He says we are going to make £100,000 in our four years' contract. We are delighted to hear it. We would be still more delighted to get it, but unfortunately his suggestion is based upon some information from South Australia, where we have over and over again shown him that no pipes of large sizes required for our mains here are made, and where, consequently, they have no data either to cost of manufacture or cost of plant to make them. We have both, and we say without hesitation that his information is valueless, and that his inference of our demand of extortionate profit he knows to be wrong. In proof of this in regard to this very contract we offered to take a four years' contract, the first two years to be at the schedule rates, the second two years to be based on a 10 per cent. profit on cost, with 5 per cent. extra for contingencies. Any one who knows anything of the risks attendant upon such a business will say whether such a proposal is exorbitant. Under such an arrangement, the Government would have had the benefit of all our patented labour-saving machinery, and the skill acquired by us during 30 years' work. So much for this statement of Mr. Griffith.

By his action in delaying settlement of this contract the Minister has thrown men out of employment for four months, kept back to a large extent the work of the Water and Sewerage Board, and by his continued threats to establish Government works has done what he can to deter private firms from entering into enterprises which however beneficial they may prove to the State, might be rendered useless to the individual through the action of a Minister establishing a rival concern just at the point when initial labour and cost had been overcome and the work began to be profitable.

We are, etc.,
G. and C. HOSKINS.

MR. HOLMAN IN LONDON.

LONDON, April 25.

On Tuesday of this week I heard Mr. Holman's last public utterance in London prior to his departure, two days hence, for Sydney. It was his address to the City Carlton Club, particulars of which have been cabled. Its subject was the significance of the States of Australia in their relation with the Commonwealth, and the idea underlying it was that little as the outside world thought of the Australian States as such, they have played, and are playing, important parts in the development of the Commonwealth. It was an excellent speech, and it made a good impression upon an audience of London city men, interested in Australia, but confessedly unable to think of our country in terms of its component parts.

It must be somewhat of an ordeal, even for an Australian politician, to address a gathering of this kind. Not that he would not be sure of a cordial reception. On the contrary, there is no more courteous audience in the world than such an one, and no audience—despite all the curious ideals abroad as to the aloofness of the Englishman—more ready to mark an occasion of the kind with cordiality and good-will. But it is essentially an audience of men who live upon another plane of thought altogether than that which is the Australian's accustomed. The City Carlton Club, for example, was represented on Tuesday by a couple of hundred gentlemen of the typical city type—substantial men, men of affairs, men schooled in the financial processes of the money market of the world. Conservatives to a man, and satisfied with a creed which was not only their fathers before them, but one under which they themselves have come to prosperous maturity, an alien country has developed into the marvellous centre of affairs they know it to be. There must of necessity be some lack of contact between such an audience, and a politician engaged in developing a country on lines often fundamentally antagonistic to their own, and sometimes running directly counter to their personal interests. But they never let a hint of it appear. Rather, they receive the Australian legislator with all warmth of greeting, they interest themselves in him, and they listen to what he has to say with every wish to agree as far as may be with his point of view. Thus, though Mr. Holman's explanation of the New South Wales railway development as a State undertaking never likely to be a matter of private companies, was received with a curious and significant pause of complete silence, Mr. Holman himself, and the manner and most of the matter of his speech, excited their ready applause.

Mr. Holman has, as a matter of fact, been well received in London generally, and will leave behind him an entirely satisfactory impression. The Australian in London is bound to rejoice in this whatever his political views may be, for the simple reason that the Australian in London knows how often our representative men fail to justify themselves in these strange surroundings, and how, as a result, Australian prestige suffers. Our latest representative has had, too, a wide range of experience of the official leaders of public affairs here. He has had audience of the King, and discussions on public affairs with the Prime Minister, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the Secretary of State for the Colonies. He has made speeches to the Royal Colonial Institute, to the Goldsmith Company, and to the official celebrants in London of St. Patrick's Day. Other engagements, formal and otherwise, have brought him into touch with such a variety of the men of the time as cannot fail to have made of his short visit here an entirely beneficial experience.

Summing up for me his own impressions, Mr. Holman had some interesting things to say. For one thing, his meeting with the King was of the greatest value. He was much impressed by his Majesty's spontaneity and readiness of utterance concerning Australian affairs. He had had an idea that monarchs spoke always from a brief, but he found King George possessed of wide personal knowledge of Australian affairs, and most genial in expression of himself.

Lord Haldane he saw by medium of a private lunch with him, and a long chat. He regards the Secretary for War as the most impressive personality in the Cabinet. Another Minister who impressed him was Sir Rufus Isaacs. Mr. Holman saw him under cross-examination by the Marconi committee, and summed him up as a man of immense ability and force of character. Really, says Mr. Holman, it was a case of Sir Rufus Isaacs examining the committee, and, indeed, guiding the inquiry generally.

In Paris, the Australian visitor had an interview with M. Poincare, the President of France, whom with Lord Haldane he regards as one of the two greatest men he has met. He found in this distinguished man, [illegible], courtesy and humanity personified, and combined, too, with great strength of personality. In the French capital he met also M. Jonnart, late Minister for Foreign Affairs, a typical French diplomat, courtly, and self-possessed, and M. Barthou, the present French Premier, who impressed him as very active-minded and of genial personality.

Mr. Holman found the President housed, in the Champs Elysees, more splendidly than the King at Buckingham Palace. But he does not think that the Chamber of Deputies compares with the Houses of Parliament at Westminster, these latter by far, in his opinion, the finest buildings in London.

Mr. Holman, like most visitors, was greatly impressed by the architectural beauty of London, and the fine effect of the more modern buildings. Wren's churches, he thinks, stand out, nevertheless, like gems. He was pleased to see that neither in Paris nor in London was there any tendency to "sky-scraper" freakishness.

The chief personal interest of his visit has been that concerned with the remarkable men he has met. But to find oneself actually in Piccadilly, says Mr. Holman, or to discover that there is a really a Turnham Green, and a Poultry, is an interest all its own. So also is the contact one has with the originals of familiar Australian names—Paddington, to wit, and many others.

The most remarkable place he has seen he believes to be Warwick Castle, a splendid combination of beauty and interest. As to churches, St. Peter's at Rome dwarfs all other buildings in his experience, though he confesses St. Paul's to have a deep charm of its own. But in ensemble, it is Paris that obliterates all his other impressions of travel—Paris, described by Mr. Holman as a city of concentrated brilliance and beauty.

Mr. Holman had opportunity in London of visiting some of the slum areas and criminal quarters of the East End. As his stay here has been too brief for serious investigation of a such a matter, this experience was more in the nature of curiosity. His main impression of the matter is concerned with the control that seems to be maintained over the vast existing mass of criminality and vice in submerged London. If the area he visited, says Mr. Holman, is really typical, then the problem of maintaining order has to some extent been solved by the excellent police measures adopted. As far as external appearances show, one can go through the most objectionable neighbourhoods at very late hours, without seeing any alarming symptoms of crime or disorder, and very little drunkenness. This he regarded as one more instance of the excellent management of London's affairs which has impressed him generally.

SILVERTON TRAMWAY EMPLOYEES

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The wages board appointed to deal with the claims of the Silverton Tramway Employees sat yesterday. Mr. C. F. Butler was chairman, with Mr. G. D. Delprat as employers' representative, and Mr. C. Knaust employees' representative. Mr. J. R. Edwards appeared for the company, but Mr. Manuel, secretary of the Employees' Union, objected to legal representation. A long argument followed, at the end of which the board and the parties went into conference in camera to consider the matters. The conference finally adjourned until Tuesday.

NATURALISTS' SOCIETY.

Mr. G. A. Waterhouse delivered a lecture entitled "The Geographical Distribution of Butterflies" at a meeting of the Naturalists' Society of New South Wales held in the Royal Society's House, Elizabeth-street, last night. Many of the species found in Australia came from New Guinea, Mr. Waterhouse said, indicating that there had been about three different invasions. Some of these specimens were to be found as far south as Sydney.

The monthly field excursion of the society will be held on Saturday next at Maroubra Bay.

KING'S BIRTHDAY.

GOVERNOR'S LEVEE.

In honour of the birthday of his Majesty, King George V., a levee was held yesterday by his Excellency, the State Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, at Parliament House. Flags flew from the Government buildings, and a crowd assembled in Macquarie-street to hear the Artillery Band and witness the arrival and departure of the Governor. The levee was very largely attended.

In front of the Legislative Chamber was drawn up a guard of honour from the Royal Australian Garrison Artillery under Captain Watts, while his Excellency was attended by an escort of lancers under Lieutenant A. R. Hordern. The Council Chamber was neatly decorated with palms and ferns. His Excellency received the citizens in the Legislative Council Chamber. Those with the right of private entree were first presented, and after them the citizens. In attendance upon his Excellency were General Finn, Colonel Campbell, Captain Talbot, and Captain Forbes. On the right of the Governor were the Admiral, Sir George King-Hall, and the Chief Justice, Sir William Cullen. On the dais behind his Excellency were the Premier, Mr. M'Gowen; the Lord Mayor of Sydney, Ald. A. A. Cocks; the State Commandant, Colonel Wallack; the Chancellor of the University, Sir Normand MacLaurin; Commander Brownlow, the members of the Judiciary, Ministers of the Crown, and heads of the Churches.

The following gentlemen had the privilege of private entree:—His Excellency the Admiral, Sir George King-Hall; the Chief Justice, Sir William Cullen; the Premier, Mr. M'Gowen; the State Commandant, Col. Wallack; Lt.-Col. Luscombe, Commander Brownlow, Sir Francis Suttor, Mr. C. G. Wade, the members of the State Ministry, Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Sly, Mr. Justice Street, Mr. Justice Gordon, Mr. Justice Harvey, Mr. Justice Ferguson, Mr. Justice Heydon, Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson, the Chancellor of the University, Sir Normand MacLaurin; Sir Albert Gould, Mr. Sydney Smith, Mr. John Perry, Mr. John Kidd, the Dean of Sydney, Archbishop Kelly, the Moderator of the Presbyterian Assembly, Rev. Alex Smith, the president of the Methodist Conference, the Rev. J. E. Carruthers; Chairman of the Congregational Union, the Rev. C. J. Cribb; Rabbi Cohen.

At the conclusion of the levee, a loyal address was presented to his Excellency from the Presbyterian Church, by the Moderator, the Rev. Alex. Smith, Principal Harper, of St. Andrew's College, and Dr. Burgess, Clerk of Assembly. His Excellency replied, thanking the Presbyterian Church for the address, and the sentiments of loyalty expressed therein.

The following also attended:—

SHOALS OF TESTIMONIALS!
Were we free to publish here one-tenth of the complimentary letters we receive every day, in which the writers extol our work, we should have no difficulty in convincing the most sceptical of the intrinsic merit of our portraiture. WE CAN, AND WILL, PLEASE YOU, because in regard to operative skill, posing, effective backgrounds, light-and-shade effects, tonal qualities, and beautiful finish, we leave nothing to be desired. It is those important features that render so popular our Rococo Portraiture, which is known all over the Mother State. It is obvious that if our Rococo Portraiture had not been successful and popular we would have dropped it years ago. As a matter of fact, it has for the past fourteen years been at once a SOURCE OF PROFIT TO US, AND OF DELIGHT TO THOUSANDS OF OUR FELLOW CITIZENS, who ever accord their warm support to our

STATE FINANCE.

Although the State revenue maintains its buoyancy, there are indications that the Government is in for a bad time as the financial year closes. We pointed out in our financial columns yesterday that there is every probability of a deficit of a million. The Treasurer will, no doubt, argue that there is nothing in that to cause anxiety, since the security behind is better than ever; for the money has been spent in developing the State. But it is well in these times to remember that no security is worth much if it cannot be used when most wanted. We do not suppose for a moment that the holders of our debentures have any doubt about our solvency. The price of our stock in the market shows that there is sufficient confidence in us to justify the claim that New South Wales is in good repute; and those who would argue to the contrary have to explain why people are so ready to buy at rates satisfactory to everybody concerned. We have insisted, and still contend, that a Labour Government in this State has not helped our credit, but has made many of our well-wishers abroad very doubtful about the future. Capital is not being invested here in consequence, and as a result money is tighter than it need be. But allowing for the pros and cons in this way, the position stands that no Government can afford in doubtful and difficult times like the present to drive with reins loose and brake off. No amount of assurance as to the value of the State's assets will alter the fact that money cannot be obtained to-day except at rates altogether too high for prudent finance, since deficits mean debts, and loans involve more borrowing. Victoria is arranging a loan of three millions, but she has to pay more than 4 per cent. for it. The minimum is placed at 98, and it may be that it will be quoted at par before long. Yet during the years of its currency the State will probably carry the full burden of more than 4 per cent. Loans falling due have to be redeemed or converted, and meanwhile an urgent demand exists everywhere for public works.

If in such circumstances the State Governments of Australia cannot square their accounts, but are either substituting deficits for the surpluses which have recurred for so many years, or are preparing the way for them, there is bound to be trouble. Western Australia, which is under Labour rule, is following New South Wales, since the revenue and expenditure returns show a mounting balance on the wrong side. Victoria may be borrowing at high rate because she must, but at any rate her public finances are being properly controlled; and as much may be said for the other States not mentioned. Only where Labour rules is there any disposition to be reckless as to the future. South Australia, under Liberal rule, the other day had to mark time. The Acting Premier received a cable from the Premier in London, last week stating that the money market was very hard for colonial borrowing, "and was disturbed by large foreign loans at high rates of interest, with heavy discounts." Then came the announcement that, as it was impossible to float a loan on advantageous terms, he had obtained half a million of money for twelve months at a fraction over 4 per cent. Our own Treasurer has been obliged to do the same thing. But the point is that unless our ordinary revenue and expenditure are made to balance—and a deficit of a million may be announced almost at once—the position is going to be more difficult than ever. On Monday our cables quoted the London papers as showing that the leading underwriters were determined to abstain from further business until the glut of new securities was absorbed, and now to-day we have word of heavy sales on the Stock Exchange, owing to rumours of financial troubles. This does not necessarily mean world-wide disaster, or even sectional panic, but it certainly points to the need for care. Until the Balkans are settled anything may happen, and while the Powers are anxious for peace they may not be able to keep control of a difficult situation. Therefore, the Government of this State will do well to accept the Liberal cue, and not play the game of the gambler.

PAID ALDERMEN.

As the Greater Sydney Commission continues its inquiry it is becoming increasingly evident that a considerable body of municipal opinion is opposed to the idea. Their objections cannot be dismissed with the jibe that suburban dignitaries are so full of their own importance that they are not likely to support any proposal making for their extinction. No doubt such a thought may be present in the minds of some, but the opposition of most is perfectly reasonable. The arguments fall into two classes. In the first place many think that a Greater Sydney would be too unwieldy an organism, and that its council could not hope to administer so large an area with any degree of efficiency. In the second place there is a feeling that any Greater Sydney scheme would saddle the suburbs with the city's huge debt to the prejudice of ratepayers. Both objections are plausible, but not final. It is not necessary for a Greater Sydney to assume control of every foot of land within the metropolitan area. Some suggest that the northern side of the harbour should be left entirely outside its scope; others that the metropolitan area should be divided into two zones, an inner and the outer, and that the services of the outer should be on a less complete scale, and consequently less expensive to maintain. As far as the other point goes, it should be remembered that the rates of the City Council on the unimproved value of land do not compare unfavourably with those of many other municipalities, and that while amalgamation might, on the existing scale, involve an increase in some cases, it would also mean a reduction in others.

In connection with the whole question, another interesting point was raised by Mr. Meagher. He, whether as a member of Parliament or as a city alderman is not stated, declared that the duties of a member of a Greater Sydney Council would be so exacting that if they were to be properly performed a salary would be necessary. Mr. Meagher contended that a municipal council stood on the same footing as Parliament in this respect, and that if we pay our legislators we should also pay our aldermen. Surely the principle of payment to municipal representatives demands a stronger argument than that, for we confess that we fail to see the analogy between the two. A member of Parliament may represent a country electorate, and may have to leave his occupation for a whole session. Even if he represents a city constituency, the hours when Parliament sits make it impossible for him to do his ordinary work for weeks at a time. He is virtually deprived of the power of earning, except at intervals, and consequently, unless he received some remuneration, the doors of Parliament House would be open only to those who have independent means, or whose vocation is not one which requires constant attention. With municipal government it is quite different. Attendance at council meetings does not interfere with the alderman's ordinary work. Neither leisure nor wealth is necessary to the aspirant for municipal honours. Even with a Greater Sydney Parramatta would be the furthest point from which he would have to come, and it is hard to conceive that the council's duties would ever be so arduous as to necessitate meeting during "business hours." At present we have concrete proof that municipal government is not the preserve of the leisured in the fact that the City Council is composed of men who have to earn their bread and butter during the day, and who do not find that their civic activities prejudice them in their ordinary walks of life. Before we adopt Mr. Meagher's suggestion we must be convinced that municipal service is incompatible with a man's private work, otherwise it will involve the community in needless expense, and will open the door to various unpleasant possibilities. The phrase "professional politician" connotes nothing discreditable, for such a one is often a man who has sacrificed his own prospects in the interests of his country. But the phrase "professional alderman" savours of comic opera, and as long as we can get men of all classes and circumstances to serve the city out of pure civic patriotism, and without prejudice to themselves, it would be unwise to depart from that principle.

TRADE ANOMALIES.

A somewhat striking instance of the manner in which trade is diverted from inter-Imperial to foreign channels is given in a message from New Zealand, which we publish this morning. A firm was able to send a shipment of goods from Hamburg to Lyttelton, via London, at the rate of 42s 6d per ton. Another shipment of the same class of goods sent direct from London cost 67s 6d per ton—a difference of nearly sixty per cent. Complaints have been made from time to time by Chambers of Commerce in Australasia to a similar effect, and some examples of the differences in freight charged by German and British lines respectively were given in evidence before the Dominions Royal Commission in Brisbane and elsewhere. There is, of course, no doubt that some foreign shipping companies are cutting freights very closely with a view to capturing trade, and there is always a point below which it is not possible to go when competition is pressed to extreme limits. But the example quoted from New Zealand, and other similar instances, are so striking, and the differences in freight charged are so great, that some explanation should be forthcoming from the British shipping companies on the matter. It is understood that the Dominions Commissioners when they return to London are to examine representatives of the companies on the subject, and it is to be hoped that they will be able to justify the present position. Freight is, of course, not the only consideration in connection with the successful competition of foreign shipowners. There is some ground for the complaint on the part of commercial men that with some lines at all events the bill of lading granted is onerous and unjust as compared with the similar document accepted by foreign companies.

Again, punctuality in delivery, satisfactory storage of cargo on board, complete discharge of obligations, and other matters have been mentioned from time to time as providing inducements to traders in the Commonwealth to prefer the foreign to the British vessel. It would not be surprising to find that one of the reasons for the present position is that British shipping companies, like British manufacturers, are doing so well in other directions that they can afford to neglect the colonial customer. Mr. Johnson complained to the Dominions Commission that he could not obtain tenders for steel rails from British firms, and even when orders were accepted had great difficulty in securing delivery. The answer given to him by Mr. Lorimer, one of the Commissioners, whose own firm (the Steel Company of Scotland) was specially mentioned by Mr. Johnson as blameworthy, was that British manufacturers had as much work as they could accomplish in the home market and elsewhere, without needing to pay special attention to the distant market oversea. This is no doubt true as a reason for the attitude adopted. Yet we cannot help feeling that in the long run it must injure the British manufacturer to neglect the large and growing Imperial market. The difficulty is that it is not always possible to retrieve lost ground at any time when it suits the manufacturer. When once the foreign trader gains a foothold, and relations are established, and contracts made extending over a period of years, vested interests are created which are difficult to dislodge. The same is true with regard to shipping, and if British shipping companies desire to maintain their present supremacy they must not neglect the reasonable demands made upon them, or treat with contempt the growing competition of their foreign rivals.

THE PRISONS IN 1912.

Although the report of the Comptroller-General of Prisons shows that the number of persons received into the gaols of this State during the last year exhibits an increase of 19 per cent. over the figures for the previous year, this increase proves to be, comparatively speaking, unimportant. The prison statistics for the previous twenty-seven years showed such a remarkable improvement that it was a matter of certainty that a turning point must be reached sooner or later. Probably there are not many citizens who realise how satisfactory the figures with regard to imprisonment in this State have been; but the fact is that since 1885, whilst the population of the State has been continuously increasing, the number of prisoners has been continuously diminishing. There were 20,740 gaol entries in 1885, when the population stood at 980,573. In 1911, with a population of 1,695,088, there were only 9532 gaol entries. In 1891 no less than 256 persons were sentenced to terms of three years or more. In 1895 these heavy sentences fell below 200; in 1908 they fell below 100; in 1911 they reached 72, and last year 70. In 1894 the higher Courts were called on to deal with nearly 70 cases to every 100,000 of the population; in 1899 they had only to deal with 50; in 1907 with 34, and last year with 28. And the administration of its prisons, which cost the State £129,059 in 1895, fell to £103,000 in 1902, and reached its lowest mark, £82,130, in 1910. It was not to be expected that this could go on for ever. The gaol entries last year rose from 9532 to 11,361. But, except for 1911 and 1910, this was better than any year since 1874. The entries to the prisons are as low to-day, with a population of nearly 1,800,000, as they were about 30 years before, with a population of 600,000.

The whole of last year's increase of nearly 2000 consists of prisoners convicted to short sentences, presumably for the less serious sort of crime. The number receiving terms of three years or more was slightly less than in 1911. At the same time an increase of nearly 2000 in short sentences, although it may not indicate a serious growth of crime, does point to an unsatisfactory aspect of the present system of punishments. It is beyond dispute that the short sentence is almost worse than useless. It has no effect as a deterrent, and in many cases it simply manufactures a criminal. In the case of women, especially, this is noticeable. The report admits that with women offenders, "as far as deterrence is concerned, the terms imposed are futile." And yet of the 1629 women received in the gaols, only 92 were serving a longer term than three months. No less than 559 were sentenced to less than a week, and 667 to sentences varying from a week to a month. The report states that most of these cases are probably "hopeless of improvement." The problem appears to be one rather of education in the first instance. Vagrancy, which is also a hopeless form of crime, may be dealt with, as the Comptroller recommends, by making habitual vagrants liable to detention in Government asylums for an indeterminate period. The indeterminate sentence has undoubtedly been useful as a deterrent to habitual criminals, and it keeps them out of harm's way. As a means of reformation it is disappointing. Since the system was introduced only one habitual criminal had been released on the ground solely of improvement; and after seven months he had to be recommitted for stealing.

The "Sydney Mail."—One of the outstanding features of the Federal elections was the large muster of women in every centre anxious to record their votes. The "Mail" has a page of interesting snapshots, illustrating this phase of the great contest. Several admirable photographs depict scenes in connection with the Blue Mountains centenary celebrations at Mount York and Mount Victoria. The opening ceremony at the Western Australian naval base, Cockburn Sound, is the subject of several pictures. There is an interesting sketch of George Trench Angas, that distinguished old-time Australian artist, whose works in the "Angas collection" are highly prized by Adelaide lovers of art. The polo carnival at Muswellbrook is illustrated, and there are more pictures taken at the Goondiwindi polo carnival, the latter showing a large number of motor-cars from the surrounding stations. The Wilcannia picnic races are pictorially dealt with, and Broken Hill and Adelaide visitors to the carnival at that river town are shown inspecting a camel camp. The launch of the Aquitania, the largest steamer in the world, is shown. Views of the wheat country between Wyalong and Lake Cudgellico are of especial interest in view of the turning of the first sod of the railway to connect those centres next Saturday. "Milroy," continuing his historical series anent the British thoroughbred, deals with the House of Blacklock. In this issue is the first instalment of the "Mail's" new serial, "The Dragon."

King's Birthday.—Yesterday was the anniversary of the birthday of his Majesty King George V., and the city streets were decorated with numerous flags in honour of the event. The men-o'-war in port displayed bunting, as did also the flagstaff at Garden Island. H.M.S. Psyche fired a salute of 21 guns at noon. His Excellency the State Governor (Sir Gerald Strickland) held a birthday levee at Parliament House. The public holiday will be observed on Monday next.

Seats for Non-Smokers.—"There is no more selfish animal alive than the man who indulges in a smoke," declared Alderman Barlow, in opposing a motion at the City Council last night that the proposal to reserve seats for non-smokers in Wynyard Park should be not approved. "What about the selfishness of the women who get into the smokers' compartments in the trams?" suggested Alderman Lindsay Thompson amid laughter. Alderman Lawrence contended that it would be absurd to set apart seats for non-smokers. If they were going to cater in this manner for all sections of the community they would be asked next to provide seats for teetotallers. After further discussion the motion was negatived.

"A Sinecure."—Attention was drawn by Alderman Evan Jones at last night's meeting of the City Council to the references that had been made by Alderman Meagher to the representatives of the City and suburban councils on the Water and Sewerage Board. Alderman Jones, who is one of the representatives of the City Council on that body, hoped that no reflections were intended. "No one knows better than Alderman Jones," replied Alderman Meagher, "that the office is purely a sinecure." "What?" exclaimed Alderman Jones with a look of pained surprise. "A sinecure, did you say?" "Yes, I did," said Alderman Meagher, "and you know it."

A Wet May.—Mr. Tebbutt, writing from his observatory under date May 31 says:—"The total rainfall for May amounts to 14.709 inches, which is 11.817 inches above the average for the month from 51 years' observations. The greatest and least falls for May since 1862 are respectively 21.531 inches in 1889, and 0.257 inch in 1908. The month just expired, next to May, 1889, claims to be the wettest May in the annals of the observatory. The third May in the descending order of rainfall is that of 1870, when 8.091 inches were recorded. The average rainfall for the first five months of the year as deduced from 51 years' observations, is 15.606 inches, whereas we have already had a rainfall since December 31, 1912, amounting to 27.583 inches."

A Press Gallery Bed.—Mr. Bonar Law, at the dinner of the House of Commons Press Gallery last month, stated (says a London exchange) that Sir Henry Lucy had generously given £1000 to the London Hospital for the endowment of a "Press Gallery bed," which shall always be available for the use of members of the Press Gallery, their wives, and children, in time of sickness. Sir Henry's intention had been known before, but the definite form of the gift was announced for the first time. Press and Parliament alike owe many debts to "Toby, M.P.," not only for this and his previous munificent endowment of the Press Gallery Fund, but for the high standard of duty and dignity which he has always set before his colleagues.

Habitual Criminals.—Some difficulty presents itself," writes the Comptroller-General of Prisons, Mr. Macfarlane, in his annual report, "in connection with the question of determining when habitual criminals should be released, as it is doubtful whether it will be possible at any time to say that reformation has been accomplished. Excluding those in whose cases the declaration has been remitted for various reasons, eight habitual criminals have been released, of which number seven were allowed their liberty on medical grounds principally. One habitual criminal, however, was conditionally released in January, 1912, to allow of his accepting employment open to him. For some months the police reported that the man was leading a steady life, and was not mixing with his old associates. He was also in constant employment, and giving satisfaction to his employer. Some seven months after his release he was sentenced to six months' hard labour for stealing, and was recommitted to former place of confinement as an habitual criminal. As the habitual criminal strongly protested his innocence he was advised to appeal. The habitual criminal did so, but at the hearing the case against him was even stronger than at the police court. His appeal was therefore dismissed, and he will have to go through a further period of treatment as an habitual criminal."

Jury Sittings.—The hearing of jury causes will commence in three Courts to-morrow. The list shows a total of nearly 70 cases, which is a considerable advance on the number set down for some time past. It is expected that the action, Gregg v the Commissioner of Railways and Tramways, which appears in the Banco list for the 5th instant, and is a resumption matter, will occupy a week. There is also the case of Murray and others v the Commonwealth of Australia, entered in the same Court for the 17th instant; and in a lengthy list of cases in No. 2 Jury Court there is the action, Carmichael v "Watchman" Newspaper, Ltd.

Prison Statistics.—The Comptroller-General of Prisons' report contains some interesting statistics. In 1885, when the population of New South Wales stood at 98,573, the gaol entries for the 12 months were 20,740, and at Dec. 31 of that year there were 2562 persons in prison. Last year, with a population of 1,780,920, there were 11,361 gaol entries, while on December 31 there were 1363 prisoners. In 1912 the proportion of prisoners to the general population was 1 in 1306.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor held a levee in honour of his Majesty's Birthday at the Legislative Council Chamber at 12 noon, yesterday.

His Excellency the Governor received an address after the levee, from the Moderator and the members of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Australia in the State of New South Wales.

His Excellency the Governor, attended by General Finn, Private Secretary, and Captain Talbot, A.D.C., dined with his Excellency the Admiral at Admiralty House last night.

The Prime Minister is expected to arrive in Sydney this morning by the train due at the Central Railway Station at 10.45. The general secretary of the P.L.L., Mr. J. Grant, had a notice posted at the Trades Hall last night, cordially inviting those who can make it convenient to be present to join in extending a hearty welcome to Mr. Fisher.

Archbishop Carr, of Melbourne, the Coadjutor Archbishop, Dr. Mannix, and the Bishop of Ballarat (Dr. Higgins) arrived in Sydney by the Melbourne express yesterday, and are the guests of Archbishop Kelly at Manly.

Sir William Hall Jones, formerly High Commissioner for New Zealand, and Lady Hall Jones, who have been in Sydney for some weeks, will leave for Wellington by the Ulimaroa on Saturday.

Mr. Justice McIntyre, Senior Puisne Judge of the Tasmanian Supreme Court, has announced his intention to resign. He recently obtained six months' leave of absence, and the announcement of his retirement came somewhat as a surprise when made in the Supreme Court at Hobart yesterday.

Mr. W. S. Keast, M.L.A., arrived in Sydney from Melbourne yesterday.

Mr. W. A. Holman has arrived at Adelaide by the French mail steamer Nera, and will continue his journey to Sydney by express, leaving Adelaide to-day.

Mr. G. Bradshaw, Government Poultry Expert, who is shortly leaving for a trip to England, was the recipient of a travelling outfit from his fellow officers in the Agricultural Department on Friday evening last. The presentation was made by the Acting Under-Secretary. Mr. Bradshaw, who is also an inspector under the Commerce Act, was entertained on Monday night at the Woolbrokers' Arms, Pyrmont, by the exporters and others connected with the rabbit industry, Mr. Williams, of Messrs. Curtis and Curtis, making the presentations, which preceded an enjoyable entertainment and musical evening.

Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Bowden will leave Sydney on Wednesday next by the Inaba Maru for a three months' trip to Eastern ports. Mr. Bowden has been secretary of the New South Wales Cricket Association since 1895, and has not enjoyed good health lately. Alderman W. P. M'Elhone, ex-chairman of the Australian Board of Control and chairman of the executive committee of the New South Wales Cricket Association, will also be a passenger by the same boat.

The death is announced of Mr. P. A. Philips, late of Auckland (N.Z.), who was one of the oldest settlers, having reached New Zealand about 1843. He had long public service, and was the first Mayor of Auckland. The late Mr. Philips took considerable interest in municipal affairs practically up to the time of his death. Recently he gave evidence before the Greater Sydney Commission. Of a number of sons, the only one resident in Sydney is Mr. Sydney W. Philips, of Messrs. Philips and Pike, Equitable-building.

NEW HOURS.

Edward Carlisle, Parliamentary Draftsman, Melbourne.

I.S.O.

J. F. Andrews, Secretary to the New Zealand Cabinet.

M. W. Holtze, Director of the Adelaide Botanic Gardens.

C. R. Scrivener, Commonwealth Surveyor-General.

KAISAR-I-HIND MEDAL.

The Kaisar-i-Hind medal has been conferred on Commissioner Booth-Tucker, of the Salvation Army, for public services in India.

Sir Gerald Strickland, who holds the title of Count Della Catena in Malta, his birthplace, received the C.M.G. Order from her Majesty Queen Victoria in 1890, in recognition of his services as chairman of the Malta Cholera Commission, and was raised to the knighthood in 1897. From 1904 to 1909 his Excellency was Governor of Tasmania, and from 1909 till a few months ago was Governor of Western Australia, being the only Governor who has served in three Australian States.

Sir James M. Barrie began life as a newspaper man, turned novelist, and then became a playwright. Every novel of his left the public grateful to the writer. And so with his dramas. His first play "Walker, London," produced by Mr. Toole at his own theatre in 1892, made a memorable success. His novels include "A Window in Thrums," "When a Man's Single," "My Lady Nicotine," and "The Little Minister." His best known plays are "Peter Pan," "The Professor's Love Story," "The Admirable Crichton," "Little Mary," and "What Every Woman Knows." He also wrote his mother's life in "Margaret Ogilvie."

As editor and part proprietor of the "West Australian" newspaper, Sir Winthrop Hackett has exerted great influence in his State, and has also been identified with all the leading public institutions in Perth, taking an especially prominent part in connection with the establishment of the University. He has sat in the Western Australian Legislative Council ever since the creation of that body in 1890. He attended all the councils and conventions held to advance Australian Federation, and rendered conspicuously able service.

Sir Richard Butler was Premier and Treasurer of South Australia from March to July, 1905, Minister of Education and Agriculture from 1898 to 1899, Minister for Lands from 1902 to 1905, and Treasurer from 1909 to June, 1910. He was born at Oxford, England, in 1850, and came to South Australia in 1854.

Sir Alexander MacCormick, of Macquarie-street, is one of the foremost surgeons in Australia. He is lecturer on surgery at the Sydney University, and was consulting surgeon with the British Army in the Boer War. A sketch of his career appears elsewhere.

Sir J. Forbes-Robertson, the famous actor, a sketch of whose career appeared in Saturday's "Herald," is 60 years of age. He has been on the stage since he was 21 years of age, being the leading actor first at Bancroft's and then at Hare's theatres, till he became a theatrical manager himself in 1896.

Sir T. B. Robinson, who has been Agent-General for Queensland since 1910, was for many years managing partner in Walter Reid and Co., of Rockhampton. He afterwards became manager of the British-India and Queensland Agency Company, Ltd., in Brisbane, and partner in M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn and Co., as well as a director of the Federal Steam Navigation Company and other companies.

Col. Miller is Administrator of the Federal Capital territory, in which capacity he bears the title of "His Excellency." Born in Sydney in 1857, he joined the New South Wales Civil Service, and rose rapidly to responsible positions. He was in succession secretary to the Surveyor-General, assistant accountant in the Lands Department, chief clerk in the Government Printing Office, and Treasury inspector. He entered the Federal Service in 1901, being appointed secretary to the Department of Home Affairs. He served in the Boer War with the 6th Imperial Bushmen's contingent under Col. Kenneth M'Kay.

Sir John H. Biles, the well-known authority on naval architecture, was for many years in the constructing department of the Admiralty, and afterwards naval architect to the Clyde shipbuilding yard. He has been Professor of Naval Architecture at the Glasgow University since 1891, and has served on various Admiralty and Board of Trade committees. He is the consulting naval architect to the Commonwealth Government. He is 59 years of age.

Sir Edward Schafer, who has been Professor of Physiology at Edinburgh University since 1899, was for several years general secretary of the British Association. He is the author of numerous scientific works.

NAVAL DEFENCE.

NEW ZEALAND INDEPENDENT.

AUCKLAND, Tuesday.

Interviewed regarding naval defence on his return from England, the Minister for Defence, Mr. Allen, said he could not disclose anything definite till the Premier and the Cabinet were consulted. New Zealand's policy must be decided by the Government.

The statement made by Mr. Fisher last month that he had confidential information that New Zealand and Australia would soon be working together on naval matters was referred to Mr. Allen. "We are certainly not going to place ourselves under Australian control," he replied with emphasis. "The question whether there will be a system of joint Australasian control is another matter which I am not saying anything about," he added. "Two people are required to make a bargain, and if anything on these lines is done, New Zealand's control of the Dominion section will be strictly conserved." Defence of the Pacific was the special duty of Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. He had come back with a definite recommendation as the result of consultations with the Committee of Imperial Defence. He would not say more than that."

WHEN PARLIAMENT MEETS.

THE DEADLOCK PROVISION.

As from all indications a Liberal majority, though small, is assured in the House of Representatives at the same time that a strong Labour majority will be entrenched in the Senate, it is not merely a matter of interest, but of practical politics, to consider the new situation which has thus arisen.

It is obvious that a party able to veto in one House measures passed by the other can bring legislation to a complete standstill. Such a position has never yet arisen in the Federal Parliament of Australia. With quite minor exceptions, the course of legislation, as between the two Houses has run smoothly enough. As a result of this, a general public feeling has been engendered that the Senate is very much a replica of the Legislative Councils with which the people of Australia are familiar.

It is well within the realm of probabilities that the Senate may present itself in an entirely new character in the course of the next few months. Should this anticipation be borne out, the true position of the Senate will, for good or for evil, be made manifest, and as a result the wisdom or otherwise of the principle of equal representation will again present itself as a topic for public discussion.

When the Constitution was in the making this was one of the chief bones of contention, it being freely urged that by equal representation the wishes of the people, as expressed in the House of Representatives, might be entirely nullified by the representatives of the States speaking and acting in the Senate.

It is perhaps early yet to speculate as to the probable attitude likely to be taken up by the Labour party in the Senate, but it is inconceivable, seeing how strongly it is established there, that a conflict between the two Houses can long be delayed. In view of the probability of such a conflict arising, it is of interest to turn to the Constitutional provisions dealing with deadlocks. These read as follows:—

"If the House of Representatives passes any proposed law, and the Senate rejects or fails to pass it, or passes it with amendments to which the House of Representatives will not agree, and if after an interval of three months the House of Representatives, in the same or the next session, again passes the proposed law with or without any amendments which have been made, suggested, or agreed to by the Senate, and the Senate rejects or fails to pass it, or passes it with amendments to which the House of Representatives will not agree, the Governor-General may dissolve the Senate and the House of Representatives simultaneously. But such dissolution shall not take place within six months before the date of the expiry of the House of Representatives by effluxion of time.

"If, after such dissolution, the House of Representatives again passes the proposed law, with or without any amendments which have been made, suggested, or agreed to by the Senate, and the Senate rejects or fails to pass it, or passes it with amendments to which the House of Representatives will not agree, the Governor-General may convene a joint sitting of the members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives.

"The members present at the joint sitting may deliberate, and shall vote together upon the proposed law as last proposed by the House of Representatives, and upon amendments, if any, which have been made therein by one House and not agreed to by the other; and any such amendments which are affirmed by an absolute majority of the total number of the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, shall be taken to have been carried; and if the proposed law, with the amendments, if any, so carried, is affirmed by an absolute majority of the total number of the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, it shall be taken to have been duly passed by both Houses of the Parliament, and shall be presented to the Governor-General for the King's assent."

It will be seen, therefore, that if the House of Representatives passes a law which is rejected by the Senate, and again passes it after an interval of three months, and it is again rejected by the Senate, the Governor-General may order a dissolution of both Houses. So far as the Senate is concerned, this means the election of the whole of the thirty-six members. If the deadlock continues after the elections, the Governor-General may order a joint sitting of both Houses, and a law passed by an absolute majority of the members of both Houses becomes law. It should be noted that the joint sitting can only take place after the double dissolution of Parliament. The present position of parties might be, and probably would be, entirely altered after the second election. Any speculation as to the constitution of parties at such joint sitting is therefore futile.

DOMINION'S DRINK BILL.

WELLINGTON, May 30.

Details of the Dominion's "drink bill" for 1912, prepared by the New Zealand Alliance, are interesting. It is based upon the Customs returns of liquor cleared for home consumption and that manufactured in the Dominion. The period covered is for the 12 months ended December 31 last, and the figures are as under:—

Spirits, 867,796 galls., at £2 per gal. (increase over 1911 of [illegible] gals.), £1,735,592; wines, etc., 152,616 gals., at £2 per gal. (increase 10,464 gals.), £307,232; imported beer, 296,284 gals., at 6s per gal. (increase 22,738 gals.), £88,914; beer brewed in New Zealand, [illegible] gals., at 4s per gal. (increase 380,190 gals.), £1,957,424. Total, £4,081,162, an increase of £221,791 over the amount for 1911.

The estimated mean population of the Dominion for the year was 1,088,860, including 49,844 Maoris, which gives an expenditure per head of £3 14s 11½d—an increase of 2s 5d as compared with 1911.

Mr. A. S. Adams, who compiled the statement, says that in New South Wales the increase for the same period was 2s 5d, but he adds that if the basis of computation adopted in New South Wales were applied in our case the consumption per head would appear as £3 1s 5d instead of £3 14s 11½d.

The figures, he goes on to say, ought surely to give all thoughtful persons serious cause for reflection. The sum of £4,081,162 would pay the whole of the passenger fares and freight for goods carried on all the railways in the Dominion, and, in addition, pay interest on the total cost of the whole railway system, and then leave a balance in credit. It would pay the whole cost of education three times over, and leave a balance sufficient to recoup to the Treasury the whole liquor revenue.

Taking the average household as being of five persons, the average expenditure on drink per household (including children of all ages) works out at £18 14s 9½d. Now, says Mr. Adams, it is, of course beyond question that in many homes all the inmates are practically abstainers, and the same remark applies to the inmates of asylums, hospitals, gaols, and other institutions. It follows, therefore, that the charge for drink upon the income of homes where the inmates use (or abuse) it must attain a much higher average.

MEETING OF PREMIERS.

HOPEFUL OUTLOOK.

SOFIA, June 2.

It is stated that the Premiers of Bulgaria, Servia, Montenegro, and Greece are to meet in St. Petersburg.

VIENNA, June 3.

The proposed meeting of the Balkan Premiers is welcomed here, though it is doubted whether they will have their respective military parties sufficiently in hand to enable them to arrange a tolerable modus vivendi.

BELGRADE, June 3.

The meeting between M. Gueshoff, Premier of Bulgaria, and M. Pasitch, Premier of Servia, at Tsaribrod, was of a cordial nature.

Servia is now willing to demobilise if Bulgaria will also do so.

M. Gueshoff did not commit himself in regard to a revision of the treaty between the allies.

M. Pasitch suggested an economic convention, to be strengthened later by a military convention.

The general belief is that the danger of a conflict between Bulgaria and Servia has now been removed.

IMPERIAL NAVY.

CURRENT PROGRAMME.

INFLUENCE OF CANADIAN ACTION.

LONDON, June 2.

In the House of Commons to-day, Sir J. B. Lonsdale (Unionist) asked Mr. Winston Churchill (First Lord of the Admiralty) whether the Government was laying down three additional Dreadnoughts during the current year.

Mr. Churchill replied: The situation arising from the action of the Canadian Legislature is receiving the attention of the Government, and I hope to be able to make a statement during the present month.

MARCONI CONTRACT.

THE "NEW WITNESS" CASE.

GODFREY ISAACS' EVIDENCE.

LONDON, June 3.

The trial was continued to-day of Cecil Chesterton, editor of the "New Witness," on a charge of libelling Godfrey Isaacs, managing director of the Marconi company, whom he accused of corruptly conspiring with Sir Rufus Isaacs (Attorney-General) and Mr. Herbert Samuel (Postmaster-General) in connection with the contract with the Post Office for the erection of imperial wireless stations.

Godfrey Isaacs was sharply cross-examined in reference to his connection with the Saint David Gold Mines, the questions apparently being based on the allegations of Lockwood, who is the owner of the patents.

Witness stated that when Lockwood was dismissed he pointed a pistol at his (witness's) head and threatened to shoot him.

Witness denied that he had cornered Marconi shares.

THE COMMONS INQUIRY.

The committee appointed to inquire into the contract secured by the Marconi company from the Post Office for the erection of wireless stations in the Imperial chain yesterday discussed the matter of the final form of its report. The alternative report prepared by the Unionist members, who do not agree with that of the chairman, Sir Albert Spicer, was rejected.

REBELLION IN PERSIA.

TEHERAN, June 3.

Salar-ed-Dowleh's forces are within a couple of days' march of Resht. They killed the Sipahdah's grandson near Tunekeboom.

MONEY MARKET.

THE EXCHANGE DISTURBED.

DISQUIETING OUTLOOK.

LONDON, June 2.

There were heavy sales on the Stock Exchange to-day owing to rumours of financial troubles.

A recrudescence of the Balkan troubles and the heavy German loans have contributed to the disturbance of the markets.

In addition to the Brazilian and Chinese issues, Mexico will shortly be issuing a large loan.

The calls on new issues during June are estimated at £20,000,000, compared with £9,950,000 during the corresponding period of last year.

The outstanding feature of the Stock Exchange depression is the heavy slump in Canadian-Pacific stocks, which have dropped 19 dollars in five days.

The new German loans have unsettled the bourse in Berlin, where the stringency of money is severe.

The "Pall Mall Gazette," commenting on South Australia's deferred attempt to raise a loan, says that the markets have enough to do to handle existing unplaced scrip, and to deal with the issues that have already been arranged for, and it will then require a short rest.

NEW VICTORIAN LOAN.

LONDON, June 2.

Mr. W. A. Watt, Premier of Victoria, has arranged to place a loan of £3,000,000, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent.

The loan will be issued at 98, and will have a currency of nine years, with the option of redemption at the end of five years on three months' notice, with no accrued interest. The first offers will be given to old holders.

The market is not encouraging, but Mr. Watt deemed it advisable to float at least £3,000,000.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM.

OTTAWA, June 3.

Senator Power expressed the hope that the Sikhs would not be roused to boiling point against Canada because of the expulsion of their women and children. He added that more than half the Sikh population had already returned home.

Senator Lougheed, honorary Minister on behalf of the Government, declared that the whole question was under the consideration of the Cabinet. It was difficult for the Government to flout British Columbia's feeling against Orientals, but they hoped that a solution of the matter would be found.

BATTLESHIP AND SUBMARINE.

ACCIDENT WHILE MANOEUVRING.

LONDON, June 2.

During a mimic attack by a flotilla of submarines upon a battleship off Nab lightship the battleship Prince of Wales, flagship of Rear-Admiral Reginald Tupper, in the Fifth Battle Squadron, ran into submarine C32.

The upper works and the conning tower of the submarine were cut away.

Both vessels returned to Portsmouth for repairs.

There were no fatalities.

HOME RULE.

SUPPORT FOR ULSTER.

LONDON, June 2.

The "Pall Mall Gazette" says that the British League will support the resistance of Ulster to Home Rule.

The league is enrolling 10,000 members, who will serve wherever required.

Seventy-five per cent. of those enrolled are retired army men.

EDUCATION IN BRITAIN.

MR. BALFOUR'S VIEWS.

LONDON, June 3.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, in addressing a meeting of the National Society last night, stated that the idea that religion could be taught in one place and secular subjects in another was erroneous. Education, he added, must be an organic whole, and controlled by the Churches, and not by the Education Department or the County Councils.

CANNIBALISM IN AFRICA.

SUPPRESSING A SOCIETY.

LONDON, June 2.

Sir William Griffith, Chief Justice of the Gold Coast Colony, has reached London. He has been conducting the trials of 100 natives of the so-called Leopard Society, the members of which practise cannibalism.

Fellow passengers on the steamer Nigeria state that his Honor sentenced 40 natives to be hanged, and many others to be deported.

COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

NEW YORK, June 2.

The committee of aldermen appointed to inquire into the allegations of "graft" in the police force have recommended that Mr. Rhinelander Waldo should be removed from the office of Chief Police Commissioner, on the ground of his unfitness to hold it.

The committee asserts that Mr. W. J. Gaynor, Mayor of New York, has upheld Mr. Waldo in everthing, consequently reforms are impossible in the present circumstances.

Jews in neighbouring villages have been threatened with death unless they leave.

Soldiers have been sent to protect them.

TRUE TO TRADITION.

DELHI, June 3.

The widow of a Brahmin at Lucknow, declaring that she would become suttee, set fire to her clothing as her husband's body was borne to the burning ghat.

The flames were extinguished, but later the woman tried to throw herself on the funeral pyre.

She was then taken into custody by the police.

FOR RAILWAYS.

MR. GRIFFITH'S PROPOSAL.

A COMPANY'S OFFER.

When the State Parliament meets it is likely that the Minister for Works (Mr. Griffith) will ask for authority to let a contract to Griffiths Australia, Ltd., for the construction of £3,000,000 worth of railways.

Griffiths Australia, Ltd., is the Australian branch of the contracting and financial concern of Norton, Griffiths, and Co., Ltd., who some time ago offered to lend the Government £10,000,000 for railway construction purposes.

It is understood that the principal undertakings embraced in the proposed contract are a railway from Condobolin to Broken Hill, which has been recommended by the Public Works Committee, and the completion of the North Coast line. When the North Coast line is completed there will be a continuous railway along the coast from Murwillumbah to Sydney.

Griffiths Australia, Ltd., has undertaken to secure for the Government a loan of £3,000,000, at current market rates of interest and current charges for underwriting. The money will be provided by instalments, as required, the contractors' remuneration being 5 per cent. on the cost of the work. The company will furnish a staff of engineers, under whose supervision the work will be carried out by Australian labour.

On Monday Mr. Griffith told a deputation he was hopeful that £10,000,000 worth of railway work would shortly be undertaken. It is now proposed to limit the contract to £3,000,000, but the Minister for Works would like to see enough money obtained through Griffiths Australia, Ltd., to build the North Shore bridge and the underground city railway.

WHO IS THE CAPITALIST?

MR. WADE'S QUESTION.

The leader of the Opposition in the State Parliament, Mr. Wade, yesterday made the following comments on the railway construction scheme propounded by Mr. Griffith on Monday in reply to a deputation from the North Coast.

"On opening the paper this morning, the first thing that struck me was Mr. Griffith's promise to spend £10,000,000 on new railways in three years. I knew at once that this was one of those astute bids for votes by a panic-stricken Minister without even the approval of his Cabinet or his Premier. The whole piece was well staged and capitally arranged, for Mr. Griffith, according to the report, had evidently well rehearsed his part. But beyond being an indication of the state of the political barometer, it is of little value at present.

"It is evident, from the remarks of Mr. Cann, that the suggestion has not the approval of the Cabinet, and it is also evident that it has not been seen by the prospective Premier, who is to return this week. Everybody, of course, welcomes railway construction. We know it goes hand in hand with land settlement, and the future will see New South Wales covered with a network of railways. The North Coast, in particular, appeals to me as being a district that has been badly used. The Labour party strenuously opposed the construction of the line some six years ago and made base imputations against the bona fides of those who were advocating it, but when they came into office, and votes were to be caught in that district, they changed their tune. Yet the extravagance in the construction of the work and the delay have been most discreditable.

"We would like to see railways all over the State. They can only be built with money. Mr. Griffith admits that the State cannot possibly borrow sufficient money to carry out this huge scheme, and we therefore assume that he is going to fall back on that blood-sucker, the much-hated private capitalist.

Only the other day he denounced Messrs. Hoskins because they dared to ask for terms in their pipe contract from the Government which would lead to them making a profit on the transaction. He described them as one of the class that was always out to exploit the public and should be suppressed. What is the special magnet of attraction that induces Mr. Griffith to fall on the neck of this unknown firm which is going to lend out £10,000,000 in the course of the next three years for the benefit of this suffering State. Is it some philanthropist who in his modesty desires his name to be concealed, or is it one of those hard-hearted, bowelless, blood-sucking fraternity who were the stock-in-trade of the Labour party. Is he to be allowed the privilege of making huge profits at the expense of the public? Is Mr. Griffith going to surrender all his life-long principles to allow the capitalist to become enriched at the expense of the taxpayers of this State?

"Mr. Griffith is seized with sudden modesty and is averse to disclosing details till Parliament meets. Such modesty ill becomes Mr. Griffith. As a rule, when its suits him, he assumes all the authority of an actual Premier, takes his own course, and makes his own announcements, irrespective of the views of Cabinet. Why this sudden modesty in the interests of this unknown philanthropist? The public are dying to know who this modern Croesus is, to hear his pedigree, and to work out, if time allows, what his profits are going to be. Perhaps this philanthropist has a local manager or agent in Sydney who can enlighten us. Perhaps he was even on the deputation which met the Minister yesterday.

In short, if day labour is a failure, and the contractor who works on a specified price is a robber, what kind of creature is this unknown individual who is going to rain money on New South Wales? It is one of Mr. Griffith's kites that he is so fond of flying.

A TRADE ANOMALY.

SHIPPING RATES.

PREFERENCE FOR GERMANY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), May 30.

A question of very considerable importance to the mercantile community was referred to by the President of the Canterbury Chamber of Commerce (Mr. R. Hill Fisher) in his quarterly address to the chamber the other day. It concerned two shipments of goods to a firm in that city.

A shipment was sent from Hamburg to Lyttelton via London on through bills of lading at the rate of 42s 6d per ton measurement. These goods left Hamburg by the steamship Corncrake, for reshipment at London into the steamship Ruapehu, the ship paying whatever charge occurred in London in connection with the dock or loading.

By the same voyage of the steamship Ruapehu the firm received other goods on which it had to pay port dues coming under the same class as the goods from Germany, but the rate on the direct shipment from London was 67s 6d per ton measurement.

Thus, he pointed out, the rate from London to New Zealand is nearly 60 per cent. more than the rate from Hamburg to New Zealand via London.

It appeared that it was little use our Government placing goods under a preferential tariff if the advantage to be derived therefrom is to be lost to New Zealand and to the British manufacturer.

THE POLL.

COUNTING ABSENT VOTES.

LIBERALS LEADING BY THREE.

ILLAWARRA AND BALLARAT.

RESULTS STILL UNDECIDED.

Last night's results provided an additional element of interest, as a commencement was made with the counting of the very considerable number of absent votes. The total number of these votes is estimated at nearly two hundred thousand throughout the Commonwealth, which would be about 2500 on the average for each electorate. As the present majority in several constituencies is comparatively small, it is obvious that much may depend on the result of the counting of these votes. This is especially the case with Illawarra and Ballarat.

In the former instance, the number of absent votes is stated to be 2000. Before a start was made with the count of these votes Mr. Fuller had reduced his minority to 201. This was subsequently still further reduced, as the counting of absent votes proceeded, to 148. As over 1500 absent votes have still to be counted, it is obvious that the issue is still very much in doubt. At Ballarat the number of absent votes was estimated at 2400. Mr. McKay had a majority of 14 before the counting of these votes commenced. It was not expected that much progress would be made with the counting last night, but some indication should be given to-day as to how the absent votes have gone. It is stated that both sides are prepared to demand a recount, so that it may be some considerable time before the election at Ballarat is definitely determined. The latest figures give the Liberal candidate a majority of eight.

At the present moment, therefore, the state of parties in the House of Representatives remains: Liberals 39, Labour 36, a majority of three. If the Liberals retain both Illawarra and Ballarat he figures will be: Liberals 40, Labour 35, a majority of five.

With regard to the Senate, the election of the three Liberals is assured in New South Wales. The Liberals are leading in Tasmania, and it is probable that they will all be elected in that State. In South Australia and Queensland the Labour candidates are leading by substantial majorities. In Victoria also the Labour candidates are ahead, but by smaller majorities. If the present position is maintained, the Liberals will have only six members in the Senate.

A new situation has arisen in Darwin, Tasmania. A further hundred Liberal votes from Table Cape have been discovered, reducing Mr. O'Malley's majority from 680 to 583. The King Island and other votes still to come in, which are thought to favour the Liberal candidate, total about 450, and there are about a thousand absent votes. The position of the Minister for Home Affairs is, therefore, not so secure as was at one time thought, but everything depends upon the character of the absent votes.

With regard to the referendums, they are practically certain of rejection in New South Wales, and will probably also be rejected in Tasmania. In Western Australia they will almost certainly be carried. In South Australia and Queensland the affirmative votes are at present in a substantial majority. In Victoria there is a small negative vote in five cases. At the present moment, therefore, there is a majority in favour in three States and a majority against in three.

The figures for the whole Commonwealth show a majority of about 2000 in favour of the commerce law, a majority of about 3000 against the corporations law, a majority of about 10,000 against the industrial law, a majority of about 500 against the railways law, a majority of about 8000 in favour of the trusts law, and a majority of about 1000 against the monopolies law.

The following is the present position in each State with regard to the Senate and House of Representatives:—

ABSENT VOTERS.

EFFECT ON RESULT.

One of the features of the election has been the very considerable absent vote. Mr. Oldham, the Chief Electoral Officer for the Commonwealth, estimated last night that the total number of absent votes recorded throughout the Commonwealth would probably amount to at least 185,000, which works out at an average of nearly 2500 for each electorate. Mr. McLaren, the Chief Electoral Officer for New South Wales, stated that the numbers for this State would probably amount to at least 2000 on an average for each constituency. Among the estimates in individual cases are:—Newcastle, 2500; Parkes, 2500; Ballarat (Victoria), 2400; Corio (Victoria), 2500; Riverina, 1030; Gwydir, 2187; Illawarra, 2000; Hume, 1900; Calare, 1800; Wakefield (South Australia), 1461. At the Sydney Town Hall alone 5434 absent votes were recorded for every constituency in the Commonwealth except Wilmot (Tasmania). Of these 4884 were for New South Wales, 265 for Victoria, 148 for Queensland, 66 for South Australia, 33 for Western Australia, and 38 for Tasmania.

Electors thus voted for divisions in the extreme north of Queensland, in the far west at Kalgoorlie, and in the south of South Australia and Tasmania.

It is interesting also to record that 1556 of the New South Wales votes were for country electorates. In only two instances was only one vote recorded. The largest number in New South Wales was for West Sydney (686), and the smallest for Barrier (12). Some 203 votes were for Illawarra, and as many as 110 for Darling.

The counting of the absent votes must necessarily proceed slowly. They reach the divisional returning officers in envelopes by registered post, and are placed in ballot-boxes as they arrive. When the count commences the envelopes have to be sorted into the respective subdivisions, placed in alphabetical order, and, when this is done, opened and the name of the voter checked with the electoral rolls. If the vote is valid, it is recorded on a separate ballot paper, which is marked with a number corresponding with a number placed on the envelope, so that the voter may be identified in case of a scrutiny. The original special ballot paper marked by the absent voter is then replaced in the envelope, which again is replaced in the original ballot-box. The counting takes place from the second ballot paper. It is obvious that this complicated process occupies some considerable time, and accounts for the slowness with which the later returns have come in.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

ELECTORAL OFFICERS' OPINIONS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Telegrams which reached the Chief Electoral Officer of the Commonwealth (Mr. Oldham) to-day indicated in some degree the probable effect the absent votes will have on the result in some divisions where the contest is a close one. The following are opinions of the returning officers in each instance:—

VICTORIA.

Ballarat.—2400 absent votes. Counting them now. Some may have to come from other States. All ballot boxes have been counted.

Corio.—All ballot boxes now counted (Kendell 14,035, Ozanne 13,045). 2500 absent votes. Of these 1000 are counted, and included in the list. Result cannot be affected.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

Riverina.—A few polling-places in Euabalong, Cudgellico, Booligal, and Urana still to come. Only about 400 votes involved. Absent votes total 1030. Will count to-night.

Gwydir.—Advised that there are 2187 absent votes. Result may possibly be affected.

Calare.—1800 absent votes. Divisional returning officer telegraphs will have no effect on results.

Illawarra.—Polling completed (Burns 13,810, Fuller 13,607). Will have about 2000 absent votes, which may affect the result.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

Grey.—There is a possibility of the ballot to be counted affecting the result. Some of the ballot will not be counted till Friday, and some till Thursday week.

Wakefield.—Absent votes advised, 1461. Cannot alter results. All polling-places completed. Foster in.

MR. HUGHES SUMS UP

"FARCICAL POSITION."

RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT IMPOSSIBLE.

The Federal Attorney-General, Mr. W. M. Hughes, made the following statement on the situation yesterday:—

"As far as one can gather from the returns now available, it would appear that the Fusion has succeeded. How it has succeeded is not now material, but how far it has succeeded is very material. Mr. Oldham, the chief electoral officer, has just informed me that no less than 185,000 absent votes are yet to be counted. So the issue is still clearly on the knees of the gods. Assuming, however, that the distribution of the absent votes between the two parties is proportionate to the votes already recorded, the result of the election seems to leave the Labour party with 36 certain seats, against 38 for the Fusion, with Ballarat still in doubt. If we win Ballarat, that will give them a majority of one; if they win Ballarat, it will give them a majority of three. The position in either case is most suggestive.

"The electors may be reminded of the fact that the Parliament of the Commonwealth is composed of two Chambers. In one of these, if the ultimate returns so fall, the Fusion will have a majority of ranging from one to three; in the other Chamber, which has co-ordinate powers, and without whose co-operation, of course, neither government nor legislation is by any means possible, they will be in a minority which, at this stage, we are not able to precisely indicate, but which certainly will be very marked.

"On the figures now before us it appears that three Fusion senators for this State are certain to be returned, and the same may be said of Tasmania; while in Queensland, South Australia, and Western Australia their defeat seems to be assured. In Victoria the issue is in doubt, but it is extremely unlikely that at the best the Fusion will get more than two senators in.

"This means that they will at the most have eight representatives to 10 returned for Labour at this election. Thus we get this most extraordinary result of an appeal to the people. In one House one party is returned with a majority of (say) one, while in the other House the same electors give the other party a majority of two. Or, put in other words, in one Chamber of this Parliament the Fusion has a 1 to 3 majority out of a total of 75—that is, about 2 per cent. to 4 per cent.—while in the other Chamber the electors give the Labour party—pledged to oppose the Fusion and all its works—a majority of from 2 to 6 out of 18, that is, a percentage of 11 to 33. Both parties represent the same people voting at the same election. In one House one party has a majority so small that at the best it can hardly stagger on. In the other the opponents of that party have an ample majority given by the electors at this election.

"This would be bad enough; but the actual position is almost farcical. Labour already has 18 senators, elected in 1910, who have yet three years to run. These, with the 10 now almost sure to be elected, give Labour in the Senate at the worst 28 votes to 8. The position then will be that, with a majority which may be one, and can hardly be more than three, in the House of Representatives, they are in a hopeless minority of 20 in the Senate. It will be a very interesting spectacle for the Constitutional philosopher to observe how our free and democratic institution works out this interesting problem. Even the Fusion's worst enemies can hardly wish them a worse fate than that which must inevitably be theirs if they take office. To watch the Government fighting for its life in one Chamber, and hopelessly overwhelmed in the other, will be extremely interesting for the deluded philosophical observer; but whether it will be interesting for the electors or not is another matter. It certainly will not leave the Fusion an idle moment.

"One thing is certain: The Fusion can pass no laws with which the Senate does not agree. In that Chamber the Labour party has an overwhelming majority. The Fusion cannot even get supply without the consent of the Senate; it can only live upon the terms that the Senate imposes.

"Mr. Cook regards the result as a great uprising of Liberalism. I wish him all the satisfaction that he can get out of it. One thing is clear: responsible government under such circumstances is impossible.

"What is the outcome to be? It appears to me that if both parties are going to insist upon carrying out that policy in which they believe the only outcome can be a deadlock. Every party measure that the House of Representatives passes may be rejected by the Senate. So much is clear. And of course ultimately this must bring about either a double dissolution as provided for under section 57 of the Constitution, or legislation in accordance with the views of the majority of the Senate.

"I am not now speaking of the position that the Fusion will be in if it only has a majority of one. Obviously it cannot carry on then even in the Lower House, for there are no Willises in our party.

"As to the result, the people have spoken. The electors appear to be almost equally divided, and if the result of the final count gives the Fusion a majority in the House of Representatives we may leave them to worry as best they can through the inferno in which they are placed.

"W. M. HUGHES, 80 Hunter-street."

The Constitution Act provides that in order to carry a proposal by the referendum it is necessary to secure a majority of votes of the electors of the Commonwealth as a whole, in addition to a majority of the votes of the electors in a majority of the States.

Before the proposals can be adopted, therefore, they must be carried in four States as well as by an absolute majority of the people of Australia.

IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PERTH, Tuesday.

The results of the Western Australian elections show that Labour has lost Dampier, and the Liberals Fremantle. The Senate polling so far shows that the Labour candidates have leads of between 7000 and 8000, but this is largely due to the fact that in Kalgoorlie division, which is solely Labour throughout, there was no representative contest, and consequently the Senate boxes were counted at once, and gave Labour a first lead of about 6000. There are at least 30,000 Senate votes still to be counted in agricultural and city centres.

ANOTHER APPEAL TO THE PEOPL.

SENATOR M'DOUGALL'S VIEWS.

WILL GO DOWN HONOURABLY.

Senator Allan M'Dougall, who on the occasion of the last election topped the poll for the Senate in New South Wales by securing 249,212 votes, made the following statement yesterday in reference to the present position of parties:—

"I am perfectly satisfied with the defeat. The referendum was too heavy a load to carry. The other side centred all their efforts in that, and consequently they beat us with this weapon—backed up by organisation in the country. They put out canvassers practically in all parts of the State, and almost made house-to-house calls, which was more expensive than our party could bear. I said throughout my addresses during the recent campaign that I would be perfectly satisfied to be on the beaten side if the people said so.

"The position as the parties now stand," continued Senator M'Dougall "is untenable. Australia has pronounced itself in favour of Labour judging by the votes cast for the Senate. The manipulation of the different seats is no criterion as to the opinion of the people as a whole. The redistribution of seats in New South Wales has undoubtedly lost us three seats, which would have turned the tables the other way.

"I do not expect that the Fisher Government will attempt to meet Parliament. I expect to see them go down honourably. The position of the Fusion, or Liberal, Government will then become untenable, because of Labour's great majority in the Senate.

According to the Constitution, if a deadlock occurs, the Governor-General may order a dissolution of both the House of Representatives and the Senate, and, should the same position occur after such general election, then there must be a joint sitting of the two Houses.

The present majority for Labour in the Senate will overbalance the Fusion, and the Liberal Government will be unable to pass any legislation. All things considered, therefore, it appears to me that there must be an appeal to the people sooner or later."

ALLAN M'DOUGALL.

Customs-house, Sydney.

MR. BEEBY'S VIEWS.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION.

"The defeat of the Government," said Mr. Beeby yesterday, "is, in my opinion, very largely attributable to their action in trying to force the referendum through as party proposals. During the campaign, I made an extended trip through the State, and found amongst men who had habitually voted for the Government strong resentment at their action in making these proposals party matters. Candidates representing the Government found the referendum load too much to carry, and some of them, towards the end of the campaign, were leaving the questions severely alone. But the earlier attempts to bludgeon every Labour supporter into voting for the proposals left a bad impression throughout the State. The Government, ever since its return to power, have consistently overlooked the Federal nature of the constitution, and have assumed because of their victory three years ago that the Commonwealth was prepared at their dictation to agree to proposals which on the face of them were constitutionally unsound. The best feature of the election is the expressed determination of the people not to allow the Constitution to be altered from time to time at the whim of any party. The anomalous position which has arisen in the Senate, and to some extent in the House of Representatives, ought to awaken public interest in electoral reform in the direction of providing some system of proportional representation. One party in the Senate will probably have 30 members, and the other party about six, although their actual voting strength is almost equal. A Parliament in which the Lower House is controlled by one party and the Upper House is absolutely in the hands of its direct opponents, should lead to some interesting positions in the future. The election, at any rate, will have one result. The respective spheres of operation of the State and Federal Parliaments are now well defined, and each Parliament can settle down to work in its own sphere, leaving the question of any material alterations in their respective powers in the hands of non-party conventions, which are alone capable of considering Constitutional amendments from the public standpoint."

G. S. Beeby, Chambers, Wentworth-court, Sydney.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

It was stated at the Prime Minister's Department to-day that Mr. Fisher would arrive in Melbourne by the Sydney express on Thursday. The Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Thomas) left Broken Hill on Sunday night, and should reach Melbourne to-morrow. The Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes) will arrive in the course of a day or two. The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) and the Postmaster-General (Mr. Frazer) intend leaving Western Australia by the Illawarra, and will not be in Melbourne till next week. The Hon. Minister (Mr. Roberts) and the Vice-President of the Executive Council (Senator M'Gregor) are in Adelaide, and no doubt will be in Melbourne to meet the Prime Minister.

ILLAWARRA SEAT.

WOLLONGONG, Tuesday.

Intense excitement has prevailed here all day awaiting the counting of the absentee vote, which was commenced this afternoon. At the conclusion of the count of other votes Mr. Burns had a majority of 218. Other small centres came in this morning, increasing Mr. Burns's majority to 239. It was subsequently ascertained that a mistake had been made in the count at Bulli of 38, this bringing Mr. Burns's lead down to 201. The first 100 of the absentee votes were counted this afternoon, Mr. Fuller gaining 81 and Mr. Burns 26. This reduced Mr. Burns's majority to 146. The final result of the count is anxiously awaited here by supporters of both sides, as the Illawarra seat is now in great doubt.

THE BALLARAT STRUGGLE.

KEEN EXCITEMENT

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Interest in the elections is being well sustained in Victoria by reason of the fact that up till a late hour to-night the fate of one seat in the House of Representatives, Ballarat, was in the balance; while there was no telling how the Senate and the referendum vote was going. Right throughout the day the keenest excitement prevailed with regard to the contest in Mr. Deakin's old electorate, and thousands of people trooped to the newspaper offices to see if the result was posted. When the counting was finished last night the Liberal candidate was 14 votes in the lead. It was announced by the returning officer that he would count the absent votes, which numbered 2400, to-night. At midnight news was received in Melbourne that 234 votes had been counted, with the result that M'Kay's lead was reduced to 8. It is impossible to prophesy with any degree of certainty on the finish. The general impression, however, seems to be that the Labour candidate would get the seat. It is stated that the counting will not be completed until next week. No alteration of any moment took place in the other divisions.

The Senate poll provided some excitement throughout the day. In the morning the Labour three were well ahead of the rest, but as the country returns came to hand the Liberals slowly but surely came up on the leaders, until at the last count of the evening M'Cell, the best supported of the ticket, was only 1309 behind the third Labour man. The other Liberals were also lying close, so the ultimate result is still in doubt.

The referendum returns also caused considerable interest, as at one period of the day the "Yeses" were ahead. This did not last long, however, and on the last count the verdict was against the Government proposals on all questions excepting that relating to trusts, where the "Yeses" were about 800 to the good.

IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

In the Senate count only a few additional figures were received during the day from the Barker and Grey divisions, and, on balancing, the position of candidates was only slightly affected. Labour got more in Grey, but went back in Barker. The lowest Labour candidate, Mr. Senior, has still a lead of approximately 11,500 on Mr. Vardon, who has polled best of the Liberals. The country districts stuck to the Liberal ticket loyally, the split being but slightly noticeable. It now seems certain, however, that three Labour senators will fill seats previously occupied by Sir Josiah Symon and Messrs. Shannon and Vardon.

In the House of Representatives contests Mr. Poynton (Labour) has maintained his lead of about 900, while Mr. Foster (Liberal) is safe in Wakefield, as only the absent votes have to be counted there. Mr. Livingston (Liberal) will be returned for Barker by a substantial majority; therefore Boothby is the only House of Representatives seat Labour has captured in South Australia.

In regard to the referendums, the "Yes" lead of 12,000 on Monday has been gradually reduced. The "Yes" vote is practically identical with the Labour Senate ticket, but the "Noes" have secured the Symon split vote, and consequently the disparity has been reduced from 11,500 in the case of the Senate to about 6000 in the referendum results.

IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

On the figures available to-night, and which are not likely to be changed, Queensland representatives in the House of Representatives will be—

Liberals	3
Labour	7

A large number of votes have yet to be counted for the Senate, and the Labour candidates are increasing their lead.

PENNY CABLES.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

He said:—"If English people will only support the various Dominions, we will have penny cables to-morrow. There is no valid reason why it should not be, excepting, of course, that it is viewed with disfavour by the cable companies."

Sir Henniker Heaton's attention was drawn to the fact that only recently the cable companies had made reductions in their charges to Australia. "Yes, that's so," he remarked. "They were so afraid of the competition which would follow as the result of the laying down of a Government-owned cable from London to Canada that they thought it expedient to make the concessions referred to. It is also alleged that the Postmaster-General of Great Britain informed the companies that if they did not make a reduction in their rates he would no longer support them."

SHAKESPEARE BALL.

Mrs. T. H. Kelly, hon. secretary of the recent Shakespeare ball, was yesterday presented by the Shakespeare Society with a souvenir fan, the outer cover of which contained original drawings by Mr. Sydney Ure Smith, in recognition of her services in making the ball a success. The presentation was made by Mr. W. E. Hawkins, president of the society. It was stated that the Shakespeare Memorial Fund will benefit to the extent of about £500.

TO THE COURT.

MANLY FERRY EMPLOYEES' RESOLVE.

SERVICE JEOPARDISED.

To-morrow is the day fixed for the hearing of the summonses (about 74 in all) that were issued against employees of the Port Jackson and Manly Steamship Company, Ltd., for taking part in the recent ferry strike.

The men are called upon to appear at the Industrial Court at 10 a.m., and their present intention is, according to their secretary, Mr. A. Carter, to meet off the Quay, in Phillip-street, at 9.30 a.m., and march in a body to the court.

Mr. Carter admits that the boats may be laid up for the day, or the service partially dislocated, but he says the men have decided upon personally appearing, and he quotes the following resolution, which, he says, is included in the minutes of the Ferry and Tugboat Employees' Union:—

> That we, the employees of the Port Jackson and Manly Steamship Company, having been served by the Industrial Department controlling the State Arbitration Act with individual summonses regarding the late dispute for a reduction of working hours from 60 to 48 a week, view with regret the attitude of the Port Jackson and Manly Steamship Company in instructing the Government to prosecute their employees after the said company had agreed with representatives of various ferry companies, who sat in conference with the representatives of the Firemen and Deckhands' Association, Masters and Engineers' Association, and the Marine Engineers' Association, on March 26, 1913, that section 7 of the conference agreement should read and be confirmed by all ferry employers of labour, as follows:—"All employees to be re-instated in their positions, and no victimisation on either side"; and the aggressive attitude of the said company warrants the attendance at the court of all members of this union who have been summoned to appear on June 5, at 10 a.m.

Since the men came to this determination to go in a body, Inspector Kirby and others have been endeavouring to get the men to agree to be represented by two of their number, but the men take the view that this is a time when they should obey the law of the land.

MEN DETERMINED.

"ALL HANDS TO THE COURT."

Last night a meeting of the employees was held at the Trades Hall to further consider the position. Inspector Kirby addressed the men, whose decision, however, was to stand by their previous resolution.

The inspector had it pointed out to him that many of the men served with summonses were engaged in military duties on the day on which the strike took place. It would therefore be necessary that all hands attend the Court.

It is understood that the company will make an effort to run several boats to-morrow and the day following should the cases not be concluded in the one day.

LATE GAS STRIKE.

SUMMONS TO ISSUE.

At the instance of the Minister for Labour and Industry, between 200 and 300 summonses are to be issued against the men who took part in the recent gas strike. The cases will probably be heard before Mr. Justice Heydon in the Industrial Arbitration Court on 16th inst.

UNITED STATES TARIFF.

MEAT INTERESTS PETITION.

THE TRUST PROBLEM.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

The beef interests have submitted a petition to the Senate Finance Committee protesting against the lowering of the duty on meats. They declare that an attempt to kill the Beef Trust in this way was preposterous—it would be more likely to increase the Trust control of meat.

The petitioners favour a 15 per cent. ad valorem duty on all meat and live stock, in order to prevent the decay of the industry in the United States.

PRESIDENT AND THE LOBBYISTS.

WASHINGTON, June 3.

Every senator is being examined as to his private business in order to establish whether the lobbyists, who were recently denounced by President Wilson, had sought to influence them against the Tariff Bill.

Various senators have denied that lobbyists have attempted to bribe or to influence them in any direction.

HISTORY OF AUSTRALIA.

LONDON, June 3.

The Oxford University Press will publish in the autumn Mr. T. A. Coghlan's "History of Australia," in three volumes. The book deals with Australia from the foundation of settlement till the establishment of the Commonwealth, and gives prominence to the economic and labour questions of the country. A French edition will be published simultaneously with the English issue.

TO LEARN THE EMPIRE.

LONDON, June 3.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, June 2.

Sir Henry Curtis Bennett, Metropolitan Police Magistrate, was taken ill on leaving the platform at a meeting in the Mansion House to-day and collapsed. He died a few minutes afterwards.

Sir Henry Kimber, Unionist member for Wandsworth, has resigned his seat, owing to ill-health.

General Sir John French, K.C.M.G., Chief of the Imperial General Staff, has been gazetted a Field-Marshal.

CAPETOWN, June 3.

The House of Assembly last night agreed to the proposals for increased excise duty on spirits uniformly throughout the Union, and increased Customs duty on spirits.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 3.

PARIS, June 3.

The International Women's Congress was formally opened yesterday by the Minister for the Interior, who welcomed the 600 delegates. Lady Aberdeen presided, and the delegates included representatives from Australia.

MADRID, June 2.

A waterspout caused widespread havoc in Elegondo, near Pamplona. Many farms were destroyed and bridges swept away. Several people are reported to have lost their lives.

BERLIN, June 2.

"NAUSEATING RUMOURS."

NO INQUIRY.

The City Council last night rejected the proposal that the Premier be asked to appoint a Royal Commission to inquire into all resumption matters and civic administration generally.

The motion was brought forward by Alderman Lindsay Thompson, who said he had taken this action because of the references that had been made from time to time to corruption and maladministration in civic affairs. There might be a lot in the statements or there might be nothing at all in them. If there was anything in them, the public was entitled to know; and if there was nothing in them it was due to all concerned that the character of the council should be cleared. His motion had been brought forward in the interests of clean city government. It was positively nauseating to hear the rumours and insinuations so often made. It was time they knew whether there was any corruption or not.

Alderman R. Harris seconded the motion.

The Lord Mayor remarked that statements had been made without one iota of evidence to back them up. If they entertained a proposition of the character made, which was not based on the slightest data, they would be stultifying themselves and making themselves a laughing-stock.

Alderman Meagher: Let Alderman Thompson speak for himself. (Laughter.)

The Lord Mayor, continuing, said that thoughtless and reckless statements had been made, but without any evidence. They would belittle themselves if they asked a Supreme Court Judge, which was what Alderman Lindsay Thompson asked for, to go, as it were, on a fishing excursion.

Alderman Griffin: Hear, hear.

Alderman M'Gree murmured something, and Alderman W. P. M'Elhone drew the attention of the Lord Mayor to Alderman M'Gree's remark, which was to the effect that "some aldermen were frightened."

Alderman M'Gree was asked to withdraw the statement, and did so.

Alderman Meagher: When there's something to inquire into I'll vote for an inquiry, but not till then.

The motion was put, and lost by 14 votes to 5, the division list being:—For the motion, Aldermen Thompson, Harris, Lawrence, English, M'Gree; against, Aldermen Stephen, Barlow, Meagher, Mallett, Cox, W. P. Fitzgerald, J. Fitzgerald, Richards, Hagon, T. H. Kelly, Gilpin, Griffin, W. P. M'Elhone, and A. M'Elhone.

A PLAYFUL WHALE.

OFF SYDNEY HEADS.

TWO FISHERMEN STARTLED.

Two men named Newton and Scott, well-known fishermen of Watson's Bay, had an exciting experience yesterday afternoon while fishing outside the Heads.

They set off yesterday morning and pulled outside the Heads. At about 2 o'clock in the afternoon they were about a mile outside when they noticed a big hump-back whale spouting not far away from them. At first they took no notice of the monster and continued fishing. Later on, however, the whale appeared to be attracted by the boat, and came close up to it. They made as much noise as they could, and endeavoured to frighten it away. The big hump-back disappeared for a while, only to rise closer still to the boat. The fishermen again attempted to frighten it off, but without effect.

At last the whale go so close that the men decided to pull the boat to safety. To their dismay the whale commenced to pursue the boat. Although the two men pulled as hard as they could in the direction of the signal station at South Head, the monster easily overtook them, and dashed by periously close to the boat, spouting as it went.

Fortunately the occupants of the boat managed to get close in to the cliffs before any damage had been done, and the whale, having apparently satisfied its curiousity and not desiring to go any nearer to the shore, turned off towards North Head. Just before they landed the men noticed the whale spouting about two or three miles away, and making north.

GUN SHOP ROBBED.

GOOD HAUL OF FIREARMS.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

Thieves gained an entrance through the back window of Messrs. Baumann and Goodchap's gunsmith's shop, in Albert-street, this morning. The safe had been left unlocked, but one of the drawers, which was locked, contained £14 10s in cash. The thieves tried to secure this money, but were unsuccessful. They next turned their attention to the cash register, the drawer of which was burst open, and about 14s abstracted. The chief loss to the gunsmiths lies in respect to stolen firearms. These consist of three revolvers, four automatic pistols, and one stupefying gas pistol. The last named is said to be the only one of its kind in Australia, but the thieves did not secure any cartridges for the weapon. The shop was completely ransacked, and the firm estimate their loss at about £25.

A CRIMINAL RECORD.

PRISONER AND JUDGE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the Ballarat Supreme Court to-day Samuel Sticken was found guilty of having committed perjury in the Ballarat Police Court on April 15, and in the Court of General Sessions at a later date.

Sticken admitted nine prior convictions, in addition to an indeterminate sentence.

Mr. Justice A'Beckett said that men like the prisoner thought no more of calling upon God to witness to their statements than they did of travelling in a railway carriage without a ticket. Prisoner would be sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment.

Sticken: Well, I hope you have got to sit there until I do the sentence.

Mr. Justice A'Beckett: You are innocent, I suppose.

Sticken: Yes, and I hope you are in your grave when I come out.

A MANUAL FOR JUSTICES.

Not only justices of the peace, but the police, the legal profession, and many amongst the general public also, will welcome the appearance of so concise a guide-book to the criminal law of New South Wales, as has just appeared in the third edition of the "Justices Manual and Police Guide," by Sub-Inspector Daniel Stephen. The book covers the law with which magistrates and police officers must need to acquaint themselves, down even to the history of identification by finger prints and the method of taking them. A very interesting chapter on this subject has been added by Inspector Childs, the head of the finger print branch of the New South Wales police. For the rest the manual is arranged in the fashion of an encyclopedia, the subjects being alphabetically arranged and very clearly stated, with references to State and Commonwealth statutes, and in certain instances to the British statutes. The provisions of the Police Offences' Amendment Act and the consolidated Gaming and Betting statutes, are now included, as well as recent legislation covering the licensing and regulation of theatres and halls, motor vehicles and their drivers, dealers in old wares and second-hand articles, the inspection and regulation of private hospitals, and the numerous regulations affecting State forests, ringbarking, and sawmilling, and the book has thus been brought thoroughly up to date. The manual is well indexed and well bound. It is published by Messrs. Angus and Robertson, Ltd.

A STRANGE VISITOR.

ATTENDANT FIRED AT.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A mysterious visit by an armed man to Mrs. Strong's private hospital in Tooronga-road, Auburn, was reported to the police to-day.

According to Harry Sennett, an attendant at the hospital, a strange man has for several nights been seen hanging about the hospital grounds. Sennett stationed himself on the drive leading to the hospital early this morning.

He was not long kept waiting, for at about 2 o'clock he saw the stranger walking up the drive towards the building. Armed with a poker, Sennett at once made for him, and received a nasty blow on the head with the butt of a revolver. His assailant then turned and started to run away, but Sennett, although the blow caused him to stumble, was able to throw the poker at the man. The attendant gave chase, but he had not proceeded far before the stranger turned and fired two shots at him, one of which passed through his coat near the shoulder. The intruder then disappeared.

In view of the fact that no valuables are kept at the hospital, the police are at a loss to account for the man's intrusion.

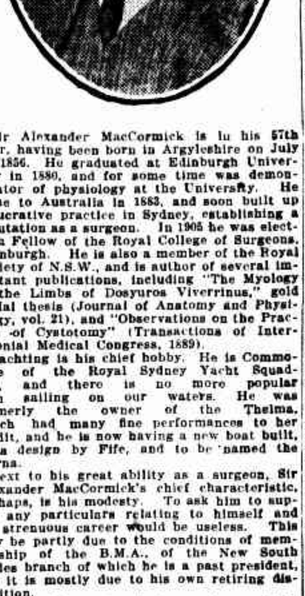
A NOTABLE SURGEON.

SIR ALEXANDER MACCORMICK.

The honour of knighthood conferred upon Dr. Alexander MacCormick, M.D., M.B., C.M., M.R.C.S., may be said to be as popular as it is deserved. The announcement did not come as a surprise to the public, as it had generally been expected, for Dr. MacCormick has for many years occupied a unique and honoured place in our midst. He has rendered distinguished service to the State, and it is not too much to say that few names are better known in New South Wales than that of the eminent Sydney surgeon.

As lecturer on surgery in the University of Sydney, as honorary surgeon of the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, and as honorary consulting surgeon of the military forces of the Commonwealth, he has done work that entitles him to the best thanks of the community and it was not to be wondered at that when he left Sydney a couple of years ago on a visit to England and the Continent the citizens gathered in large numbers at the Town Hall to do him honour. He spent much of his time while away in visiting some of the great hospitals of the world and studying the progress of modern surgical science, in which branch of the medical profession he occupied such a distinguished position.

But Sir Alexander MacCormick has rendered valuable service not only to the State, but also to the Empire. During the South African war, in 1900, he volunteered for active service, and acted as consulting surgeon with the British army, with the honorary rank of major. Such was the work he performed in South Africa that his name was specially mentioned in despatches.



Sir Alexander MacCormick is in his 57th year, having been born in Argyleshire on July 31, 1856. He graduated at Edinburgh University in 1880, and for some time was demonstrator of physiology at the University. He came to Australia in 1883, and soon built up a lucrative practice in Sydney, establishing a reputation as a surgeon. In 1905 he was elected a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh. He is also a member of the Royal Society of N.S.W., and is author of several important publications, including "The Myology of the Limbs of Dasyurus Viverrinus," gold medal thesis (Journal of Anatomy and Physiology, vol. 21), and "Observations on the Practice of Cystotomy" (Transactions of Intercolonial Medical Congress, 1889).

Yachting is his chief hobby. He is Commodore of the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron, and there is no more popular man sailing on our waters. He was formerly the owner of the Thelma, which had many fine performances to her credit, and he is now having a new boat built, to a design by Fife, and to be named the Morna.

Next to his great ability as a surgeon, Sir Alexander MacCormick's chief characteristic, perhaps, is his modesty. To ask him to supply any particulars relating to himself and his strenuous career would be useless. This may be partly due to the conditions of membership of the B.M.A., of the New South Wales branch of which he is a past president, but it is mostly due to his own retiring disposition.

Despite his great private practice, and the demands made upon his time as an honorary hospital surgeon, Sir Alexander MacCormick yet finds time to devote to other matters, and his public spirit has been evidenced on numerous occasions. Recently he was elected a member of the board of directors of the A.M.P. Society. There are few busier men in Sydney. One needs not to be told that he rises early—he is usually up at half-past 5—and works late.

NORTHERN MINERS.

SHORTLAND AND LYMINGTON CONFERENCE.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The Miners' Delegate Board is to meet in Maitland on either Thursday or Friday next, and the proprietors will meet in Sydney on Friday. Although it is the usual monthly meeting for the delegate board, the establishment of the Special Court will come up for consideration. The nominations for representatives of the miners on the Court will close to-morrow, and the question of having a ballot taken to select the representatives will also be brought before the board.

A conference of representatives from Shortland colliery and representatives from the Shortland miners met to-day, but after sitting all day and discussing what rates should exist for shooting and filling coal, they were unable to agree. The conference broke up with the understanding that Mr. A. Lewis, treasurer of the federation, would submit to the executive officers the rates proposed by the proprietors.

A conference took place yesterday between the managing director, manager, and undermanager of Lymington colliery, and representatives of the miners at Lymington. After a long discussion on the rates for shooting and filling, each side agreed that a special set of rates should exist for one month; and that at the end of that time the parties should meet and re-arrange the rates if necessary.

BIPLANE FLIGHT.

WARWICK (Q.), Tuesday.

Residents were startled last week by a biplane flying over the town. It appears the machine is the property of Arthur Jones, who recently went to England and spent several months taking lessons, bringing the machine with him on his return. Jones accomplished a run of three miles from his home to town in 2½ minutes, flying at a height of about 500 feet.

ALLEGED TAMPERING WITH JUROR.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Another case in which the attention of the Court was directed by the Crown Prosecutor to the fact that a juror in a case under trial had been visited at his home was mentioned in the Court of General Sessions to-day. Acting Judge Gurner, as a result, discharged the jury. The case was one in which John Carroll and Edward James Bourke were charged with attempting to dissuade a witness from giving evidence. Accused was then remanded.

THE PRISONS.

COMPTROLLER-GENERAL'S REPORT.

A SLIGHT INCREASE.

INFLUX FROM OTHER STATES.

The report of the Comptroller-General of Prisons (Mr. Macfarlane) for last year, which has been made available by the Minister for Justice (Mr. Hall), shows that the number of prisoners in gaol on December 31, 1912, was 1363, an increase of 114 as compared with those in prison on the last day of 1911.

MATTER FOR SATISFACTION.

The gaol entries for 1910, 1911, and 1912 were 9849, 9532, and 11,361 respectively, excluding inebriates. The increase cannot be said to be unexpected; at all events, it is almost entirely confined to short-sentence cases, and to that extent is a matter for satisfaction.

The gaol entries during 1912 compare favourably with the entries since 1874, when the position of Comptroller-General of Prisons was created. The entries into gaol during 1912 represent an increase of about 19 per cent. over the previous year's figures. The position is, perhaps, more reassuring when the nature of the increase is considered. At the same time, it must be borne in mind that prison statistics relate principally to reception into prison, and therefore do not represent accurate records of crime in the community, inasmuch as unpunished crime is not taken into account. For several years past the general population has been increasing rapidly, and, therefore, in the ordinary course of events, an increase in gaol entries may be looked for sooner or later.

VERY GOOD RESULTS.

There was an increase of 14 (2.8 per cent.) in the number of persons received into gaol on conviction at the higher courts, compared with the 1911 figures. The 1912 figures represent 28 per 100,000 of the general population, and this ratio is the lowest recorded for many years.

The number of persons sent to gaol with the alternative of paying a fine was 5844, while 2357 were received under sentences of direct imprisonment.

Compared with 100,000 of the general population, the number of persons received under sentence from the higher courts represent a ratio of 28, and the number of those received from the lower courts a ratio of 460. In 1911 the figures were about 29 and 394 respectively. Taking this line of averages, therefore, it would appear that the increase in the entries is mainly confined to persons sent to gaol for offences which either have necessarily to be dealt with summarily, or have not been considered serious enough to be sent to a higher court. General consideration of the increased entries into gaol during 1912 shows that the increase is on the 1911 and 1910 figures, but they are a considerable improvement on the figures for the preceding years.

Fortunately, in so far as payment of fines is concerned, very good results have been obtained from the provisions of the Justices Act, 1902, whereby persons are allowed to pay part of the fine imposed, and secure remission of a proportionate part of the sentence. 1807 prisoners took advantage of the right to pay portion of their fines, and in this way a sum of £4255 was received.

FIRST OFFENDERS' TREATMENT.

Of the 1417 prisoners who have passed through the first offenders' treatment since 1901, 164 have been re-convicted—about 11 per cent.

On December 31, 1912, there were in gaol 37 prisoners (including one female) on whom sentence of death has been passed and subsequently commuted to life penal servitude or hard labour; eight prisoners (including one female) in whose cases sentence of death has been recorded, and subsequently commuted to penal servitude for life; seven prisoners on whom sentence of life penal servitude has been passed; six prisoners on whom sentence of death has been passed, and subsequently commuted as follows: two to 20 years' penal servitude, two to 15 years, one to 14 years, and one to 10 years' penal servitude, six prisoners in whose cases sentence of death has been recorded, and subsequently commuted as follows: one to 20 years' penal servitude, two to 15 years, one to 14 years, one to 12 years, and one to 10 years' penal servitude.

The stated places of birth of 11,327 persons received into gaol during the years 1907-12 are accounted for; an increase of 1825 over the figures for 1911. The percentage of total increase is made up approximately, as follows:—United Kingdom, 37 per cent.; European, 5 per cent.; American, 3 per cent.; Asiatics, 1 per cent.; New South Wales, 40 per cent.; other Australasia, 11 per cent.; other nationalities, 3 per cent.

The decision of the High Court of Australia that the Influx of Criminals Prevention Act, passed by the State Legislature in 1903, is invalid may possibly lead to an influx of criminals from other States. There can be no question that New South Wales has derived much benefit from the provisions of this Act, as it restricted the entry of undesirables from other States. The removal of the restraint will enable criminals to extend their operations, and to go from State to State as they find desirable.

The receptions of female prisoners under sentence for the period January 1, 1904, to December 31, 1912, are as follows:—1904, 2990; 1905, 2866; 1906, 2647; 1907, 2288; 1908, 2529; 1909, 2152; 1910, 1449; 1911, 1347; 1912, 1629.

FEMALE PRISONERS.

During 1912 female prisoners were received under the following sentences;—Not exceeding one week, 559; over one week and not exceeding one month, 667; over one month and not exceeding three months, 298; over three months and not exceeding six months, 92; over six months and not exceeding 12 months, 6; over one year and not exceeding two years, 2; over two years and not exceeding three years, 1; no term specified, 4.

An important alteration to the ordinary routine was the extension of the period of exercise. Under the altered conditions, prisoners in B division are now exercised, after three months' servitude, for one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon on Sundays and holidays. C division prisoners are exercised for one hour in the morning on Sundays and holidays, and one hour in the afternoons of Sundays, holidays, and Saturdays.

COST OF ADMINISTRATION.

MARORO'S RECENT ROUGH TRIP.

Further particulars regarding the recent rough voyage of the schooner Maroro from Newcastle to Nelson, N.Z., show that the vessel encountered a succession of gales, and did not run into good weather until passing Cape Egmont. During a squall an ordinary seaman named Leslie Miller was lost overboard while shortening sail. A boat was lowered, and the vessel remained in the vicinity for several hours, but nothing was seen of the unfortunate man. Miller previously resided in Sydney.

NEW SWEDISH STEAMSHIP LINE.

"Fairplay" states that a number of timber merchants at Sundsvall have formed a new shipownery for the transport of timber from Sweden to transatlantic and Australian ports. The capital is to be between 100,000 and 300,000 kronor. Steamers are to be chartered in the coming summer for conveying cargoes to Australia to test the practicability of the scheme, and then two or more boats will be acquired for the line.

BENALLA AT MELBOURNE.

The new steamer Benalla, which arrived at Melbourne on Sunday last, had over 1000 passengers, mostly immigrants, on leaving London. An outbreak of measles is reported to have occurred amongst the children towards the latter end of the voyage. It is stated that there were a number of cases amongst the passengers for Sydney, but they were allowed to remain on board when the vessel reached Melbourne.

HARPALION, FROM VALPARAISO.

The steamer Harpalion arrived from Valparaiso yesterday in charge of Captain W. E. Pope, who reports having experienced variable winds and weather during the voyage. The vessel is in ballast, and has put in here for docking. She will then proceed to Newcastle to load coal for Valparaiso.

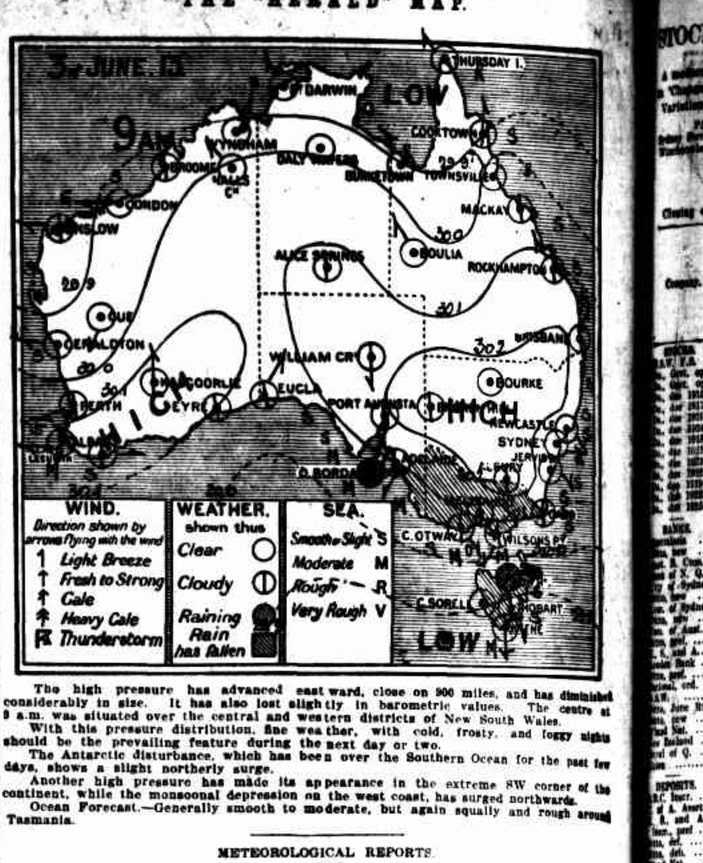
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The high pressure has advanced eastward, close on 900 miles, and has diminished considerably in size. It has also lost slightly in barometric values. The centre at 9 a.m. was situated over the central and western districts of New South Wales.

With this pressure distribution, fine weather, with cold, frosty, and foggy nights should be the prevailing feature during the next day or two.

The Antarctic disturbance, which has been over the Southern Ocean for the past few days, shows a slight northerly surge.

Another high pressure has made its appearance in the extreme SW corner of the continent, while the monsoonal depression on the west coast, has surged northwards.

Ocean Forecast.—Generally smooth to moderate, but again squally and rough around Tasmania.

DISFRANCHISED.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Kindly grant me space to ventilate the following grievance:—My wife and I have occupied our present residence for the past 3½ years, and have, during that period, always had our names on both Federal and State rolls. On the publication of the Federal rolls I inspected them, and found both our names had been inserted, and being satisfied, took no further steps in the matter. On visiting the polling booth for the Toxteth division on Saturday last to record our votes, we found that, although my name was on the roll, that of my wife had been removed. Inquiries of the presiding officer brought no satisfaction, beyond the fact it was so. Dozens of voters were in the same plight, and these, without exception, were people who had resided in the same house and same division for several years. To make the matter more complicated, my wife received an official intimation from the returning officer to the effect that her name had been placed on the electoral roll for the division. No intimation has been forwarded that it was the intention of the returning officer to remove her name, which had evidently been done within the past three weeks, without reason, or cause.

I am, etc.,

J. M. MUIR.

OFFER TO SCULLERS.

VAUDEVILLE STAGE.

PEARCE AND PRIDDLE IN DEMAND.

Harry Pearce, who is at home training for his match against Barry, the holder, for the world's sculling championship, has received tempting offers in exchange for his services, and the same remark applies to his trainer, Archie Priddle, the ex-Balmain sculler.

Pearce has accepted an offer to train Mr. Scrutton, an aspirant for the Diamond Sculls, at a remuneration of £6 a week. Mr. Scrutton does not ask Pearce to do anything more strenuous than tender him advice from the Thames bank for a short period each morning.

Music hall agents have offered Pearce and Priddle £40 a week to walk on the stage and "show themselves."

Then Priddle is considering an offer from a German gentleman named Mr. Schilling. He has guaranteed Priddle a year's engagement, starting some months hence, to train a German eight, at a salary of £250 a year; and it is probable that he will accept it.

Pearce does not mention the music hall offer in his letter, but Priddle does in a message to his father. If the engagement he has accepted interferes at all with his training, Pearce says he will discontinue it.

"I am told by English sculling critics," he adds, "that I am making too free a use of my arms, and not sufficient use of my legs. They tell me through the medium of the sporting papers that I shape like all Australians, and that I do too much with my arms. Well, they will see both my arms and legs at work on July 21.

"Barry has a pretty style, but seems to lack strength in his arms."

Pearce adds that he is out once a day at present, but on June 9 he will commence hard training. This will give him six weeks in which to prepare himself for the contest.

Mr. Lotinga, a well-known London sportsman, has presented Pearce and Barry with a boat, and the Sydney man has given his order to Mr. Robert Self, the well-known Thames boatbuilder.

Archie Priddle, of Sydney, Pearce's trainer, says "the course is not proving very difficult. The tide rises and falls about 20ft; it ebbs in eight hours, and floods in four. So," he adds, "you can guess how they do 4.44's for the mile."

STATE REVENUES.

TASMANIA.

HOBART, Tuesday.

The collections of the consolidated revenue for May amounted to £106,595, as against £99,728 for the corresponding month of last year. This, however, includes the month's instalment of the Commonwealth grant of £7916. Leaving that out of consideration, there is an increase in the month's revenue of a little under £1000. For the 11 months ended on May 31 last the collections of consolidated revenue amounted to £999,097, as against £977,674 for the corresponding period of the previous financial year, an increase of £19,423. This does not include the Commonwealth grant, of which £87,083 has been received up to the present. The revenue for the last financial year included £23,061 received on account of interest on transferred properties. For the last 11 months, however, only £2343 was received on this account, so that the actual increase in revenue amounts to £38,641. The railway revenue for the 11 months shows an increase of £13,042.

STEAMER AGE AGROUND.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The steamer Age, after she had left the M'Myler hoist late this afternoon, with a large cargo of coal, bound for Melbourne, went aground just off the pilot station. Most probably she will be freed to-morrow, when some of her cargo will be unloaded.

Taxpayers are reminded that Wednesday, June 11, will be the last day for payment of 1912 income tax without fine.

LIFE POLICY RESULTS.

"A Gulled Assurant" writes:—

Sir,—Noticing that your financial column is open to the public for discussion on current topics, I shall be glad if you will kindly enlighten me, and incidentally others of your readers who may be interested, on the following point:—

Twenty years ago I was influenced to effect a whole life policy for £250, the agent assuring me that the surrender value at the expiry of the aforesaid period would be equal to the maturity value of an endowment assurance policy of an equivalent premium, but lesser sum assured. I now find that I, in common with others of my acquaintances who hold somewhat similar policies, have been misled, as the surrender value of the whole-life policy does not nearly equal the published maturity results of a 20-years endowment assurance policy. Can you advise me as to the reason for the disparity.

We have excised the name of the society that our correspondent refers to. On the face of it, it is evident that the surrender value of a whole life policy could not at any point equal the surrender value or the maturity value of an endowment assurance policy at the same premium. The sum assured in the former case would be much greater, and as the additional death cover costs money, the cash value of the whole-life policy, except in case of death, would in all cases be the smaller. No society can control every statement made by its agents, but any agent found wilfully misleading a client is immediately dismissed by all reputable offices.

GREATER SYDNEY.

POPULATION, RATES, AND VALUATIONS.

Particulars relating to the population of the municipalities which it is proposed to include in a Greater Sydney area, and the valuations and amount of rates levied by them, have been supplied to the Greater Sydney Commission by the Government Statistician (Mr. Trivett), as follows:—

The unimproved capital values of the land in the more important of the municipalities are as follows:—City of Sydney, £23,520,640; North Sydney, £2,221,329; Woollahra, £1,793,494; Randwick, £1,729,985; Newtown, £1,306,504; Marrickville, £1,261,530; Balmain, £1,211,985; Waverley, £1,043,040; Ashfield, £1,096,973; Manly, £1,028,890; Petersham, £1,071,470; Kuring-gai, £1,023,553.

Some of the improved capital values are:—Sydney, £55,520,640; North Sydney, £5,933,579; Randwick, £4,077,141; Woollahra, £4,019,889; Ashfield, £3,251,835; Newtown, £3,029,426; Marrickville, £3,512,777; Mosman, £2,771,926; Petersham, £2,678,020; Redfern, £2,490,790; Waverley, £2,918,216; Balmain, £2,903,623; Manly, £2,123,680; Leichhardt, £1,963,291; Burwood, £1,755,465; Rockdale, £1,746,200; Drummoyne, £1,602,862.

W. AND A. M'ARTHUR, LTD.

Details of the report of the above company are now available by mail. The report covers the year ended January 31, and states that the net profits for the period, after making provision for the depreciation of leases, furniture, fixtures, and plant and for bad debts, and reserving £1000 for discounts and doubtful debts, amount to £29,662. After deducting directors', trustees' and auditors' fees, debenture interest and reserve for income tax, together amounting to £12,170, there is a balance of £17,492. From this sum must be deducted £3044 for dividend paid on the 5½ per cent. preference shares for the half-year ended July 31, leaving a balance of £14,448. To this must be added £1527 brought forward, making an available balance of £15,975. The directors recommend that £3044 be appropriated for payment of dividend at the rate of 5½ per cent. per annum on the preference shares and £3062 for the payment of dividend at the rate of 3½ per cent. on the ordinary shares for the year ended January 31 last, and that £7000 be placed to reserve, leaving a balance to carry forward of £2869.

FINANCING THROUGH IMMIGRANTS.

The "Wall-street Journal" tells why Canada is so prosperous. It is because she does not have to depend on the banks or regular financial channels for all the cash she needs. The immigrants who are coming to the west at the average rate of a thousand a day, bring with them in the aggregate a large amount of money. The emigrants who left the United States for Canada in 1912 carried with them an average wealth, including cash and effects, of 1300 dollars (£260) per head, and an average for seven years of 1129 dollars (£225) per head. British immigrants are estimated to bring in about one-half less in cash than the Americans. Jointly, the British and American immigrants brought into Canada in cash something in the neighbourhood of 213,000,000 dollars (£42,600,000). With what the 109,498 immigrants from other countries brought in, it is estimated that new cash from immigration sources equals the amount borrowed last year from the British and American money markets.

INCOME TAX PROBLEMS.

"Ignoramus" writes:—

Sir,—Will you kindly answer the following question re income tax?—For the year 1911 I was taxed to the amount of £1 16s. After making payment of that amount to the department, I made certain explanations to the officer, in consequence of which a few weeks after I received a letter stating that, after further consideration, it had been decided to cancel my assessment, and that a refund would be made in due course. That refund I have not yet received. For the year 1912 I have been taxed to the amount of £1 17s 4d. This amount I have not yet paid. Will it be legal for me to deduct the promised refund from the amount now owing, and pay the Commissioners the difference, viz., 1s 4d?

In ordinary commercial transactions one debt can be set off without trouble against another. But where a tax-gathering department is concerned this it not always so. What the department in this case say is that if the refund ought to have been made on account of ordinary income it should have been paid over months ago, unless by some mischance the papers have gone astray in the department. On the other hand, if the refund was due on account of dividends which had been assessed, the commissioners would be unable to pass over the money, as the Act lays it down that a refund may be made to a company, but not to an individual. In such circumstances the only plan would be to get the companies concerned to make application for the refund. This is the departmental reply. For ourselves we would send along the 1/4 and risk the results.

ANOTHER TROUBLED TAXPAYER.

"Blacksmith" informs us that he sent in his income tax return, and the Taxation Department assessed him at £6. According to his return net income was £270, which was a true record of the business. He wrote to the Taxation Department asking for an explanation of how they came to assess him at £6. In reply they stated that they thought the return unsatisfactory, and said an officer of that department would be along to examine the books, but did not state when. In the meantime the amount of £6 had to be paid the Commissioners. If the books were found to be correct according to his return, the Commissioners would refund the money. "The question is, am I compelled to pay the amount and wait their pleasure in refunding the money after they inspect the books?"

We are afraid that our correspondent must pay. He can, of course, appeal afterwards.

NEW ZEALAND GOLD EXPORT.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

The export of gold last month was 42,606 ounces, valued at £163,035, against 49,648 ounces, valued at £191,708, for the same month last year. For the five months of the year the export was 152,394 ounces, valued at £600,683, against 196,513 ounces, valued at £734,410.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Last year there were 12,107,017 acres under crop in the Commonwealth, against 8,414,554 during the first year of the union.

The public indebtedness of the States has increased by £73,606,000 since Federation, the increase amounting to over £6 per head of population.

The people of the Commonwealth are now responsible for nearly 10 millions sterling per annum by way of interest on their public debt.

INDUSTRIAL.

TYPES OF AUSTRALIAN WINES.

Mr. Burney, the wine expert of P. B. Burgoyne and Co., Ltd., London, who has for some 40 years made a specialty of Australian wines, has forwarded us the following observations on Australian red wines:—

In all European countries experience has proved that conditions of soil and climate are conducive to the production of certain types of wine, which have become generally recognised as the specialty of each vinegrowing district. So far efforts in Australia have been imitative, and wines have been judged from European standards and classified into European types. The chief exception has been the evolution of the type of wine suitable for the London market, and called, for want of a better description, "dry red for export." As this is a type of wine produced commercially that can be described as peculiar to Australia it is a matter for serious consideration how growers may improve upon that which already is recognised as distinct from the produce of any other country. If by improving the type the consumption can be increased, every effort should be made in this direction. At all wine shows in Australia dry red wines suitable for export are judged from a standard which may briefly be summarised as follows:—

"Full, round, fruity but dry, rough and dark coloured." Even if this description is inadequate, the type is so well known that it is recognised by every vinegrower as coming within the limits of the above summary.

After over seven years' experience in the handling of thousands of gallons of such wines in London, I am of the opinion that the type has steadily and materially changed, and that growers, unconsciously perhaps, place an undue value upon natural characteristics, which become actual defects when over-developed. The fulness demanded by the consumer in the "old country" has led to this quality being looked for first, and therefore to catch the eye a dark-coloured wine is considered essential. A tawny red or any shade of brown is obviously a fault, but in the attempt to give an appearance of fulness the type has been materially altered from the true ruby red, or pigeon's blood colour, to a deep colour usually indicative of much coarseness. This deep colour is not necessary, and is even detrimental to the appearance of the wine upon the table. This is of less importance than the fact that very pronounced depth of colour is always associated with an equally pronounced astringency. Clean grapey tannin is necessary for all wines of this type, but if this is exaggerated to a flavour of stalk the best qualities of the wine are masked behind the astringent finish. The chief charm in a full wine should be in a velvety softness, leaving upon the palate the true flavour of the fruit without any suggestion of unripeness or astringency in the after-taste. In the search for colour this softness has been neglected, and coarseness so encouraged that export wines show a steadily increasing tendency to become less and less palatable.

In support of this contention I venture to state that there are few growers who mature and bottle for their own consumption wines such as are shipped to England. This certainly used not to be the case, but it has frequently been my privilege to taste on Australian vineyards most excellent wines matured in bottle, of which the bulk had been shipped. In this type of wine Australia is well able to hold her own with any country in the world, but no local standards and no traditional ideas must be allowed to sacrifice the principal charm of this wine upon the altar of appearance. Tannin, being one of the constituents of red wine largely responsible for its keeping qualities, is required in this type of wine, so that it may overcome the difficulties of the sea voyage, but it must not be confounded with an astringency reminiscent of pressings.

Too prolonged contact with the skins is a frequent cause of this excess of astringency. The grower, in an endeavour to ferment the wine out quite dry, is apt to prolong fermentation upon the skins, which also increases the colour.

The result is an added coarseness impossible wholly to overcome. Once the wine has lost all suppleness and elegance, even a suggestion of softness is difficult to obtain, and the wine remains for ever hard and unattractive. As the colouring matter is acid-soluble, attempts have been made at beginning the vintage earlier, so that the acidity of the must should be higher, and also so that a more acid must should be favourable to fermentation. With the exception of occasional hot seasons early picking has never been a success. Unless the grapes reach a complete state of maturity, there will be an absence of fruitiness, and the wine will never become really of high quality. So much has been learned of late years of fermentation in hot climates that growers are to-day far better able to control fermentation than they were twenty years ago. It is an uncomfortable fact that the export wines of to-day show no advance in quality proportionate to the advance in the knowledge of their production. To remain stationary is to run the risk of being passed by others more keen and progressive, and Australian wines hold their place in the open market of Great Britain in the face of the keenest possible competition. Statistics show that the average annual consumption of Spanish red wines in Great Britain during the years 1910, 1911, and 1912 was 1,794,193 gallons, while the average annual consumption of Australian wines was only 770,942 during the same three years.

Over a million gallons more Spanish red wine is consumed annually in Great Britain than the total of all Australian wines, which are not separated by the Board of Trade according to colour.

With the possible exception of Tarragona, there is probably not a single name of a Spanish red wine familiar to either Australian growers or to the British public. They are not wines that are found upon the wine lists of restaurants and hotels labelled as such, but they fetch from 2/ to 2/6 per gallon landed in London. As semi-sweet wines of an alcoholic strength of from 28 per cent. to 29 per cent., they form the backbone of most medicated wines. In comparison with Australian wines, they have less flavour and character, are more neutral in every way, and are softer and generally more sweet.

This competition is formidable, but Australia has the advantage in having vineyards planted with choice varieties only, of which the produce can be very much superior in substance, character, bouquet, and general charm to the produce of Southern Europe.

In order to increase this superiority, very much can be done if more attention be paid to softness and elegance in the production of wines for export. I would suggest that at all wine shows where there is a competition for dry red wines suitable for export judges should be asked when making their awards:—

1. (1) To pay special attention to the two qualities abovementioned, softness and elegance.
2. (2) To look upon export wines as full, round, fruity, elegant and palatable.
3. (3) To discountenance all stalkiness and exaggerated astringency.
4. (4) No longer to regard concentrated depth of colour as necessary to wines of export type.

The standard can easily be modified without any great difficulty, and it is to the interest of the grower that he should improve the type so as to increase its popularity.

Australian wines of undoubted purity find favour with a large section of the British public. No other wines are so extensively pushed and advertised. Prejudice is steadily being overcome, and it is becoming generally recognised that an apology is not necessary when putting Australian wines upon an English dinner table. Within reach of the pockets of the many, Australian wines are steadily making their way in more exclusive circles. The possibilities of the development of trade in Great Britain are enormous, provided that Australian growers produce the right article.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The grocery trade was reported fair business yesterday in all seasonable lines, but nothing to boast about. Apples in packets were advanced to /11½ per lb. Bulk were quoted at from /10 to /10½. Supplies were very slow in coming forward. It is a remarkable fact that whereas the Federal Statistician reports a heavy crop of apples in Tasmania, statements that there was not enough to fill cargo space engaged are freely circulated. There was a fair demand for lexias. Five Crown continued scarce, and were distributing at /5½. Sultanas were going out well, Three Crown distributing at /7 1-8. Currants were in good demand, and the stocks of the association were believed not to be too heavy. There was movement in dried vegetables, especially in dried peas and dried lima beans. The former were selling in packets at 2/6 to 2/9 per dozen lb, and the later at 5/6 per dozen lb. It was reported that the London market for dates was in short supply, and though there was no change in values locally, prices were very firm. Morton's herrings in half-pound tins were practically unprocurable. Herrings in tomato sauce were firmly held. Morton's pickles were reported to have an upward tendency, owing to the dearer price of vegetables and the higher cost of labour in Great Britain. Clothes pegs were distributing at 4/9. White rock salt was dearer by 5/ at 80/ per ton. Red rock salt was unaltered spot 60/ July delivery, 47/6 ex ship. Symington's coffee essence was unprocurable, and none would be available until shipments arrive on Tuesday next.

The tea market was extremely strong, and heavy sales out of Monday's mail continued to be made. Among the business of the day was the sale of 220 packages of Ceylons up to /11.

The oil market was unchanged. Linseed was not greatly inquired for, the weakness of London having frightened away any who may have thought of extensive buying. Sales of Meggitt's raw and boiled oil for the week amounted to 4500 gallons. Whitelead was firm at £37 in cwts for first brands and at £35 to £36 for other brands.

Business was quiet in metals. A parcel of 20 tons of American No. 10 black wire was purchased at a shade under £8/17/6. For distributing lots £9 was wanted, both for American and German, the increase in the price of American being 2/6, and the German being unchanged. Stocks were low, particularly of German wire. No. 8 gauge was steady at £8. The inquiry for rabbits traps had abated, principally because it was understood that there was only one holder, and that 11/6 was wanted. There were buyers of parcels at 11/. Storekeepers declined to advance their price to the trapper, and so the distributing rate of 11/6 is not likely to go higher. Storekeepers will not pay higher than the present. In one or two instances, where higher rates have been quoted, the traveller has been very decidedly turned down. Barbed wire and nails were without alteration.

In cornsacks there was rather more inquiry from the country for season's delivery, and 6/7½ was paid for small lots. A few bales on spot were sold at 7/1½. There is no doubt that the steadiness of Calcutta—the price from that centre has been practically the same for a month—has put a stop to speculation in sacks. Woolpacks were firmer. All new packs offering at 2/8 had been cleared off the market, and both for spot and forward delivery the lowest price was 2/8½. Branbags were dull, the demand from the country having been reduced to a minimum, owing to the small inquiry for chaff. A fair quotation for spot lots in small quantities was 5/10½, but no doubt a parcel could be procured below this price. Calcutta was far above Sydney values, shipments July to September being quoted at 5/10½, c.i.f., equal to a delivered price of 6/1½, and shipments October to December 5/6½, c.i.f., equal to a delivered price of 5/9½.

As to the position in Calcutta, the circular of Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot, and Co., states, under date May 9:—"There has been a good general inquiry from all markets, and prices have shown an advancing tendency, with a good business doing. The country traders have shown considerably more interest, and speculators have been anxious to buy forward. Mills, however, owing to the uncertainty regarding the new jute crop, have not been anxious to sell forward into next year. The market closes somewhat easier, chiefly from bazaar sellers. Mills, however, continue steady. In cornsacks a considerable business has been done, but there is less inquiry at the close. Mill sellers, however, have not reduced prices. A fair business has passed in woolpacks, and better rates have been paid. Inquiry is less at the close. In brans there has been less inquiry, but no decline in prices."

A LESSON FROM GERMANY.

Sheffield is taking a lesson from Germany. Some weeks ago it was mentioned in these columns that, according to the "British Trade Review," the Cutlers' Company had decided to prosecute Sheffield firms who applied their trademark to cutlery in which imported blanks were used. This is a serious matter to the trade in cheap scissors, for most of which German blanks, consisting of stamped blades, are used. Sheffield does not produce anything like enough of these nor are they equal to the German article. Sheffield has not learned the art of drop-stamping to the same degree of perfection as has been attained in Germany. The warning referred to has caused a serious deadlock in the trade, as the firms have ceased to make up foreign blanks. A Sheffield company has now been formed to put down a German drop-forging plant for the stamping of scissors, and this will be worked entirely by Germans under a German manager. Scissor-makers will be entitled to apply their trademarks to goods made from the blanks turned out by the new company.

THE REVIVAL OF THE CEMENT HOUSE.

Some years ago we had stories of Edison having invented a process by which, by the use of cement principally, the people would be cheaply housed. That is the great desideratum in Australia to-day, but of Edison's invention little was heard after the first announcements. If, however, the latest report of the Canadian Commission of Conservation is based on well founded facts, some relief should be available for those who suffer from high rents. As here so there the housing problem is acute, and it is the more acute in Canada, because of the greater immigration. Of all building materials now in use, the report says, cement promises the easiest and quickest solution of the problem. It can be used for the construction of walls, partitions, stairways, roofs, and floors. It can be applied to advantage in the making of bathroom, laundry, and kitchen equipment. It is easily kept clean, it is fireproof and construction can be carried out cheaply and rapidly. In addition, its plastic qualities make it easy for the architect to devise attractive designs.

Solid cement walls are, of course, almost invariably damp and cold, but by using "continuous dead air" cavities this defect has been overcome. The building of such walls, however, requires special moulds, and efforts to construct the latter so as to build a wall quickly and cheaply have been largely successful. The total cost of a better class workman's house, complete with heating, plumbing, and lighting apparatus, painting, and finishing, will be about 1800 dollars, and can be profitably rented at 16 dollars to 18 dollars per month. The maintenance charges for such houses need not be heavy. Fire insurance is not essential. They are practically frost, damp, and vermin proof, and much less fuel is required than in the ordinary veneered house. Herein is surely a suggestion of great importance in the solution of the housing problem in Canada.

"WHITE COAL" AS AN ECONOMIC FACTOR.

Schemes which have been propounded from time to time for harnessing some of our mountain streams for the generation of electricity seem lately to have fallen into the background. We hear nothing of them. Yet how important an economic factor a cheap supply of electricity is every manufacturer recognises. Elsewhere the natural advantages are not so neglected, and the use of the "white coal," as water is termed, for this purpose is becoming more prevalent in all progressive countries. Italy, according to the "Financier," has her alpine waterfalls largely harnessed by the electrical engineer, and it is estimated that now the hydro-electrical stations of the country put over a million h.-p. at the disposition of the industrialists of the North, less so much as may be necessary for illuminating purposes. To what extent the white coal is appreciated may be judged from the fact that the number of generating stations driven by it is computed at 7500. This would appear to indicate that the use of the water power is widely recognised, and is not in the hands of one or two concerns. On the other hand, it must be remembered that electrical houses on the Continent are wonderfully enterprising, and they largely create the demand for their goods by promoting concerns that will require them, and it can hardly be doubted that a large proportion of these electric power stations is the creation of those houses that furnish the machinery. But the result is the same to the manufacturer; he has his power, which assuredly up till the present he would not have had, though what may be in store for the enterprising industrialist in countries where there is little or no coal by the application of internal combustion engines, may to some extent be judged even now from the success that is attending them in many parts of the world.

BREADSTUFFS.

A DULL DAY.

Business in wheat yesterday was again practically at a standstill. London was cabled as dull. While holders were willing to quit at 3/8½, there were no buyers above 3/8 for parcels alongside, and at this price a handy parcel to fill a shipment was purchased. Shippers reduced their limits for western wheat to 3/3 to 3/3½ on stacks, the equivalent price ex trucks Sydney being 3/7½ to 3/7¾. Farmers were selling a little more freely. Southern wheat was again neglected.

Flour was quiet at £8/15/.

ARRIVALS BY RAIL.

Wheat and Flour.—The receipts of wheat and flour by rail at Darling Harbour and the suburban railway stations for the week ended June 3, compared with previous arrivals, are as follow:—

	Wheat. Tons.	Flour. Tons.
Week ended June 3	10,012	731
A week ago	12,063	1,263
A year ago	1,556	678

The total arrivals to date for the new statistical year, which commenced on December 1, compare with those of the corresponding period of the previous three years as follows:—

	Wheat. Tons.	Flour. Tons.
1912-13	280,546	23,912
1911-12	335,715	21,541
1910-11	376,309	19,779

Comparison of Prices.—The mean prices now ruling for wheat and its products compare with those of a year and two years ago as follows:—

	Yesterday.	Last year.	2 yrs. ago.
Wheat, per bushel	£0 3 7½	£0 4 4	£0 3 4
Flour, per ton	8 15 0	10 0 0	8 10 0

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

JUTE.

Branbags: Spot, 5/10½ per dozen.
Cornsacks: Spots, 7/1½ per dozen; season's, 6/7½.
Ore pockets: 18oz 3/9 per dozen, 20oz 4/4½.
Woolpacks: Spot, each 2/8½; season's, 2/8½.

EASTERN PRODUCE.

Barley: Pearl, 39/ per cwt in sacks, 19/9 in 56lb bags.

Cocoanuts, desiccated: /7½ per lb, or 10/6 per dozen 1lb tins net, or local 9/ per doz. 1lb tins, in lots.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

BACON FIRM.

Holders of bacon were strong in their ideas as to value, and endeavours to buy under Monday's advanced rates proved fruitless. Stocks were by no means heavy, and arrivals from country factories showed a marked falling off as compared with those of a week or a fortnight ago. There was a well sustained inquiry for middles at from /9½ to /9¾. Sides were commanding anything from /7½ to /8½ per lb.

The long-delayed Manning River boat arrived in port, and discharged a fairly heavy shipment of eggs. As was only to be expected, the quality of these consignments was far from good, and agents were pleased to clear them at 1/6 per dozen. For Clarence River lots as high as 1/9 was being asked. Railway and South Coast eggs were unaltered as from 1/9 to 1/10 per dozen. New-laid suburban were worth from 2/4 to 2/6.

There was no movement in the quotation for butter. Choicest grocers' brands were to be had at 98/ per cwt, minus the boxes.

Cheese was again dull at from /7½ to /8 for the best South Coast makes. New Victorian samples were offering at from /7 to /7½ per lb.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

VICTORIAN POTATOES AND ONIONS.

The Victorian produce steamer landed about 1400 bags of onions and 2700 bags of potatoes. There was a brisk inquiry for the onions, which moved out freely at £8 per ton. The potatoes were slightly dearer. Excelsiors were commanding from £6 to £6/5/, and Carmen and Snowflakes £5/10/ per ton. Monday's arrivals from Tasmania were steady at the quoted levels.

The demand for chaff was somewhat brighter, and full rates were easily obtained. Oaten was offering at from £4 to £4/5/, and wheaten at from £4/5/ to £4/10/ per ton.

Only 15 truckloads of firewood were submitted at public auction. Best box brought to £1/4/ per ton.

Quotations:—

RAILWAY MARKETS.

LUCERNE HAY, 8/6.

There was an exceptionally long middle-of-the-week sale at the Redfern Railway Markets yesterday morning, 109 trucks being placed in position for sale. Out of these 109 trucks about 80 comprised chaff. There was a large attendance of buyers, and, on the whole, Monday's excellent competition was well maintained. Wheaten and oaten chaff sold extremely well, but there was no material alteration in prices. It is high time attention was drawn to the absolutely unwarrantable waste of chaff that goes on in the process of sampling. Sampling is, of course, a very evident necessity, but there are limits to everything. With hay it is different, as every piece sampled has first to be cut out. When once a wheaten chaff bag is cut it is the easiest thing in the world to stretch up one's hand to sample, and incidentally let the chaff come pouring out. At the end of a heavy sale the chaff lying wasted on the ground would positively feed a Grand Khan's stud. The reason is not far to seek. With a few exceptions the owners are never present in the yard. Before auction the produce is just in the hands of agents.

The top price for wheaten chaff was 5/5. A considerable number of consignments was sold at prices ranging from 3/ upwards. Oaten chaff was none too plentiful, the top price being 4/5 for a Millthorpe consignment. Wheat was disposed of at 3/7½ and 3/8. An excellent price, 8/6, was given for some 10 bales of really prime Mudgee hay. This price was not indicative of any rise in the market, but simply of a quality of hay seldom seen at present. The potato market was rather dull again. The best lot offered—a consignment of Manhattans—had to be passed at 6/10, the reserve price being 7/. Pumpkins sold at 4/.

Produce placed in position for sale totalled 109 trucks, and consisted of—hay 7, straw 2, chaff 80, wheat 6, maize 4, potatoes 9, and pumpkins 1.

The following consignments were manifested to arrive:—Chaff 28 trucks, hay 4, potatoes 6, wheat 3, and maize 4.

Sales effected were:—

Wheaten Chaff.—Ex Temora, (12074) 4/3; J. J. Cooper, Yerong Creek, (4724) 4/1; Elkington, Yerong Creek, (8298) 3/; Pulver Bros., Bomen, (13065) 5/; W. The following trucks have been ordered for the forthcoming sales—For June 5, 383 sheep vans and 280 cattle waggons; and for June 9, 124 sheep vans and 320 cattle waggons.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the live stock market to-day 28,000 sheep were yarded. The supply consisted chiefly of crossbreds, mostly grading from good to prime qualities. In merinos best descriptions were scarce, though several drafts of useful grade, light, and medium weights both of wethers and ewes came from the Riverina. There was a fairly good demand for local trade requirements, and, although slight fluctuations were noticeable, yet prices were practically unchanged. Closing sales, however, were unsteady, and easier. Breeding ewes were in strong request, and several small lots of weaners met with brisk competition. Quotations: Prime crossbred wethers from 20/ to 22/6, extra prime crossbred wethers from 23/ to 26/3, good crossbred wethers from 17/9 to 19/6, second crossbred wethers from 15/6 to 17/; prime crossbred ewes from 17/ to 19/, extra prime crossbred ewes from 20/ to 22/, with a few selected lots up to 24/6; good crossbred ewes from 15/6 to 16/9, second crossbred ewes from 13/ to 14/, inferior and old crossbred ewes from 9/ to 12/; prime merino wethers from 19/ to 20/9, good merino wethers from 16/6 to 18/, second merino wethers from 13/6, with merino ewes from 10/ to 18/6, old and inferior from 6/. Of fat lambs 7500 were penned. The demand was brisk at last week's rates, closing sales being the weakest. Prime sold at from 15/ to 16/6, extra 17/ to 19/9, a few higher, good 13/6 to 14/6, seconds 11/6 to 13/, and a few small less.

THE NEW UNIONISM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your leader to-day "The Gain of Gasworkers," you again raise what is without question to most of your readers a complicated and perturbing issue. May I, then, as an advocate of the "new unionism," be permitted to put the case briefly as it presents itself to advanced industrialists. One hardly cares to repeat the obvious, but it at all events needs emphasising that this new unionism, with all its attendant phases, is the issue with which the publicist and the legislator will yet have to deal far more seriously than in the case to-day.

To fully appreciate the industrial movement one needs to review—if but hastily—the history of trade unionism, and, indirectly, the emancipation—using the word in its purest sense—of the working class. Moving aside any supposed or actual connection with the guild, we find the union in a crude and humble state rising into prominence concurrently with the advent of the industrial revolution at the close of the 18th and the beginning of the 19th centuries. The mistaken idea of the period which led to the persecution of its leaders (even long after the repeal of the "combination laws") shows very plainly how the weapon of combination was regarded. The "old unionism" only demanded legal acceptance and the right to pursue its principles without molestation. This agitation culminated in the 1871-6 legislation, and, from thence on unionism has been regarded in its usual form as inoffensive—and at times even beneficial—to the capitalist class. The transition from that stage to the one which now occupies the attention of legislature, pulpit, and club has been brought about by the operation of two forces. The first has been in consequence of an evolutionary driving force, which the industrial system conspicuously demonstrates in all its aspects to be not only essential for advancement, but to maintain internal stability. This will become apparent as we proceed. The second—and this by far the most important—has been the dissemination of modern Socialist theses, and the consequent inculcation of class-consciousness.

Through such transitional stages the industrial movement—now no longer a "trade" union movement—has reached a position which, though falling far short of completeness, has yet within itself the embryonic possibilities of becoming in the very near future the most potent of economic forces. This does not necessarily mean the adoption of a syndicalist policy any more than that it should become an appendage to a political party; but, between the scylla of union officialdom and the charybdis of political corruption, this newborn agency of proletarian emancipation will be the fulcrum to leaven the burden of working-class oppression. Working-class manumission can only emanate from working class action. The "old" unionism carried with it little, if any, militancy—it sought to combat oppression, not "to take and hold."

Now, Sir, what you do not take into consideration when you speak of "flagrant breaches," "one-sided agreements," etc., is, that in the industrial arena—the sphere of working class economics—the "master" and his "hands" do not stand upon an equal footing, or—to slightly change the metaphor—both do not start from scratch (the worker is a furlong behind the mark in a race of 100 yards). Now, every concession gained is not regarded by us as a compromise, but only a step nearer to the abolition of this inequitable social system. In such light alone do we view compulsory legal arbitration and other patching processes. Again, you ask in your leader: "What is going to happen during a falling market?" The fallacy which runs through the line of argument which prompts the question, is that the increases granted from time to time to the workers is but adding to the cost of production. When, however, we look at the question a little closer, we find this, that the better-paid worker is the best customer, i.e., the better for the community for being the better paid. The social status of the wage-earning class is the sole gauge of a country's prosperity; it implies an accelerated productiveness to supply the impassioned demand on their part to enjoy a fuller and more wholesome existence; and every movement in this direction is not only justifiable ethically, but proves economically sound. The crises of the past were, for the most part, due to this palpable fact; the inability of the community to collocate its economic relations, and the present tendency to readjust this anomaly is assuredly establishing a more stable and more self-reliant assemblage of social beings.

In conclusion: If there is any meaning in Hon. James Bryce's words, "The belief in the right of the majority lies very near to the belief that the majority must be right" ("The American Commonwealth," 1910 Ed., 11,350), then, are we not right in concluding that the elevation of the human race depends upon the uprising of the wage-earning class, and its emancipation from economic destitution?

THE INCREASE OF CRIME.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The importance of the above subject to which the "Herald" has recently drawn attention emboldens me to offer a few suggestions as to the best way of coping with the growing evil. The general remedy proposed is an increase of the police force, but is this really necessary? If the present severe handicaps the police labour under were removed I venture to think that under able management the force would suffice without any increase, either in number or expense. At present there appears to be a total absence of rational method in the entire scheme of things. The police are clad in a conspicuous uniform, so that the criminals can see them a mile off. Then they have regular beats with long intervals between passing given spots, so that the enterprising burglar need fear no interruption from them if he properly times himself. Next, the so-called detective force is rendered almost useless by the idiotic custom of allowing them to appear in open court so that every criminal can see them and know them (which, of course, they make it their business to do). These detectives should never be seen in court at all, or if, under our archaic system, they must, let a kind of sentry-box be put there for them to stand in so that only the magistrate can see them. Then a large number of the police are withdrawn from their proper duties to make up the electoral rolls, etc. This should be at once stopped. It would be cheaper to get ordinary electors to do this. Now as to remedies: (1) Put most of the force into plain clothes, with a badge sewn on the inside of the coat to show if necessary. Only those controlling the traffic and certain men at fixed spots to be in uniform; (2) don't select men all over a given height; get men of mental alertness as well as physical strength (many men 5ft 6in or even under are tough customers to tackle; besides having more brains). It would be going too far, I suppose, to suggest that the quasi-military system should be abolished? Why not keep these unlike things separate? Let the military be used to suppress riots, etc., and the police trained solely for crime prevention.

I am, etc., CITIZEN.

LATE SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Kensington will this afternoon be the rendezvous for followers of pony and galloway racing, and the bill of fare to be discussed promises interesting sport. The number of entries received will necessitate some of the events being run in divisions. The track is reported to be good going. The transit arrangements include special and ordinary trams, which land visitors at the racecourse gates. Racing commences at 1.15 p.m., and the results may be anticipated as under:—Novice Welter Handicap: First division—The Artist or Nibbo; second division, Lord Playful or Contrive. Flying Handicap: First division, Clarence or Bahloo; second division, Trustworthy or Fitz Merv. Fourteen-one Handicap: Thea Merv, My Peggy, Iona. Approved Stakes: Moorefield Lad, My Mo, Jackomy. Kensington Handicap: Royal Smoke, M.K., Goldlink. Fourteen Hands Handicap: Prudence, Atherdon, Lady Beauchamp. Fourteen-two Handicap: Valorous Queen, All There, Fair Alice.

A motion by the president to secede from the Western District Racing Association was defeated at a meeting of the Nyngan Jockey Club on Friday night, writes our Nyngan correspondent.

The scratchings recorded yesterday in connection with the Rosehill meeting on Thursday were:—Veronite out of the Flying Welter, and Lord Skopos out of the Rosehill Handicap.

Forbes Amateur Turf Club's race meeting, on July 1 and 2, has been granted registration by the A.J.C.

Cedilla out of the First Nursery Handicap, and Miss Mooltan out of the Second Nursery Handicap, in connection with the Winter Meeting, and Sealskin out of the Derby, 1913, were the withdrawals notified yesterday at the office of the A.J.C.

Messrs. H. Chisholm and Co. report having sold privately the bay filly Plumella, 3 years, by Antonio (imp.) from Royal Plumes; also the grey gelding White Chief, 4 years, by Pharamond from Greygown.

Our Adelaide correspondent telegraphs that after executing a sound gallop at Morphettville yesterday morning, the Wallace filly, Moe, dropped dead. She was owned by Mr. J. V. Smith, and was full-sister to Balmoral. Her victories included the V.R.C. Oaks and the S.A.J.C. St. Leger.

The Rosehill management is in the field with an attractive programme for its Prince of Wales Birthday Meeting on the 21st and 23rd inst. The prize-money aggregates 1250 sovs., of which 150 sovs. endows the Flying Handicap, 125 sovs each the Rosehill Handicap, Flying Welter, Prince of Wales Handicap, and the Nursery Handicap, while each of the other events carries 100 sovs. Nominations will be received up to 4 p.m. on Tuesday next, the 10th inst., by the secretary, Mr. Geo. W. S. Rowe.

This year's entry for the Melbourne Cup is a record, and so is that for the Caulfield Cup.

THE MORNING GALLOPS.

"MAGPIE" GRASS TRACK OPEN.

Several interesting gallops took place on the magpie grass track at Randwick yesterday morning, and the rink was good going. Rubecula negotiated a circle in 2m 12½s, and Cellar cast six furlongs behind in good style. Singie and Flaxen put past a mile in 1m 48s, while Miocene spurted five furlongs in 1m 5¼s. Sandbath was let off with a steadily run once round, and Rymerhild took 1m 20s for six furlongs, as did Malt Lassie, Offa running the same trip in 1m 19s. Salarino covered seven furlongs in 1m 39s, and a mile was run by Prince Flavus and Persian King in 1m 49s. Brave Heart took 1m 9s for a five furlong dash, Sweet Malt taking 1m 5¼s for a like trip. Doreen G. and Lord Mervyn registered 1m 35s for seven furlongs, Necktie and Royal Time slipping over the same distance in a second less. Midge B traversed a mile in 1m 56s. Kenaway left six furlongs behind in 1m 21s, and First Toy spurted three furlongs in 42s. Irishman put in a smart half-mile gallop, and Irishwoman took 1m 8¼s for five furlongs. Fortitude and Sequarious ran six furlongs in 1m 21½s, while Autho went usefully over five furlongs. Ladies' Man did long, strong work, and Lossie ran six furlongs in 1m 22s. Mescal and Purita took 1m 8s for five furlongs, and Leta went usefully over six furlongs. Orama put in a strong mile gallop, and Zena negotiated seven furlongs in 1m 35s. Dr. Hart only went strongly over five furlongs, and Torula put in a useful six furlongs gallop. Wool and Strathroyale were mates over nine furlongs, run in 2m 11s, and Best Scot defeated a mate over six furlongs in 1m 21½s. Alured, alone, took 2m 5s for a mile and a furlong, while Ninfia and Cedella occupied 1m 7s over five furlongs, as did Gold Gift and Manege. Hot Cake and Horse Marine ran six furlongs in 1m 23s, and Hair Net went usefully over a like course, and on the tan. Achilia did serviceable work over six furlongs, while Elfbolt and Tordell went usefully over the same distance. N.S.W. put in strong work, as did Duke Foote, and several others did unimportant tasks.

POLO.

SYDNEY CLUB.

The Sydney Polo clubmen played a full-time game yesterday at Kensington racecourse, when the team to represent the club at Harden had some good practice. Very little was done in the way of goal-hitting up to the fourth period, when the score was: Reds, one goal; Whites, one. In the fifth, however, the whites were much superior to their opponents, and Mr. Colin Stephen quickly added four goals to his side's total. The last period also produced some excellent polo, and Mr. Ken Richards took the ball the full length of the ground. He was then vigorously hustled by Mr. D. Garvan, but scored with a good backhander. The final scores were:—White, 8 goals; Red, 4 goals.

The following players were out:—Captain H. E. Talbot, A.D.C., Mr. Colin C. Stephen, Mr. C. J. Withycombe, Mr. A. W. Turnbull, Mr. E. W. Garvan, Mr. D. F. Garvan, Mr. J. J. Garvan, Mr. K. G. Richards, and Mr. B. Richards; and goals were hit by Mr. Stephen (5), Mr. K. Richards (5), and Mr. D. F. Garvan (2).

The game opened:—White: Mr. J. J. Garvan (back), Mr. C. C. Stephen (1), Captain Talbot (2), Mr. D. F. Garvan (3). Red: Mr. C. J. Withycombe (back), Mr. K. Richards (1), Mr. E. W. Garvan (2), Mr. A. W. Turnbull (3).

Changes were made as follow:—No. 2 period, Mr. B. Richards for Mr. Stephen; third, Mr. Stephen for Mr. J. J. Garvan; fourth, Mr. J. J. Garvan for Mr. K. Richards, and Mr. B. Richards crossed over to Red; fifth, Mr. K. Richards for Captain Talbot, but played with Red; sixth, Captain Talbot for Mr. B. Richards; seventh and eighth, Mr. B. Richards for Mr. Withycombe.

The club will be out again on Thursday.

HARDEN CARNIVAL.

The following teams have entered for the Harden Polo Carnival, which commences on Monday, and concludes on Friday:—Harden A and B, Sydney, Narrandera, Narromine, Grenfell, Kalangan, and Cooma.

Beaten teams will be handicapped on the second day; and in Monday's race programme an event for polo ponies is included.

The college team was undefeated in 1912, and numbered among its victories were King's School (26 to nil), Church of England Grammar School (26 to 3), University, second and third team mixed (30 to 2). This year Grammar School were defeated by 28 to 8.

COUNTRY NEWS.

At a meeting of the council of the above union, held on Monday night, an application from Tenterfield Union for permission to include players residing at Wallangarra, Queensland, in its competitions was granted, provided the Queensland Union had no objection.

The formation of a sub-branch of the South-western Union at Tumut, to include Tumut, Batlow, Adelong, and Gilmore, was approved.

An application from Lismore for a visit from the Maori team was refused, time not permitting.

A letter from the North-western branch was received, thanking the council for the consideration being given to the country players in the matter of selection.

The alteration of the name of the Mudgee-Gulgong Rugby Union to Mudgee Rugby Union was approved.

Mr. S. A. Middleton, ex-captain of the New South Wales and Australian representatives, took his seat on the council as representative of the Central Northern Rugby Union.

ENTERTAINMENTS TO THE MAORIES.

The City and Suburban Union has decided to entertain the Maoris at a theatre party on June 27.

The Metropolitan Union have invited the visitors to a harbour picnic on June 22, the day after the metropolitan match against the New Zealanders; and the N.S.W. Rugby Union will hold an official reception on Saturday, at noon, and will also entertain the party on June 26.

HIGH SCHOOLS.

It has been decided by the High Schools Committee to ask the Sydney High School and Fort-street High School to play the early game, commencing at 12.20 p.m. on Monday.

AUSTRALIAN.

The match committee of the league has alloted grounds for the following premiership fixtures:—June 7, Sydney v Paddington, Australian Football Ground; North Sydney v South Sydney, Sydney Cricket Ground No. 2; East Sydney v Balmain, Hampden Oval. June 9, North Sydney v Sydney, Australian Football Ground; Newtown v Balmain, Hampden Oval; Paddington v South Sydney, Moore Park.

Sanction has been granted the South Sydney Club to play matches in Tasmania during September.

The representative team, to play Queensland, at Brisbane, on Saturday, held a meeting at the Sports Club on Monday night, and elected B. Filgate Captain, and F. Mack vice-captain.

The following clearances have been endorsed by the Permit committee:—C. Blanton (Tas.), to New South Wales; D. C. Wilson (S.A.), to New South Wales; W. Kuschert (Vic.), to New South Wales; H. R. Swindells (Vic.), to Newtown; R. Pascoe (Sydney), to South Sydney.

BATHURST FIXTURES.

BATHURST, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the Western Rugby Football Union last night a letter was received from the Granville Association advising that on account of the interstate match in Sydney on June 23 it would be unable to send a team to Bathurst. Arrangements were made for the City and Suburban team, which is to meet the Maoris in Sydney on June 28, to play Western Union here on the 23rd.

At a meeting of the Bathurst Rugby Football League last night, the following fixtures were made:—Bathurst Seniors versus Combined (second grade), Metropolitan, on Saturday; Bathurst versus Newtown (first grade), on Monday; Combined Juniors versus Newtown (second grade) on Monday.

ATHLETICS.

PENRITH OPEN ROAD RACE.

Arrangements have been made with the N.S.W.A.A.A. for a five-miles open road race, to be held at Penrith, on Saturday, June 21. The value of prizes decided upon are £3, £1 10s, and 15s, also £1 for fastest time. The race will start from the Federal running track along the road for 2½ miles, returning to the starting point. Competitors may return to Sydney on the same night. Nominations will close on 21st inst.

The events decided upon for members of the A.A.A. at the Eight-hour Day sports on October 6 are:—120yds, 440yds, one mile, one mile walk, 440yds obstacle race, 120yds hurdles, and running high jump handicaps. It is also intended to offer a cup for annual competition in the 120yds handicap.

CROSS-COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The Australian Jockey Club has granted the N.S.W. A.A.A. permission to hold the cross-country championship of N.S.W. at Randwick racecourse on September 6.

ENGLISH SEVEN-MILES CHAMPIONSHIP.

A REMARKABLE FINISH.

The seven-miles amateur walking championship of England, which was decided on Saturday, April 19, resulted in a remarkable finish between the holder of the title (R. Bridge) and H. V. L. Ross, another famous walker. Bridge commenced the last lap with an advantage of 20yds, but Ross, finishing with great determination, spurted magnificently, and just managed to make a dead-heat of it in the last stride. The time was 52m 8s.

During the same afternoon the ten-miles running championship was decided, when E. Glover, who ran splendidly, won easily in 51m 56 4-5s. Nine competitors gained standard time, and in all 26 completed the ten miles under the hour.

INTERSTATE 'VARSITY LADIES' TOURNAMENT.

MELBOURNE DEFEATS SYDNEY.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

Fine and pleasant weather prevailed to-day, when the interstate University ladies' lawn tennis contest was commenced. The three universities taking part are Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide, and each is represented by four players.

To-day Sydney played Melbourne, and the match was remarkably even. Rubbers and sets were exactly divided in the doubles, but in the singles Melbourne came out with an advantage of one set, and thus won the final. The score was 9 sets to 8 against Sydney, although the latter secured 71 games against their opponents' 71. Results:—

Singles.—Miss Ross (Melbourne) lost to Miss Macdonald (Sydney), 3-6, 2-6; Miss Townsend lost to Miss Newbury, 2-6, 6-4, 3-6; Miss Whybrow beat Miss Edwards, 6-2, 6-0; Miss Williams beat Miss English, 6-0, 6-4.

CITY CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP.

Widerstrom and Donaldson have arranged to meet in the final of the City Club championship this afternoon on the local green. Play will start at 2 o'clock.

PRESIDENT'S TROPHY CONTEST.

Semi-final Round.

Mr. H. Moses has won the semi-final round of the president's trophy contest of the City Club, and he will now meet Mr. Munro in the final. The semi-final round was played on Monday afternoon on the City green. Moses and Roberts were the contestants. At one stage of the game Roberts was leading by 10 points, the scores being 25 to 15, but in the end Moses overhauled his opponent, and won by 3 points, viz., 31 to 28.

CLUB SWINGING.

PARKES, Tuesday.

Martin Dobrilla, who holds a record of 137 hours' continuous club-swinging, attempted an 80½ hours' New South Wales record at the Parkes Picture Palace. He concluded his task at 10.45 on Saturday night.

CYCLING AND MOTORING.

TOURIST TROPHY RACE.

The first race for the tourist trophy, the blue ribbon of British motor cycling, will be held in the Isle of Man to-day.

The senior machines (350 C.C. to 500 C.C. capacity) will cover five laps (187½ miles), and the junior machines (350 C.C. capacity) four laps, a distance of 150 miles. The final races will be held on Friday, when the junior riders will cover two laps in the morning and the senior competitors the same distance as soon as the course is cleared. Only those riders who complete to-day's distance within a certain time will be allowed to start.

This contest has been promoted by the Auto Cycle Club. About 90 machines have been entered for the senior race, and 50 in the junior class. H. H. Ragless, a South Australian rider, and Percy Flook, the South African, journeyed to England specially to compete. Charlie and Harry Collier are riding Matchlesses; O. C. Godfrey, S. George, and Noel Brown are riding Indians; and F. A. Applebee has entered a Scott. Ten 2¾-h.p. Douglas machines have been entered in the junior race. Other makes represented are:—B.S.A. (6 machines), Triumph (5 machines), Rudge-Whitworth (4 machines), Blumfield (4 machines), Humber (3 machines), Scott (3 machines), Hayes-Pankhurst (2 machines), Forward (2 machines), Norton (2 machines), Precision, Ivy-Green, Singer, Dot, Alldays, Brough, Motosacoche, and Zenith-Green (one each). Entries from any one manufacturer were limited to three; other machines were, therefore, privately entered.

Last year's events were both won by English machines, a two-cycle Scott, ridden by F. A. Applebee, winning the senior event with a speed of 48½ m.p.h. over a course of 187 miles. The junior class was won by W. H. Bashall on a 2¾-h.p. Douglas.

The open events are:—

Saturday, July 5.—First and second heats of the Dunlop interclub premiership.

Saturday, July 26.—Club Saturday.

Saturday, August 16.—Club Saturday.

Saturday, August 23.—40-mile individual championship.

Saturday, August 30.—Pacers' race.

In all probability a 40-mile road race will be arranged for Saturday, September 20.

WARRNAMBOOL-MELBOURNE ROAD RACE.

Owing to a refusal on the part of the Melbourne authorities to consent to the Warrnambool-Melbourne road race finishing at the usual venue at the Haymarket, the promoters are unable to make a definite announcement in regard to the holding of the race this year. In all probability, a private roadway will be selected for the finish.

ARMY MOTOR CYCLISTS.

The Imperial War Office has decided to enlist motor cyclists in England under special reserve conditions. No doubt, now that the Imperial authorities have moved in this direction, the example will be followed in this country, which offers a splendid opportunity for utilising the proved advantages of the motor cycle for communication and other purposes.

PICTON-ASHFIELD RACE.

RAILWAY AND NUMBER ARRANGEMENTS.

Cyclists' Union members who are taking part in the Lyon-road race from Picton to Ashfield on Monday next, may obtain railway tickets at the special cheap rate on Thursday and Friday at the Sports Club from 1.30 to 2 o'clock, and from 7.30 to 9 o'clock, on those days only. Concession tickets will not be sold at the railway station on the morning of the race. The cost of these tickets for the single journey is 2/2. The train on Monday, by which the competitors will travel, leaves Sydney at 9.45 a.m. Machines must, however, be booked. Bicycle tickets will cost 9d each.

MARINE MOTORING.

SYDNEY HARBOUR NOTES.

The two 50-h.p. engines imported from America to the order of the Commonwealth Government, have been landed, and will shortly be installed in the Government schooner, which is to be put in commission for the Northern Territory trade almost immediately. Although primarily designed for running on gasoline, the engines have been equipped with a kerosene-burning device, which, it is expected, will effect the large fuel economies, and also increase the power output of the plant.

Mr. Neil Harvey, a member of the Motor Yacht Club of N.S.W., and an enthusiastic yachtsman, has relinquished his connection with his city firm to become associated, as business partner, with the firm of William Holmes, launch and yacht builders, of Lavender Bay.

Messrs. Frank Albert, commodore of the Motor Yacht Club of N.S.W., and W. E. Hart, the Australian aviator, have formulated plans to build a replica of the speed boat XQQME for next season's racing. XQQME is a 25-foot stepless hydroplane, fitted with a 50-h.p. high-speed French-built engine, which gives a speed of 24 miles an hour. She was built and is at present owned by Messrs. Neil Harvey and Alvin Taylor.

With a view to annexing the speed pennant and championship of Sydney Harbour, Messrs. Moseley and James are carrying out extensive experiments, in order to equip N.S.W. with the most efficient and suitable propellor.

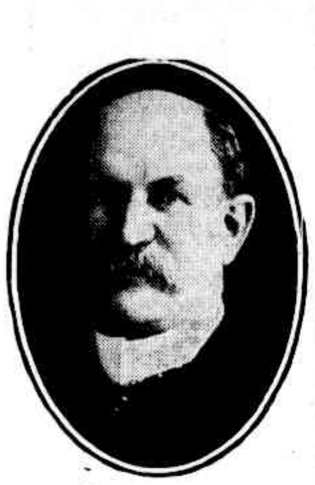
NEW SOUTH WALES SENATORS.

LIBERAL THREE LEADING.

MR. E. D. MILLEN.

SIR ALBERT GOULD.



MR. C. W. OAKES.

Mr. E. D. Millen, leader of the Liberal party in the Senate, has been in political life since 1894. In the New South Wales Parliament he was a recognised authority on land matters. He was elected to the Senate at the first Federal election, and became Vice-President of the Executive Council in the Deakin-Cook administration. He is one of the keenest thinkers and debaters in Australia.

Sir Albert Gould entered the political arena 29 years ago as member for Singleton. He was Minister for Justice in the Parkes and Reid Governments, and, entering the first Senate, succeeded Sir Richard Baker as President of that Chamber. Sir Albert is recognised as a sound and resourceful debater. He was born in Sydney in 1847, and started the practice as a solicitor of his profession in 1870.

The ex-member for Paddington (Mr. Oakes) is new to Federal honours. His political activities have hitherto been confined to New South Wales, where he is recognised by all parties as a popular politician. Born in Wagga he started public service as an alderman in Paddington, and after five years' municipal service, entered Parliament, and became hon. Minister in Mr. Wade's Government in 1907.

BILLIARDS.

BOXING.

TO-NIGHT'S STADIUM CONTEST.

Two vigorous middleweights in Larry Foran and "Battling" Tayler will provide the attraction at the Stadium to-night. Taylor is an Englishman, and has shaped well at matinees at the Stadium; while Foran has a useful record in this State, his last performance being a victory over "Soldier" Thompson.

RUSSELL DEFEATS STONE.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

WILLIS DEFEATS BUNGARDY.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

At the Stadium last night Jack Willis (11st 3½lb) defeated Frank Bungardy (11st 5lb) on points at the end of 20 rounds.

CASUALTIES.

A WINCHMAN'S DEATH.

Yesterday the Acting City Coroner (Mr. Fletcher) inquired into the circumstances of the death of Joseph Curby, 29, a labourer, on May 23.

Evidence went to show that the deceased was on that day working a travelling crane at Messrs. Bonner and Sons' ironworks, Ultimo, when the winch suddenly stopped running. Looking up at the crane platform, several workmen noticed the deceased man hanging with his head through the platform. Presently he fell to the ground, striking an axle-box. On arrival of the ambulance at Sydney Hospital he was found to be dead, death being due to a fractured skull. The Coroner gave a verdict of accidental death.

FATAL STEAM BLOW-OUT.

On May 26 Charles Arthur Lawrence, 25, an engineer, was overhauling a pump aboard the coastal steamer Pulganbar. All the nuts having been removed, Lawrence and another worker were about to screw two eye-bolts into the cover, when it blew off. Lawrence was so badly scalded that he died in Sydney Hospital five days later.

In evidence at the City Coroner's Court yesterday it was stated that the steam and the exhaust were cut off at the time of the accident. A witness remarked that it was usual to leave at least two nuts on the cover until it was found whether the cylinder retained any steam or not.

A verdict of accidental death was recorded.

KILLED BY FALLING WALL.

"Accidental death" was the Acting City Coroner's (Mr. Fletcher) verdict in the inquiry into the death of a carter, Herbert H. W. Evans, 27, which occurred on May 29. The evidence showed that, while the deceased was working at a half-demolished brick building in Petersham-road, Marrickville, on that day, part of a brick wall fell on to him. He died at the Marrickville Cottage Hospital from a broken back and other injuries.

CAUGHT IN STONE-CRUSHER.

On Monday Ernest Napier, 44, was caught by the arm in a stone-crushing machine at the Prospect metal quarries, and whirled through the air at a great rate, and then thrown a distance of some 20 feet into a truck of metal. When picked up he was partly stunned, and was suffering from injuries to the head and abdomen. On being admitted to the Parramatta District Hospital, it was found that the internal injuries were of a severe nature. He lingered till Tuesday morning, when he died. The deceased leaves a widow and eight young children.

FARMER DROWNED.

INVERELL, Tuesday.

The body of James Gleeson, a very old resident of the Inverell district, and one of the earliest farmers in the Dog Trap portion the district, was found in the river below the showground to-day. Deceased was in town last night. It is thought that in attempting to find his way home in the dark he slipped into the river.

MINER'S SUICIDE.

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

B. Sorley, a miner at Gladstone, committed suicide on Saturday. He placed a detonator in his mouth, lighted a fuse, and portion of his head was blown off.

A FATAL BLOW.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

John Jones, a resident of Korumburra, was admitted to the Melbourne Hospital to-day suffering from an injury to his spine, which had caused paralysis. He died three hours later. In a statement made to the Korumburra police, Jones stated that he was struck on Saturday night by a man, and knocked off his feet on to a brick floor.

How the sailing vessel has been displaced by the steam-driven craft is strikingly shown by the fact that out of 683 arrivals at the Port of New York in March last only 124 were sailing craft, 115 of these being coastwise schooners coming through Long Island Sound, with four by way of Sandy Hook. There were only five square riggers, all barques, and four of them flying foreign flags.

THE JUNE NOMINATIONS.

INCREASED ENTRIES.

The A.J.C. officials have had a busy time for some days past in taking nominations for the big handicaps of the spring—the local and Victorian—and entries for the futurities for now yearlings. The entries taken at the A.J.C. totalled 3021, of which 1734 were received for the events for which the club invited nominations, 818 for the V.R.C. events, 384 for the V.A.T.C. races, 51 for the Williamstown Cup, and 34 for the Western Australian Turf Club.

With the exception of those for the St. Leger, 1915, the A.J.C. nominations show an increase compared with those of last year as under:—

Epsom Handicap	184	207
The Metropolitan	162	185
Breeders' Plate, 1913	163	272
Gimcrack Stakes, 1913	160	169
December Stakes, 1913	192	201
Sires' Produce Stakes, 1914	241	270
Champagne Stakes, 1914	330	337
Derby, 1914	351	344
St. Leger, 1915	322	313

These figures show an all-round increase in nominations of 213, as compared with last year, the totals being: 1912, 2085; and for 1913, 2298.

The entrants for the Epsom Handicap and the Metropolitan include the best handicap horses in the Commonwealth. Victoria contributed 29 to the mile race, and New Zealand eight; while The Metropolitan attracted 32 from Victoria, and seven from New Zealand. Victorian sportsmen also gave sound support to the classic races of the future for now yearlings, the total being 395, distributed over seven events, while the numbers to hand from New Zealand for the young races total 41.

The Rosehill Guineas and the Hawkesbury Guineas, 1914, also received good support, the former closing with 180 nominations and the latter with 133.

The sires nominated at the A.J.C. office for the Western Australian Sires' Produce Stakes, 1915, numbered 19; 14 nominations of now two-year-olds were received for the W.A. Derby, 1913; and one (yearling) for the Karrakatta Plate, 1913.

Nominations are subjoined:—

AUSTRALIAN JOCKEY CLUB.

THE THEATRES.

There will be a matinee at 1.45 to-day of "The Taming of the Shrew" at the Theatre Royal, after which Mr. Asche and Miss Brayton will make only three more appearances in this famous Shakespearean comedy. Not only does Mr. Asche play two strongly contrasted characters as the tipsy tinker and Petruchio, but the action is marked by the heartiest fun and gaiety.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be staged on Saturday for the first time by Mr. Asche, when the loveliest woodland scenery will realise all the picturesque charm of the fantasy. Oscar Asche as Bottom and Lily Brayton as Helena will appear with the full strength of the company, and Mr. Wynne Jones will conduct an augmented orchestra in Mendelssohn's music. The plan is at Paling's.

"The Count of Luxembourg" will be performed at 1.45 to-day as well as in the evening, at Her Majesty's Theatre, where Franz Lehar's captivating valse-airs are rendered with delightful effect by Miss Florence Young, Mr. Talleur Andrews, orchestra, and chorus, whilst Miss Arundale, Mr. W. S. Percy, and Mr. Phil Smith sustain the humorous side of the operetta.

At the Criterion Theatre the first matinee of the new American farcical comedy, "Excuse Me," will be given to-day. Mr. Fred Niblo and Miss Beatrice Terry, as the lovers untimely carried away on a Pullman car before the parson has had time to read the marriage service, behave with a humorous discretion beyond admiration, and the laughter of the audience is incessant.

"Fanny's First Play" continues to prove a strong attraction at the Little Theatre, and Misses Violet Paget, Shirley Huxley, Tempe Pigott, Clara Stephenson, Messrs. Hugh Buckler, Arthur Cornell, C. Kay Souper, and other artists assist in a mirth-provoking ensemble. There will be a matinee to-morrow, whilst on Friday night the Minister for Education will unveil Miss Dora Ohlfsen's medallions.

At the Adelphi Theatre, Mr. William Anderson's company, in accordance with the scheme for their Sydney season, will only make three more appearances in "The Evil Men Do," with its appealing child interest, and sensational leap from the flaming belfry tower. On Saturday Charles Darrell's picturesque drama, "The Girl who Knew a Bit," will be produced in sixteen tableaux. Miss Harrie Ireland has been especially engaged for the new drama. There will be a holiday matinee on Monday next.

At the Palace Theatre the only remaining matinee of "On Our Selection" is announced for next Monday, as the Bert Bailey Dramatic Company will make their farewell appearance in Steele Rudd's laughable story of back-blocks life to-morrow week. On June 14 this popular combination will open at the King's Theatre, Melbourne.

The American Musical and Burlesque Company will open their season at the Palace Theatre on Saturday, June 14. The new combination has been organised by Mr. William Anderson, to stage a popular American musical farce, "The Grafters." Some three score artists and chorus will appear, and pretty ballets, and quaint sayings, will assist to a repetition of the recent Melbourne success. Miss Gertrude St. Clair, leading vocalist, and Miss Eugenie Le Blanc, a vivacious soubrette, will be prominent. The plan will open at Paling's on Saturday.

The Stage Society has secured the Palace Theatre for the evening of Friday, June 13, for the first production here of Rudolf Besier's comedy, "Don." As the new play enjoyed a long run at the Haymarket its performance by a carefully organised cast of amateurs and professional artists should attract a large audience, and more especially so as the representation will be in aid of the Shakespeare Memorial Fund.

At the National Amphitheatre, the star attraction, both afternoon and evening, will be the Royal Banzai Family of Japanese entertainers, jugglers, and equilibrists, who present a thrilling and richly staged act. Foolish Ford is causing laughter, and Will Rayner, Coleman Sisters, Mysto, Morley and Bates, the Marsdens (last night), Pearl Livingstone (last night), and Lalie Brook (last two nights) will contribute to a bright entertainment.

Mr. Archibald Strong, of Melbourne University, is responsible for the version of "The Trial Before Herod," to be produced by Mr. Herbert Grimwood at St. James' Hall on Friday afternoon. The actual drama will be preceded by a short lecture by Professor MacCallum. The ordinary stage equipment will be used, and the examination of Christ by Herod, surrounded by his soldiers, will provide about an hour's strongly interesting situation, in which the Saviour does not utter a word. Already wide public interest has been in evidence at the box office at Paling's.

At the Sydney Repertory Theatre, the second entertainment on Saturday evening next will introduce the New Zealand dramatic soprano, Miss Rita Lyons, in the ballad from Alfred Hill's "Hinemoa," with string quartet accompaniment. Mr. Alfred Hill's string quintet will be repeated, by request, as also selections from Rudyard Kipling by Mr. Caleb Porter, as well as new anecdotes and sketches. Artists assisting will include Misses Grace Nicholson, Dorothy Garratt, Mirrie Solomon, Messrs. Alfred Hill, Bryce Carter, Frank Hutchens, Arthur Appleby, Fredk. Asmussen. Tickets at Paling's, Nicholson's, Albert's. Plan at Nicholson's.

THE TOM KING MATINEE.

Playgoers of this city should rally in support of the veteran showman and manager, Mr. Tom King, sen., an active and energetic octogenarian, for whom a benefit entertainment has been organised by Messrs. Harry Leston and Alfred Harford (stage directors), for Friday afternoon next, at the Palace Theatre. The occasion will be marked by an attractive programme. Mr. Fred Niblo will give one of his brilliant monologues, the second act of "On Our Selection" will be played by the Bert Bailey Company, Messrs. W. S. Percy, Victor Prince, and Mr. Charles Albert will appear in a burlesque "High Art," Mr. Caleb Porter will give a sketch, Roy Redgrave and Walter Dalgleish will represent the Adelphi, and a long list of leading vaudeville artists will assist. The plan is at Paling's.

THE BARRON-MORLEY RECITALS.

On Saturday evening next Mr. F. Barron Morley, after an absence of 11 years, during which he has made his mark as principal piano professor at the Chicago College of Music, and as soloist with many famous orchestras in America, Germany, and Austria, will made his re-appearance at the Town Hall. On the occasion of this interesting musical event, Mr. Morley will play such fascinating pieces as the Bach "Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue," Schumann's "Etudes Symphoniques," and Chopin's "Sonata in B Minor." The plan is at Paling's.

THE CLARA BUTT-RUMFORD SEASON.

Mme. Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford have renewed all the excitement which attended their first visit to this country, and the extended season of nine concerts in Melbourne is now closing to crowded houses. The advance booking for Adelaide is reported as unusually large, so that the Tait management has no anxiety as to the Sydney appearances on Saturday, June 21, and on June 24, 26, 28, and July 1. The plans will open June 16, and preliminary applications for seats may be sent beforehand to Messrs. J. and N. Tait, at Nicholson's.

MR. W. J. COAD'S VIOLIN RECITAL.

Last night, at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, Mr. W. J. Coad presented a programme of violin music to an appreciative audience. It contained works by Corelli, Bruch, Tschaikowski, Wieniawski, Handel, Ries, etc. Mr. Coad's classical schooling showed itself in the Corelli "Sonata," the large reposeful tone in the adagio, and the incisive vim of the last fugue allegro being features of an authoritative rendering. The well-known Max Bruch "Concerto in G minor" had been well studied, and there was something of interest to note in each movement. Mr. Albert Fisher's pianoforte accompaniment added to the success of the interpretation. The "Souvenir de Moscow" (Wieniawski) gave ample opportunity for a display of virtuosity on the violinist's part, and the Tschaikowsky "Serenade Melancholique" proved itself an unusual work of a pessimistic character, evidently a portrayal of a phase of Russian peasant life. Among several encore pieces was the "Svendsen Romance."

MR. HARRISON ALLEN'S PUPILS.

The audience in St. James' Hall last night sat out a programme of diversified merit. Mr. Harrison Allen (the noted Dickensian actor) and some of his pupils combined in an elocutionary entertainment, which was relieved tastefully by piano and violin solos. Miss Ivy Allen (to the paino accompaniment of Miss Amy Dellow) used her violin cleverly in Cyril Monk's setting of Schubert's "Serenade" and "Scherzo," while Miss Evelyn Morgan-Shaw interpreted acceptably a couple of pianoforte selections.

Among the elocutionary students Misses Emmie Williams, Lottie Glenfield, Lilian Long, Willie Clelland, Mr. J. Hatton, and Mr. Morgan-Shaw appeared conspicuously well. Miss Williams' "La Belle Facuila," in character-monologue, was especially good. In the amusing comedietta, "Only a Woman," in which a mutual compromise of the sexes results in the man's sacrifice of the smoking habit, and the woman's rejection of the monomania, knitting, was humorously played by Mr. Hugh Jennings and Miss Gladys Shaw. The last item of the programme Mr. Allen reserved for himself. In Chevalier's "Fallen Star" he suggested, with subtle art, the varying and contrasting emotions of the "has-been" actor's vision. Other students in the programme were Misses Doris Simpson, Jessie Newton, A. Grimason, and May Meynink.

NAVAL BENEFIT CONCERT.

Under the auspices of the Palace Emporium Glee Party, a concert was held in the Concordia Hall last night, the proceeds being in aid of the children of the Antarctic hero, the late Petty-officer Evans. There was a very large attendance, and the result financially was most satisfactory, so that the organisers will be enabled to hand over to the naval authorities the amount of £60, and probably more, which sum it is proposed to invest in New South Wales Stock until such time as the children attain a certain age, and then utilise the same for the purpose of apprenticing them to a useful trade, by way of respective premiums. With regard to the items on a varied and well-selected programme, special mention may be made of the trio presenting the "prison scene" from Faust, in which Miss Elsie B. Peerless, and Messrs. A. R. Richards and A. E. Benham were heard to advantage. The "Miserere" scene from "Il Trovatore," given by Miss Peerless, the troubadour being Mr. Ernest Archer, was also rendered with pleasing effect, which Miss Leila Jeffrey is to be commended for her brilliant violin solos; whilst Miss Estelle Bowen's vocal efforts also proved acceptable. Miss Molly Malone (piano), and Master Jack Mohair also assisted. Choruses, particularly the "Hymn Before Action," by the Palace Emporium Glee party were good, and sung with uniform precision; also the selections of the N.S.W. State Military Band, under the baton of Captain W. G. Bentley, were much enjoyed. Mrs. Richardson, Miss Myra List, and Mr. Nicholas J. Gehde acted as accompanists, and the Sydney Amateur Orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. Francis Knowles, provided attractive entr'acte music.

CONCERTS, LECTURES, RECITALS.

This evening Herr Heinrich Hemmer, German author, satirist, and world-worn traveller, will give a lecture at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, entitled "The Truth About Germany." The speaker's vivacious remarks will be illustrated by pictures of Berlin and her streets, and of the agriculture, scheme of laying-out towns, cathedrals, and naval and military manoeuvres of the country. There will be a second lecture on June 16. The plan is at Angus and Robertson's.

At 1.15 this afternoon Miss Lilian Frost will initiate a series of organ recitals at the Pitt-street Congregational Church. Miss Emilie Lambert will be the vocalist to-day, when Miss Frost will play Guilmant's Symphony Sonata and other pieces.

The fourteenth annual concert and distribution of prizes of the London College of Music (Sydney branch) will be given in the Town Hall this evening at 7.45. Mr. A. C. Carmichael, Minister for Public Instruction, will preside. The gross proceeds will be given to the Sydney Hospital. The plan is now open at Paling's.

In St. James' Hall to-morrow evening Mr. Douglas Ancelon, Miss Stella Chapman, and students from their School of Elocution, will present the fifth act of "Richelieu," scenes from "Two Gentlemen of Verona," several short comedies, and a dramatic sketch, "The Rose of Coolgardie." The plan is at Paling's.

Miss Irene Herrmann's concert is to be given on next Saturday evening at St. James' Hall. Mr. John Mansfield has prepared a varied programme, in which to introduce his talented pupil. The plan is at Paling's.

The plan for the Bertram Flohm Students' Recital to be held on June 12, at St. James' Hall, [illegible] Paling's to-morrow. The programme will include [illegible] new musical monologues.

Miss Doris Madden, the Victorian pianist, [illegible] appearance with the Sydney Symphony, will give a recital in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Thursday, 19th inst. Miss Madden visited this city last year, and created a very favourable impression.

Mr. Nicholas J. Gehde will give a concert in the Town Hall next Sunday afternoon, when the assisting artists will be Misses Elsie B. Peerless, Ivy Allen, [illegible] Irene M'Pherson, Signor Torzillo, Messrs. Ernest [illegible]cher, Harold Hazel, Arthur Summons, Master Boyle Williams, and the Cathedral chorister boys.

OTHER ENTERTAINMENTS.

"Quo Vadis?" is now in its fourth week, and the attendances show no signs of diminishing. The film has been presented with a thorough attention to details, and appropriate music and choruses are rendered. There will be a matinee to-day.

"The Heart of a Pierrot," with Miss Asta Nielsen in the principal role, is the star picture at West's Olympia this week, and is attracting large attendances each night. There will be an entire change of programme to-morrow night to support the feature film.

"The Doctor's Crime" and "A Mexican Bulldog" are the headline pictures of the new programme to be introduced at the Crystal Palace Theatre to-morrow. The English Gazette will show pictorially all the latest events in the old world.

There will be an entire change of programme at the Lyric Theatre to-morrow, when the star picture will be "The Price of Silence." These two reels show some thrilling adventures. There are several other pictures of a dramatic and comic nature.

The star picture of the new programme at the Colonial Theatre to-morrow will be "Adventures on the Mexican Border." There is a lot of human interest in this film. Another picture that should be of interest is the one showing the brick making industry in all its phases.

There will be a complete change of programme at the Empress Theatre to-morrow, and the feature film will be "The Miller's Daughter." The Warwick Chronicle will show some of the latest occurrences in Great Britain.

Season tickets are available for the Glaciarium, where ice-skating is now being indulged in by some hundreds each day. This afternoon Professor Alauze will give an exhibition of fancy skating, and to-morrow night the first ice hockey match will be played.

The cold weather has had the effect of increasing the attendances at the Royal Roller Rink, Agricultural Grounds, Moore Park. There are three sessions daily.

A Fairyland Festival will be the next attraction at the Imperial Roller Rink, William-street. Preparations are now going on for this event. The date will be announced later. There are large attendances at each session.

A sports night will be held at the Coliseum, North Sydney, on Wednesday evening, when a half-mile scratch race and four novelty races will be held.

There will be an entire change of programme at the American Picture Palace, Pitt-street, to-morrow. The star picture of the current bill is "Before the White Man Came." It attracted large attendances throughout the week.

THE BISPHAM SONG RECITALS.

Mr. David Bispham opened his song recital at the Town Hall last night with Haydn's aria, "The Impatient Husbandman," a number not heard here since the performance of "The Seasons" some years ago. The famous baritone's clean-clipped delivery of the words, the virile quality of his voice, and the facile use he made of it in the runs which embody the jocund spirit of the sower confident in the fruitfulness of the bounteous earth, formed the significant points in a memorable interpretation. Students doubtless contrasted this broad and full-mouthed rendering with the dainty use of the mezza voce made by the artist in Harriet Ware's fascinating little "Boat Song" towards the end of the evening. Even Mr. Bispham's most fervent admirers were in this instance prepared for a disappointment. The song was obviously so much "easier" for a tenor, and it had been introduced here in charming fashion by M. Paul Dufault. There was no disappointment. The rare art of the singer triumphed, and the number was encored with enthusiasm.

There was a capital attendance, though the vast auditorium was not full. The applause also was electrically spontaneous, so that Mr. Bispham accorded repetitions and extra songs quite freely. His hearers are, perhaps, rather thoughtless in such insistence, seeing that the star has so much to do in each entertainment. "Believe Me, If all Those Endearing Young Charms" was repeated, and there was a perfect furore after the old Jacobite song, "Down Among the Dead Men." It was here that Mr. Bispham's prefatory explanation, that the title of the song referred to a place under the supper-table amongst the empty bottles in "the wee sma' 'oors," enabled the audience to appreciate the mock sublimity of his leonine tones in association with a subtle under-touch of drollery and humour. The extra number was "Drink to Me only with Thine Eyes," which the humorist offered to temperance advocates as a "musical antidote to the Jacobean rouse." There was a group by Carl Loewe a German composer of Schubert's day, much of whose music was intended for English words. "Tom the Rhymer," the story of a Scottish poet who met a fairy maiden on a gallant steed, bedecked with little bells, and disappeared with her for seven years under the spell of her rosy-lipped kiss, revealed a flow of enchanting melody. The singer was at his best in it, and Mr. Harry Gilbert played delightfully an accompaniment, through which sparkled the sound of tiny silver bells. Everyone would like to hear this song again. The gruesome tragedy of "Edward" ("Percy Reliques"), in which the mother learns from her son that he has slain his father, ended in the piteous groans and anguished sighings of the wicked woman, cursed by the murderer for her instigation to the crime. The tragic power of the actor afforded a blood-curdling thrill, which the audience apparently enjoyed. The encore was Loewe's "How Deep the Slumber of the Floods."

Shelley's "Ode to Music" introduced a beautiful setting of an elevated character by Herbert Bedford, the husband of Liza Lehmann. Hy. F. Gilbert's setting of R. L. Stevenson's "Pirate Song," in which Mr. Bispham suggested some truculent, villainous "sea-shark" hoarsely chuckling and howling over a bottle of rum, was rapturously encored. Becoming quite the serious artist once more, the operatic baritone sang with splendour of vocal breadth and fervour "Wert Thou Thy Snowflake," the entire scene of which from Sullivan's "Ivanhoe" was once presented on the stage here in costume by Mr. Wallace Brownlow and Miss Florence Young. Will M. Cook's "An Exhortation" brought forward the entertainer as a negro preacher, in which his vivid character touches so amused the house that he obliged them as encore with "Killiecrankie." Mr. Bispham's last appearance was to recite Edgar Allan Poe's "The Raven," to the music of Arthur Bergh. This he did so as to give life to all the alarm, sorrow, and misery of a phantom-haunted man whose "raven" is but the creation of a mind distraught.

Mr. Harry Gilbert played for the first time "Confluentia," by Edgar Stillman Kelley, the gifted American composer, known here for his "Macbeth" music. The title refers to an ancient city at the confluence of the Rhine and the Moselle, and the interlacing of two themes accordingly figured in a fine composition of the German school. The pianist proved especially brilliant in his own "Gabrielle Valse de Concert," a clever bravura piece, with modern modulations, upon which he brought to bear an effective technical skill. The applause was overwhelming, and Mr. Gilbert took a double encore, his first piece being Poldini's "Japanese Etude."

Mr. Fred Shipman announces final recitals for to-morrow night and Saturday afternoon.

MOTHERS' DAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As there appears to be a desire to know the source of the introduction of Mothers' Day into Australia, I should like to state that, on behalf of St. James's Presbyterian Fellowship Association, Burwood, I corresponded with the founder, Miss Anna Jarvis, Philadelphia, U.S.A., early in 1909. Miss Jarvis's reply reached us too late to hold the celebration on the second Sunday in May, and it was therefore held on the third Sunday in June in that year. In replying Miss Jarvis expressed her gratification at having inquiries from Australia, and specially asked us to introduce the movement here. The Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., the P.F.W., and other organisations gladly fell in with our suggestion to join in the observance of the day. Folders were printed and distributed, and the secular and religious press all contributed to make the movement known.

The following year, at Miss Jarvis's own request, the further organisation of the Sydney movement was handed over to the undenominational character, in recognition, however, of the service rendered by St. James's Fellowship Association, Miss Jarvis last year presented the association with a photograph of her mother—Mrs. Jarvis—"The Mother of Mothers' Day." This photograph, which is tastefully framed and suitably inscribed, now graces the session hall at St. James's. It will probably further interest your readers to know that the second Sunday in May was chosen for the observance because it is the nearest to the anniversary of Mrs. Jarvis's death. I am, etc.,

MR. GRIFFITH AND THE SHIRES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of May 24, 1913, I notice that Mr. Griffith is boasting of the large surplus of money he expects to have in connection with the administration of the department under his charge. If Mr. Griffith expects his approximate balance at the end of the financial year to be £465,481 why does he not pay to the shires the amounts due to them for main road grants?

Several of the shires have had a very bad time during the recent floods, and owing to the curtailment of the endowment many of the shires have not enough money to meet their liabilities in connection with their roads, etc., and would it not be a more manly policy to pay to the shires the money due to them than to show a surplus, in his department, which does not exist.

I am, etc.,

SHIRE PRESIDENT.

At the Mount David gold mine last week the Marvel shaft was timbered 25ft, also ladders and sollars put, and timbering finished to 150ft. Sinking has been resumed, and is still in felsite rock.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs:—"There was heavy selling of Hampden shares to-day (Tuesday). Apart from drop in the price of the red metal and the lower London quotation, the market was affected by rumours that the company was threatened with a labour dispute. It is understood that the company's employees generally are desirous of abolishing the contract system in regard to mining operations, and supply of timber and firewood. The directors have determined to adhere to the contract system.

MINING IN THE STATE.

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

Mr. J. P. O'Neill, of Bungonia, reports that he has visited the Mount Fisher copper field, and that Mr. John Griffin, in opening out on an outcrop of gossan, struck a fine lode of copper. He has about 100 worth of first-class ore at grass, consisting of sulphide, oxide, and carbonate, with an occasional slug of native copper. The new discovery is about half a mile from Mount Fisher, and a mile from the old Marulan copper mine at Upper Boro, which paid dividends until refractory ore was encountered.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MINES.

KALGOORLIE, Tuesday.

Messrs. Bewick, Moreing, and Co. have cabled to London:—"Queen of Hills, No. 1 level, west crosscut off south drive, from 23ft to 33½ft, passed through ore averaging 40/ per ton over a width of 126 inches."

THE ARDLETHAN TIN FIELD.

ARDLETHAN, Tuesday.

The No. 2 main shaft of the White Crystal is down 110ft, with good ore continuing. Crosby's adit is in length 76ft, in quartz porphyry and tourmaline, a very favourable indication. Stackpool's shaft is containing ore in a porphyry formation, with fair prospects of tin ore.

At the Warden's Court Mr. Warden James dealt with 57 cases; 25 authorities to enter were granted, and five were cancelled for non compliance with the labour conditions. An application for a suspension of labour conditions on a lease was refused. Other matters consisted of complaints and refusals of authority applications.

BRISEIS TIN MINING COMPANY.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

For the year ended December 31, the Briseis Tin and General Mining Company made a net profit of £62,194. After providing for depreciation, income tax, dividend tax, and dividends, etc, the amount carried forward was £21,446. The balance-sheet shows cash assets at the end of the year of £31,926, and a reserve fund of £50,000.

The net dry weight of black tin won was 538 tons 17cwt 24lb, and after allowing a smelting loss of two units, yielded 380 tons 15cwt 2qr 23lb of metal.

The general manager states that the northern end of the Briseis mine will, in the future, contribute very little to the monthly yield, which must be obtained chiefly from Krushka's Flat faces, with a little assistance from the Ringarooma tin faces. The total turnover at Wallace properties was 1,547,600 cubic yards. The value of the gold won £35,087, and the cost 2.95d per cubic yard. During the quarter ended March 31 overburden and drift treated at Briseis and Ringarooma was 131,000 cubic yards, black tin recovered 135 tons, equal to approximately 98.55 tons of metallic tin. At the Wallace properties, ground dredged was 269,000 cubic yards, gold recovered 1750oz, value £6579. Estimated gross profits for quarter, £14,000.

VEGETABLE CREEK TIN MINE.

Report of the Vegetable Creek Tin Mining Company for the week ended May 31:—

No. 1 crosscut from eastern drive advanced a further 28ft to 44ft; the wash has averaged 51in in thickness, worth 150lb, and there is 48in, worth 180lb, in the face. Western drive advanced 16ft; wash has averaged 42in thick, worth 150lb, with 30in, worth 190lb, in the face.

Chandler's Shaft: Eastern drive advanced 34ft 6in without change; the bottom has dipped off again. Produced 32cwt tin oxide for the week.

HOMEWARD BOUND CONSOLIDATED TIN MINES.

In a further report, dated May 31, to the directors of the above company, Mr. H. J. Gould, B.E., states, inter alia:—

Homeward Bound.—For the work done to date, development continues pleasing. The south drive was in 14ft 6in from the bottom of new shaft. In the bottom of the drive the ore body widens to a width of 2ft 8in at the bottom, and carries excellent value. The average sample I broke has returned, by fire assay, 18.8 per cent. metallic tin.

Wallis South.—The miners were still cross-cutting, and had attained a distance of 33ft from the (new) shaft. A few feet back from the face, a narrow, iron-stained fissure shows across, which makes into a few inches of tourmaline-tin formation at the bottom. I had a rough general sample broken from there, and a vanning assay of this gave the rich return of 25.2 per cent. of tin oxide.

MOUNT ROSS TIN AND DIAMOND MINE.

In a report just to hand the manager of the above mine states:—"Since last report, I have connected the Mount Ross main level with the deep level, thus giving air to the western workings, and am blocking from the cross-cut. I intend blocking both north and south from here as soon as room is made. Wash at present is about 1ft thick—so far, it is up to the average. Washing machine will start on Tuesday, providing water does not wash the road away again. Rain has caused a lot of trouble all round in the mine and out of it—water running everywhere. It appears to be clearing a little now, and I hope to have a few fine days."

KILLED BY MOTOR CAR.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Coroner to-day concluded the inquiry into the death of Sadie Ruth Moss, 5 years of age, who was knocked down and killed at Carlton, on May 14, by a motor car driven by Bertie Sellace Stillwell. The Coroner said there could be no doubt that some negligence had been displayed, and the question which had troubled him all along was whether it was criminal negligence. There was some doubt; and he would give Stillwell the benefit of that doubt. He found that death was due to misadventure.

NOTES.

Mrs. T. A. Griffin has resigned the secretaryship, which she held temporarily, of the proposed Canine Board of Control.

The Bulldog Club of New South Wales has chosen October as the month for its annual show.

Mr. H. F. Carling, of Waverley, intends leaving for a trip to New Zealand about the end of this month. He will take with him, for exhibition at Auckland three of his collies, Haldon Cecil, Haldon Dorothy, and Haldon Alice, by champion Roslyn Royal, ex Constance of Tytton (imp.).

According to the new standard for Yorkshire terriers adopted by the S.S., Y., and A.T. club, judges will be told that silver and tan Yorkshires are preferable to silvers only. The show classification will read "Silver and tan, or silver Yorkshires."

Mr. G. C. Warner, hon. secretary of the Bulldog Club of New South Wales, advises that a grand parade of bulldogs will be held next Saturday, at Mr. F. M'William's residence, Kogarah-road, Kogarah. The club has been fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Furnival as judge.

Mrs. R. Tovey reports that she has transferred four young pug dogs by Wicklow Chief ex Lady Belita to Sydney and country fanciers of the breed.

The members of the Australian Scotch Collie Club had a social evening at the Oxford Hall, Liverpool-street, last Thursday. Notwithstanding the pouring rain, there was a splendid attendance. Excellent entertainment was provided in the shape of dancing, singing, and instrumental music. A feature of the programme was the performance of the Scottish Pipers, Professor Johnstone, Messrs. Ruthven, Mackenzie, and Walker, and four juvenile dancers. The club did well financially. Mr. W. R. Stallwood sprang a surprise on the energetic hon. secretary, Mrs. J. S. Clarke, to whom he presented, on behalf of the members, a handsome Nellie Stewart bangle. Mrs. Clarke, in responding, said that efforts on behalf of the club had been a labour of love.

The regular monthly meeting of the Sydney Silky, Yorkshire, and Australian Terrier Club was held at Mr. J. B. Moffatt's-chambers, Elizabeth-street, on Thursday last. Mr. G. Johnson presided, and others present were Miss M. Swift, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Albert, Messrs. R. Thomas, R. Mason, R. Alexander, D. Munro, A. E. Wilson, H. Palmer, J. Berry, H. Hulthen, Walker, Strain, R. Cookson, G. Hutchison, and F. W. Taylor (hon. sec.). Messrs. Palmer and Berry were elected as members. Several matches were arranged for the next monthly meeting. Mrs. Wright will judge Yorkies, and Mr Wilson silkies. The following were elected as show committee—Messrs. Thomas, Alexander, Cookson, Hulthen, Strain, O'Loughlin, and F. W. Taylor. It was arranged to hold the show at Oxford Hall, Hyde Park, on Saturday, September 27. Mr. W. Crane, junr., was elected to judge silkies and Yorkshires, and Mr. J. Maude to judge Australian terriers. A bumper entry is promised. Schedules will be ready at the end of the month.

ESKIMO DOGS.

Mr. C. Eitel, of Neutral Bay, is known as an exhibitor of foxterriers, but his canine "fancy" has now developed in another direction. He acted as secretary to Dr. Mawson's Antarctic expedition, and consequently saw a good deal of Eskimo or sledge dogs. When Captain Amundsen was at Hobart about 12 months ago he presented Dr. Mawson with 21 dogs, all of which but one were males. The solitary bitch had 17 puppies, two litters, and Mr. Eitel secured two of the pups, which he has now at his Neutral Bay residence. The male of the pair is a tremendous dog, standing about 28 inches high at the shoulder, and is now about a year old.

Puppies bred in the ice regions are invariably small. Those reared in more temperate zones, such as Hobart, mature quickly, and grow to a great size. The feeding of Dr. Mawson's dogs at Hobart was an expensive item. They were fed on nothing else but raw meat, each of them eating 2lb daily. The dogs did well on this diet, and were never sick. The meat bill for eight months was £100. Mr. Eitel intends exhibiting his pair of Eskimo dogs at the Ladies' Kennel Club show, at which they should prove a great attraction.

THE KELPIE'S ORIGIN.

A.B.C. writes:—In the kennel column of the 28th ult., Messrs. King and M'Leod, of Canonbar, write concerning a canine importation—now in quarantine—which they have brought out from England for the purpose of settling the well-known dispute whether the Australian kelpie is of Border collie origin, as Messrs. King and M'Leod and others contend, or of dingo origin, as many oppositionists believe. The importers are to be thanked for giving us, at so much trouble and expense, the opportunity to inquire further into this very interesting problem. Their attempt to prove the Australian kelpie to be of Border collie relationship, by the importation of the blue prick-ear Border collie bitch "Fly," will become an historic event.

The following is a rough-noted description of "Fly," as she appeared to me at the quarantine station:—Size, that of a Border collie or large-sized kelpie. Ears: Prick, half-diamond, and well set on head at outward angle. Colour: Blue, tan points (exactly kelpie colouring), white shirt front, toes and tail-tip. Coat: Soft, medium length, inclined to wave (like Border collie), slightly "broken" ruff on either side of neck below ears, "feather" to correspond down back of forearms, back legs, and along under side of tail (like an English setter), not forgetting "woolly" toes to complete. Tail: Almost straight, set high on, square hindquarters, and carried setter style. Muzzle: Broad nose and lips; blue. Legs: Thick and fleshy. Eye: Medium, full. Head: Flat, inclined to dent between eyes—thereby forming almost straight line from top of skull to tip of nose: Face: Smooth—not "boney"-looking. Manner and action: Like an ordinary Border collie's—not in the least kelpieish.

I do not intend the latter portion of my description to mean that Messrs. King and M'Leod's importation is anything but what they represent—a blue and tan prick-ear Border collie. I only describe Fly as I saw her, and would now like to hear from her importers in what particulars, other than prick-ear and colour (which appears to be merely a phase of prick-ear canine sorts) they think she resembles the Australian kelpie? I must confess I myself looked for a suspicion of relationship in vain.

THE MICROBE DECENTRALISATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—This dangerous microbe is going to bring ruin and disaster to New South Wales if allowed to go unchecked. The disease—I cannot find any stronger word to call it—has attacked not merely members of Parliament, but the press, and the general public have also become infected with this abominable complaint. At the present time decentralisation seems to be the byword of nearly everybody, for on all sides one hears that Sydney is growing too rapidly. What silly nonsense! The bigger you make Sydney the better the market both to buy and sell in. One's own common sense should tell them that if you check the growth of Sydney you add to the importance of Melbourne. She does not believe in decentralisation, but, on the contrary, is doing her utmost to capture our southern trade, and the trade sympathies that follow, not merely in the Riverina, but right away to fully half-way between Melbourne and Sydney, and to centralise that trade in her city instead. We are actually helping her to do this. She intends also to checkmate our Hillston to Broken Hill railway from becoming an accomplished fact by forcing her way into that great mining centre first. Where are our business men in and out of Parliament that they can allow this disintegration of the trade of the port of Sydney to go on unchecked? Let them insist that this State shall not link up a single border railway until the necessary powers are given our State that it can protect its internal trade for its own advancement.

I am, etc.,
C. CHURCHILL TUCKER.

LABOUR'S BORROWING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Over and over again I heard it stated by Labour candidates prior to their advent into power in the State Legislature that if elected there would be no more borrowing, but that everything would be paid for out of revenue.

How does this coincide with to-day's announcement of a Treasury Bill Loan of £750,000 at 4 per cent.? It is much easier to talk on a box in the street than to carry into practice rash promises apparently.

I am, etc.,
May 30. CRITIC.

SOUTH COAST.

CLIFTON, Tuesday.

Owing to the heavy rainfall during the past month, amounting to over 12 inches, the land about here has become thoroughly saturated, so much so that streams of water are still flowing from the mountain, while others are bursting up through the surface in various places. The main South Coast-road round the cliffs has suffered a depression of fully two feet below its former level, extending for a distance of 80 or 90 feet. Gangs of men have been put on by the Shire Council to make it passable.

WOLLONGONG, Tuesday.

This afternoon, Mr. E. Wrench, organiser of the Overseas Club, and Miss Wrench, were tendered a reception by the members of the Overseas Club.

A letter was read at last night's council meeting from the Commonwealth Defence Department, pointing out that the matter of the defence for Port Kembla was being referred to a sub-committee, consisting of the Inspector-General of Commonwealth military forces, Chief of General Staff, and First Naval Officer, for report.

A letter was read from the Public Works Department, stating that as soon as crushing operations were commenced at the State quarries at Port Kembla metal would be supplied to the council at 5s 11d per ton on trucks at Wollongong.

OLD MAN'S DEATH.

WAGGA, Tuesday.

John Sullivan, formerly a fisherman of Gundagai, was discovered dead in his tent at Sandridge dairy farm. Deceased, who was almost blind and in poor health, died from old age and exposure. He was about 75 years of age.

HOSPITALS.

CONDOBOLIN, Tuesday.

Last Saturday was Hospital Saturday. It was bitterly cold, with frequent and heavy rain. In spite of these drawbacks, the town collections reached £47, as against £56 last year. The country collections have yet to come in.

INVERELL, Tuesday.

David Blair, one-time road contractor in the Inverell District, who has lately resided at Manly, and died there, has left £300 to the Inverell Hospital.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

ARMIDALE, Tuesday.

The Quarter Sessions opened at Armidale this morning before Judge Edmunds. Mr. R. J. Browning acted as Crown Prosecutor. George Adamovitch was charged with forging and uttering a cheque for £4 10s at Tamworth on the 14th ultimo. Accused pleaded guilty of uttering. Accused was also charged with forging and uttering a cheque for £5 6s on April 12 at Tamworth. Accused pleaded guilty of uttering. He was further charged with forging and uttering a cheque for £5 6s on April 12 at the same place. Prisoner stated that he was willing to pay the money back. He was drunk when he uttered the cheques. Prisoner was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol, on each charge, the sentences to be concurrent. Thomas William Edwards was charged with breaking and entering the shop of A. T. Sutcliffe at Uralla on May 16, and stealing various articles. Accused pleaded guilty to stealing. Accused was sentenced to 12 months in Goulburn Gaol, the sentence to be suspended under the First Offenders' Act. R. W. M'Lean was charged with breaking, entering, and stealing £12 from a dwelling at Armidale on March 25. Accused pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in Goulburn Gaol with hard labour. Thomas Carpenter was charged with horse-stealing at Oban on November 1. There was also a second count of receiving. Accused pleaded not guilty. After the case for the defence had closed the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and Carpenter was discharged.

PENRITH, Tuesday.

At the District Court, held at Penrith, before Judge Scholes, Olga Vera Edina Redshaw (by her friend, Samuel Redshaw) sued Harry Rupert Goyder and E. H. Hogben, trading as Goyder Bros., architects, etc., Katoomba, for damages, amounting to £70. Mr. J. A. Ferguson, instructed by Mr. A. J. H. Palmer, appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. Boyce, instructed by Mr. F. E. Wood, appeared for defendants. The case arose out of a contract for building a cottage at Katoomba for the plaintiff, and for which the defendants were the architects. A contract was let to one M'Kay, but the contractor was unable to complete the work. Arrangements were then made by the architects with another contractor to guarantee the completion of the work, and the job went on. During the progress of the work plaintiff complained of several items that were not done according to plan and specification, but was told that everything would be right. Plaintiff claimed that the work was not properly done, according to specification. Defendant claimed that alterations were made, and extras done, and that a give-and-take method had been adopted. A verdict was given for plaintiff for £40, less £12 17s 6d set-off.

WAGGA, Tuesday.

Another burglary, the second in a week, was committed early on Monday morning at the business premises of J. C. Blamey and Co., Wagga. The burglar forced the back window, and broke open the till, but secured only a small sum of money. Clothing and other stock was scattered about the interior, but how much is missing is not known.

WALGETT, Tuesday.

Sub-Inspector Ewen has received notice of his transfer to Inverell.

WEST MAITLAND, Tuesday.

Mrs. Williams, widow of the late David Williams, died at her residence, East Maitland, to-day from a paralytic seizure. She was a native of Maitland, 75 years of age, and had resided here all her life. She was gatekeeper on the Northern Line for 35 years.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments were approved of at yesterday's meeting of the State Executive Council:—Mr. G. H. Smithers, to be chairman of the Metropolitan Bench of Stipendiary Magistrates for a period of seven months; Mr. A. G. Daniel, as an "appointed member" of the Albury Licensing Court; Mr. T. Martin, as an "appointed member" of the Ballina Licensing Court; Dr. A. W. Hawthorne, as an "appointed member" of the Carcoar Licensing Court; Mr. C. H. Tindale, as Coroner at Muswellbrook, etc; Mr. J. C. Shakespear, as member of the local land board, Warren; Mr. F. Patey, as a director of the Corowa Pastures Protection Board; Mr. A. M'Phie, of Toowoomba, Queensland, as a justice of the peace for the State of New South Wales; Mr. J. Douglass, as an acting inspector of schools during the absence of Mr. Inspector Skinner; Captain J. M'Corquodale, as shipping inspector, Newcastle; Mr. C. R. Lucas, as clerk associate to Mr. Justice Ferguson; Mr. R. C. Vader, as draftsman, local land board office, Armidale; Mr. E. Rogers, as Crown land agent, Kiama.

IMPORTING ENGINES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I read in the "Herald" of to-day of the shortage of engines. Well, sir, as an old railway man I think it is time Mr. Johnson was allowed to order more engines from home, as I know myself a number of extra engines are wanted on every holiday, and he does not know what to do to supply the public with engines. Now in regard to making engines at Eveleigh and Clyde, it is impossible for them to keep up the supply of engines, and at present both the railway and Clyde are putting their best work in their engines, as good as any work from home. But still at the rate of progress of the State and railway it is necessary that Mr. Johnson should be allowed at once to order 100 engines from England of the P. class, as they are the best type of engines in the country for any work you wish to put them to, passenger or goods, and cheap to repair. At the rate our railways are being put down we will require nothing less than 500 more engines in five years; so if Mr. Johnson was allowed to order 100 from England, Clyde and the railway could still go on as hard as you please to keep up with the progress of our railways, and, as the room is getting small at Eveleigh, engines should be more handled in the country centres, and not make every engine come to Sydney from 100 to 400 miles for general repairs. I would like to see the Government give Mr. Johnson word to order 100 at once, as by the time they arrive they will all be wanted. I must say one of the best thing Mr. Thow as an engineer did was to import the P. class, as I say again this type is the best on the road.

May 21.

The Staffordshire town of Leek, which has recently been honoured with a Royal visit, possesses on its outskirts a somewhat singular residence known by the name of "Spite Hall," which is said to have been erected a few yards in front of another dwelling with the express object of spoiling the beautiful view across Rudyard Lake. The story goes that some 40 years ago the respective owners had a quarrel, which resulted in the erection of the obnoxious edifice. Not to be outdone, however, the owner of the original house caused a stone figure, with tongue protruding, to be placed in his garden facing Spite Hall, and the relic remains to this day.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

ICE-CARTERS' AWARD.

NEWCASTLE AND MAITLAND.

Mr. A. W. M. d'Apice, barrister, chairman of the Food Supply and Distribution, No. 2 group, has issued the award of the No. 4 Board dealing with ice-carters, employed at Newcastle and West Maitland. The hours of labour are not to exceed 54 in any one week of six days. The minimum ordinary rates of pay are:—

Ice Carters driving one horse, at the rate of not less than 40s per week; driving two horses, at the rate of not less than 51s 6d; Youths between 18 and 19 years of age, at the rate of not less than 35s; Youths between 19 and 20 years of age, at the rate of not less than 40s; Youths between 20 and 21 years of age, at the rate of not less than 42s.

Casual labour is to be paid for at a rate per hour 20 per cent. higher than the weekly rate per hour for the class of work being done. Ice-carters may be employed part of their time at groom, stable, yard, or any other work, provided that they receive their proper wage as carters, and shall in such cases be liable to work the carters' hours.

All time worked on Sundays is to be paid for as follows:—Delivering ice, etc., to hospitals, at the rate of 1s 6d per hour; delivering elsewhere, at the rate of 3s per hour. Carters doing any work in the stables on Sundays are to be paid at the rate of 1s 6d per hour.

In the reduction of hands, other things being equal, the last to come shall be the first to go. Should any dispute arise, it can be referred to the board for determination. The award is to be binding upon all persons, firms, and companies, engaged in the business of supplying ice within a radius of ten miles round the principal post-offices in Newcastle and West Maitland. It will come into operation from the date of its publication in the "Government Gazette," and remain in force until April 30, 1916.

SURVEYORS' LABOURERS' BOARD.

Mr. T. H. Jackson has arranged for sittings of the Surveyors' Labourers' Wages Board to be continued at the Central Police Court on Thursday night and at the Water Police Court on Friday night. The union is asking for 11s per day for foremen or leading chainmen, 10s for labourers, and 9s for cooks, the last-named working the seven days per week.

A surveyor in the Public Works Department with 38 years' experience (Mr. Jamieson) admitted to the union secretary, Mr. J. Devine, at the last sitting that chainmen required to be competent hands—men of experience.

A representative on the board for the union, Mr. T. Smith, stated that in eight months he had earned £73. Of this he had paid £29 in rent, £35 on groceries, and £2 in tobacco. Anything less than the claim would not be a living wage for a married man. He had lost three weeks in the period because of his chief being on holidays.

AMALGAMATION HUNG UP.

At Monday night's meeting of the United Labourers' Protective Society considerable discussion took place on the proposal to amalgamate with the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Association. A section did want to complete negotiations. The question is, however, hung up until the 16th inst, when there will be a special meeting. The election of office-bearers for the proposed amalgamation has yet to be announced.

STOREMEN AND PACKERS.

A summons meeting of the Federated Storemen and Packers' Union of Australia will be held at the Trades Hall, as advertised, to hear and consider the full report of the Queensland conference. New rules will require to be adopted, to be worked in conjunction with the log of claims about to be presented to the employers. It is proposed to have uniform conditions throughout the Commonwealth, with working hours aggregating 44 for males and 42 for females. The minimum pay for any storeman or packer is suggested at not less than £3 6s, others increasing up to £4 10s. Casual hands are put down as worth 1s 9d per hour.

MANLY FERRY SERVICE.

AGREEMENT DRAWN UP.

The secretary of the Ferry and Tugboat Employees' Union, Mr. A. Carter, has made available the terms of a draft agreement between the union and the Port Jackson and Manly Steamship Company, Limited, which will, he says, be duly signed to-day.

The proposal is that the agreement shall stand for three years, and take in the strike settlement terms. The hours of labour for the turnstile and change hands are put down at 54 per week, with no additional pay for Sunday work. It is specified that any boat working more than 13 hours on Sundays and holidays shall work it in two shifts; but departures from this rule to be permissible by mutual consent of the employers and the Ferry and Tugboat Employees' Union. The hours of labour for watchmen are fixed at not more than 60 per week, Sundays and holidays worked to be paid at time and a half. The minimum rates of pay are put down as follows:—

Firemen, 21 years and over, £2 17s 6d; greasers, £2 17s 6d; deck hands, £2 6s; wharf hands, £2 6s; watchmen, £2 6s; youths (working on vessels), brass boy, £1 7s 6d; turnstile hands (youths up to 21 years), first year £1 12s 6d, second year £1 17s 6d, and then £2; change boys, not over 17 years, £1; men coaling at the yard (Neutral Bay), £3.

Provision is made for overtime, holidays, preference, casual labour, extra duties of employees, etc., as per the strike settlement terms.

The hours of labour are 96 per fortnight, and not more than 54 in one week.

BUTCHERS' AWARD.

The Glebe Island section of the Australasian Meat Industry Employees' Union gave additional consideration on Tuesday afternoon to the terms of the award which is to come into operation on 5th instant. A resolution was carried in favour of the acceptance of the award.

SHOP ASSISTANTS' DEMANDS.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The question of increased wages, modifications in working hours, and altered conditions generally for males and females employed in the wholesale and retail trade of Broken Hill—as put forward by the Shop Assistants and Warehouse Employees' Union, and embodied in the log presented to the Chamber of Commerce and Retailers' Association—is agitating the minds of trade generally, and it looks as if the demands of the union are not going to be conceded without trouble. The log was presented to the employers, together with a request that a conference be held. The Chamber of Commerce and Retailers' Association meeting on Friday night last opposed meeting the union in conference.

SHIRES' VOTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is very interesting to read Mr. Griffith's defence of his action in pruning the shire vote, when Mr. Briner complained that some of the shires at least were not getting a fair deal.

The Nambucca River, which is part of the Bellingen Shire, is probably the most backward river on the North Coast to-day, as far as development is concerned, and the chief reason for this is that the means of communication, both internally and to the outer world, are so bad. With the subsidy as it stood the council was gradually reaching out to the outside settler, and one by one they were getting the road that was to start them on to prosperity. But now the outback man is beginning to feel the cut of Mr. Griffith's pruning knife. Pioneers who have gone 20 and 30 miles up the different arms of the Bellinger and Nambucca rivers, and in many cases have been unable to get a vehicle of any sort within miles of their holdings, using the pack horse to take in their supplies, have now to await Mr. Griffith's pleasure before they can hope to get a maize crop to market, or a can of cream to the factory. Mr. Griffith gives us 27 shires who are without subsidy. I will ask Mr. Griffith this question: In any one of those 27 shires has the council to provide for half the amount of new settlement that the Bellingen Shire has to do? He evidently does not know enough of our outback settlement to answer it. No; these non-subsidised shires are generally composed of old settled districts, and very often are out in the plain country, where road-making is child's play compared with the heavy side cutting and grubbing that has to be done when making roads which wind round precipitous gorges and provide the only outlet possible to the pioneer who has had the heart to take up the country at the head of the various arms of the Bellinger and Nambucca rivers.

As a consequence of the lack of the means of communication, the majority of these roadless settlers are labouring under a burden of debt, and the only hope they have of getting square is for the rest of the community to come forward and do their little bit towards the making of these roads and allowing the land to be put into a productive state. This is the man Mr. Griffith terms "prosperous." If he would take a couple of weeks' holiday and come and see for himself, instead of coming through a district on the main roads, and only visiting towns; he would go back a wiser man, and it would be the last time he would entertain the idea of cutting down the subsidy of the Bellingen Shire. Rather would he increase it, as one, two days' trip into our wonderful back country would convince him that the State could afford to spend twice the amount required, and then have the best end of the stick.

NEWCASTLE.

WATER SUPPLY FOR HUNTER DISTRICT.

TWO IMPORTANT SCHEMES.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

At yesterday's meeting of the Water and Sewerage Board Mr. J. Davis, director-general of Public Works, wrote pointing out that the president of the board had brought under his notice the board's concern as to the additional supply of water to meet future requirements. The Department of Public Works had the matter under serious consideration, and he hoped to be able to submit two proposals to the Minister, and had no doubt the Minister would see the propriety of referring the matter for the consideration of the Public Works Committee. He (Mr. Davis) realised that it was absolutely essential that something should be done to augment the supply of water to the Newcastle district. To put the matter beyond question two schemes were under consideration, and both were practically matured. A little more information was required to enable it to be determined, which of the two was the more preferable. A gravitation scheme to bring the water on a sufficiently high level from the Chichester River and obviate the necessity for pumping at West Maitland was being prepared. That, however, might prove too expensive, and should that be so the alternative scheme providing for the storage of water upstream from the intake would have to be put forward.

In connection with the general question of the conservation of water in the Upper Hunter Valley for the purposes of irrigation on the lower reaches of the river, surveys had been made for two ways, one on the Hunter, and the other on the Goulburn. At all seasons and under all conditions there would be an ample quantity of water available in the river at the intake, West Maitland, for pumping to Buttai reservoir. In the case of storage, however, as compared with the gravitation scheme, the pumping plant at Walka would no doubt have to be increased, and it might be found that the gravitation scheme would be the cheaper. In any case, he was unable at the present time to decide what course it would be advisable to take, but it was recognised that some supplementary means of augmenting the supply of the district under the board's control would have to be made.

The board decided to defer further consideration until next sitting.

SLUM CHILDREN AS FARMERS.

The wonderful effects of the open-air school on slum children are described in a report issued by the London County Council. Mr. O. J. Green, the headmaster of the Birley House Open-air School, the first to be started by the council, states that the children improve beyond knowledge in their behaviour. The healthy body gives not only a healthy mind, but also develops a healthy character. The free discipline brings out a more orderly, attentive, unselfish child, with a brightness, alertness, and intelligence that can hardly be understood by those who do not witness for themselves the results of the school's work. The primary object is to make the children healthy; education is subsidiary. The scholars, who are drawn from slum areas, and travel free to the school by tramcar, are under the direct attention of a medical officer and a trained nurse. They are fed at school, but some difficulty is found in getting those whose staple diet has been fried fish and potatoes to take porridge, milk puddings, etc. After dinner there is a two-hours' rest, the children lying in hammock chairs, wrapped in blankets in winter. Becoming acclimatised to the outdoor life, the scholars do not complain of the cold. A small farm has been sown for a rotation of crops, and the scheme includes a log hut, model dairy, stable, barn, waggon shed, pigsty, hen roost, dog kennel, and pump.

AN INVITATION TO DINNER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your paper of 14th inst. reference is made by a correspondent to the views promulgated by the Ungarie Railway League.

This league has always strongly advocated the connection by rail of Hillston to the irrigation settlement, as the forage grown there can be delivered at Hillston at drought rates for 2s 6d per ton, and the time occupied in transit be three hours only. The Lachlan River has now been rendered a permanent stream at Hillston by the construction of a weir (capable of enlargement) at the entrance to Lake Cudgellico. Vast numbers of breeding ewes will be brought on to the permanent river at Hillston in time of drought, and with cartage of forage from railhead, costing a trifling sum, hand-feeding will be profitable as well as reliable. One engine and freight train could do the work, making several trips daily.

To the irrigation settlement this market, at 60 miles distance, for rough forage, such as maize stalks, oaten and wheaten straw, and other roughage (giving the bulk which is necessary when grain is also being used), will be of immense profit. The great bulk of this roughage would not bear the cost of transit round by Temora, Barmedman, and Rankin's Springs, about 220 miles, and four times more trucks and engines would be required.

As regards the construction of a railway from Barmedman to Rankin's Springs, or, rather, as far as Malonga Station (as nothing is gained by approaching near to the ranges), my league reconsidered the whole question of the best way to open up the stretch of country between the Barellan line and Lake Cudgellico line, when the latter had been finally decided on last year.

In view of the assured development of the irrigation settlement, my league considers that so great an advantage will result (as in the case of Hillston), both to the settlers requiring forage during droughts, and to the settlement also, from proximity by rail to the latter, that my league directed a report to be printed last year pointing this out, and many hundred copies (with a large marked map in each) were distributed.

The first of these parallel lines will spring from below Ariah Park, and run thence through Yalgogrin to Merri Merrigal—through improvement leases for the greater part of its length; and parallel to the Wyalong-Cudgellico line at a distance of 25 miles.

As there are 1500 farms of 1000 acres each to be "settled" along the Cudgellico line, there is ample time for the Works Committee to investigate this matter thoroughly. In ten years' time the next parallel (from below Ardlethan) will be required; and another lower down so soon as the Crown farms along the former are occupied. There will thus ultimately be a series of lines parallel to the Temora-Cudgellico line, giving settlers the nearest possible access to the irrigation settlement.

Persons along definite routes under consideration naturally cannot be expected to raise general questions requiring exhaustive consideration necessary to form a decision in a full scheme of railway-design for a province. Hence the Works Committee are unlikely to be troubled with evidence on any subject other than the perfections of the Barmedman-Rankin's Springs route now under reference. But the commissioner and manager of the irrigation settlement (Messrs. Wade and Broatch) should see that these great markets for the future settlers, whose welfare should be their present concern, are not now overlooked and lost. It is their duty to see this northern parallels design placed before the committee. To many persons it seems to have the advantage on every point which can be raised over the western parallel line from Barmedman to Rankin's Springs, but my league expresses no definite view, beyond calling attention to the fact that the same considerations seem to apply as make the connection from the irrigation settlement to Hillston overwhelmingly desirable in the interests of both those places, and, incidentally, of the Railway Department in times of strain.

Hon. Sec. Ungarie Railway League.

PURE FOODS.

THE PROPOSED CONFERENCE.

COMMERCIAL INTERESTS TO BE REPRESENTED.

At a meeting of the council of the N.S.W. Chamber of Manufactures, held on Monday, the acting president, Mr. T. J. Hitchman, reported that, at the request of some members of the Chamber, he had directed that the Premier be asked to receive a deputation, to urge that commercial representation be provided for at the conference to be held on June 17 in Melbourne, to consider Dr. Ashburton Thompson's report on uniform food standards.

A reply had been received that the Director-General of Public Health and a commercial member of the Pure Food Advisory Committee would be the voting delegates for New South Wales. The secretary was instructed to ask the chambers in the other States to wait on their respective Premiers, to ask that similar representation be granted for their States.

A letter from the Minister for Labour and Industry suggested that employers' organisations should be represented before the Royal Commission on industrial matters, to state their case from the employers' point of view, but it was decided not to take any action until further information is obtained.

COMPACT WITH THE UNION.

PROTEST AGAINST SHIPPING COMPANY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

It is reported from Timaru that a large and representative meeting of employers and shippers passed the following resolution, and sent it to the Union Company:—"That this meeting deplores the action of the Union Steamship Company in employing federation labourers who have broken the agreement repeatedly, instead of employing men who came to the assistance of the shipping companies and enabled vessels to be worked on the occasion of the recent strike, and would ask what attitude it intends to adopt in future."

The Wanganui Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution protesting against the reported proposal of shipping companies to make a compact with the Federation of Labour to exclude free labour.

SHOT IN THE FACE.

CONSTABLE'S EXPERIENCE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

At Ballarat Supreme Court to-day Percy Sparks, 17, was charged with having shot at Constable Calwell, on March 24, with intent to kill.

Constable Calwell said that, with Constable Harvey, he went to Sparks' house to investigate a complaint against Sparks. He was passing down the side of the house, when he was shot in the face.

Margaret Sparks, mother of the accused said that her son had been attended by Dr. Spring since he was 13 years of age, and did not go to work because he always worried. Accused had been in the habit of attending melodramatic performances, which seemed to over-excite him.

Dr. O'Breen, Government Medical Officer expressed the opinion that the accused was an epileptic.

At the suggestion of Mr. Justice a'Beckett, who said that Sparks would be detained during the pleasure of the Governor, the jury at once returned a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity.

COLD WEATHER.

17 DEGREES AT KIANDRA.

The high pressure has advanced eastward, and diminished in size. As a result the cloudy conditions which recently prevailed over New South Wales have cleared, and fine weather, with frosty, foggy nights, may be expected.

Except at a couple of southern highland stations, where they were somewhat lower, very little differences are noticeable in yesterday's 9 a.m. temperatures when compared with Monday. This is not the case with the minimum or early morning readings, which, although practically remaining stationary along the coast, have descended lower than Monday's record over the greater part of the highland and inland districts. With but a few exceptions the readings have reached below 40 degrees, while many descended beyond freezing point. As a result many frosts occurred in these parts of the State, and some fogs were reported from the central and northern districts. The lowest registration occurred at Kiandra, where 17 degrees obtained, while Bundarra with 24, Coonamble with 25, and Kosciusko with 26 degrees, were next in succession.

The only rainfalls reported were a few light falls on the north coast and an isolated one at Cannonbar. Woolgoolga with 17 points was the largest.

THE NO-LICENSE CLAMOUR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Now that the excitement in connection with the elections is over, I should like, with your permission, to say a few words by way of reply to the latest communication in your columns of Mr. James W. Evans, president of the Licensed Victuallers' Association of New South Wales. No fault can be found with the way in which that gentleman handled his subject, but he could hardly fail to see that his letter in no way touched the real grounds of opposition to the liquor traffic. Even if the figures quoted by him in regard to liquor consumption in no-license areas in New Zealand could be accepted as conclusive—which they certainly cannot—the argument for prohibition would still remain unimpaired. It is very likely that in limited no-license areas liquor is consumed, just as in Sydney, in spite of a prohibitive law, burglary, robbery, and violence are of frequent occurrence. That, however, furnishes no argument for the repeal of the law against those crimes, but rather that the law should be made more stringent and its administration more effective.

The demand for prohibition is based upon the fact that experience the world over proves that the liquor traffic cannot exist without doing injury to the people. The traffic has had a fair trial, and it has been surrounded by every possible legislative safeguard. It has broken through every barrier, however, and, judged by its own products, it stands today, as it has stood all down the ages, the greatest criminal of civilisation.

There is no play upon "prejudice" or "imagination" in describing "alcohol as a deadly poison." That is the verdict of medical science, and if Mr. Evans will take the trouble to read the pronouncements of such eminent authorities as Sir Frederick Treves, Sir Victor Horsley, Sir Thomas Barlow, Professor Sims Woodhead, and of thousands of other leading experts in Great Britain, America, and on the continent of Europe, he will find that there is absolutely no room for doubt on the subject.

With regard to the desire for improved conditions and better homes for the masses, I am with Mr. Evans, and I am free to admit that wretched surroundings tend to drive men to the public-houses, but if the president of the licensed victuallers had taken as much interest in the welfare of the people as I have now for nearly 40 years, he would know that for every man who has been driven by his wretched surroundings into the public-house, a thousand men have been driven by the public-house into slum areas. Total abstainers as a rule don't live in the slums, and under a law of prohibition, with the money of the people circulating in reproductive trade channels, the demand for labour would be so great and the conditions of life so improved that the so-called wretched surroundings could not exist.

Mr. Evans need not be at all alarmed that under prohibition there would be no accommodation for travellers. If the liquor bars were closed, and the production and distribution for beverage purposes of alcoholic liquors prohibited, the hotels as houses of accommodation would still remain. There is no intention or desire on the part of the temperance party to interfere with the publican's property, all that is proposed to do is to veto the sale of a dangerous poison, and when that is achieved the people will become so prosperous and healthy that the demand for first-class hotel accommodation will rapidly increase. It may take some time perhaps to get the people to see that every legitimate interest will be served by the advent of prohibition, but public sentiment is steadily moving in that direction, and the day will come when Australia will be "dry."

I am, etc., G. D. CLARK.

The Greek Church has proved too strong for the Russian calendar reformers, and the proposal to substitute the Gregorian for the Julian calendar has been dropped. Already 13 days out of gear with the sun, Russia's count of time is to continue with an average yearly error of 11min. 10.3sec., which accumulates the error of 0.776 day every century, and will eventually cause Christmas Day and midsummer to synchronise.

WORKS ESTIMATES.

NEW SYSTEM.

FORMER METHODS MISLEADING.

The Minister for Works (Mr. Griffith) stated yesterday that ever since he had been in charge of the department he had noticed continually very wide discrepancies between the departmental estimates of the cost of buildings to be constructed and their actual cost, whether constructed by contract or day labour.

On investigating the matter thoroughly the Minister found that prior to the appointment of the Constructor of Building Works, the methods of estimating costs were merely to measure up the cube contents of a building on the cost of other buildings of similar capacity, and on this data to frame an estimate. In the great majority of cases haphazard calculations of this sort have proved utterly misleading, and the practice has now been established of basing estimates on properly worked-out bills of quantities, so that in future the estimates for the cost of public buildings will be a reliable guide as to what ought to be the actual cost.

Another fruitful reason of the wide discrepancies above referred to is that estimates of buildings made two, three, and four years ago have not been amended to meet the altered conditions, and the cost of labour and materials.

By way of an example of the discrepancy between the estimate of the Architect's branch prepared on the old system and the lowest tender, the Minister stated that the estimate for the University Union buildings was £1740, while the lowest tender was £2470.

On the other hand, as showing how nearly accurate estimates can be made by careful calculations of quantities, Mr. Griffith pointed out that Mr. Bruce's estimate for the Daceyville cottages was £1011 11s 2d per pair, and the actual cost was £994 4s 3d, thus showing a difference of only £17 6s 11d per pair. Both these figures are inclusive of electric lighting.

16,000 SCHOOL STAMMERERS.

Dr. Dick, of the medical staff of the London County Council, has reported upon the speech of elementary school children. He finds that there is need for special educational treatment of stammering, as from 1 to 2 per cent. of children present this defect. In other words, there must be from 8000 to 16,000 scholars in London who stammer. Dr. Dick states that family predisposition towards nervous defects, and particularly stammering, is the chief point to be noted about this functional error. The frequency of some shock or accident involving nervous strain is also marked. Comment is made on the numbers of children who, when ready to leave school, express themselves in language so crudely formed and with such defective enunciation that they are hardly able to make themselves understood. A question has frequently to be repeated several times, and the listener must pay close attention to understand the child. This is attributed largely to want of home training. Children frequently have two languages, the mother tongue and the school language. Special inquiry at one school showed that all the stammering children could sing perfectly, and some could read poetry better than prose. A residential observation school is suggested for stammerers who cannot be otherwise cured.

EMPIRE DAY AND THE ENGLISH LIBERAL PARTY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue this morning a statement is made by the Rev. M. J. O'Reilly, C.M., of St. Stanislau's College, Bathurst, in which the Reverend Father, if he is correctly reported, stated "the English Liberal party would have nothing to do with Empire Day." May I venture to draw the attention of Father O'Reilly to a cable message from London, which appears in the same page in to-day's issue of your journal as his utterance:—"London.—The 'Westminster Gazette' favours a non-party Empire Day."

If Father O'Reilly is not already aware of the fact, may I inform him that the "Westminster Gazette" is the most influential Liberal daily journal published in London. Its editor, Mr. J. A. Spender, is probably as closely in touch with well-informed Liberal opinion in the British Isles as any man living. Does Father O'Reilly know that the chief function organised by the Royal Colonial Institute each year is an Empire Day dinner? And that among the vice-presidents of the Royal Colonial Institute is the Right Hon. L. V. Harcourt, the present Secretary of State for the Colonies in the British Cabinet. Those who regard Empire Day as the great day of unity in the British Empire are drawn from all sections of the community. Any attempt to drag Empire Day—the birthday of our beloved Queen Victoria—into the arena of party politics is to be deplored.

The Tories, who are foolish enough to think that they alone believe "that the British Empire is the greatest civilising force known to mankind" (to use the words of the famous German publicist, Mr. Maximilian Harden) are no worse than those who try to make out that the English Liberal party are indifferent to matters of Imperial concern. INCREASED TRAM FARES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A paragraph in Tuesday's "Herald" states that, in the opinion of Sir Allen Taylor, an increase in tram fares is inevitable. Why should the public be thus further taxed, when the workmen employed in the tram sheds at Randwick have special trams to carry them to and from work free? They are also provided with printed slips for use on ordinary trams. This means a loss of many thousands of pounds per annum. Why should these men, who have snug billets, ride free, when there are thousands of the poorer class of workmen, who find it hard to make both ends meet, yet have to pay? Then, these same workmen, with the whole army of Civil servants, to say nothing of the host of men employed in the Eveleigh workshops, and on the railway who get their fortnight or three weeks' holidays each year, get a free pass over our railways; and, then again, why should our politicians have free passes over our railways and tramways? Are they not better able to pay for their rides than the working man? Let all free passes be abolished, and then if the trams are being run at a loss the public will be content to pay more, but let everyone bear the burden alike. I am, etc.,

AN ANNUAL PARADE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Having been a witness to one of the finest sights that has occurred in Sydney for some years, viz., the grand parade of the 20,000, and, being much impressed by what I saw, I would like to make a suggestion to the authorities who were responsible for this magnificent sight.

Could not this grand parade be made to take place annually, for preference on Empire Day. I am sure it would be a fine thing for the boys, as well as the general public. For one thing, it would make the idea of compulsory training seem less irksome if the boys knew that on a certain date every year they were to have their day and given a chance to show what steps they had advanced in the making of one of the first lines of defence. Every Australian worthy of the name must have been proud of the splendid showing made by the boys and the progress made in such a short period. The huge crowds in the streets, in spite of the counter attractions of other sports, only go to show that we are at last beginning to wake up to the fact that to keep this great country it will be necessary to defend it, and, if need be, to assist the mother country in time of stress. I am, etc.,

MOUNT VICTORIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Reference was made at yesterday's celebrations in honour of the explorers, Blaxland, Wentworth, and Lawson, that Mount Victoria was called "One Tree Hill," as late as 1859. On reference to Sir Thomas Mitchell's sketch map of a road to Bathurst in 1830, I find the mountain called Victoria. In the New South Wales calendar of 1832 it is also called Victoria. Sir Thomas Mitchell, in his journal, states:—"The pass of Victoria named by me after the youthful Princess Victoria, and opened by Governor Bourke in 1832." I understand that it was Mitchell's original intention, to call the mountain "Vittoria," after the battle of that name, in which he had been engaged. Several of the early journals, also Govett the surveyor, refer to the name "Vittoria." It was permanently named Victoria in honour of the Princess. I am, etc.,

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have no intention whatever of being drawn into the general discussion in which Father O'Reilly and his correspondents are engaged. I interposed at one particular point, on a question of fact. With the rest, I have no immediate concern.

The questions at issue are, first as to the application of the condemnation, in the pastoral letter, of June, 1879, "seedplots of future immorality, infidelity and lawlessness"; and, secondly, as to whether the bill of November, 1879, was the result of the pastoral letter and subsequent agitation, or whether it was born in the mind of Sir Henry Parkes before that letter was published. The whole question is, to me, of vital consequence in its bearing upon the origin of our present Public school system, and is very far from being "academic."

First, then, as to the words, "seedplots of future immorality, infidelity, and lawlessness." Father O'Reilly makes an unworthy insinuation when he says, "The word 'future' is twice omitted by Mr. Watts in the course of one letter." I was not aware that I had omitted this word in the two cases referred to, until his letter called attention to the fact; but, surely, Father O'Reilly, as an honourable man, should have acknowledged that I did give the full quotation in another part of my letter. In any case, the word "future" is of secondary importance, because it is implied in the word "seedplots."

Now, Father O'Reilly contends that the words, "seedplots of future immorality, infidelity, and lawlessness" were not applied by Archbishop Vaughan and the Bishops to the Public schools of the colony, but to the principle of secularist education, and quotes the paragraph once more.

What do the Archbishop and Bishops condemn in the paragraph in question? Two things: "The principle of secularist education," and "those schools which are founded upon that principle." These two things (the principle and the schools founded upon it) are condemned "because they contravene the first principles of Christianity," and "because they are seedplots of future immorality, infidelity, and lawlessness, being calculated to debase the standard of human excellence, and to corrupt the political, social, and individual life of future citizens." The question at issue is, What schools are referred to? Will anyone say, the Victorian schools, where the name of Christ had been struck out of the school readers? In speaking of the Victorian episode, Father O'Reilly refers solely to the shock given to the Catholic conscience. Was it not also a shock to the Protestant conscience? And was it not a Protestant member of Parliament who called for a return of the changes that had been made in the books, and who secured the restoration of the deleted passages? But will any man who reads the pastoral contend that the schools referred to were the Public schools of Victoria under this regime? What schools then? Some possible schools of the future? I submit that anyone who reads the pastoral letter (with unbiassed mind must be convinced that, from beginning to end, it had in view the then-existing Public schools of New South Wales and their possible extension. At the very outset, after a summary of the expenditure, actual and projected, on the Public schools and High schools of the State, the Archbishop and Bishops speak of "this expenditure on Godless education." Both here and throughout the letter the Public schools are treated as schools founded upon the secularist principle, as distinct from the religious or denominational schools.

Father O'Reilly asks why, if the Archbishop and Bishops believed that the Public school system was sure to lead to future immorality, infidelity, and lawlessness, they should not protest. Were they not bound to protest? That was a matter for their own conscience. They had every right to protest, if they felt it necessary to do so. But I am concerned solely with the question of fact. Did they apply the words to the then-existing Public schools, or did they not? Father O'Reilly says no, and I say yes.

To show that this question is not merely "academic," I must point out how seriously it involves the reputation of Sir Henry Parkes. In his "Fifty Years of Australian History" (vol. II.), after giving an account of his consistent opposition to the motions of the secularists in Parliament, and his support of the system under which the Church schools received State aid, he wrote:—

"Four years later, in June, 1879, the Archbishop and Bishops of the Roman Catholic Church, without provocation and in the face of the support which had been given to their State-aided schools, published a joint pastoral letter, in which they furiously attacked the Public schools of the colony as sources of a 'Godless education,' and as 'seedplots of future immorality, infidelity, and lawlessness.' The clergy were urged to stir up their people to the deadliest hostility against the schools. They were to 'bring before the minds of parents the terrible calamity to their children in exposing them to loss of faith and morals, and endeavour to make them feel that they could not do a greater service to religion or to the State than to upset, by constitutional means, a system which, whilst it is a crying injustice to themselves, promises to be a source of incalculable evil to the colony.'"

I unhesitatingly say, after a careful reading of the pastoral letter, that Sir Henry's interpretation is the right one.

We now come to the second question. Sir Henry Parkes brought in his Public Instruction Bill in November, 1879. Was it the result of the pastoral letter and other Church utterances, or was it the outcome of an intention that was in his mind before the pastoral was published?

Father O'Reilly contends that "it was well known, when the Bishops wrote, that the attack was coming, and that a bill was being prepared by the Government." Well known! And yet Sir Henry Parkes, after quoting from the pastoral letter, and from a series of letters written by Archbishop Vaughan (August-October, 1879), wrote (p. 14):—

"But the most signal effect of the Archbishop's bravery was the springing up of armed men in his path. . . 'What does it all mean?' was on men's lips; 'what does the Archbishop want more than his denominational schools under the present system?' Public gatherings, crammed to the door long before the hour of meeting, with many hundreds outside, orators with their strokes of eloquence at white heat, the indignation of journalism contagious throughout the land. What the secularists had failed to do by their many motions the Archbishop and his associate bishops contrived to do by one blind move. I had not long returned to office, and my hands were full in many ways; but I felt that the time was come when the field, in which I had laboured and patiently watched for 14 years, must be resurveyed. I felt in common with tens of thousands of my fellow-colonists that a wanton and libellous attack had been made upon our schools. The situation under these new circumstances was brought before my colleagues in Cabinet," etc.

Now, Sir, if Father O'Reilly is correct in his statement that the Archbishops and bishops knew, before they wrote the pastoral, that a bill was being prepared, then Sir Henry Parkes stands condemned as a deliberate perverter of the truth; but it will require very different evidence from any yet produced to change public opinion upon the question at issue.

With reluctance, I must refer once more to that libel upon Sir Henry Parkes, which had, I thought, received "decent interment, never again to be resurrected," but which Father O'Reilly has again brought forward. "Were we," he asks, "to accept a bill which was declared by the Prime Minister to be one which was to be 'death to the calling' of our clergy?" Is there in the whole British Empire within one hundred years another example of a Prime Minister introducing a bill into a Legislative Assembly which was declared to have as its object the extinction of the religion of a fourth of the people?" It seems incredible that those words can have been written within the last few days, unless some new evidence has been unearthed. This charge was made against Sir Henry Parkes at the Education Conference held in Sydney two or three years ago. You, Sir, asked for "chapter and verse," and Father O'Reilly responded by quoting something said by Sir Henry in moving the third reading of his bill. "This bill," he is reported to have said—and I am only quoting from memory—"is being opposed by some of the priests of two Churches, and by most of the priests of one church, because enlightenment is fatal to the calling of the priesthood." I pointed out in your columns at the time how utterly Father O'Reilly had, in putting forward these words, failed to prove the charge made at the conference, that Sir Henry, flourishing a copy of the bill, had said: "I hold in my hand that which will be death to (the calling of) the Roman Catholic priesthood." I can only now express my astonishment that this charge should again be made by Father O'Reilly, and my amazement that, unless some new evidence has been secured, he should do Sir Henry Parkes the injustice of saying that the bill was declared to have as its object the extinction of the religion of a fourth of the people." If that had been the declared object of the bill, it would never have been carried; for in the minds of the people of this State the spirit of religious liberty has too secure a dwelling-place.

I am, etc.,
W. WALTER WATTS.

COOK'S VOYAGES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have followed the letters of Messrs. Adrian, Watson, and others re Captain Cook's neglect of the eastern shores of New Holland and the reasons offered, with interest.

I have in my possession a volume of maps published by Herman Moll, geographer, London, 1726" (Second edition), showing on a map o' the world (Mercator's projection) that part of Australia which would about correspond with that shown on the globe in the Doge's Palace.

I am one of those who certainly think Cook could have profitably made more use of his stay on this coast in the interests of science. His work having been completed successfully on his first voyage it seems inexplicable why he should have paid it so little attention. I might mention that in addition to the map of Australia the western portion of New Guinea is shown, also the latitude and longitude as exact as at the present day.

I am, etc., W.P.

GOING TO GUILDFORD, SATURDAY?

There is no other Suburb, to our knowledge, that has made such progress, from a residential or commercial standpoint, as Guildford. Its progress is in a large measure due to the great activity of its neighbours—Auburn and Granville. The difficulty of obtaining houses in these places has brought Guildford into the limelight as a Residential Suburb, and the population has, therefore, increased greatly. Many fine new shops have been erected to cater for the increase—comfortable homes have been built on our own and other properties, and several new industries and manufacturing plants have come into existance. All this during the past year or so. The Suburb is accessible, healthy, and only some 40 minutes from Sydney, and has a fine train service.

GUILDFORD DOWNS ESTATE

occupies one of the best positions in the Suburb. About 10 minutes from the Station, it is also close to our well-known Greenlawn Estate, which has sold so well of late, and on which building is being pushed forward as quickly as possible. The lots are level and practically clear, any timber remaining being an asset for the purchaser. They measure 40 x 145, and mostly front the main Guildford-road. The soil lends itself to gardening purposes, and very picturesque homes can be established at this place.

AUCTION, SATURDAY, JUNE 7.

We will offer this property at Auction at 2.45 p.m. There will be a commodious marquee on the ground in the event of the weather being unfavourable for an open-air sale. We sold over £3300 at our Auburn Sale last Saturday week, which is a fair criterion as to the demand existing for property in the locality.

SPECIAL EASY TERMS.

We will sell on the very easy terms of £1 deposit for every £20 purchased. On purchase of £25 or under, monthly instalments of 10/, INCLUDING INTEREST; and for every extra £12/10/, similar instalments of 5s.

THE TITLE IS TORRENS.

YOU GET A SQUARE DEAL

when you buy from us. This fact is generally recognised, and is in a large measure responsible for our wonderful business. We sell value—and sell it on Easy Terms. We treat our clients liberally, and make full and due allowance for bad luck, whether through illness or any other reasonable cause. We frequently make sales to clients in New Zealand and other States on our printed word only. We have one client in Mandalay, Burma, who has never seen Sydney, but who has purchased several lots from us, as he intends to live here at a future date. We have seldom, if ever, offered better value than our HOME SITES CARLTON ESTATE.

Without doubt, Carlton is one of the handiest suburbs around Sydney. It has a fine train service, and, being only 8 miles from the G.P.O., the journey occupies under twenty minutes. We sold nearly £6000 at the Auction a short while back, and a large number of lots since.

Carlton Home Sites adjoins the railway, and slopes gently to the level, lawn-like flat, which has been laid out in Home Sites, averaging 50 x 130. From the more elevated portions of the property splendid unbroken views of Botany Bay can be obtained, views, moreover, that cannot be built out. A good class of home adjoins the Estate on all sides, and most of our purchasers intend to build as soon as possible.

73 FROM 98 LEAVES——25,

And that's just the number of lots remaining on our Heart of Auburn Estate, which we submitted for auction on the 24th of last month. It gives you some idea how good the land is when we can sell this much in a couple of weeks. Every lot is a good one, so get your's now.

HEART OF AUBURN ESTATE

Occupies the very pick of the positions in this flourishing and progressive manufacturing suburb. It is only some 7 minutes from the stations, and adjoins our Dudley and Homeville Estates, which sold right out during the year.

The Lots average 40 x 120, are level, and most suitable for building, and command fine views of the Granville, Clyde, and Auburn districts. City water and gas are available, and well-made roads subdivide the Estate.

Empty houses are unprocurable at Auburn at the present time, and this really constitutes one of the finest investments offering at the present time. Auburn is only 11 miles—about 20 minutes' rail—from Sydney.

PRICES FROM 15/ A FOOT.

SPECIAL EASY TERMS of £1 deposit for every £30 purchased, and instalments, INCLUDING INTEREST, from 10/ per month. Torrens Title.

YES.	NO.
By all means—make a start towards owning your own home. There is no time like the present—start right away. Pay your £1 deposit as soon as possible, and you will have taken the first step towards your ultimate success and independence. Our Easy Terms will do the rest for you.	Don't pay rent any longer; it is a foolish habit, anyway, to pay away all your life-time for the privilege of dwelling on another man's land, when you can have a home site of your own. Think of all you have paid away yourself during the past years in this useless manner.

BROADMEADOW ESTATE, HORNSBY,

is an excellent property on which to make a start. It is situated at Hornsby North, and adjoins the railway line about a mile from the station. Owing to the increase of residences and population at this spot, it is practically certain that before long a Platform will be erected right at the Estate. The Property is within a short distance of the Kuring-gai Chase, a spot famous throughout the State for its magnificent scenery. It is 700 feet above sea level, and the air is as crisp and bracing as that of the Mountains. Hornsby is the junction of the Northern and Milson's Point lines, and is little over half an hour from Sydney by the business trains. The land is nicely cleared, and affords every opportunity for good investment and residential comforts.

FREE TRANSIT FOR PURCHASERS.

Arrangements have been made for a special Motor Car Service, which, pending the erection of a platform, will enable purchasers on the Estate to travel to and from the station FREE OF COST. Lots, 50 x 150 feet, from 17/6 per foot.

SPECIAL EASY TERMS.

From £1 Deposit, and Monthly Instalments of 10/, INCLUDING INTEREST, TORRENS TITLE. Plans can also be obtained from our Local Agent, F. H. J. ROBINSON (opp. Station), HORNSBY.

FROM 6/- A FOOT.

Whether you buy for residential purposes or with the object of making a sound investment, you cannot do better than purchase on LONGVIEW ESTATE, MERRYLANDS. This is the finest Home Site in this thriving district, and adjoins Factory Estate, which was one of our best sellers in the past.

LONGVIEW ESTATE, MERRYLANDS,

is only some ten minutes from Harris Park or Parramatta Stations, and is just 13 miles from Sydney. Goodlet and Smith's big works are just a short distance away, and other large manufactories are close by. They are not near enough to interfere in any way with the desirability of LONGVIEW for residential purposes, but afford plenty of opportunity for work, and are an assurance as to the prosperity of the locality.

LONGVIEW

commands a fine outlook, including picturesque views of the Parramatta River and the orchard slopes of the Hill District.

PRICES FROM 6/ A FOOT.

TERMS, FROM 10/ DEPOSIT, 5/ MONTHLY.

See these Lots at your earliest opportunity: they will repay you handsomely for the trouble.

AN INVESTMENT THAT PAYS.

BUY YOUR OWN HOME

"Sydney's Garden Suburb."

Every man recognises the hundred advantages of owning his own home. You should realise in these days of high rentals that it is the landlord who reaps the profits—who benefits by your care of his house and grounds, and by your improvement of his property for your own comfort. Why not be your OWN landlord? Our Easy Terms make it possible for every man to purchase his own Haberfield home, and, moreover, not to feel the strain of payment.

A small deposit of, say, £50 puts you in immediate possession. The balance of the purchase money is payable as rental. Cottages are available from £825 to £1375, and comparison of any price with the cottage offered thereat will emphasise strongly the building economy of the HABERFIELD SYSTEM OF CONSTRUCTION. You can buy outright, or under the extraordinarily liberal provisions above referred to. The Cottages are ready for immediate purchase, or we will design and build to order, embodying every feature required by the purchaser, within the scope of the purchase-money.

There are many potent reasons why you should act immediately to secure a home of your own. Sydney Suburban property, especially that convenient to the city, is steadily and surely increasing in value. Haberfield homes are a grand investment. Their values must materially increase.

The design of "Sydney's Garden Suburb" always aimed at realising fully this title. The wide, tree-lined streets, the large, open, parklike spaces, the fine grounds, and the gardens surrounding the handsome homes, give a true sense of living under the most healthful, pleasant conditions.

Haberfield is conveniently situated, being but 30 minutes from the heart of the metropolis. Take Abbotsford or Haberfield tram in George-street, and alight at O'Connor-street. By "through" train to Summer Hill the journey is 10 minutes.

ROSEBERY,

MODEL AND INDUSTRIAL SUBURB.

Any man will admit the wisdom of owning his own home. Almost every man is genuinely ambitious to do so. But to most men the possession of the whole, or the major portion, of the purchase money is rare. But to any man the liberal conditions offered by the Rosebery management make possible the easy acquisition of his own roof-tree.

Next to the desirable fact that a man "owns his own home" is the all-important feature of environment. The surroundings of the home mean much to the man—and more to his family, who spend so much more time there. Health comes first, comfort next, and after them the satisfaction which springs from the secure knowledge that the property is worth every pound of the purchase money, and more.

SPLENDIDLY SITUATED.

NOWHERE in the environs of Sydney could a finer position be chosen for the planning and development of a desirable residential suburb. Situated between the Rosebery and Victoria Park Racecourses, and adjoining the Kensington Golf Links, the natural advantages lend themselves to the best treatment along the lines established by the experience of modern suburb-planning. We offer one splendid Cottage at the special and unparalleled price of £675. You should examine this Cottage. It is the home bargain of Australia.

THE EASIEST OF LIBERAL TERMS.

From any responsible person we will accept a deposit as low as £50, and the balance of purchase money at the rate of 25s per week. These weekly payments include discharge of principal and interest. In other words, no other payment, except the weekly amount, is asked for. As each instalment is paid the interest decreases. Although the present rate of interest is high, our financial arrangements permit us to offer terms on a 5 per cent. basis. This low rate of interest is unavailable anywhere else.

TORRENS TITLE WILL BE GIVEN.

A MAGNETO is a delicate Electrical Machine, and needs adjusting at regular intervals. Why not let an expert do this for you, and obtain MORE POWER from your Engine, a better spark ensures this.
Have you had your Magneto Magnets RE-CHARGED since buying your Car? This will not cost much, and will be well worth while.
Remember, we POSITIVELY GUARANTEE to make every Magneto handled by us to work equal to a new one, or hand you back your money.
Write or 'phone us for our advice on anything affecting Magnetos, or their management, and we will gladly give it you.

PALMER CORD TYRES' LATEST RECORD.
106 MILES 387 YARDS IN AN HOUR.

PALMER CORD TYRES.

After numerous unsuccessful attempts the hundred miles in an hour has at last been attained—and passed. Mr. Percy Lambert sped 103¼ miles, and Mr. Jules Goux recently attained 106 miles 387 yards in the hour.

Both motorists used Palmer Cord Tyres, which were unaffected by the severe tests. The unique construction of these tyres befits them for EXTREME service. They are the best tyres in every respect. Catalogues free.

EXCLUSIVE MILLINERY.

A DISPLAY WHEREIN TASTE AND EXPERIENCE COMBINE.

To-day, and for the balance of this week, I am making a Special Display of LADIES' TRIMMED MILLINERY, copied from the original Models imported direct to Sydney from the most exclusive Salons of Vienna, Berlin, and Paris.

The display exhibits every salient idea of the prevailing mode—softened so as to be satisfactory to the lady desirous of being in the fashion without wearing an ostentatious creation so often put forward as correct.

My display to-day is directed to showing what it is possible to produce when experience and taste are hand in hand.

Will you come in and inspect my display.

You will be welcomed—and will not have to crush through a crowded showroom.

"REMINGTON HOUSE,"
LIVERPOOL-STREET, SYDNEY.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR
PAINLESSLY AND POSITIVELY DESTROYED
BY SAVARENA.

Ladies, it gives me pleasure to make known to you this wonderful treatment for destroying Superfluous Hair, and assure you that SAVARENA will carry out all it promises. It has brought relief and happiness to innumerable women—why not to you?

The SAVARENA method for destroying the cyst and follicle is truly marvellous. The coarsest and heaviest growth can be removed entirely, leaving the skin smooth and clear without one sign of its former blemish. Do not hesitate to call or write to me in confidence. I understand how you feel. One fee covers all treatment. Terms arranged.

MADAME ELENORE DE SOULE,
L'Institut Savarena,
Suite 24, Fitzevan-chambers,
28 Castlereagh-street,
Sydney.

DON'T LET DANDRUFF

ruin your hair—as it surely will if you let it go unchecked.

If you neglect your scalp when dandruff is present you will regret it, as the dandruff will cause irritation and will also account for the excessive falling of the hair.

If you notice this, consult me at once. I am a Specialist in all diseases of the scalp, and am quite confident of being able to improve YOUR hair. If you cannot call, send me a fresh combing of your hair, with full particulars, and enclose 3d stamp for reply. I will then outline a course of treatment that you will find wonderfully beneficial.

Individual home treatment for the hair is my speciality. Country clients may rest assured of receiving my prompt, personal attention.

Please note that I interview all clients and attend to all correspondence MYSELF.

FACE MASSAGE.

I make a special feature of Plastic and Electrical Face Massage. Ladies will find this most refreshing and invigorating to the skin.

ELECTROLYSIS.

I guarantee the removal of Superfluous Hairs and Moles by Electrolysis, the ONLY reliable method known to Medical Science.

When answering this advertisement address your letter to

HINTS TO WOMEN WHO MOTOR.

The question to be considered is the effect of motoring on the complexion, and that, it must be admitted, has been prodigious for evil.

While many a woman gets her health motoring, as others may be getting it golfing, yachting, riding, yet getting it in this way she loses something, perhaps, equally precious, the distinctive delicacy of her beauty, which lies always in the complexion, with its soft colouring.

There is no excuse for this waste of charm. Outdoor pleasure is quite compatible with complexion beauty, if some thought and the merest fraction of time be devoted to it.

The skin that is toned and purified by Valaze Beautifying Skin Food is already protected for ordinary purposes, but for times of continued exposure to the scorching sun, to dust, blustering winds, and sharp, biting cold, Novena Sunproof and Windproof Creme is a preparation of marvellous efficacy. It is invisible in use, protects the skin from the sun and wind, prevents freckles, sunburn, tan, and sallowness, and prevents all irritation.

When returning home the face should by no means be washed with soap and water. Wash it, if you must, but wait at least an hour, and then only after it has been cleansed with the Novena Cerate, which is an emollient skin cleanser without the use of soap and water. It soothes, cleanses, softens, whitens, and preserves the skin, and allays all irritation. If washing is still desired, let it be done in warm (not hot) water, softened with Valaze Water Softening Pastilles, and with the aid of Valaze Soap. Valaze Skin Tonic should be then applied and aloiwed to dry on the skin.

When a woman who motors, hunts, or golfs has used these charming and invaluable specialities, she will become even a greater devotee in her favourite sport, because her appearance will not be made to suffer for it.

The prices of the various preparations are as follows:—Valaze Skin Food, 3/6 and 6/6 a jar, postage 6d; Novena Sunproof and Windproof Creme and Novena Cerate, each 3/10 posted; Valaze Skin Tonic, 3/6, postage 6d; Valaze Water Softening Pastilles, 1/ per tube; Valaze Complexion Soap, 2/2 posted.

Mme. Rubinstein's book, "Beauty in the Making," will be sent to any address on receipt of 3d for postage. Valaze preparations obtainable from all Chemists, or direct from Helena Rubinstein Prop., Ltd., Dept. D, 158 Pitt-street, Sydney; or 274 Collins-street, Melbourne.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS

CURED BY DANNEBROG.

Dannebrog, the truly royal remedy for Superfluous Hairs, has had uninterrupted success for twelve years. It is safe, sure, reliable, guaranteed for life. Dannebrog is a celebrated Danish remedy, and leaves the face hairless, brighter, younger, happier! Dannebrog is operated by Madame Frokjar, Royal Massage College, Copenhagen, who, as masseuse, was in attendance on the Countess of Dudley. Only one fee. Terms arranged. Success shown before payment. Postal treatment for country clients. The Sydney Dannebrog Institute, formerly of Pitt-street, has been necessarily enlarged, and removed to Temple-court, King and Elizabeth streets. 'Phone, 3473 City. DANNEBROG INSTITUTES: Melbourne, Adelaide, Ballarat, Bendigo, and Geelong.

TAILORED ON HONOUR.

Thousands of exacting eyes are measuring your personality everywhere you go. To a large extent people judge you by your clothes. Will your garments bear the closest scrutiny? Your success or failure may hinge upon a single glance.

"E. T. WALSH" Suits are tailored on honour. They are characterised by sterling quality, splendid style, and enduring satisfaction. They are worth-while productions, costing but little more than those bearing the stamp of mediocrity. They put you right in the eyes of the world.

E.T.WALSH, EXPERT TAILOR,

FOR YOUR FIGURE'S SAKE.

You should wear a petticoat or knickers made of "SILVASHEEN," which wears three times as long as silk, and hard to distinguish one from the other.

For your own satisfaction ask your draper to show you "SILVASHEEN" with the name "SILVASHEEN" printed on the selvedge.

"SILVASHEEN."

HAVE WARMTH SITTING, SLEEPING, OR TRAVELLING.

Use these modern, scientifically constructed Room Warmers—that cost something under 1d an hour to maintain in service—and for ever after you'll look with pity upon the deluded folk who remain cold and cheerless through clinging to the methods of their forefathers in housewarming.

And if you're troubled with cold fingers and toes, have a horror of bed sheets that feel like icicles, or suffer from winter worries in the way of rheumatic pains, wade in and conquer cold and pain at

NOCK AND KIRBY'S NOTED LOW PRICES.

THE "PERFECTION" ROOM HEATER, burns kerosene, costs less than 1d per hour for oil, and can be easily carried about from room to room by means of its handle. Never smokes—a simple device prevents that—and is quite odorless. Everything about the burner and font is up to date and perfect, giving intense heat on a low oil consumption. In addition, all "Perfections" have a damper on top, for heating a pot of water. Made in two grades, as under:—

Black Iron, Nickel Fittings, Ruby Window—

No.	Height.	Price.
101	19in.	16/
120	22½in.	18/6
140	24½in. (brass font)	25/.

Blue Enamelled Iron, Nickel Fittings, Ruby Window—

No.	Height.	Price.
260	24½in. (brass font)	32/6

THE "MATADOR" ROOM HEATER.—One of these excellent kerosene heaters is sufficient to keep a good-sized room at a nice, comfortable temperature. It's a handsome appointment, too, the body being satin-finished black iron, with solid brass font, polished reflector, and netting-protected chimney of ruby-coloured glass that sends out a rich glow suggestive of warmth and comfort.

Fitted with New Design Burner and Automatic Extinguisher—

No.	Height.	Price.
14	30½in.	27/6
16	32in.	40/

THESE GIVE YOU WARM FEET AND WARM BEDS—ALWAYS.

STRONG BLOCK TIN FOOTWARMERS.—Fitted with a secure leak-proof stopper, 3/ each.

BEST POLISHED COPPER FOOTWARMERS.—A neat, presentable travelling or sitting-room companion, with a never-leak stopper, 7/3 each.

POLISHED ALUMINIUM FOOTWARMERS.—One you'll never be ashamed to carry or regard as a burden. It's as light as a feather, handsome in appearance, and has a ring to carry it by, and a secure brass stopper, 10/6 each.

"ADAPTABLE" FLAT-SHAPED STONEWARE BED WARMERS.—The best thing of its kind money can buy. Fitted with water-tight screw plug, and wire handle with wooden grip.

2/6	2/9	3/	3/6 each.

BOTTLE-SHAPED STONEWARE FOOTWARMERS.—Made of reliable, heat-retaining, glazed stoneware, with a reliable screw-plug that won't leak one drop.

In White Rubber, 4/6 each.
In Red Rubber, 7/ each.
Ditto, Extra Large, 8/ each.

Lloyd's Tea is not an ordinary tea; but, like good poetry, it has a fascination for those who can appreciate those fine points of excellence that raise it above the everyday kind.

In no other tea do quality and real value talk so loudly as in LLOYD'S 1/6 TEA. Those who use it know its worth, and recommend it.
